OLD COUNCIL ENDS ITS LABORS, AND NEW COUNCIL ORGANIZES

City's Affairs for 1902 Wound Up and Municipal Year of 1903 Was Formally Begun.

OLD COUNCIL MEETING

THE REPORTS FOR THE YEAR WERE RECEIVED AND YEAR'S WORK WAS SUMMED UP.

Some Very Interesting Reports Were Presented at Last Meeting of 1902 Council Wednesday Night, Showing the City in Better Condition Than Ever Before—Summary of the Various Reports.

The Common Council for 1902 is no more. The last meeting of that body was held Wednesday evening, when the business for the year was closed up, and the various reports were presented. In the absence of R. I. Tolles, who went away to spend New Year's, Councilman Murphy served in his place. Mr. vanHerwerden was also away from the meeting.

The report of City Treasurer W. F. Arnold was presented and in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick the report will be published in The Daily Press and another official newspaper of the city, and 200 copies will be printed in pamphlet form. Following this, the report of the finance committee, of which Mr. Mellick was the chairman, was presented as follows:

"On behalf of the finance committee, I beg to call attention of the very comprehensive report of the treasurer of the city of Plainfield for the year 1902, which states in detail all the receipts and expenditures for the year, and from this report will be seen that at the commencement of the year 1902 the city carried forward a cash balance of $17,657.58. All of the departments have kept within their appropriations, the police department succeeding in expending $1,000 less than provided for in the yearly bduget. The total receipts of the city for the year, from all sources, amounted to $288,087.18; total expenditures amounted to $243,663.13; therefore it will be seen that the cash balance carried forward into 1903 amounts to $44,424.04, in all funds.

"It has been unnecessary to borrow during the past year any money in anticipation of taxes for general purposes of the city, this is a pleasant fact to comment upon, as it is the first time in the history of the city that this has been accomplished. With the exception of the bill for the purchase of the new combination hose wagon, which has not as yet been reported upon, the only outstanding indebtedness of the fire fund is the sum of $4,000 which has been borrowed in anticipation of taxes, and as an asset against this amount the uncollected taxes will more than cover the same.

"The bonded indebtedness of the city at the close of the year amounts to $152,400. This sum is represented by an issue of bonds and obligations for the construction of city sewers.

"The citizens of Plainfield can be proud of the financial condition of their city, and when taking into consideration the many advantages it offers as a place of residence, its superb streets, its healthful and plenteous water supply, its complete and sanitary sewerage system, its well organized fire and police departments, all with such a small bonded indebtedness, is indeed a most satisfactory condition with which to enter the new year.

"The city is fortunate that it is still to have in its service such capable men as the city treasurer and collector and to these gentlemen I desire to express my appreciation for the efficient manner in which they are caring for the city finances.

"Geo. P. Mellick, chairman, finance committee."

The report of Chief of Police P. S. Kiely was of special interest. It showed that during the past year there were 690 arrests, of which number 620 were males, 70 females; 568 white and 122 colored. Divided into nationalities they were as follows: American, 313; Irish, 68; German, 53; Italian, 41; Russian, 30; English, 29; Swedish, 10; Assyrian, 5; Scotch, 6;

NEW COUNCIL MEETING

THE COUNCIL SELECTED J. F. BUCKLE AS ITS PRESIDENT FOR THE NEW YEAR 1903.

President Buckle Then Named His Committees, and After a Little Necessary Business Was Transacted, the Council of 1903 Then Adjourned to Meet Next Monday Evening.

Various reasons made it a little difficult for the Common Council of 1903 to hold its first session, last evening, which it is compelled to do according to law. Mr. Garrigues, one of the members, was in Philadelphia, Mr. vanHerwerden and Mr. Tolles were out of town, while Mr. Randolph and Mr. Murphy were also among the absentees. Mr. Pray telephoned early that owing to a bad cold he would not attend, unless it was absolutely necessary. It was necessary and a carriage was sent for him. The members present were J. F. Buckle, E. E. Pray, Leslie M. Daniel, W. L. Gloak, Robert L. Lee and W. S. Tyler.

It was 8:30 o'clock, when City Clerk J. T. MacMurray called the meeting to order. The first business was that of electing a president of the Council for the coming year. J. F. Buckle was the unanimous choice, being nominated by Mr. Lee. Councilmen Daniel and Tyler escorted the new presiding officer to the chair.

James T. MacMurray, whose term as city clerk, expired with the old Council, was re-elected for a term of three years, and Jacob Dunham, colored, was elected janitor for the year at a salary of $200.

The committees for the year were then announced as follows by President Buckle:

Finance—Leslie M. Daniel, chairman; Clarence L. Murphy, E. E. Pray, R. I. Tolles, W. L. Gloak; streets and sewers—R. I. Tolles, chairman, E. E. Pray, Jan. vanHerwerden, W. A. Garrigues, Frank Randolph; fire and building—Robert L. Lee, chairman; Jan. vanHerwerden, William S. Tyler, Leslie M. Daniel, W. A. Garrigues; police—Frank Randolph, chairman; W. L. Gloak, William S. Tyler; lights and trees—Clarence L. Murphy, chairman; Jan van Herwerden, E. E. Pray; alms—W. L. Gloak, chairman; E. E. Pray, W. A. Garrigues; license—William S. Tyler, chairman; Clarence L. Murphy, W. A. Garrigues; auditing—E. E. Pray, chairman; William S. Tyler, Robert L. Lee.

Mr. Lee motioned to adopt the rules of order of 1902 as the rules for the coming year prevailed, and he gave notice that at the next meeting he would move to have the rules adopted as the by-laws of the Council.

Several petitions left by the old Council were referred to the proper committees and will be reported upon later. One new communication, from W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager of the New Jersey Central, acknowledging a letter informing him of the recent action regarding the re-arrangement of electric lights on East Fourth street near the eastside of the railroad station, was read. Mr. Besler expressed his pleasure upon the prompt action of the Council and the evidence of kindly feeling in the matter. The company will at once erect additional lights at the place mentioned, and the Council will re-arrange several lights in the same vicinity.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution designating The Daily Press and another daily paper as the official papers of the city. The resolution was adopted, as was also another by the same member which provides for the placing of $2,000 to the street and sewer committee's disposal until the annual appropriations are made later on. Still another resolution by Mr. Daniel empowered the clerk to secure the necessary supply of committee and roll cards for the year. Mr. Daniel then moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, January 5, at 8 o'clock. Council then adjourned.

SHERIFF GAVE DINNER TO FORMER ASSOCIATES

New Year's Eve Event Given by the Former President of the Common Council.

AT HOTEL KENSINGTON

DINNER FOLLOWED LAST MEETING OF THE COUNCIL FOR 1902.

City Officials Gathered at the Board and Said Pleasant Words of Mr. Coriell and of the City—Mayor Jenkins Talks of Parks.

A pleasant and appropriate event in the closing hours of the old year was the dinner given Wednesday evening at the Hotel Kensington by Former Councilman and President B. Frank Coriell, now sheriff of Union county, to his former colleagues and a few other city officials. The dinner was given after the final meeting of the old Council. "Mine Host" Staats served an excellent menu.

The host pointed out that twenty years ago next Monday he was elected to the Council for the first time. He expressed his high regard for the courtesy and kindness shown him by all. Later Mr. Mellick, who retires from the Council, offered a pleasant toast to the host in which all joined.

Mayor O. L. Jenkins, after saying a few words complimentary to the host, referred to his plans for beautifying the city with parks and lakes and mentioned sites near Randolph road and Park avenue as suitable ones. He believed the time had come for such improvements. He referred to the city water as being the purest obtained and the health of the city par excellence.

Other remarks were made by Councilmen Clarence L. Murphy, Robert L. Lee, and W. F. Arnold, the latter taking the opportunity to say that financially Plainfield's showing this year is the best in the history. Chief of Police Kiely said that he hoped for greater things the coming year in the police department. He urged an increase in salary for his men and improvements to lessen crime. Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, spoke a few words about his department, saying it is second to none in the city. George B. Wean, city stenographer, as well as Councilman J. F. Buckle, Assessors C. H. Hand and H. C. Runyon, and William S. Tyler, the new Councilman from the Third ward, added a few happy remarks.

In conclusion, short remarks were made by A. L. Force, Councilmen Daniel and W. L. Gloak, Dr. Pocock, and Sergeant Frederickson. Each one of the speakers paid a deserving tribute of praise to Mr. Coriell, and while all expressed regrets that he leaves the Council, they all joined in wishing him abundant success in his new position.

Those present at the dinner were Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Former Councilman George P. Mellick, Councilmen James F. Buckle, Robert L. Lee, Clarence L. Murphy, William L. Gloak, E. E. Pray, Leslie M. Daniel, Clarence L. Murphy, W. S. Tyler, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, Chief of Fire Department T. O. Doane, Second Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold, George B. Wean, Police Sergeant Chris. Frederickson, Assessors Charles H. Hand and Harry C. Runyon, A. L. Force, M. F. Elderton and Walter C. Dobbins

DINNER-DANCE.

Given by Miss Margaret McCutchen to Her College Friends.

A charming dinner-dance was given New Year's Eve by Miss Margaret McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, for a number of her college friends from Smith College, who have been guests at her home during the holiday season. A majority of the young women were from college, while there were a few outsiders, making a company of twenty-eight in all. The dinner was given at Miss McCutchen's home, after which the party adjoined to the Park Club for a dance.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

In the case on contract between the Robert Greaves Company, of New York, and S. M. Sill, of the borough, which came up before Justice W. E. Mattison, Monday, judgment was found for the complainants for $108 and costs.

Need More Room.

The Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed church have outgrown their present quarters in the basement of the church, and they will move into more commodious rooms shortly.

SOCIETY RANG IN NEW YEAR

An Impressive Way in Which New Year Was Greeted at Masque Ball at Casino.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

A Motley Collection of Characters Gathered for the New Year's Eve Dance Arranged by Members of Cotillion Club—Some of the Fine Costumes—The Guests.

When Old Father Time reversed his hour glass Wednesday night and another year was begun, a blaze of light flooded the Casino as a huge bell was struck and the last hour of the old year was slowly tolled off, while the members of the Cotillion Club and their 180 guests sang "Auld Lang Syne" as a welcome to the new year.

In brilliancy this New Year's masquerade ball has never been surpassed by any affair of its kind in this city. The large hall was very tastefully decorated in a novel manner. The general color effects were of green and red. Behind all of the side lights were large bows of red and in front of the lights were small false faces which gave a somewhat grotesque appearance to the hall. From the light in the center of the ceiling a half dozen festoons were draped to the four corners of the hall and to the sides of the stage. Hung pendant from the festoons in the center was a large red bell.

At 11:15, the grand march began and was led by E. T. Barrows, attired as a cavalier, and Miss Florence Waring, as a knight. The march was directed by L. G. Timpson, attired as an Austrian hussar. After going through several evolutions, the music ceased and those enmasque removed their disguises. At 11:55 there was heard the martial roll of the "Assembly call" and the lights were suddenly dimmed. Exactly at midnight the great bell began to toll off the hours as the light again burst forth, and New Year greetings were exchanged until a waltz was struck up and the dancing resumed.

An intermission followed when an elaborate repast was served on small tables which were carried into the ball room by maids in waiting. Each table was decorated in green and red.

Some of the most attractive costumes worn at the dance were: L. G. Timpson, Austrian hussar; Mrs. L. G. Timpson, snow; L. E. Waring, sailor; F. W. Yates, brownie; E. T. Barrows, cavalier. These were the committee, to whom much credit is due for the success of the affair.

Others whose costumes were exceptionally attractive were: M. S. Ackerman, Venetian pirrot; Mrs. Ackerman, directone folly; Miss Georgiana Smith, folly; Miss Smalley, pirrot; Mrs. Katherine Thayer, red ridinghood; Miss Reinhart, Topsey; Miss Cruikshank, empire court lady; Mrs. Patterson, Japanese maid; Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Chinese court lady; Miss Davis, folly; Miss Lucy Otterson, colonial dame; Miss Florence Waring, knight; A. D. Shepard, Jr., gentleman burlesque; a Burritt Sheppard, burlesque; R. M. Shepard, Venetian; Evarts Tracy, Roman senator; G. Herbert Taylor, hussar; Craig A. Marsh, English officer.

Among those on the floor in costume, were: Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burke, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. R. At midnight twelve strokes were tolled upon it by members of the organization among them being N. Mansfield Smith, Clarence Brouard, Harry Pound and Walter Manning who were especially active in the movement.

The service began at 10:30 and for an hour the time was passed in listening to reminiscent addresses given by Rev. Drs. Bryan and W. O. Nelson. A social period was enjoyed until 11:30 when the meeting was resumed with Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass in charge.

In the intermission refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. I. P. LaRue and Mrs. Walter M. McGee.

While following a pace set for him by a motor cycle, Harry Uhler, a young man living on Grove street, was hurled to the ground at the corner of Park avenue and Ninth street, yesterday afternoon, through the front forks of his wheel snapping off at the head.

He landed with great force, and was rendered unconscious. Bystanders carried him to the residence of Gilmore Drayton nearby. YEAR'S WORK ON STREETS

Full Text of the Councilmanic Committee on the Streets and the Sewers.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

Present System of Macadam Streets Kept in Repair, But Little New Work Done—Extension of Storm and Sanitary Sewers—Other Details of Report Given.

To the Honorable, the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen:

We submit herewith our annual report of work done and moneys expended on streets and sewers during the year 1902:

Macadamizing.

During the past year your committee has given especial attention to the improvement of the main roads entering the city from different directions; West Front street on the west, Plainfield avenue on the south, Park avenue on the southeast, Railway road on the east and East Front street on the north have all been re-surfaced, the heaviest work being on Front street, east and west, and on Plainfield avenue.

The following streets have also been re-surfaced: North avenue, Park to Watchung; Elm place; East Fourth street, Park to Sycamore; East Fifth street, Park to Washington; East Sixth street, Park to Sycamore; Washington street; Watchung avenue, Woodland to Belvidere; part of Hillside avenue; Randolph road, Park to Arlington; Madison avenue, Front to Second; Grove street; Clinton avenue, Second to Third; Park avenue, North to Front; Westervelt avenue and Sandford avenue; the work on the last three being comparatively light.

The only new macadamizing done during the year was on Hobart avenue and on Hillside avenue, extending the macadam on the latter to Evergreen avenue; the property owners on these streets contributed the larger part of the cost. Ordinances were adopted for macadamizing parts of Spooner and Prospect avenues, but the former has been postponed until after the completion of the sanitary sewer, and the property owners on Prospect avenue desire to have an ordinance adopted to cover the whole length of the street.

Grading, Turnpiking, Etc.

The principal grading work was done on Dunellen and Jackson avenues; on Dunellen avenue the property owners graded the sidewalks and laid flagging and curbing, making it necessary for the city to properly grade the roadbed. On Jackson avenue and on Berckman street, the Freeholders constructed fine new bridges over Cedar brook, in compliance with the request of the Common Council, and we have partially completed the grading of Jackson avenue. On Berckman street the work has consisted principally of putting on gravel, obtained partly from the sewer ditches on North and South avenues and partly from East Front street. A part of Prospect avenue also received a coating of gravel from the surplus material on the Arlington avenue storm sewer.

Woodland avenue was graveled for a considerable distance, but by the raising of the street railway track, much of the benefit of the improvement was lost.

On Belleview avenue it was necessary to protect the street from the greatly increased flow of surface water caused by changes made in constructing the Arlington avenue street railway extension; the north gutter was deepened along the steepest part of the street and was substantially paved with cobbles which were taken from the sewer ditches, the street railway company paying one-half the cost of this improvement.

North avenue, east of Richmond street, Clinton avenue at Dunellen avenue and West Third street near Clinton avenue, required considerable work of repair, while most of the other dirt streets received the usual attention from the street scraper and roller.

Work on the improvement of Clinton avenue, between Third and Fourth streets was begun, but the work was interrupted by the early cold weather. It is proposed to protect the sandy material, of which the street is composed, by a layer of slag from the Pond Tool Works, after paving the gutters with surplus quarry stone hauled from Berckman street bridge; the middle of the street to have a thin wearing surface of stone.

Storm Sewers.

The South avenue storm sewer, contracted for in 1901, was constructed this year, with two inlets at Central street, relieving East Seventh street from much of the water formerly discharged on it from South avenue.

The placing of inlets at Plainfield avenue and West Third street has been completed, allowing the open gutters across West Third street to be filled up, and preventing the accumulation of water at Plainfield avenue and South Second street.

The new storm sewer in Arlington avenue has been completed with the exception of finishing around the inlets and removing some of the old culverts; it is proposed to use the material from these culverts at West Third street and Spooner avenue, at South Second street and Clinton avenue and at East Sixth and Sycamore streets. It is believed that the construction of this sewer will not only relieve Arlington avenue itself, but also the territory from that street to and beyond New street.

The storm sewer in Grant avenue, laid some five years ago, discharges into Green brook thorugh an open ditch. The construction of several houses on the adjacent lots makes it necessary to extend this sewer and fill up the ditch; your committee has made arrangements by which this sewer can be extended by the time the buildings are completed.

In connection with the construction of the sanitary sewer in Albert street, a fifteen inch storm sewer is being put in as far as the inlets on Albert street north of West Front street, replacing the present smaller pipe, which will be used for a sanitary sewer in Dunellen avenue.

The storm inlets at the Elm place bridge have been enlarged, and repairs were made to the Washington avenue storm sewer where it had settled at the old mill race; it is desirable that the gutter and sidewalk grades be adjusted on the south side of West Front street, opposite Washington avenue, in order to avoid flooding the walk in heavy storms.

The inlets at the Farragut road bridge have been changed from the former size of six inches, to twenty-four inches on the east side and twelve inches on the west.

Plainfield is fortunate in being able to dispose of all surface water without heavy grading of streets, but in some places the water accumulates from such a large area that it can no longer be carried in the gutters without being detrimental to business and inconvenient for pedestrians.

Recent committees have favored the construction of storm sewers in such cases, beginning with those in most urgent need, and the sewers so far constructed have given much satisfaction.

Crosswalks and Culverts.

Twenty-three new crosswalks have been bought and paid for, but seven of them are not yet laid. It has been the policy of the committee to furnish crosswalks as fast as flagging is laid by the property owners, but the present force of two men for laying crosswalks, building and repairing culverts, cleaning catchbasins, etc., is not sufficient to do the required work, and it would be well to have another gang, so that necessary work may not be delayed. Many repairs to old crosswalks have been made, mainly on streets which were being improved.

Culverts have been constructed or rebuilt at the following crossings:

South and Leland avenue, two; East Fifth street and Watchung avenue; East Fifth street and Richmond street; Putnam avenue and Richmond street; Plainfield avenue at city line; West Seventh street and Grant avenue; West Front street at city line.

Minor repairs have been required on a number of others, and there are still several old culverts which should be rebuilt with larger capacity.

Flagging and Curbing.

12,691 lineal feet of flagging have been laid and 2,486 feet of curbing have been set during the year, some of the flagging and all of the curbing being done voluntarily by the property owners. Less than the usual number of notices have been served this season, and most of them have been complied with; some of the remaining work has been done by the city at the expense of the property owners.

Street Cleaning.

As the city increases in size and importance, the requirements in the way of street cleaning become more and more exacting. We would recommend that next year two small gangs instead of one, be employed on this work, one working east of Park avenue and the other west; they would be able to keep the centre of the city clean and could also attend to minor repairs.

Tree Trimming.

The work of tree trimming has been carried on by the Street Commissioner under the direction of the committee on lights and trees, and seems to be more appreciated each year, as more requests are received from property owners to have the branches trimmed high above the ground and to have unnecessary limbs removed, "to let in the light and air."

Acting under the resolution recommended by His Honor the Mayor, fifty shade trees were offered by the property owners to the city for fuel for the poor, and thirty-four of these have been cut down and piled up at the yard of the Relief Association, besides some seasoned wood donated by Mr. Chadwick, of Cushing road, to be cut into cord wood on shares. These numerous offers show that there were too many trees in some parts of the city, and we believe, with Mayor Jenkins, that many more could be removed with advantage to the health of the city and with benefit to the remaining trees.

Removing Snow.

Owing to the severe weather last winter, an unusually large amount of money was expended for removing snow, but as this work was mainly on streets in which there were railway tracks, the street railway company repaid about half of the expense.

Miscellaneous.

Your committee feels that some action should be taken to discourage the selling of lots on new streets which have not been even approximately graded. The innocent purchasers of such lots are sometimes put to great and unexpected expense in completing the work which should have been done before the lots were sold.

The suggestion is made that the proposed location and grade of new streets should be submitted (voluntarily) to the Common Council; its approval would give the property fronting on such streets a standing that it would not otherwise possess, and the lack of such approval would probably cause intending purchasers to carefully investigate the condition of the streets before deciding to buy.

We would also like to emphasize the desirability of having our streets macadamized from curb to curb, except in the rare cases where the expense would be more than could be afforded by the property owners. Besides having an untidy appearance, the dirt sides of partly macadamized streets requires a great deal of attention, while on streets entirely macadamized, the expense is greatly reduced and in the less traveled streets is almost nothing.

Assessments were made and confirmed for the macadamizing of First, Second and Third places, West Sixth street, Orchard place and Carlton avenue, and the city's portion has been paid, nearly all of it in December 1901, when the work was about completed.

Sewers.

The extensions of the sanitary sewers started in 1901 have been completed, and another contract has been made for further extensions in North and South avenues and in several miles of streets at the West End, the larger part of which work is still unfinished.

The cost of the first contract has not yet been referred to assessment commissioners, as it was thought best to have both sets of sewers assessed at the same time. Most of these sewers are eight inch laterals, so that the city's portion of the assessment will not be large, but one section of the city which now demands sewerage facilities lies south of the area which can be drained into the present mains by gravity, so that a deep main sewer will be reqqired, with pumps, probably operated by electricity.

In order to provide sewage for the Pedrick & Ayer Company in time for opening their new machine shops, your committee had an eight inch sewer constructed in West Front street from Clinton avenue to the works, $160 being received as the company's share of the cost; most of the remainder can be charged the property owners on the north side of Front street when they desire to have their buildings connected with the sewer.

Eighty permits for sewer connections have been issued during the year, making a total of 1,593.

The periodical inspections and tests of the sewers and appurtenances show them to be in good order, and the improvements made in the disposal works during the past two years have met with the hearty approval of all of our citizens residing in the vicinity of the plant.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

Commissioner Greene Begins Well.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Within an hour after he had assumed command of the police department General Francis V. Greene, who succeeds Colonel John N. Partridge as commissioner, took vigorous action for the betterment of the force. All inspectors and captains now under charges were suspended, as the new commissioner does not believe it has a good moral effect to have men under a cloud remaining in command. Senior Inspector Moses W. Cortright has been designated as chief inspector, with authority over the entire force. Deputy Commissioners Ebstein and Piper are retained in their present positions. Although Mayor Low professed entire ignorance of Commissioner Greene's proposed action, the general impression in reform and other circles was that the new police head had done as the mayor wished and as Colonel Partridge had failed to do.

Archbishop Loses Suit.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Jan. 2.—Archbishop Keene of Dubuque has been defeated in the suit brought by C. J. Sherman and John Hanfeldt of Williams, Ia., to recover $2,430 which the plaintiffs subscribed to help build a church at Williams. Judge George Dyer in deciding the suit holds that they were entitled to recover this amount with interest. The plaintiffs made their subscriptions conditional upon a dual language speaking priest being sent to Williams. They contended that the church did not keep its part of the contract, and the court upheld the claim. The case will probably be appealed.

Fire In Stockinet Factory.

BRISTOL, Conn., Jan. 2. — Fire caused damage estimated at $12,000 to the stockinet factory of N. L. Birege Sons & Co. The origin of the fire is believed to have been spontaneous combustion in the stockroom of the factory. The blaze caused a panic among the girls employed in the factory on the upper floors. Five of the girls jumped two and a half stories to the ground, but only one of them was injured.

Fire In Jamestown, N. Y.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Fire broke out in the Hall block, a three story brick structure at the corner of Main and Third streets, and before it was extinguished after more than four hours of hard fighting damage amounting to about $50,000 was done. The principal loser is J. B. Collins of the Fair store, whose stock, valued at $30,000, is practically a total loss.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES

New Year at White House Fittingly Observed.

A CORDIAL GREETING FOR ALL.

General Public For First Time Has Opportunity to Observe the Improvements Made In Nation's Most Famous Mansion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Roosevelt's New Year's reception was one of the most brilliant events in Washington's recent social history. All callers were afforded the opportunity of greeting the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and exchanging with them the compliments of the new year. No distinctions were made except such as were rendered necessary in the preservation of order, and the greetings extended to all, high and low, rich and poor, were alike cordial and sincere.

The president was in excellent spirits, and Mrs. Roosevelt never seemed happier or more gracious. The president was attired in a black frock suit and a tie of grayish tint.

The general public for the first time had an opportunity to see the widely heralded improvements in the White House, improvements which when completed will have cost about $600,000. In addition to a desire personally to wish the president and Mrs. Roosevelt a happy new year hundreds of persons were attracted to the reception by a wish to see the White House in its new, handsome interior finish and furnishing. To many who were familiar with the interior of the mansion as it was a year ago the changes made were a revelation. While in a general way the form of the interior has been retained, in beauty and effectiveness it is wholly different.

It was a merry day for the Roosevelt children. Prior to the reception they had a jolly time in the lower part of the house. They manifested the liveliest interest in all the arrangements.

In the evening President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained a number of out of town friends at dinner. The state dining room, newly finished and being more suited for such functions than the private dining room, was used for the occasion. Following the dinner the guests were given a box party by Miss Alice Roosevelt at the New National theater, where Miss Annie Russell's new play, "Mice and Men," is being produced.

Emperor William's Reception.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Emperor William in receiving the New Year congratulations of the foreign ambassadors said to Ambassador Tower that in selecting the commission to take the statue of Frederick the Great to the United States he intended to include in it descendants of German officers who had fought under Washington. Emperor William inquired as to President Roosevelt's health and sent congratulations to the president and the people of the United States.

Mrs. McKinley's New Year.

CANTON, O., Jan. 2.—Mrs. McKinley spent the first day of the new year quietly. Early in the morning she visited the tomb of her husband and remained for some time in meditation. She also visited the graves of her children and placed flowers thereon. At 1 o'clock she went to dinner at the home of Judge W. R. Day. Several telegrams from friends in official life at Washington were received containing expressions of New Year's greeting.

President Loubet's Reception.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The New Year reception at the Elysee palace was attended by the foreign diplomats, government officials and members of the chamber of deputies. The diplomats were presented to President Loubet by the doyen of the corps, Mgr. Rinaldini, the apostolic nuncio, who made a speech, in which he conveyed the good wishes of the foreign representatives to the first magistrate of the republic.

President Diaz Receives.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 2.—There was a brilliant scene at La Palace yesterday when President Diaz received the diplomatic corps, consuls, officers of the army and navy, members of the senate and house of deputies and leading citizens. THE NEW YEAR.

Old Father Time has just started us on a new Y. It began yesterday and bears the official title of 1903. This new acquaintance of ours comprises the latter part of the 127th and beginning of the 128th year of American independence, and will correspond to the 6,616 of the Julian period and the 5663-5664 of Jewish era, the Jewish New Year beginning at sunset September 21, 1903.

A survey of the calendar for this year brings to light some interesting facts. During the year there will be four eclipses—two of the sun and two of the moon, as follows: An annular eclipse of the sun March 28-29, invisible here; a partial eclipse of the moon April 1, visible more or less to North America, and occurring as follows: Moon enters penumbra 4:26 p. m., moon enters shadow 5:35 p. m., middle of eclipse 7:18 p. m., moon leaves shadow 8:52 p. m., moon leaves penumbra 10 p. m. A total eclipse of the sun September 21, invisible here. A partial eclipse of the moon October 6-7, invisible here.

The principal church days will be as follows: Ash Wednesday, beginning of Lent, February 25; Palm Sunday, April 5; Good Friday, April 10; Easter Sunday, April 12; Ascension Day, May 21; All Saints Day, November 1; Advent Sunday, November 29.

The holidays come as follows: New Year's Day, Thursday, January 1; Lincoln's birthday, Thursday, February 12; St. Valentine's Day Saturday, February 14; Washington's birthday, Sunday, February 22; St. Patrick's Day, Tuesday, March 17; Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30; Independence Day, Saturday, July 4; Labor Day, Monday, September 7; Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26; Christmas, Friday, December 25.

The longest day will be Sunday, June 21, 15 hours and three minutes, and the shortest Sunday, December 20, nine hours, 16 minutes.

The year will mark the centenary of the Louisiana purchase, soon to be celebrated by the Louisiana purchase exposition in St. Louis, of the admission of Ohio into the union and our war with the Barbary states.

In order to conform with the law, the Common Council met last evening and organized. As was expected, Councilman James F. Buckle was unanimously chosen president of the Council. The honor fairly belonged to Mr. Buckle as the oldest member in point of service.

Mayor Jenkins' annual message will probably be presented at the Council meeting Monday evening.

John Olesen, of Perth Amboy, was a guest of H. C. Brose, of Vine street yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Letson, of East Seventh street, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby boy, born Sunday evening.

HAD OPEN HOUSE.

That Was the Way in Which Gesang and Turn Verein Celebrated New Year's Day.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein celebrated the incoming of the New Year Wednesday evening with a dance in Saengberband Hall which was attended by no less than three hundred people. The committee which had the arrangements in charge was William Gardner, chairman; and John Wirth. After midnight refreshments were served and the dancing continued until late in the morning.

All day New Years the members of the Turn Verein held open house at the hall and many of the members spent the day in bowling, playing pool and billiards and other pastimes.

Birthday for Both.

A number of young friends of Miss Clyde Slater, of Jackson avenue, gathered at her house Wednesday evening and assisted in celebrating her sixteenth birthday. The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing games and listening to music. After the old year had been watched out refreshments were served.

New Year's Crop.

John Martin, Frederick Parsch and a man named Hoffmann were gathered in by Marshals Wise and Campbell New Year's eve, for being disorderly on the streets. They will all receive a hearing tonight.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

OLD COUNCIL ENDS LABORS

Polish, 4; Cuban, 4; Danish, 2; Hungarian, 2; French, 1, total, 568. For disorderly conduct there were 211 arrests, and 147 for drunkenness, while eighty-nine were arrested for being drunk and disorderly. The expenditures in the department amounted to $15,584.57, and $640,85 were collected in fines.

By way of recommendations, the chief asked for steel cells and suggested that the rooms over the present police headquarters be leased and fitted up for court rooms and private offices. The chief also referred to the necessity of installing the Gamewell police patrol system. He stated that there are seventy-four miles of open streets in the city and with this system it would give Plainfield a police force equal to thirty men. He thanked the Mayor and Council for past favors and hoped for further consideration at their hands.

The report of Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, was also of much interest. Mr. Lee offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the printing of 250 copies of it in pamphlet form. The report shows that there are 301 hydrants in the city, three new ones being installed during the past year. The department has 5,700 feet of hose. There was eighty-seven alarms during the year, an increase of eighteen over the previous year. These were divided into forty box alarms, twenty-seven telephone and twenty stills. The insurance and losses for the years are as follows:

Losses on buildings, $79,764; insurance on buildings, $387,590; loss on contents, $58,040.93; insurance on contents, $295,131.25; total amount of insurance, $682,721.25; total amount collected, $137,804.93; value property, real estate, $551,450; personal, $386,283. The fires and their causes were as follows:

Chimney and defective flues, 19; locomotive sparks, 8; children and matches, 7; unknown, 7, lamps, 5; kerosene stoves, 5; bonfires, 3; debris, 2; grass, 2; baker's oven, 2; electric wires, 2; oil and rags, 2; cigars, 2; heater, 2; railroad ties, 2; lineman, 2; stoves and ranges, 2; kerosene motor, 1; steam pipe, 1; tramps, 1; pan grease, 1; out of city, 1; lantern, 1; gas jet, 1; gas explosion, 1; gas escape, 1; gasoline, 1; fireworks, 1; total 87.

The small extinguishers put out twenty-seven fires, the chemical extinguished seven, while the chemical and hydrants were used in putting out eight fires. The steam engine and hydrant were used in one fire and the hydrant alone put out eight fires. In the way of recommendations, Chief Doane asks for a new fire house in the east end of the city to properly protect that rapidly growing section. He also wants a combination hose wagon and chemical engine together with a team of horses. A request is made for another one thousand feet of hose and also a new team of horses for one of the hose wagons, where one horse is now used. He also recommends the installation of more hydrants in the business part of the city and in the outside districts. He recommended highly the installation of the red lights near fire boxes. Another important request is that for an increase in pay for the regular men in the department and he wants another regular paid man appointed this year.

Mr. Randolph, chairman of the alms committee, submitted a report. At the beginning of last year there was a balance of $530.66. The expenditures for the year amounted to $4,526.63, and there is now a balance of $426.32 Much credit is given the Plainfield Relief Association for aid and assistance given during the year.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during the year 215 building permits were garnted. This is sixty-four more than last year. The value represented is $500,000, an increase of $120,500 over the preceding year, not including alterations. Mr. Doane called attention to the ordinance drafted to regulate electric wiring and asked that something be done with it. Mr. Lee presented the report of the street and sewer committee. It will be found in full in another part of the paper.

In conclusion Mr. Daniel reported back the petition of Mayor O. L. Jenkins and others for the widening of Watchung avenue, and requested that it be referred to the next Council. This concluded the actual business, but before closing, Mr. Mellick, one of the retiring members, took occasion to say a few pleasant words.

Mr. Buckle responded in a happy vein and said that when he leaves the Council he wants to leave as Mr. Mellick does, with the unanimous and hearty approval of an excellent record.

Following these few pleasant words, the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and the Council adjourned sine die.

AN AUSTRIAN'S PREDICTION.

Max Nordau Says Opening of Panama Canal Will Work New Epoch.

VIENNA, Jan. 2.—In the course of an exhaustive review of the history of the world, contributed to the Neue Freie Presse by Max Nordau, the writer deeply deplores the growth of military imperialism in the United States and says that by the admission of the spirit of militarism, which was formerly rigorously excluded, America is raising obstacles to the entrance of emigrants whose only capital is their strong working arms.

Speaking of the future of the new world, M. Nordau says the opening of the Panama canal under American ownership will mark the beginning of a new epoch. The tragic stage of the world's history, which in ancient times centered in the Mediterranean and which moved in the naval ages to the Atlantic, will then be transferred to the Pacific ocean. At first the Anglo-Saxon element will seek to drive out the German and French flags floating over single points in the Pacific ocean. Then the struggle will be carried further to the Asiatic coast, where Anglo-Saxons and Russians will have to decide the momentous world question of whether eastern and southern Asia shall remain British or Russian. To this forecast M. Nordau adds:

"One can only imagine with horror what such a gigantic struggle of nations and races will signify."

MRS. KIEHL AGAIN ARRESTED.

She Is Now Accused of Killing Her Husband.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Maud Kiehl and her mother, Mrs. Addie Fenner, have been arrested at their home in South Onondaga by the sheriff of Cortland county on coroner's warrants charging them with the murder of William Kiehl, husband of Mrs. Kiehl. They were taken to Cortland.

This is the outcome of the inquest which was concluded at Cortland Wednesday, at which evidence was produced tending to show that William Kiehl died of arsenical poisoning. This is the second time Mrs. Kiehl, the eighteen-year-old country girl, has been arrested.

Several months ago she was accused of poisoning Adam Kiehl, her brother-in-law, the theory of the prosecution being that she killed him to prevent his marriage to another woman. The examination caused widespread interest owing to the youth and beauty of the widow. She was freed.

The officials then began an investigation into the death of the girl's husband, who expired some time before his brother Adam under almost similar circumstances. The result was that warrants were issued for the arrest of both the girl and her mother.

VENEZUELA CASE.

New York Syndicate to Advance Funds For Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The state department is well pleased with the latest developments in the Venezuelan affair.

A dispatch from Caracas says that a New York financial syndicate, headed by Severo Mallet-Prevost of that city, has offered to advance money to the Venezuelan government to meet pressing obligations, including the legitimate claims of foreign governments. The syndicate proposes that control of the custom houses shall be given to it as the guarantee of the loan.

Sharp competition exists, as the firm of Speyer Bros. of New York, through its Caracas branch, offers to finance this country, promising to furnish all the funds that will be needed to settle the foreign claims and convert the Venezuelan debt.

A dispatch from Willemstad throws a new light on the reported victory of Castro over the revolutionists.

According to the reports, the government generals took advantage of the armistice and attacked the revolutionary leader, who was in command in Barquisemeto, hoping to win by a sudden coup. The result was that they were disastrously routed, losing 300 men.

Port Cumana is again in the hands of the rebels.

Government Troops Won.

CARACAS, Jan. 2.—The report current at Willemstad, Curacao, that the government sustained defeat upon the occasion of the recent fight with the revolutionists at Barquisemeto is untrue. The government was victorious at Barquisemeto, and that town, as well as San Carlos and Tinaquillo, was recaptured from the rebels, as was duly reported in these dispatches. The news which originates at Willemstad is largely obtained from the Venezuelan revolutionists, who make that place their headquarters.

WHAT EDISON PLANS.

Electrical Wizard Makes Some Interesting New Year Remarks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Inventor Thomas A. Edison, asked to tell what he considers the scientific problems of the new year, answered promptly:

"Fighting bacteria, getting electricity direct from coal and power from the elements and applying to manufacture the many uses of electricity."

Mr. Edison declared his intention of giving up practical invention for two years and devoting the time to delving into various problems without being burdened by the work of producing commercial commodities.

"My New Year offering to science," said the wizard, "is my storage battery, on which I have worked four years. It will be put on the market this month. It solves the traction problem. Its introduction means that the horse will have to go.

"We are only in the infancy of electricity. Its possibilities no man can dream any more than a man fifty years ago could have foretold what we have today. Little discoveries like the Roentgen and the Becquerel rays and similar things will lead to great things—what cannot be told just now."

THE PLAGUE IN MEXICO.

Disease Afflicting Mazatlan Grows More Virulent.

MAZATLAN, Mexico, Jan. 2.—There is no longer the slightest doubt that the disease now afflicting this city is genuine Asiatic plague, for microscopic investigation proves that bubonic pest bacilli are in the blood of those afflicted with the disease.

The plague has grown virulent within the last forty-eight hours, and the alarm, which had begun in some measure to abate, has returned with increased strength. The people are fleeing from the city at the rate of 300 per day, and some 5,000 persons have gone already.

It is a remarkable fact that more than 50 per cent of the persons attacked are women.

The news of the presence of the plague at this port has reached the interior towns of the state and is causing a panic. Sanitary cordons of armed men have been placed around the towns to prevent the entrance of any one from this place.

Mrs. Clark Dead.

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 2.—Mrs. William Andrews Clark, Jr., daughter of an humble innkeeper, who married the youngest son of Senator William A. Clark of Montana and gave birth on Dec. 2 to the first male grandchild of the copper millionaire, is dead. She had been critically ill since the birth of her baby boy, who realized his grandfather's fondest wish and gained the million dollar prize he had offered for the first male child that would be born to any one of his four children.

Mill Workers Get Time Reduction.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 2.—The Riverside woolen mills and Knoxville woolen mills of this city announce that beginning Jan. 5 they will give their employees a reduction from eleven to ten hours per day without cutting wages. The mills employ about 150 and 750 people respectively.

Fire In Missouri's Capitol.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 2.—Fire was discovered in the basement of the capitol yesterday afternoon. The flames were put out by workmen, but not until some of the records of the land department in the office of the secretary of state had been burned. The loss to the building is slight.

The Sheridan Sails.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—The transport Sheridan has sailed for Manila. She carries 115 passengers and large quantities of army supplies.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"It looks like a big aquarium, don't it?" said L. Sylvester Vincent, as he gazed into the water. "Look at the fish under those rocks! I'll bet those are angel fish—I saw some just like them at the aquarium down at the Battery in New York. Say, but there are some beauties down there! It looks as if it had been built for them. The rocks are covered with moss, and there is a tunnel just like I saw in the aquarium. I thought at the time that the fish in New York had a pretty soft snap, but these fellows here have them beat in a walk. I wonder if they're good to eat?"

The reflections of Mr. Vincent were cut short. By good seamanship Capt. Waters brought the yacht alongside a jutting rock, which nature must have designed as a pier. Four sailors sprang ashore, and in a few minutes the lines were taut; the stumps of two trees acted as posts. Fenders were lowered to keep the sides of the "Shark" from rubbing against the rock, and it was possible to step from the gangway directly to the natural stone pier.

"Welcome to 'Hestoria!'" exclaimed Hestor as he leaped ashore. "Come on, gentlemen, and explore the mysteries of the tropics. I want to show you something that will surprise you."

Back of the pier there arose a rock which cut off the inland view. Hestor rounded this rock, stood in the open space, and waited for the others to join him. Mr. Pence was the last to quit the yacht and showed an inclination to remain on board. He left only when he found himself deserted.

"What do you think of that?" said Hestor pointed towards a grove of cocoa palms, in the center of which stood a large bungalow. It was an artistic blending of Moorish and Indian architecture. This building was an ell-shaped structure, the corner of which was two stories in height and rounded in a curve, forming at the front half a circle. From this as a base, there were two long wings one story in height, with sloping roofs, supported at the front by pillars, within which were deep verandas. These verandas were each about 60 feet long and opened into the central part of the structure, which on its interior, as well as in its second story, was a perfect circle.

Sidney Hammond looked at Hestor in amazement.

"When did you build this?" he demanded.

"Never mind when I built it," responded Hestor, with a good-natured laugh. "It's built all right, as you can see. As a matter of fact, old man," he said, addressing Sidney and looking carefully around as if in search of something, "this is the first time I ever saw it myself. I had it built for my tropical residence. What do you think of it, Mr. Rockwell? You are a judge of villas. Is there anything in New York that can touch it for the natural beauty of its surroundings?"

"It is very beautiful, but there are others I would rather look on just now," said Mr. Rockwell.

"Well, we will give it a housewarming," said Hestor; calmly ignoring the melancholy note in Mr. Rockwell's answer. "Let's see. The keys were to be left in a box under the second tree to the left of the big rock. Get us something we can dig with," he said, addressing one of the crew, who returned in a minute with a shovel from the furnace room of the "Shark." He dug at the base of the tree and soon struck a wooden chest, inside of which was an iron box with the key in its lock. Hestor opened the box and disclosed a lot of keys marked with labels.

"Here they are," he said. "The world is ours!" He led the way to the bungalow. There was an air of newness about the structure which told that it had but recently been completed. Scattered around were pieces of lumber, paint pots and sawhorses, which showed that no tenant had occupied the structure.

The first door was of wire screen opening on the veranda. The entire veranda was enclosed in a fine wire screen, as were all the windows. This was to exclude mosquitos and other insects. The door of the main building was next opened, and the party entered into a circular room about 30 feet in diameter. The floors were covered with matting, and the walls finished in burlaps. There was no furniture in this or in any other room in the bungalow. In the center of the ceiling there was a light and air area extending to the glass roof above, the upper floor being supported from the roof. This area was a circle 12 feet in diameter, the upper floor constituting a nine-foot gallery around the room. The kitchen and storeroom were in a building separated from the main structure. A wire netting passage-way with a protecting roof, connected the kitchen with the dining-room in such a way that communication was possible despite weather or insects, and at the same time the odors of the kitchen were avoided. A large cooking range was already in position. There also was an oil stove.

"This is the dining-room, parlor and lounging room," explained Hestor, as they returned to the large circular room. "I suppose it is really the dining-room, but we will use it in any way we choose. There are 12 sleeping apartments, all opening directly on the veranda. Here is one of them. You will notice that each has its own bathroom."

"Where does the water come from?" asked Mr. Morton, as he turned a faucet. A clear, cold stream of water rushed out at great pressure.

"We dammed up a brook on the hill back of here and made a reservoir," said Hestor. "The pipes lead directly to the building with a drop of 120 feet."

"All you need now is furniture and provisions," said Mr. Haven.

"You won't know the place by night," exclaimed Hestor. "You gentlemen make yourselves comfortable as you can. Explore the surroundings, or do what you please. This is my busy day," and Hestor dashed away towards the yacht. It was then about ten o'clock in the morning, and the sun was very warm in the open. Sidney Hammond, Mr. Carmody and Mr. Kent set out to explore the brook which rushed past the bungalow. Mr. Pence went back to the "Shark," and the other gentlemen wandered around or rested under the shade of the trees.

In the meantime the hull of the yacht was disgorging an unexpected volume of boxes, barrels, chests and crates of all descriptions. Brass bedsteads, chairs, sofas and various articles of furniture came to light and were borne away to the bungalow by the sailors. There were barrels of flour and crackers, barrels of oil, lamps and lanterns, and an endless variety of cooking utensils. There was also a barrel which Mr. Vincent handled tenderly, and that gentleman took special care of crates containing bottles of claret, beer and Burgundy, to say nothing of cigars, tobacco, sherries, cordials, brandies and liquors. Mr. Vincent arranged these in order, and then stood and gazed lovingly at the imposing array.

And still the sailors brought new treasures from the hold of the "Shark." There were library shelves, pictures, mirrors, bric-a-brac, a piano and the parts of a billiard table. There were guns, revolvers and cases of ammunition, together with rods and an assortment of fishing tackle. A huge chest contained a complete set of carpenter's tools. There were numberless articles of necessity and comfort, including a variety of canned foods, jellies and jams, and smoked and cured meats, of which a grocer or market-man might have been proud. These were placed in the storehouse, which was provided with a huge cave which served as a cellar, through which a branch of the brook had been diverted to keep it cool.

Rose Tournament.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Dense crowds of visitors and residents of Pasadena witnessed the tournament of roses procession. It is estimated that fully 40,000 people witnessed the floral parade. The procession was a long one, thirty minutes being consumed by the flower bedecked horses and carriages, automobiles, bicycles and carts to pass a given point. The floats, with their handsome and artistic decorations of southern California's wide variety of floral products, made an impressive appearance. The Navajo and Moqui Indians, with their squaws and papooses, represented aboriginal America in the flower festival and attracted much attention. Band concerts, a polo game and exhibition drill concluded the carnival.

The Modus Vivendi.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 2.—The Anglo-French modus vivendi governing the prosecution of the lobster fishing industry on the French shore of Newfoundland has expired. The colonial government has agreed to renew this agreement for the present year in order to avoid complications during the consideration of the Bond-Hay treaty in Washington and London, but it is believed here that Great Britain will arrange some settlement of the matter with France during the present season.

Cable to Hawaii Complete.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—A message received from Hawaii says that the San Francisco end of the cable has been picked up and that the splicing has been completed, thus opening communication with Honolulu.

INDIA CHEERS RULER

Lord Curzon Proclaims Edward VII. as Emperor.

AN IMMENSE THRONG AT DELHI.

The King's Message, Read by the Viceroy, Is Received With Long and Continued Applause by the Assembled Thousands.

DELHI, India, Jan. 2.—Thousands of people from the city of Delhi and from villages far and near gathered at dawn yesterday on the great plain outside the city. There they waited patiently for the supreme announcement of the durbar that King Edward was emperor of India.

When the great amphitheater was filled and the hour for the announcement drew near, the multitude within and without awaited expectantly the first act of the proclamation ceremony.

Then the approach of the viceroy was heralded. Preceded by members of his bodyguard clad in white, blue and gold, under command of Major Grimston, Lord Curzon appeared at the entrance of the arena in his carriage.

Alighting from his carriage, Lord Curzon mounted the dais to the throne, which was decorated with golden lions and around which were placed massive silver foot stools. The throne itself was surrounded by a canopy of white and gold.

When the viceroy reached the throne, the national anthem was played and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

When the spectators had resumed their seats after the anthem, there was a flourish of trumpets from the heralds, and Major Maxwell at the command of the viceroy read the proclamation opening the durbar. The royal standard was then raised on high, and the imperial salute was fired. The massed bands marched by playing, bonfires were started by the troops outside, and it was announced that King Edward was emperor of India.

In the king's message, which was then read by Lord Curzon, his majesty said that the Prince and Princess of Wales would shortly visit India. He regretted his absence from the durbar and sent his greetings to his Indian people. In conclusion King Edward said:

"I renew the assurances of my regard for the liberties of the Indian people, of my respect for their dignities and rights, of my interest in their advancement and of my devotion to their welfare. These are the supreme aims and objects of my rule, which under the blessing of Almighty God will lead to the increasing prosperity of my Indian empire and to the greater happiness of its people."

As the viceroy finished reading the king's words the assembled people broke into cheers for the king and emperor. The cheering was taken up by the multitude outside the amphitheater and was long sustained.

O'Brien Won In Twelve Rounds.

BUFFALO, Jan. 2.—It took Jack O'Brien twelve rounds to dispose of Al Weinig before the International Athletic club at Fort Erie. The Buffalo man went down and out in the middle of the twelfth round after receiving a terrific right hand uppercut and a shove which banged his head against the floor and made his arising within the ten seconds an impossibility. The contest was one sided all through, and Weinig was made a veritable chopping block by the clever Philadelphian. Three thousand people saw the contest.

Fatal Fire In Shoddy Mill.

STOUGHTON, Mass., Jan. 2.—A dust explosion in a dryer, one of the machines used in preparing shoddy material, was followed by a fire which destroyed the two story brick factory of the Stoughton Mills company and burned to death Thomas Downey, an employee. The property loss is $35,000. The fire spread so quickly through the structure that the twenty-five employees had to move lively to get out.

Costa Rica Has a Shakeup.

TO HOLD BACK HIS SALARY

Borough Council Took That Action Because Assessor Failed to Do As Requested.

UNTIL HE EXPLAINS

Short Session of Borough Fathers Last Night—Plans Were Made for Special Election on Engine House Bond Issue—Held up Assessor's Pay.

Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed was instructed to draw up a petition for a special election, to increase the appropriation for the new fire house at a short meeting of the Borough Council, which was held last evening at the Council Chambers on Somerset street.

The report of the treasurer showed that there was $11,751.81 on hand, and his report in a summary is as follows: Interest and sidewalks, $16,487.59; Board of Health, $298.51; special school tax, $9,660.12; Recorder's fines, $45; interest First National Bank, $18.62; balance on hand, Dec. 1, $3,202.33; total, $29,652.17. Disbursements, $17,900.81; leaving on hand $11,751.81. The county tax amounted to $5,838.94; and the State tax amounted to $1,679.28.

The Borough Counsel was authorized to draw up a petition for a special election to increase the bond issue for the new fire engine house and to have the election in conjunction with the election in March. A recess was taken of about half an hour to discuss this matter during which all the councilmen took part.

A resolution was offered authorizing the borough collector to enforce the law for the collection of all personal and poll tax and after January 10 all the delinquent tax bills will be payable to special Marshal Francis Whiteley, who has been deputized to collect all unpaid tax bills.

Considerable time was taken up at the meeting in discussing a resolution offered by Councilman Arnold to hold back one quarterly payment the salary of Assessor French for not complying with the request of the Council to make an exact copy of the collector's book for the clerk. This will be done until the Assessor has an opportunity of explaining why he has not done the work. There was considerable discussion following the offering of this resolution but it was finally adopted.

After ordering the payment of a very small number of bills the meeting adjourned for a month.

Later in the evening they went to Trinity Reformed church and attended the watch-night service, held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

WHAT MR. MELLICK SAID

HIS WORDS OF THANKS AND CONGRATULATION TO RETIRING COUNCIL.

At the Final Meeting of 1902 Common Council Held Wednesday Afternoon.

As one of the two retiring members of the Common Council for 1902, George P. Mellick took occasion New Year's Eve at the final meeting of that body to make a few pleasant remarks which were thoroughly appreciated by the other members of the Council.

"It would be quite impossible," said Mr. Mellick, "to permit this evening to pass without saying a few words in regard to the gratification that I have found in being a member of this Common Council for the past four years and my association with the gentlemen who have been members of this Council during my term of office. I am of the opinion that it is a pleasure and a duty of citizens to do someshing for their city and not to only reap the benefits of the work of others.

"I am frank to say that I felt much honored when I was asked four years ago to become a candidate for election, and was exceedingly gratified when I was elected; and I can encourage with a great deal of earnestness, citizens that I may come in contact with from time to time who are about to undertake works of this kind. I can take pleasure in saying that, if they are as fortunate as I have been in the association of the same class of men as I have worked with during the past four years the work will not be difficult, on the contrary it will be a pleasure for them to labor for the city's interests.

"In the very humble way in which I have tried to do my duty as a public servant, I have found my way made extremely easy by reason of the courtesy, the good-fellowship, and friendship that has existed among the members of this Council; I have found it a benefit to me, so great that I am frank to say I feel something of sadness when I remember that this is the last time I will meet in this room with you. It has been a benefit in a business way; as it has given me an insight into the affairs of a municipality of which I was ignorant and it is decidedly educational for any man to ally himself with the management of a city of the size of Plainfield and to have the experience I have gained in the good work, for the city's interest. It's helpful in broadening character to come in contact with such men as have been in the Plainfield Common Council in recent years, and I consider Plainfield so fortunate in the character of men that are managing its affairs that every taxpayer can be and will be proud of the city in which they live, and the sincere, honest, straight-forward manner in which all the affairs of the city are conscientously treated.

"I thank the ex-president of this Common Council, Mr. Coriell, for his courtesy to me, and I thank each one of you gentlemen, and all the city officers, for the very gratifying companionship that I have had with you, and I wish for this city great prosperity and to you all a very happy New Year."

"Tip" is Out.

"Tip" Thompson, the well known local bootblack who originated the parlor idea in Plainfield, was released from state prison, Wednesday, on the completion of a twenty-five months term. He was sentenced to two years for stabbing Ellsworth Cuff during a quarrel and six months were added for the time taken off a previous sentence. Good behavior lessened the term five months.

There will be a public meeting of the League of American Citizens at Trade Council Hall Tuesday evening, January 13, when an organization will be perfected and officers elected. At that time the committee, recently appointed, will report and present by-laws and constitution for adoption.

LIVELY HEARINGS OF THE LICENSE CASES

Judge Schenck Heard Arguments for and Against Applications in Somerset.

AT COURT YESTERDAY

HUNGARIANS OF RARITAN WANTED A SALOON OF THEIR OWN.

McCloskeys Had Family Fight Over Another License—The Application of Schloss & Co., of Bound Brook, Was Withdrawn.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 3—Judge Schenck had quite a seance with the postponed license cases in the Common Pleas Court, yesterday.

The application of Charles Kiszonak, of Raritan, resulted in a hot scrap. He had applied for a license on Thompson street in that town and the people of the place remonstrated, declaring there were more saloons there now than were necessary. The argument of Kiszonak's counsel was that the Hungarians had no saloon in that town while all the other foreigners had one run by one of their class. The license was refused.

The dispute over the McCloskey saloon license was the result of a family dispute. When Barney McCloskey, the proprietor of the house, died, his wife, Mrs. Sarah McCloskey, took charge and applied for the license. Her brother-in-law, James McCloskey, who owns the property, also asked for the license. The court decided in favor of Mrs. McCloskey, whose lease does not run out until April.

There were so many petitions against the wholesale application of Emanuel Schloss & Company, of Bound Brook, who run a big grocery there, it was withdrawn. The people of Somerville believe this will also deter them from applying for a license for their big store here.

In the Orphans' Court an application was made by Alex. Brown, of Thomasville, Ga., to have his brother, Geo. W. Brown, of Freemansburg, Pa., removed from the executorship of their father's estate, the late Benjamin Brown, of Bridgewater township. The matter was laid over until Friday.

The celebrated Hatchett case, of North Plainfield, was again laid over. This has now been before the court for over a year.

Monday Justice Garretson will be here to take up the Supreme and Circuit court lists. He was hindered from coming before because of illness.

District Deputy Jere VanWinkle and staff visited Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, last evening, and installed the recently elected officers. The members afterward enjoyed cigars on the new presiding officer, Chancellor Commander Charles M. Ulrich, who succeeds William N. Runyon.

In the regular order of business, the first rank was conferred upon two candidates and an invitation was accepted to pay a fraternal visit to Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of Somerville, Wednesday evening, January 21.

Jenkins sent on New Year's Day the very generous gift of a check for $100, one third of his salary as mayor, with his wishes for a prosperous and happy New Year, to the Plainfield Relief Association, to be used in the work of relieving the poor of Plainfied. A gift like this brings courage and joy to the hearts of the women working in this association, as they are always hampered in doing all they desire because of lack of sufficient funds.

CAPTURED AGAIN.

The Man Who Broke Jail at Scotch Plains While Constable Breakfasted Caught in Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, January 3—Liberty was short lived for Frank Neister, the man who escaped from the local jail Tuesday morning, by breaking the lock of his cell. He was captured at Elizabeth, yesterday morning and on being returned to this place by Constable Sheelein, his identity was completely established by several parties.

He was placed in another cell and a close watch will be kept upon him until this afternoon, when he will be given a hearing. The man is accused of stealing brasses from the cars of the New Jersey Central.

TOOK TESTIMONY OF THOSE WHO SIGNED

Witnesses Examined in the Baldwin Will Case Which Raises Many Questions.

A VERY UNUSUAL CASE

SURROGATE PARROT TOOK TESTIMONY OF SUBSCRIBING WITNESSES.

Examination Held at Offices of Craig A. Marsh, Counsel in Favor of the Will—Senator Cross Conducted Cross-Examination.

What is the effect if a man alters his will by erasures and interlineations after once executing it? Will it invalidate the whole will, or only the clauses so altered, or will it have no effect at all, provided the court can find out how the will read originally? What if it should be proved that the alterations were made by someone else than the testator. Is there a different rule for lead pencil alterations? These are some of the questions raised in the Baldwin will case in which Surrogate Parrot took the testimony of the three subscribing witnesses in this city yesterday. Seldom has any will contest involved legal questions of greater novelty.

The hearing was held at the office of Craig A. Marsh, who is counsel in favor of the will. Judge Cross, Union county's Senator, conducted the cross examination for the contestants. The witnesses were Janitor Allen, of the Job Male Library and Art Gallery, Rachel Alexander and Emma Saunders.

Besides the questions as to the effect of the erasures and alterations made after the will was executed, Hugh, the son of the testator, or his counsel have not stated whether they have any other defenses. It is not generally believed that he will question the mental capacity of his mother at the time the will was executed or claim that she was unduly influenced as the witnesses say that she was then in the best of health physically and mentally.

The next hearing is to take place at Elizabeth on Monday next. Mr. MacDonald has qualified as temporary administrator and also as receiver of the real estate located here, in New York State and in Chicago.

BUT THREE LEFT.

Sad Ending of E. G. Taylor's Trip to This City to Purchase a Crate of Chickens for His Farm.

Elmore G. Taylor, a farmer, who resides between New Brunswick and New Market, drove to this city yesterday afternoon and took home with him a large coop full of chickens which he bought at a down town market.

Everything went well until he reached a place about three miles outside of the city limits when he ran over an obstruction on the road which jounced the crate of chickens out of the wagon into the road. The box was broken open and the chickens scattered in all directions.

The farmer, who is an aged man, vainly endeavored to capture the hens but they fled in all directions and he finally had to give up the chase and remain content with only three chicks out of his coopful of twelve.

HAD TO SKATE HOME.

Somebody Stole Extra Shoes Left Behind by Skaters at Tier's.

One day last week five children, boys and girls, living in the borough, went to Tier's pond to have a skate. They each carried hockey skates fastened to an extra pair of shoes and when they reached the pond they changed their shoes, placing the ones they walked in under the pavillion at Tier's. After an enjoyable time on the ice, the children went for their shoes, only to find that they had been stolen. They were then obliged to walk home on their skates.

BROKE INTO THE STATION

Jesse R. Smith Was Captured There by Patrolman Quaas at Point of a Revolver.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Smith Says That He Went Inside to Get Warm—Policeman Found Broken Glass on Platform—Smith Had Bunch of Keys—Police Say Burglary.

What is believed was an attempt to rob the Netherwood station of the New Jersey Central, at 12:30 this morning, was nipped in the bud by the timely arrival of Patrolman Quaas. The supposed would-be burglar was ordered from the place at the point of the policeman's revolver and taken into custody. At police headquarters he described himself as Jesse R. Smith, thirty years old, of Baltimore, with no particular occupation. He was arraigned before Justice Huff on a charge of breaking and entering preferred by Detective Dougherty, of the railroad force, and held without bail.

Smith gained entrance to the place by breaking a large window in the back part of the station and crawling through. He had been in but a short time when Quaas reached the scene. In walking about the platform, he stepped on the pieces of broken glass. Drawing his electric tube light, he flashed the rays inside the building and located the fellow crouching behind a radiator. The sudden illumination blinded the intruder and before he could recover, the quick-witted policeman had drawn his revolver and ordered him to come out. He refused at first but a warning that no trifling would be tolerated induced him to emerge. Quaas kept him covered with the weapon until he could place the handcuffs upon him.

At the station house Smith was searched but the only thing found on his person was a large bunch of keys, most of them being the kind that sneak thieves use. It is believed by the police that his purpose was to unfasten the door of the ticket office and so gain access to the money drawers.

When arraigned this morning he offered as excuse that he entered the place to get warm. The fellow is six feet in height and has been working as a helper in the Pederick-Ayer shops. He was also employed at one time as porter in a local hotel.

Quaas has been commended for his action in catching the man, especially as he is comparatively new on the force. Last night was his first time in the Netherwood section.

Just as a Fire

spreads in dry grass and weeds, so does an inflammation of the throat—the result of a cold—grow down into the sensitive air-passages of the lungs. The cold, like the fire, should be promptly dealt with. When you begin to cough, use Allen's Lung Balsam. It will certainly heal the sore throat and lungs and it may save you from consumption.

CARRIED CHRISTMAS CHEER

ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION THANKS THOSE WHO MADE IT POSSIBLE.

Work of That Association During Holidays and Those to Whom Credit is Due.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Through your columns the general secretary of the Organized Aid Association wishes to thank all those societies and individuals through whose co-operation it was possible to provide merry Christmas cheer for a long list of families, known to her, who otherwise would have fared poorly, and to tell what has been done altogether through her office.

Through the kind hospitality of the Y. M. C. A., a large number of boys on her list were entertained at their Christmas dinner. Through the kindness of the Relief Association, the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church, the Cup Bearer Cirlce of King's Daughters, the Junior Circle of King's Daughters, the Central Avenue Kindergarten and a goodly number of individuals, 330 children were made happy in their own homes Christmas morning by finding that Santa Claus had filled their stockings brimful of toys and goodies and had brought each one besides, a pair of mittens, stockings or a cap. Santa Claus also left forty Christmas trees and decorations, as well as toys, at homes where children abounded so in all 230 children could gather round a home Christmas tree. Many of these trees were left up the whole week and the writer can testify that they were pretty, and gladdened the hearts of parents as well as children.

Thirty-one good Christmas dinners were given in as many families. Twelve persons, either old or feeble from illness, were presented with a basket of fruit and a warm garment each, and each inmate of the Industrial Home was remembered, the women with warm garments, as well as candy and fruit, the men with pipes and tobacco.

The kind givers who personally presented their gifts can testify of the pleasure brought to themselves as well as to those who received their Christmas offerings.

Sarah M. VanBoskerck,
General Secretary.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

GUIDI IS HOPEFUL.

Apostolic Delegate to Philippines Reports to Rome.

ROME, Jan. 3.—The Vatican is in receipt of the first long report on the situation in the Philippines from Mgr Guidi, apostolic delegate in the islands. The delegate praises the tact, fairness and good will of Governor Taft and expresses the hope that as he and the government are both animated by a desire to maintain the pacification and secure the prosperity of the islands they will succeed in settling the points under discussion and in reaching an understanding satisfactory to Rome, Washington and the Filipino people.

Mgr. Guidi gives a summary of the evidence he has collected with regard to the selling of the friar lands, the settlement of rentals, damages due the church, the conveyance of titles and the administration of charitable and educational trusts. He thinks the question of the withdrawal of the friars will be solved gradually through the reorganization of the church.

The apostolic delegate says the schism in the Roman Catholic church in the Philippines soon will be put down, although the separatist movement is believed to be encouraged by the people's dislike of the friars and their desire to have a Filipino church not connected with the ancient regime.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

Secret Service Agent Locates a Den and Breaks It Up.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 3.—Secret Service Agent George F. Foster of Washington after a long investigation succeeded in locating a counterfeiters' den at 528 West Second street, this city, and during the day it was raided by the police. Biagni Malearoso, better known as Mike Ross; Sathia Malearoso, his wife, and Nicola di Paco, his brother-in-law, were arrested and the plant captured.

The plant was an unusually large one, comprising ten molds, a number of mixing pots, dies, presses and other counterfeiting paraphernalia. The parties will have a hearing before Acting United States Commissioner Hollis.

Among the material seized were about 100 counterfeit dollars and some partly formed nickels.

All the troops stationed at Washington barracks and possibly those stationed at Forts Myer, Washington and Hunt will participate.

Thirty revolver shots were fired in two minutes. The men concerned were brothers and cousins.

SHIPPER COMPLAINS.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Said to Be Unfair.

DOUBLE RATES ON LIVE STOCK.

A Missouri Cattleman Brings Case Before the Interstate Commerce Commission and Gives Startling Figures.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad is made the defendant in a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission by Gilbert Barr of Kearney, Mo., who alleges the exaction of an unreasonable and unjust tariff on live stock. The complainant is a live stock shipper and says that since Oct. 4 last the railroad has compelled him to pay for transportation of live stock in carload lots from Kearney to Chicago 23½ cents per 100 pounds, although a reasonable charge is 12 cents per 100 pounds.

The complaint charges that during the time mentioned the defendant has had in force on its lines a rate of 23½ cents per 100 pounds applying upon live stock originating at Kansas City and shipped in carload lots to Chicago and another rate of 12 cents per 100 pounds, called a proportional rate, applying between Kansas City and Chicago on live stock originating at points west of Kansas City and shipped in carload lots to Kansas City in the first instance and upon which the through rate from the originating point to Chicago would not be less than 23½ cents per 100 pounds.

The complainant alleges that, although the 12 cent rate is published as a proportional rate, the defendant still allows shippers of live stock to use it without reference to the origin of their shipments and regardless of whether rates have been paid thereon from points of origin to Kansas City, entitling such shippers to the proportional rate from Kansas City to Chicago.

According to the complaint, the defendant by compelling complainant to pay the higher rate while exacting from other shippers for a like service the lower rate is subjecting the complainant and the locality from which he makes shipments to undue and unreasonable prejudice and disadvantage and is violating the interstate commerce law. An investigation and a reparation of the charges alleged to have been unlawfully collected are asked.

Alleged Poisoners Held.

ASHFORD, Conn., Jan. 3.—After a hearing before Justice of the Peace Nathaniel Knowlton in Warrenville Mrs. Leila Manson and George Wilson of this town were held without bonds for the superior court on the charge of murder in the first degree. They are accused of having caused the death of Wilson's mother, Mrs. Julia Wilson, by administering poison. As the next term of the superior court will not be held until March the prisoners will remain in jail at Brooklyn until that time. Neither of the accused was represented by counsel, and beyond the declaration "not guilty" when arraigned neither took any active part in the proceedings in the court.

Sousa In London.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A large audience, which, however, did not fill the Queen's hall, welcomed the reappearance of Sousa and his band in London last night. Many Americans, including Consul General Evans, were present. A curious incident was noted at the beginning of the programme. When Sousa, punctual to the minute, stepped upon the platform and waved his baton, the band broke out with "God Save the King," and the whole audience stood up; but when, without stopping, the music merged into "The Star Spangled Banner," the majority of those present sat down.

No Oil For New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3.—New Orleans is now without a supply of fuel oil, and all the furnaces recently converted to the use of oil burners are being changed back so that coal may be used. Only one concern in this city, the Lone Star and Crescent, has been supplying fuel oil. In the last few days it has sent circulars to its customers saying that after Jan. 1 it no longer would be able to supply oil to them. The company says that it is unable to get sufficient oil from Beaumont to meet the wants of its customers.

The December Balance Sheet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of December, 1902, the total receipts were $47,151,299 and the expenditures $36,583,744, leaving a surplus for the month of $10,618,900. The receipts for the month are about $100,000 in excess of those for December, 1901, and the expenditures $785,000 less than for that month.

A Perpetual Gift.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—The trustees of the estate of Robert B. Brigham, carrying out the provisions of the will, have just sent a check for $1,000 to each of twenty-two charities. The gift under the will is to be paid yearly and "forever." The institutions remembered are all in Boston except the Warner home of St. Albans.

Monthly Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business Dec. 31, 1902, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $[illegible],154,679, which is a decrease for the month of $10,932,602.

THE ANTITRUST BILL

Senator Hoar Makes Public His Measure.

PUBLICITY IS ITS MAIN FEATURE.

All Corporations Required to File a Complete Statement of Their Affairs With the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Senator Hoar has completed and made public the antitrust bill which he asked leave before the senate adjourned for the holidays to introduce.

The bill goes to the committee on judiciary, of which Senator Hoar is chairman. Following are the more important points of the measure:

The attorney general is authorized to employ any professional or other assistance which may be deemed necessary or desirable to prosecute offenses under this act or under the acts hereinbefore mentioned, to which this is an addition, or to make investigation into the same, and for that purpose the sum of $500,000 or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

From and after the 30th of June, 1904, no corporation, joint stock company or other association whose stockholders are not personally liable for their debts, created by any state or territory, shall engage in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states or continue to carry on such commerce unless it shall comply with the following conditions:

First.—It shall file a statement in the office of the interstate commerce commission, signed and sworn to by its president, its treasurer, its general manager and a majority of its directors or by the persons exercising the powers usually exercised by such officers and directors of such corporations, joint stock companies and other associations on or before Sept. 15, 1904, and shall on or before Sept. 15 in each year thereafter file a like statement for the year ending with June 30 in said years respectively showing:

Second.—The amount of its capital stock.

Third.—The market value of the same.

Fourth.—How much of the same has been paid in in full in cash, or if the same has not been paid in in full in cash what has been received.

Fifth.—The names of all the officers and directors of such corporation, joint stock company or other association and all agents intrusted with the general management of its affairs.

Sixth.—The amount it has paid in dividends during said period, the rate of percentage of such dividends and times of paying the same.

Seventh.—A statement of all the stock owned by it of any other corporation, joint stock company or other association, specifying the corporation, joint stock company or other association and the number and value of shares in each; the amount of its own stock held by other corporations, joint stock companies or other associations and the value thereof.

Eighth.—An undertaking signed by said officers, general managers and directors that they will comply with the provisions of this and all other laws of the United States in the management of the affairs of said corporations, joint stock companies or other associations and that they accept the provisions and liabilities of this act and the obligations by it imposed so long as they shall continue to hold or exercise said office or authority.

The attorney general of the United States may at any time require of any corporation, joint stock company or other association so engaged any statement he may think fit in regard to the conduct of its business, and he may especially require any such corporation, joint stock company or other association to give a list of all contracts or transactions entered into within the twelve months preceding such requisition in which it has sold any article or product or carried by any other person than the party to such transaction, and he may further require the reasons for such distinction and the circumstances attending the same.

Every person, corporation, joint stock company or other association engaged in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states who shall enter into any contract, combination or conspiracy or who shall give any direction or authority to do any act for the purpose of driving out of business any other person engaged therein or who for such purpose shall in the course of such commerce sell any article or product at less than its fair market value or at a less price than it is accustomed to demand or receive therefor in any other place under like conditions or who shall sell any article upon a condition, contract or undertaking that it shall not be sold again by the purchaser or restrain such sale by the purchaser shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not to exceed one year or by both said punishments in the discretion of the court.

All the books of record and papers of every such corporation, joint stock company or other association engaged in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states shall be subject to inspection by the attorney general of the United States or by any agent he may designate for that purpose, and such corporation, joint stock company or other association shall at such times as he shall prescribe make such further returns, verified as aforesaid, as shall be by him prescribed either by general regulation or by special direction.

TO RELIEVE THE CRUSH.

The State Railroad Commission Says "Must" to Manhattan "L" Road.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The state railroad commission after an all day secret session at the Fifth Avenue hotel made public some important orders which it had issued to the Manhattan elevated road with a view to relieving the nuisances which have been complained of by the public.

The commission says the orders just issued are only a part of what are to be issued in the same connection. The Manhattan is ordered to put on a hundred more cars in each of the months of January, February and March. This is all the commission thinks the road can put on now. The road is also ordered to lay third tracks in Third avenue between Ninth and Fifty-ninth streets, in Second avenue between Canal and One Hundred and Twenty-ninth streets and in Ninth avenue between Fourteenth and Cortlandt streets.

The commission also directs the road to run as many cars from early morning until midnight as are now run during the so called rush hours, and this order, the commission says, is not to interfere with the rush hour service.

The statement says:

"The overcrowding of the cars of this company in the so called rush hours has become so onerous and intolerable to the public that it can no longer be endured. It is also true that crowding of the cars in other than the rush hours should be obviated.

"The board fully recognizes the enormous demand made upon the traffic facilities of the company, as is shown by the fact that the mere increase in the number of passengers carried in 1902 over the traffic of 1901 was 25,213,604, the totals being in 1901 190,045,741 and in 1902 215,259,345 passengers. The average number carried daily, including Sundays, in 1902, was 589,752.

Australia's Wheat Shortage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Two hundred thousand tons of breadstuffs must be imported from wheat producing centers to Australia during the coming season to meet harvest deficiencies, says United States Consul Goding at Newcastle in a report to the state department. The crop in New South Wales, he says, will not reach 50 per cent of the quantity reaped last year, and Victoria will require imports of 3,637,929 bushels of wheat to supply her needs. The situation is not so bad in South Australia, though there the crop is less than last year. Fifteen thousand tons of California flour are afloat for New South Wales, but the consul says the price of California flour has risen so greatly that the effect will be to divert a good deal of trade to Canada, which raises hard wheat of a class well suited to mix with California flour.

Newfoundland Prosperous.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 3.—The revenue of this colony for the year ended Dec. 31 was the largest on record. It reached a total of $1,200,000, being $20,000 in excess of receipts for the corresponding period of 1901. For the fiscal year ended June 30 the imports into Newfoundland from the United States increased from $2,088,000 to $2,501,000. During this same period exports to the United States increased from $884,000 to $1,207,000.

Big January Dividends.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Wall street banks and financial institutions paid out yesterday a total of $109,665,619 for interest and dividends without disturbance to the financial situation. There remains to be paid later in the month over $30,000,000 in interest and dividends, which will make the total for the month in excess of $140,000,000, which breaks all previous January records.

The History by Miss Ida M. Tarbell which began in the NOVEMBER McCLURE'S is the GREAT STORY OF STANDARD OIL.

"Miss Tarbell's work is of unequalled importance as a 'document' of the day. Her story has live men in it; they suffer and work and win and lose their battles with the verisimilitude that removes the tale from the dry statement and clothes it with the color of human interest and the vivid rainbow garment of human sympathy. * * * The results of her work are likely to be far-reaching; she is writing unfinished history."—Boston Globe.

The New York Times

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Gives more space to news than any other New York newspaper. It prints a greater variety of news. It gives impartial news free from bias. It goes into homes that bar other newspapers. It is a sane newspaper, neat in typographical, rational in its news treatment, and independent in its opinions. It has refused to appeal to the vicious, the ignorant or the thoughtless.

Special Cable news is one of the most important features of THE NEW YORK TIMES. The London Times' foreign reports appear in this country exclusively in THE NEW YORK TIMES. No other American newspaper excels THE NEW YORK TIMES in the presentation of Domestic Telegraphic news. The Associated Press reports are augmented by hundreds of Special Correspondents.

The New York Times

Is Now Appearing Every Sunday

Improved and Enlarged.

A departure of the Magazine Supplement which accompanies each number of the Sunday Editon of THE NEW YORK TIMES is the introduction of Cartoons and Illustrations. The many bright, breezy, entertaining articles are materially more acceptable, being brightened by illustrations from the pens of well-known artists in black and white.

New features will constantly be introduced to improve the Magazine, but the old friend, THE MAN IN THE STREET, will remain to amuse people with his bright, chatty, and clever stories of men and women who figure prominently in the news and events of the day.

The News Section of The Sunday Edition of

will be as interesting as it always is—readers of the SUNDAY TIMES may depend on getting "all the news that's fit to print" promptly, accurately, and well told.

The Financial Quotation Supplement which accompanies the SUNDAY EDITION of THE NEW YORK TIMES covers all transactions in Stocks, Bonds, and Investment Securities—both listed and unlisted. It includes capitalization of corporations—dividends—date and rates, the fluctuations in quotations for the closing week — high and low price for both the current year and the year preceding, and other information indispensable to either investor or speculator to aid him in solving financial problems. The Quotation Supplement is kept on file by all banks and financial institutions for daily references.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

Saturday Review of Books

Which accompanies the Saturday Edition, treats books as news. The book publishers of the country have made THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW OF BOOKS their preferred medium for announcements of new publications.

MOROCCO'S REVOLUTION.

Pretender Fighting to Put Sultan's Brother In Power.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 3.—The pretender has issued a proclamation announcing that he is not fighting for the throne for himself, but for the sultan's imprisoned brother, Mulai Mohammed, surnamed the "One Eyed."

It is now confirmed that the sultan has ordered his brother's release and that the honors of his rank be paid to him.

The governor at a recent conference with the Kabyle chiefs pointed out to them that they were responsible for the safety of the roads running through their territory.

Telegrams received from Oran, Algeria, announce that detachments of zouaves (French troops) have been ordered to the Moorish frontier.

The Spanish sloop-of-war Infanta Isabel has arrived here.

The Portuguese cruiser Rainha Amelia also arrived here during the day.

Advices from Fez have been received here. Guns are being mounted on the walls for the defense of the city, but the rebels remain inactive. They have not sufficient supplies for expeditions from their headquarters.

The city of Fez continues quiet, but the dearness of food is causing discontent.

If the situation becomes more grave, the sultan will abandon the capital, retire to Rabat and summon the border tribes to a holy war. The sultan will then proclaim himself shereef and defender of Islam, renounce all European leanings and then at the head of new forces attempt to retake Fez.

TO SHARE PROFITS.

Pressed Steel Car Company Makes Announcement to Employees.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Announcement is made that another industrial corporation has inaugurated a plan to share its profits with employees. The Pressed Steel Car company proposes to carry for each of its employees who has been six months or more in its employ from one to twenty-five shares of the preferred stock, now paying 7 per cent dividends.

The men will pay 5 per cent down and the same in monthly installments thereafter, the company charging 4 per cent for moneys loaned. As the dividend is 7 per cent, the buyer will have the advantage of the 3 per cent difference.

Canada's Prosperous Year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Bradstreet's today under the heading "Canada" says: "Canada has completed from a business point of view the most successful year in her history. For the past five years the Dominion has been experiencing what has been called the growing time. The truth of this has found ample proof in the great expansion that has taken place in manufacturing, mercantile and financial circles, as well as in the agricultural sections of the country. There was a great increase in the wealth of the country during the past year. Various figures and statements now in course of preparation for the calendar year just ended, but which are still incomplete, unmistakably prove this fact."

Engineer Was Asleep?

AKRON, O., Jan. 3.—An engine crashed into a Pullman sleeper on the Baltimore and Ohio at Sterling, O., and two passengers were injured. The injured are F. L. Clapp of Lodi and Samuel Gant. It is claimed that the engineer was asleep at the time. The passenger train was standing at the station in Sterling, and the engine came up from behind and crashed into it. The sleeper was demolished, and despite the fact that there were several passengers on board but two were hurt.

Mine Workings Cave In.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—An explosion and cave-in caused by the settling of the Delaware and Hudson mine workings occurred at Olyphant, a few miles north of here. J. W. O'Brien's hotel and the residence of Mrs. Mary Evans adjoining were swallowed up. The buildings took fire immediately after sinking. It is feared that the Lackawanna river will overflow into the cave in and cause mine floods. As far as is known no one was killed.

Year's Trade of Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Partial returns from the consular districts indicate that Germany's exports to the United States increased in 1902 by about $5,000,000 over those of 1901. The net increases in nine districts of north Germany alone amount to $2,986,071, chiefly in textiles. Bremen and Magdeburg showed decreases together of $2,500,000, principally in sugar. The imports from the United States fell off, but no reliable figures are available.

Engineers Killed In a Collision.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 3.—The New York flier, northbound, on the Rutland railroad collided with a wild engine opposite Dr. W. Seward Webb's estate in Shelburne last evening. The engineers of both engines were killed and their firemen probably fatally hurt. No passengers were seriously injured.

Lockjaw Follows Holiday Fun.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 3.—The list of fatalities from lockjaw caused by powder burns from toy pistols on Christmas has reached a total of six, while several other children are being treated. Mayor James G. Riddick has ordered the police to confiscate all toy pistols found in the possession of children.

Unprecedented Rain and Snowfall.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Jan. 3.—During the month of December, 1902, an aggregate of 38.60 inches of snow and rain fell in the lower Adirondack region. This breaks the December record for that section.

HONOLULU BY WIRE

Completion of Pacific Cable Causes Great Rejoicing.

FIRST MESSAGE ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Line to Be Opened Jan. 5 For Business—The Silvertown's Stormy Voyage Was Made Without Accident.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Clarence Mackay, president; George G. Ward, vice president and general manager, and the other officials of the Commercial Cable company are naturally greatly pleased at the completion of the company's cable between San Francisco and Hawaii, a work to which they have devoted much energy and time during the last few months. They do not propose to stop at Hawaii, however, and now say that by July 4 they expect the cable will have been completed to Manila. Speaking of the project Mr. Ward said:

"The Commercial Pacific Cable company's cable to Hawaii was connected through to San Francisco at 8:43 p. m. Jan. 1, Honolulu time. The cable opens for public business on Monday morning, Jan. 5. The widespread interest and enthusiasm created by bringing the Hawaiian Islands into electric touch with the Pacific coast is evidenced by congratulatory cablegrams received. It is a particular satisfaction to us to have the cable completed on the first day of the new year, because it fulfills our promise to congress. Rapid progress is being made in the manufacture of the sections to be laid between Honolulu and Manila, and over 3,500 miles of this cable have already been manufactured, and I fully expect messages will be exchanged with Manila by the 4th of July next. The laying of the remaining sections will commence from Manila the first week in May next."

LAYING OF THE CABLE.

Ship Encountered Fierce Gales, Making Work Difficult.

HONOLULU, Jan. 3 (via Pacific Cable).—The voyage of the Silvertown was eventful and at times unpleasantly exciting. Twelve hours out from San Francisco the cable ship was beset by bad weather, which continued, with the exception of one day, to the end of the voyage. Variable winds that at times approached the velocity of gales, heavy seas that buffeted her about, retarded the progress as well as endangered the safety of the cable. In fact, every adverse condition that is usually encountered in the laying of a cable was met with and at times made the task a most hazardous one.

At times during the stormy voyage the ship rolled terribly, and it seemed that the great strain would prove disastrous to the cable. Under ordinary conditions the line is paid out 7 per cent faster than the speed of the vessel. This was increased during the storm to 10 per cent. Even with this concession the strain was terrific. As the ship lifted and lurched the great drum around which the strand was passing would almost cease to revolve one moment only to resume with a rush the next, rendering the life of the men in the tanks a seeming if not a real hazard.

The dynamometer regulating the speed of the line and the strain was fluctuating wildly at such times, rushing from an indicated strain of two tons or less up to four and even five tons. The breaking strain is eight and three-quarter tons, and a failure to relieve the strain promptly meant disaster, as the loss of the line in 2,500 fathoms would have resulted in a long and serious delay in the completion of the work of laying the cable, as well as being a most expensive happening to the contracting company. Rare good judgment in the handling of both the ship and the cable at these critical times averted accident.

The operation of buoying the cable some thirty miles offshore from Honolulu proved a most difficult one owing to the motion of the vessel, which at times rolled to the angle of 45 degrees. It was with difficulty that the line was made fast to the cable and the end buoyed. Word was given to cut the line at 5:20, and as the six inch manila hawser was cut with the knife it parted with a snap. So great was the strain upon it that friction caused it to take fire as it passed over the sheaves at the stern, and the sparks scattered about the deck in a pyrotechnic display. The buoy was jerked overboard with terrific force, but quickly righted itself.

The cable was safely buoyed in 450 fathoms of water. A marked buoy was dropped as near as possible to the cable buoy, and the vessel stood by until 8 o'clock in order to get the bearings. She then proceeded to Honolulu, where she arrived at noon on Dec. 26.

Large Endowment For Bucknell.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—The announcement is made that the effort to raise $100,000 additional endowment for Bucknell university has been successfully completed. This brings the value of the property of the institution up to $1,000,000 and greatly encourages its friends to attempt yet larger things in the future.

New Ohio Gas Well.

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 3.—The Ohio Fuel Supply company of this city has just drilled in the largest gas well ever struck in Ohio. The new well is in the Homer field in Licking county and has a daily capacity of 14,000,000 cubic feet.

Pope Against Dueling.

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 3, 1903.

COMING EVENTS.

January 4—Hugh R. Monro, of New York, will speak and Miss Mildred Till, of the Rock Band Concert Company, will sing at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock.

January 5—Basket ball. Y.M.C.A. vs. Jersey City Y. M. C. A., at Plainfield.

January 6—Meeting of Common Council.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Every member of the Common Council for 1902 must find unusual satisfaction in the showing made in the city's affairs at the close of the year 1902. Never has the municipal machinery been in such satisfactory condition; none of the appropriations were exceeded; there is no floating indebtedness save a note for $4,000 which is more than covered by taxes that will be collected; and there is a cash balance on hand amounting to $44,424.04, as against $17,657.58 last year.

Despite the fact that the members of the Common Council are all of one political party, the danger of becoming extravagant has been passed successfully even without the assistance of any minority opposition. As a matter of fact, politics cut very little figure in Councilmanic matters in Plainfield these days. There are practical business men in the Council and they have been trying to administer the city's affairs on exactly the same lines as business enterprises are conducted. And if one can judge from the reports that were presented at the last meeting of the 1902 Council, that is the way the city has been managed during the past year.

Of course, there are none of us infallible. Councilmen will make mistakes just the same as other mortals. But by working together one may discover another's error. The record made by last year's Common Council was an enviable one. All but two of the same men will continue as members for another year at least. While the two men who have retired were valuable members, their places have been filled by two energetic citizens who will without doubt materially assist their colleagues. There is reason to believe, therefore, that the year which has just begun will be another prosperous one for the city of Plainfield and that its inhabitants will reap additional advantages without any material increase in the tax rate.

With the Common Council meeting, Wednesday evening, George P. Mellick concluded his term as a member of that body from the Second ward. His departure is regretted, not only by his associates who learned to admire and respect him during his service there, but by the public at large. Mr. Mellick has been a very valuable public servant. He is possessed of splendid business ability which he used with as much energy in looking after the city's affairs as with his personal business interests. It is when men like Mr. Mellick are willing to take office and do their share in transacting municipal affairs that the security of the welfare of the community is assured. He is succeeded by W. A. Garrigues, a resident who has been particularly successful in business enterprises and who is willing to follow in the footsteps of Mr. Mellick and others and do what he can to make Plainfield the greatest suburban city in the land. Although Mr. Mellick has now retired form public life, it is to be hoped that his retirement is not permanent. There is good mayoralty timber in Mr. Mellick.

Mayor Jenkins had something more to say about his plan of public parks and lakes for the city at Former Councilman B. F. Coriell's dinner Wednesday night. There is reason to believe that he will deal with that subject in his annual message to the Common Council which is expected at the meeting Monday night.

The proprietor of several breakfast foods has made a success of each by advertising extensively in the newspapers, relates the Philadelphia Record. As a result of his vast experience he says: "Any food or any other article which people can use will sell well if well advertised in the newspapers."

Sarah Potofsky, a New York girl, has been sentenced to Blackwell's Island because of her fondness to kick, especially in the shins. She might be put to use registering a few "kicks" against the inadequate street car facilities of the Metropolitan Traction Company.

There doesn't seem a great deal of difference between 1902 and 1903, does there? But there has been quite a change since a year ago. Just look over the city and see if you don't notice the improvement in the city at large over the conditions of a twelve month ago.

When the Legislature convenes this month, the familiar face of Senator Charles A. Reed will be missed in the upper house. His seat will be occupied by a Democrat for the first time in a good many years.

The papeas are telling of a New York opera singer who lost $3,000 at poker in one sitting. In his adversary's case it was another example of getting money by high-handed methods.

How many New Years resolutions did you make? Have you broken any yet?

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Brokaw, of Whitehouse, have been visiting friends in Plainfield for a few days.

Miss Elsie Newman and William Giles, of Asbury Park, were the guests of Miss Hattie E. Wood, of Richmond street, New Year's Day.

Joseph Howatt, of Ashville, N. C., came to Plainfield yesterday to see his aged father, William Howatt, of Grove street, who is quite feeble.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Bright, of New York, have returned home after a visit with Mrs. Bright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, of East Front street.

Charles D. Whitall, of East Fifth street, who has been ill at his home for the past three weeks and whose life was dispaired of on several occasions, is now reported to be improving.

To Meet All Demands.

McDonough Brothers, coal dealers, of 222 Madison avenue, wish to announce to the coal-consuming people of Plainfield that they are prepared to do a larger business in 1903 than in any former year since the firm was organized. It will be remembered that during the great strike, when nearly all other yards in the city were out of coal, this firm was obliged to tak care of nearly the whole trade of Plainfield; consequently extensive improvements were required in the receiving and delivery systems so that now they are able to meet any demand the public may make on them for coal. See advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Quarantined on Farm.

A colored man, employed by Noah Runyon on the latter's farm at Stelton, was taken ill Sunday with smallpox. He is now quarantined in one of Mr. Runyon's tenement houses on the farm and a New Brunswick physician is caring for him.

LITERARY.

The feature of the January "Everybody's" is a new "Arabian Nights" story found recently by Dr. Seybold, of the University of Tubingen, among the Arabic manuscripts of the late Consul Wetzstein of Damascus. Mrs. Bessie VanVorst describes her experience in factories in Chicago, being the last article of the series of "The Woman that Toils." Juliet Wilbor Tompkins contributes a most interesting study of "The Personality of Helen Gould." In "Tragedies of Steamboat Histories," G. W. Ogden tells some dramatic stories of life on the Mississippi. "Mrs. Dazzledick's at Home," the third of the "Unemployed Rich," series, describes the typical New York society woman on the search for sensational entertainment. There is a vivid account of the personality of Andrew Jackson and the scene at Calhoun's supper party at "The Indian Queen" in Washington, in "Great Days in Great Careers," by Alfred Henry Lewis. David Graham Phillips describes "How Roosevelt became President." There are a number of good vital short stories of real interest.

Troublesome Numbers.

Residents of Webster place are complaining loudly of the manner in which the greater part of the houses on that thoroughfare are numbered. In one block, supposed to be for the seven hundreds, an inspection shows the leading numeral in nearly every instance to be a 4. The others being correct, the result is confusing in the superlative degree.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The majority of the Sunday-schools in this city used Fowler's candies at the Christmas festivals. It was another demonstration that his confections are popular. In every instance they gave satisfaction as they have for years past.

In making New Year's resolves, was clothing forgotten? If so, delay no longer in appointing Harry Werner your outfitter for the coming twelve months at least. It will be no tsak to remain true to the purpose as his stock will bind you.

Meissner's Hand Laundry, on Watchung avenue, is perhaps the only place in town where particular care is taken with delicate fabrics. Their famous domestic finish on stiff bosomed shorts is a delight to the most fastidious.

M. C. Dobbins has for years made a specialty of the finest grades of cigars and tobaccos and his assortment of pipes is inferior to none in this city. All the cigars are not only hand made but are absolutely free from any flavoring whatever.

There is no better way to start the New Year than to have your feet well covered with the best shoes. If you trade with John H. Doane, of West Front street, you are sure to find just the kind of shoes you want and you will not pay an exorbitant price for them.

No sooner had the holiday retail buying season closed than Powlison & Jones began laying in their entire new stock. It is now as complete as before Christmas and abounds with new patterns, unique designs and attractive bargains. Now is the time to furnish the house.

During the holiday season hundreds of people found pretty and dainty gifts at the Oriental tea store on West Front street, and many people became acquainted with this marvelous store for the first time. The varied line of oriental goods is very attractive and the prices just the same as those in New York.

Hill & Shupp's employes are now busily engaged in taking account of stock, but this does not interfere with the sale of the fine goods now being offered at this store. Every department is being rapidly filled with new goods and the patrons of this store will continue to find just what they want at reasonable prices. Several improvements are also being made in the store, the cloak department having been placed at a more convenient point.

The Sun's Superiority.

The New York Sun has proved its superiority by securing within the past few years almost the entire commutor element of New Jersey as its readers. This has been done mainly by its accurate accounts, tersely told, its news columns and opinions dealing with events of national as well as local importance. The high mental calibre of its readers is also another proof that it is the peer of all New York dailies. They know that when they want the news that can be relied upon, they read it in The Sun.

Gone Into Business Here.

Milton C. Hand, oldest son of Captain William Hand, has removed his family from Jersey City, where he has been with one firm for nearly fifteen years. Mr. Hand has associated himself with his father in the general storage business and his moving of furniture, machinery, etc. He is a skillful man at the business and will be of valuable aid to his father and brother in their business affairs.

Orchestra of Firemen.

An orchestra has been organized by the members of the fire department at headquarters, and during the winter months they will spend much of their time in holding little private concerts in the parlors of the headquarters, East Second street. F. C. Finigan is the leader of the orchestra. Among the instruments will be a trombone, a flute and several stringed instruments.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Summons have been issued in Justice Hand's court in the contract case of the New York Painting and Decorating Company against Hardingham. The papers are returnable January 7.

Blaze in Chimney.

The fire department was summoned to the house of David P. Hall, of Madison avenue, yesterday morning, for a blaze in the chimney. It was put out with two extinguishers.

A Blow in the Back.

An overcoat is a necessary nuisance and the tendency to take it off on warmish days in late autumn and winter is as strong as it is unwise. A treacherous wind hits you in the back and the next morning you have lumbago. Rub well and often with Perry Davis' Painkiller and you will be astonished to find how quickly all soreness is banished. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

THE MOHAVE INDIAN

He Is the Lowest Type to Be Found in the Southwest.

In Former Years Members of This Tribe Indulged in Cannibalistic Orgies—Short Talk with an Old Sinner.

[Special Arizona Letter.]

IT HAS long been a question with students as to whether any of the Indians now living in United States territory were ever cannibals in historic times. There is such a natural horror in the human breast at the idea of one man eating the flesh of another for food that there seems to be a general reluctance to even believe that the Indians of our country were ever guilty of so loathsome and terrible a practice. Far be it from me to attempt to change this laudable spirit of pride, and few would dare to charge me with ever doing a thing to belittle the Indians of America. I have sung their praises too often to be thus misjudged. But facts are facts, and, besides being stubborn things, they should be known if one would rightly judge and understand. I know of but few instances where it has ever been charged that North American Indians were cannibals, and it is not always certain that those so charged were guilty. It was long believed, and is yet by many, that the Seris, who inhabit the Tiburon island, in the Gulf of California, were cannibals, but Dr. W. T. McGee, the acting director of the United States bureau of ethnology, who visited them in 1894, thus disposes of the charge. After reciting his various talks with them on the subject, he summarizes their responses as follows:

1. They are not cannibals.
2. They do not eat any portion or portions of the body of an enemy slain in war.
3. They do not eat human flesh in a sacrificial way, and,
4. They specifically denied having eaten the flesh of the two Americans whom they confessed to having killed the year before.

To all these statements Dr. McGee says he is inclined to give his credence.

But if individual confession goes for anything, the photograph here presented of a Mohave Indian is that of a cannibal. This old fellow openly boasts at the dances of his people of his feasts of human flesh. He lives on the Mohave Indian reservation on the Colorado river, between CLAD IN RABBIT SKIN.

Needles and Yuma, where a large number of this tribe resides. They are without doubt the most degraded of all Indians of the southwest, holding ideas that are repulsive to every moral sense of the white man. For instance, they believe that God is dead, and that His ghost or spirit is the devil, and that this devil lives in the Needles mountains near where the Santa Fe bridge crosses the Colorado river from Arizona into California. There never was such a devil as these Mohaves have pictured, for this "Old Nick" is both male and female, and he sits in judgment on every spirit of the dead Mohaves and determines what share of Heaven they shall have.

Their looseness of morals is past belief, so that one is quite prepared to believe the old man's horrible stories of his murders and cannibalism. To look at him as he tells his story is quite enough. His eyes roll in a kind of ecstatic frenzy and he licks his lips as if enjoying his feast in remembrance. He fairly seems to glory in his debasement.

Listen to him as he tells his revolting story, while I try to picture his appearance, of medium hight, well boned and muscular, he is evidently a strong athletic fellow, though now old enough to have many gray hairs. Different from most Indians he has a slight beard and mustache, both of which are partially white. His face has a coarse, cruel, tigerish look, and his eyes positively gleam green when he is excited and talking over his past experiences. To add to the terror of his looks he fastens a quill or piece of stick through the septum of his nostrils, and then with rythmic swing of head and body corresponding to a rule rhythm in his speech he tells his tale.

It is of the long ago, before any white man had established himself in the Mohave country. There was no reservation, and the "big father" at Washington did not know of their existence, nor did they know anything about him. There had been a few white men up the river. One came in a big boat that belched out fire and smoke. (This was undoubtedly Lieut. Ives' steamer, which went up the river in 1857-8). Mexicans and whites lived at Ehrenberg, and La Paz, and mined for gold and silver, but that was further down the river. Every now and again some man more eager for the glittering rock and the stuff he burned out of it, would strike out, sometimes alone, and sometimes with two or three companions would roam off into the hilly country, and the desert near to the land of the Mohaves. Somehow their presence would invariably be betrayed. It might be their trail would be seen by some one out hunting, or in the mountains for seeds and grasses; or it might be the smoke of their camp fires revealed their presence. Once it was known they were there the Mohaves would have a council at the camp fire and certain young warriors would be sent to see whether the white man or men could be surprised and slain or captured. Then in detail the old man would describe how, under the cover of night, he and his comrades would steal upon the solitary wretches, as they sat around their camp fire, cooking their meager meal, or perhaps they would wait until sleep had wrapped his garment of oblivion around them. Then, as stealthily as the cat creeps upon the unsuspecting mouse, these red devils would secretly crawl upon their hapless victims, and either stun them with one or two fierce blows of a stone axe, or transfix them with flint or agate tipped arrows.

After showing how the poor murdered wretches were scalped, he would then describe the building of a fire, and the dismemberment of the white man. His breath was sucked from his dead lips in order that the white man's endurance might be communicated to his Indian slayer; his scalp was removed in order to hang it in the proper place in the captor's house, and so that he could be decorated with it in the war dances; if the white man had shown any spirit of defense or especial courage, his heart was first taken out and the blood drank and some of the flesh eaten raw. This was to give to the eater the courage of the man he had slain. The strange thing about that belief is that when a man so takes in the courage of his slain foe it is added to the courage he already possesses.

Then the choice bits would be torn from the body or cut with flint knives and thrown upon the burning coals, there to roast while the Indians danced and sang around the fire. When half cooked often they would wait no longer, but eat the horrible feast, while the blood flowed over hands and chin.

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Man beef!" When I queried how long it was since he had eaten any he drew a line in the sand and signified the length of his life from birth to now. Then cutting the line about in half he signified that never since that time had he touched human flesh.

To civilize such degraded specimens of humanity is hard, and I never think of that old man but my heart goes out to the men and women who are engaged in trying to elevate the Mohaves. Of course, the major part of the tribe are not to be classed in the same category as the old cannibal, but they are all pretty hard subjects upon which to work.

Some of the younger members are quite bright. The older ones, however, still stick tenaciously to old customs as can be seen by looking at the second photograph, where the rabbit skin blanket is still worn by the aged Indian, who was shivering with ague at the time the photo was taken.

ARTISTIC LUNCHEONS.

A Kimono Lunch a Dainty Way of Entertaining One's Friends.

For the woman whose acquaintance does not number many men the luncheon is an ideal way of paying off her social obligations.

From six to eight people are usually the limit for a luncheon, as such affairs partake rather of the intimate and informal. A most successful affair recently given by an original girl was called a kimono lunch. The guests dressed in Japanese kimonos, each in a different color. The round table was overhung by a huge Japanese umbrella, and the floral centerpiece, composed of chysanthemums, was placed in a gorgeous Japanese vase. All the china was of course Japanese, and the tablecloth was a quaintly marked square of matting. The dishes were European out of deference to the palates of the guests, but they were served by a Japanese maid with quaint oriental bows. At each place stood a tiny Japanese doll holding the name card. Little lacquer boxes filled with oriental sweetmeats were the souvenirs, and the ices were served in scarlet tea boxes of the small, gorgeously lettered, square size which can be bought at any Japanese store.

A KIMONO LUNCH.

A violet lunch recently carried out had for its center decoration a basket of sweet grass filled to overflowing with violets, the handle being tied with wide lavender satin. For the benefit of those whose incomes are not large I will state that artificial violets were mixed in with the real ones to help fill out in places where they did not show so much. Violet candies, violet paper frills on the croquettes and violet jelly with whipped cream all helped to carry out this dainty color scheme.

Now that the yellow and white dining room is all the vogue yellow luncheons in which eggs play a prominent part are popular. With white and gold china and yellow chrysanthemums a beautiful effect can be gained. It is one of the simplest color schemes.

THE DINING ROOM.

Up to Date Room Which May Offer Suggestions to Other Homes.

The smart and pretty dining room in the illustration has its beautiful woodwork and furniture of fumed oak, which is very popular just now, and its dark tones bring out the cheerful tints of the old rose plain tapestry which covers the walls. The electric lights are in the form of gilt candelabra placed along the wall. These have pretty shades of pale yellow.

There is a fur rug in front of the cheerful open fire. The elaborate ceiling is a pinkish yellow. The dining table adds to the comfortable appearance of the room. There are several fine family paintings on the walls. The prettily draped windows are ornamented with long jardinieres filled with plants.

FUMED OAK WOODWORK.

The New Coats.

Coats are trimmed with coarse venetian and other extra heavy lace in natural color or ecru or cream. Rarely is mat white used on any outside garment. Coats are indiscriminately made of velour, cloth, velutina, ribbed or plain, and fine Lyons velvet. They are long enough to train, short, close to the figure, loose and baggy, bloused and in Louis XVI. and many other styles. The long ones are naturally the most dressy, but there is something for every figure and purse. But the squirrel fur coats are relegated to automobiling.

Bric-a-Brac.

In the woman's department of the Mechanics' fair, in Boston, there was a placard with the words printed on it, "Does bric-a-brac give you enough real pleasure to pay for the time spent in dusting it?" Does it?

EVENING COIFFURE.

The Low Coil Finds Comparatively Few Wearers.

There is immense variety in the coiffure, but despite the lowering of the collar the low type of hairdressing has comparatively few followers. It is seen mostly in the evening. The tucked in pompadour arrangement with a cue at the back has been too extensively patronized to be much in favor with the smart woman, and it is certainly a fashion which lacks distinction when not completed by a handsome picture hat.

There is very little novelty in decorations for the hair, and the little wreaths of small flowers or foliage are still popular. The geisha arrangement of flowers is rather heavy. A cluster of rosebuds or violets with two or three wires headed by well cut stones which quiver with every movement has many admirers, and the wisp of tulle still has its adherents.

The coronet combs worn in front of the coil suggest the modified tiara, and the newest side and the back combs are thickly incrusted with gems.

A smart evening cloak is shown in the cut. It is made of pearl gray bengaline silk and maltese lace, with a lining of accordion plaited chiffon and lace.

OUT OF DOOR GARMENTS.

Smart Carriage Wraps—Fur Lined Coats.

The fur day and evening wraps are anything if not classic, and the effect of Greek and Roman draperies is aimed at in the manipulations of velvets and furs.

Some very lovely carriage wraps are made in cloth, but cloth is no longer represented by hard and serviceable fabrics. It has a beautiful and supple finish, which renders it most becoming as well as warm and cozy. In these wraps the pale pastel shades are much in evidence.

One wrap recently seen was of pale cream cloth lined with emerald green satin. It had a big collar of green panne, decorated with black and white bobs, and showed inner frills of lace and accordion plaited green chiffon. It was cut in the form of a coat of three-quarter length, stitched and strapped.

Some of the cloths, which have long hairy surfaces somewhat like zibeline, are smart for wraps.

Many warm and at the same time elegant coats are lined with squirrel, but the collar need not be necessarily of the same fur.

The garment in the cut follows this idea. It is of gray cloth lined with squirrel, but having a sable collar.

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By one o'clock all of these articles had been deposited, either in the various rooms or on the broad verandas. Luncheon was served on the yacht, and the crew returned to their task. Mr. Kent and Mr. Rockwell took a hand in the work; so did Sidney Hammond and Mr. Haven. Mr. Carmody took charge of the arrangement of the pictures, while Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent devoted his time to the perfection of the storeroom. Mr. Morton remained on board the yacht for awhile, and then rejoined the busy party. It was warm, but he entered into the spirit of the affair and was soon at work.

"You will find in one of the boxes a great assortment of linen clothing and other wear suitable to this climate," said Hestor. "There are cork helmets and all of the devices to protect you from the glare of the sun. There is also a gas engine and a small dynamo sufficient to run electric fans, which my men are now setting up in the powerhouse adjoining the storeroom. We will have it installed before night. Next year I am going to have electric lights, but this season we must put up with lamps. We will have things in shape so that we can sleep ashore to-night. We will take dinner on the yacht this evening, and this will be your last meal afloat for some time."

After dinner the tide had so far receded that Capt. Waters made ready to drop the "Shark" into deeper water. Hestor and his guests returned to shore, and the yacht glided out into the bay. Its great searchlight, later in the evening, swept around the amphitheater and aroused a chorus from birds and a roar from prowling animals. Mr. Pence declared he saw the flaming eyes of some wild beast through the palm trees, and was not at all reassured when Hestor informed him that it was nothing but a puma or mountain lion."

"They are as common as rabbits around here," he said. "If you leave them alone they will not bother you. They probably smell the meat in the storeroom."

All were wearied from the day's work, and at a little after nine o'clock it was decided to retire for the night. Hestor shook hands with all and grasped Sidney Hammond's hand with an earnest clasp. He again expressed the hope that they would enjoy their visit, and bidding them good-night retired to his room.

At five o'clock the following morning the captives were aroused by a great outcry, and hammering at the doors of their rooms. They found Mr. Pence rushing up and down the veranda, wringing his hands and moaning in terror.

"The boat is gone!" he cried. "The 'Shark' has gone away and left us! We are lost! We are lost! We are lost!"

"Oh, shut up!" said Mr. Kent and he went back to his couch, and was soon asleep.

Mr. Walter B. Hestor, owner of the "Shark," and special envoy and correspondent of The New York Record, was not in his room. There was no trace of the "Shark" in "Morton's Bay." The millionaires were marooned.

CHAPTER XV.

ON SOCIAL ISLAND.

Had a visitor dropped in on the eight occupants of the Hestor bungalow at seven o'clock that Wednesday morning of the tenth day of May, he would not have imagined they were marooned. Even Mr. Pence had recovered his spirits if not his courage. The cooling waters of a bath infused new life into the millionaire castaways, and at six o'clock all of them, except the phlegmatic Mr. Kent, were assembled in the main room of the bungalow; that gentleman making his appearance half an hour later.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Palmer J. Morton, "we will have plenty of time to discuss our situation and to formulate plans. After consulting my stomach, I am of the opinion that the first problem is that of breakfast."

"Yes, and unlike many castaways of history and of romance, we should not have great difficulty in satisfying our hunger," observed Mr. Rockwell.

"Mr. Vincent, you are familiar with our resources in the matter of food," said Mr. Morton. "Suppose you see what can be done in the way of breakfast. I imagine there is plenty of cold stuff which will serve for the present. Later we will organize our forces and perhaps do better."

"I will help Mr. Vincent," said Sidney Hammond. "You gentlemen retire to the veranda and give us the use of the dining room and kitchen for half an hour or so, and we promise you will not starve."

While the others strolled down to the landing where the "Shark" once rested, Sidney and Vincent took possession of the culinary part of the bungalow. They soon found the table linen, and Sidney arranged the plates, knives, forks, spoons and cruets, while Vincent was busy building a fire in the kitchen range. From the cave Vincent produced two dozen eggs, a part of a large stock which had been kept in the refrigerators of the "Shark," and which were so packed that they would remain fresh for weeks. He brought up ham and bacon and potatoes. There was also a dozen loaves of bread from the stores of the yacht, and plenty of sea biscuits. The coffee pot was soon boiling, and its pleasing aroma filled the kitchen. There was an unlimited supply of condensed milk.

"I have always bragged about being a good cook, and here is where I am put to the test," said Sidney, as he sliced several loaves of bread and prepared to make toast. Vincent remembered there was a supply of grape-fruit and oranges.

"Serve both of them," said Sidney. "That means finger bowls. Have we any finger bowls?"

"Sure," answered Vincent, as he made them ready.

In less than half an hour Sidney stood in front of the bungalow and rang a dinner bell which had been found by the inquisitive Mr. Vincent. In the meantime Sidney stepped to the rear of the building and plucked a big bouquet of flowers, which now adorned the table. A massive water service, silver butter dishes, and an imposing array of glass and china were set off by the spotless linen and flowers.

"Be seated, gentlemen," said Sidney.

"This is magic," said Mr. Rockwell. "If your menu is as good as your service, we are indeed fortunate."

All were surprised and delighted. Sidney touched a button and set two electric fans in motion. They found the grape-fruit delicious, and Mr. Kent declared that the oranges were the best he ever had tasted. A few minutes later L. Sylvester Vincent entered with a huge platter of poached eggs, cooked to perfection. Sidney followed with crisp bits of bacon and a generous installment of broiled ham. Mr. Morton clapped his hands and proposed three cheers and a vote of thanks for the cooks. They were given with a will. Then all fell on the viands. But the cooks were not yet through. They served French fried potatoes and Saratoga chips, vast piles of buttered toast, jars of jam, and to crown all, Vincent brought in the steaming coffee pot and made the feast complete.

"We have no cream, but this condensed milk is not bad," said Sidney.

COLOSSUS OF FINANCE.

J. Pierpont Morgan Is One of Least Obtrusive of New York's Many Money Kings.

The colossus of the financial world to-day is J. Pierpont Morgan, the man whose wealth cannot be computed, but with all his mighty power financially he is but a common sort of person after all. Seen about the streets, he would attract no more than passing attention. He is not remarkable in appearance. His clothing is neither rich nor ornate and he looks as any prosperous business man might. Jostling among the crowds at a ferry recently, he looked as much of the common herd as any one and would have passed unnoticed had not some person who knew his features pronounced his name in a whisper, and this was enough to make those in hearing distance stand in awe. He stands among other millionaires like a tall pine in a stretch of hazel brush, and his power is more kingly. His every movement is watched by other financiers with an anxiety that borders on agony. He can make or break men with one word, and yet with all his strength he is not arrogant or pompous. In the recent coal strike he loomed portentously, and it is said that it was his hint to the coal operators that finally ended the strike, yet if he is able to control such men and even greater and more powerful he gives no outward sign, but goes his way quietly and unobtrusively.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.
(Recognized the World Over as the Colossus of Finance.)

FOWER IN THE WEST.

Edward C. Rosewater, Editor of the Omaha Bee, Is a Ruling Factor in Politics.

One of the brainiest and successful self-made men of the west is Mr. Edward C. Rosewater, of Omaha. Mr. Rosewater began his business career as a telegraph operator at Murphreesboro, Tenn. During the civil war he was attached to the staff of Gen. Pope for military telegraph service, and was later assigned to the war department at Washington. During this period he met President Lincoln, and the two became close friends. On January 1, 1863, Mr. Rosewater was assigned to personally transmit the original emancipation proclamation from the president to the army. He is also famous for the part he played in securing a postal telegraphic service. Several years ago, at the request of Postmaster General Wanamaker, he made a personal investigation of the postal telegraph systems of England, Germany, France and Austria, and was the sole American representative at the postal telegraph congress in 1897. He is the proprietor and founder of the Omaha Bee, one of the most powerful newspapers of the trans-Mississippi region.

EDWARD C. ROSEWATER.
(Omaha Editor Who Is Something of a Partisan Warwick.)

Forced to Take Pot Luck.

The following story is being told of A. J. Montague, the governor of Virginia: On one of his campaigns through the western counties of the state he was compelled to wait a couple of hours at a small wayside station for his train. Thinking to kill time, he sauntered across the street to a small wooden shanty which bore on its signboard the imposing legend: "Imperial Hotel. Snacks Served at All Hours." "Who are you?" he asked of a ragged negro youth leaning against the door. "I'se de waiterer, sah." "Well, can I get something to eat here?" "Oh, yes, boss." "Such as what?" "Sech as 'tis, sah," was the reply.

LEE WAS TOO QUICK.

With Rifle in Hand He Won the Girl He Loved.

Unwilling Father and Brothers Forced to Be Witnesses—Romance Begins with Laugh and Ends in Marriage.

In Oregon there lived a young girl with three large strapping brothers and her father and mother. The brothers, it was current opinion in the locality, could whip their weight in grizzly bear. As they were called "chips off the old block," it was to be assumed that the father was of the same type.

In this family the daughter, Margaret Black, was regarded as the idol—also the slave. Margaret was to be worshiped so long as she obeyed. When she wanted to disobey then she was to be ruled. It was another case of Lorna Doone.

Margaret's obedience was not a matter of dispute until one day when she happened to walk farther than usual into the great woods around the Black home and lost her way. She walked and ran through the underbrush without finding a familiar path until she was a thoroughly frightened little girl. Then she woefully sat down facing the prospects of a night in the woods.

In this predicament she was found by a young man who carried a rifle under his arm. He was not lost. That was evident. He smiled when the girl confessed that she was. Of course he would take her home.

"I am Roland Lee," he said. "Why, I live within ten miles of your home."

To walk ten miles and more out of the way just to see that a pretty girl found her way home was nothing—not in Oregon.

After that the disobedience of Margaret began. It would have been something wonderful the way they managed to meet in the woods if that were not as old a way as the story itself is old.

When the three large brothers and the father who claimed Margaret discovered this they found that they had not been consulted, and that was reason enough to oppose it. They found that they did not like Roland

"I AM ROLAND LEE."

Lee. They discovered an unimaginable number of reasons why he would not do, all of which were communicated to Margaret, only to be received in the usual fashion. The more they argued the more the girl decided that he would do.

Finally the family brought matters to a crisis by locking Margaret in her room.

Lee walked about the woods for some time without finding Margaret before he learned that she was a prisoner. He also learned that he was the cause of it. Being a young man of decided convictions, upon which he was accustomed to act promptly, he followed his usual custom in this case. He went to the nearest town and secured a minister.

"I want you to marry me," he said.

"With pleasure," said the clergyman, "but where is the bride?"

"We'll have to get her. Can you stand a long drive?"

The minister said he could. Lee got his rifle and they set out for the Black home.

Lee and his clergyman walked up to the door and knocked. The eldest brother threw open the door, revealing the whole family seated at the table. Margaret had been allowed out of the room to eat dinner, and she had been sitting silently, refusing to discuss her love affairs with her jailers.

The three large brothers and the father had threatened to thrash Lee on sight if he came near the house, and when Margaret saw him appear suddenly in the doorway she jumped from her chair, expecting to see her lover set upon by the fighting brothers and put in a condition for the undertaker.

Nothing of that sort happened. Lee was too quick for them. Before one could move, he had his rifle in position where it could be used rapidly and effectively.

"I secured a license before I spoke to you," said Lee to the clergyman. "Here it is. Now, Margaret, if you are ready. The witnesses will please keep quiet and remain standing."

Margaret came out of the house and stood before the minister, hand in hand with Lee, who used his left to keep the rifle pointed in the direction of the witnesses.

When the family got back to the house and the brothers looked at each other, suggesting a chase, the eldest said:

"What's the use. I guess he's the right stuff."

MARRIED BY JUSTICE.

Miss Mary Wilson and John Newman Were Wedded Yesterday.

The office of Justice Huff was the scene yesterday afternoon of a very quiet wedding, when Miss Mary Wilson, of South Second street, and John Newman, of West Third street, were joined in the bonds of holy wedlock by the accommodating justice. The bride and groom were accompanied by Miss Elsena McGrath and Joseph McGrath, both of this city, as witnesses. After tying the knot, the couple received the hearty congratulations of Justice Huff and the witnesses. The couple will reside in this city.

Ready To Dig Cellar.

"The Celler Gang" of the borough, which agreed to dig the basement for the new fire house when it was once began, is waiting anxiously for the first stakes to be driven for the fire house. Recorder Doud, who is the chairman of the committee, says that his men will live up to their agreements as soon as the appropriation is secured with which to start the erection of the house.

Gifts of Vacations.

The employes at Woodhull & Martin's store appreciate very much the firm's New Year's gift to them—a week's vacation with pay. The vacations will commence next week, after the taking account of stock, several clerks going at a time. This gift is very acceptable after a busy holiday rush and will give all an excellent opportunity to rest up.

New Tires for Chief's Wagon.

Chief Doan's wagon was placed in service, yesterday, after being equipped with a complete new set of rubber tires. One of the old ones was thrown on the way to a fire a few weeks ago and when about to be replaced was found to be in a very poor condition. The others were examined and discovered to be almost useless and the new set was ordered.

RECORDER'S RECEPTION.

Two Visitors Departed After New Year's Greetings and the Other One Left $5.

Recorder Doud held a New Year's reception last evening at the borough lock up when there were a large number of people present. The reception was held between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock and among those who received were Chief Marshal Campbell and Officer Wise.

Three were presented to the Recorder in person, and after expressing their best wishes for a Happy New Year they departed. These were Fred Pasche and one Hoffman. Walter Martin, as a token of his respect for the host and as a more substantial wish for a Happy New Year to the Magistrate, presented the Recorder with a $5 gold piece. The Recorder accepted the presentation with much feeling and turned it over to the borough Collector for safe keeping.

Almost An Explosion.

Just before closing his store last evening, E. S. F. Randolph, proprietor of the Watchung Pharmacy, went to the cellar where he found a copious flow of gas. He was in the act of striking a match when he noticed the odor and then he opened the doors and windows to allow the place to air out. The gas is believed to have come from the furnace.

Metal Splinter in Hand.

While engaged at his work in the Pond Tool Works, yesterday afternoon, William A. Smith, of Manning avenue, got a metallic splinter in his left palm. The wound did not bother him at all until late in the afternoon when he went home suffering severe pain. An examination by a physician revealed the fact that blood poison was appearing.

Bears His Photo.

Physicial Director C. E. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., is the recipient of a novel New Year's card from Germany. The card is from George C. M. Smith a former gymnasium leader who is now studying music at Wiemar, Germany. It is a private mailing card and on the back of it is an excellent photo of Mr. Smith.

Sporting Life Tells of An Amusing Incident Regarding a Well-Known Plainfielder.

The Sporting Life, of recent date, published an interesting story concerning Charles Smith, well-known as "Dutchy." It relates an amusing incident and is as follows:

"One of the most noted characters at the traps a few years ago was Charles Smith, of Plainfield, familiarly known as 'Dutchy.' He was one of those fat, round, jolly fellows, who went to a tournament for all the pleasure to be found there. He was also a very good shot at both live pigeons and flying targets. He never lost a chance for a joke, and was willing to take one in turn. He always had some unique costume when at a shoot to attract attention. 'Billy' Fieles, a noted dog fancier, of Christiana, Pa., to advertise his business had the picture of a setter dog painted on the back of his shooting blouse, with the words, 'This is my business,' printed underneath. At the next big tournament the dog man attended he was astonished to see 'Dutchy' Smith, with his great, broad back covered with a shooting blouse on which was painted a huge, foaming glass of beer and and underneath were the words: 'This is my business.' Smith, by the way, was the proprietor of a saloon.

"Another jovial wit was Seth Clover, of Erie, Pa. When 'Dutchy' and Clover got together it was as good as a vaudeville show. Smith often wore a 'chocolate drop' derby hat, several sizes too small, which he fastened to his head with strings. With this head covering he often shot through a three days' meet.

"During a reunion between Smith and Clover a match was talked over; these two were always talking of shooting for a million dollars a side, anyway. Well, after a great deal of bantering of the wittiest kind, they agreed to shoot a match on 'Al' Heritage's grounds, in Jersey City, at twenty-five live birds, for $100 a side, but 'Dutchy' Smith was to furnish the birds. Clover was much the better shot at that time, and told all his friends that he was going to have a snap with that Dutchman's money.

"The day for the race was a fine one, and a large crowd gathered at Heritage's shooting grounds. Clover asked for a few practice birds, but Smith declined, as he said he only had just enough for the match, and all were trained birds.

"When it was time to start the match Smith brought out five wooden boxes about two feet long and a foot square in place of the regular pigeon traps. Clover wanted to know if he was going to shoot at South American eagles. When the crate of birds was brought forth and the traps secretly filled Clover was sent to the score, and many bets were offered that he would kill. Smith offered to bet $50 more that Clover would not beat him, but he admitted that he might tie him.

"Well, a box was opened at Clover's call, and instead of a pigeon a tame duck waddled out. Clover made a howl, but Smith said he had the right to select the birds, and he had picked out ducks. It is needless to say that the match was not finished, and the crowd all had a good time at Clover's expense."

THREW PILLOWS.

One Pillow Started a Conflagration Which Threatened Serious Consequences This Morning.

A playful pillow fight between Raymond Cutter, the six-year-old son of Fred S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue, and his aunt, Miss Lizzie Cutter, resulted in a fire at their home, this morning, which threatened serious consequences.

The two were throwing pillows in Miss Cutter's room when one propelled by Raymond struck the gas jet, causing it to swing. A set of lace curtains was ignited and in a moment flames were all about one end of the room. Cries brought Mr. Cutter and through his presence of mind in using a fire extinguisher the blaze was quelled without calling the department. Part of the woodwork was scorched and the curtains were entirely burned.

POSTOFFICE WAS ROBBED

Safe at New Market Postoffice Blown Up With Nitro-Glycerine Saturday Night.

GOT BUT LITTLE BOOTY

The Burglars Also Visited Charley Moon, Dunellen's Laundryman, and Nearly Frightened Him to Death—Total Plunder Was $6 in Cash—No Clue to Gang.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 5—This section of Middlesex county received an unwelcome visitation from a band of burglars, Saturday night. Two places were visited, a local laundry presided over by Charlie Moon and the New Market postoffice. The safe in the latter place, which is located in William Jenner's grocery store, was blown to smithereens with a heavy charge of nitro-glycerine. For their trouble the band secured a total of $6, only $2 of which was secured from the wreck of the postoffice.

Just when the safe blowing was accomplished is not known, as the discovery was not made until morning by DeWitt Giles, a milkman. Going past the place early yesterday morning, he noticed the door of the store in a dismantled state. Looking closer he saw the ruin wrought and, divining the cause, summoned Postmaster Charles S. Day, who lives directly opposite.

An inspection showed the safe to be a total wreck, the force of the explosion having splintered it into a thousand pieces. One huge mass of steel was forced through the floor of the building into the cellar. All of the postmaster's reports for the year just closed were destroyed as were a number of his private papers. The $2 taken belonged to his brother, George Day, of Dunellen. No one in the village heard the shock and it is presumed it was done while a train was passing on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The robbery in Dunellen was accomplished at 10 o'clock in the evening and was a daring piece of work.

A seemingly well dressed fellow, wearing a slouch hat, walked into the place and by firing off a revolver frightened Proprietor Moon into hysterics. Moon retreated into a back room but neglected to take his cash box. The stranger didn't. Neither did he lose any time in getting away and hasn't been seen since.

ANOTHER DEBUTANTE IS RECEIVED BY SOCIETY

Miss Mary Wadsworth Formally Introduced at Reception Given Saturday.

MANY GUESTS PRERENT

SPACIOUS HOME OF W. B. WADSWORTH WAS DECORATED WITH GREAT SKILL.

Beautiful Effects in Rooms Where Guests Were Received—Those Who Assisted Mrs. Wadsworth and Her Daughter Receiving.

Miss Mary Wadsworth was formally introduced into society at a reception which was given in her honor by her mother, Mrs. William B. Wadsworth, at her home on West Eighth street, Saturday afternoon, when there were 500 guests present from this and other cities. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion and between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock there was a constant stream of carriages coming and going from the spacious home of the debutante.

A little after 4 o'clock the guests began to arrive and they were received by Mrs. Wadsworth and Miss Wadsworth, assisted by Mrs. Charles D. Wadsworth, of New York; Mrs. R. F. Tilney, of Brooklyn; Mrs. J. F. Harman, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Mrs. Arthur Murphy, of this city; Miss Wadsworth, of New York; Miss Jessie Tilney, of Brooklyn; Miss Marion Page, of Paterson; Miss Edith Simmons, of Brooklyn; Miss Sallie Tannehill, of Englewood; Miss Katherine Forest, of New York; Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, of Netherwood; Miss Elsie Harman, Miss Marjorie Fleming and Miss Helen Martin, of this city.

The debutante was attired in a becoming gown of white chiffonette with rare lace trimmings. Mrs. Wadsworth wore black silk and all those who assisted in receiving wore gowns of white.

The decorations in the parlors were very beautiful and were arranged with much skill and taste. The color effects in the library were of green and while those of the drawing room were pink and green. The sweet odor of narcissus permeated the atmosphere of the library while in the parlor pink roses and carnations adorned the mantel and covered the tables. About the walls were draped long cables of pine needles, producing a striking effect. The halls were draped festoons of Christmas greens and in the dining room, where a supper was served to the receiving party, the decorations were of red and green, in harmony with the holiday season. Pretty red candle shades hid a dozen or more candles set in dainty candelabra and in the center of the table were arranged a large centrepiece of holly and southern smilax tied with large red ribbons. About the walls of the room were draped in graceful festoons numerous ropes of Christmas greens which were gathered at different points with red ribbons.

The supper served to those who assisted in receiving was an elaborate one. During the entire afternoon music was discoursed by a stringed orchestra from out of town.

The reception was a brilliant one and among those who were present were prominent society folk from this city and from New York, Brooklyn, Englewood, Paterson and other places.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR L. T. L. CHILDREN

The Last of Christmas Entertainments Was Held Last Saturday Evening.

BUT NOT THE LEAST

MANY RECITATIONS WERE GIVEN BY THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Loyal Temperance Legion Held Its Entertainment in W. C. T. U. Rooms—Many Friends of the Legion Were Present.

The last of the Christmas entertainments was held Saturday evening in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union rooms on Madison avenue, under the auspices of the Loyal Temperance Legion, of which Miss May E. Howlett is the superintendent. The fact that it was the last of these affairs does not signify that it was by any means the least. On the contrary it was one of the most pleasant for the young temperance workers and their many friends who were present in large numbers. The rooms were appropriately decorated with evergreens, while a large, handsomely decorated tree added interest. A large "Y" made of greens hung from a chandelier. In the decorations Miss Howlett was assisted by Mrs. Ira West and Mrs. C. M. Nagle.

The programme opened with a welcome song, after which Mrs. Elizabeth Parse, president of the W. C. T. U., gave a few earnest words of welcome to all. The programme was made up of recitations and songs, all of which were well given. The recitations were as follows:

"The First Christmas Song," Miss Elizabeth Frank; "The Little Dreamer," Miss Anna Vail; "Seeing Things," Charles Schuck; "Away Up North," Miss Mildred Hand, Miss Ethel Vail, Miss Anna Vail, Miss Cora Gray; "Hanging Committee," Miss Mildred Dennis; "Gingerbread Man," Miss Ethel Schuck; "Baby Band," Miss Mabel Seals," Miss Mildred Dennis, Miss Ethel Vail, Miss Clara Weber and Miss Anna Vail. In addition to these numbers there were songs as follows: "Christ Was Once a Little Baby," Miss Anna Vail, Miss Ethel Vail, Miss Clara Weber and Miss Cora Gray; "Lambs of Bethlehem's Flock," Miss Mabel Seals, Miss Rhoda Dennis, Miss Anna Vail, Miss Lizzie Frank, Miss Ethel Vail and Raymond Mosher.

There were also several songs by the Legion and a feature was the zither solos by Miss Lizzie Frank. In conclusion there was a song, "Jesus, Tender Shepherd," by a hidden choir, "Home, Sweet Home," on the zither by Miss Frank and a "Good-Night," selection by Miss Cora Gray and Miss Ethel Vail. Still another feature of the programme was the short address by Mrs. R. K. Case.

After the rendition of the programme, the superintendent and her assistants distributed candy and oranges among the children and a social time followed. Many complimentary words were spoken concerning the progress of the work in the Legion and the new year opens with bright prospects for much success.

VISITORS AT HOSPITAL.

Two Delegations Visited There and Sang for the Patients.

Several young men and women from Trinity Reformed church went to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday where they rendered several selections for the patients. A short while after they left a delegation of young men from Hope chapel arrived at the hospital where they also sang. After rendering a number of hymns they repaired to the ward where James Montross, the ball player, is confined suffering with rheumatism and spent an hour with him.

More Wire Gone.

The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company sustained another heavy loss of trolley wire, Saturday night. Thieves operated between Picton and Rahway and stripped 1,200 feet of the power strand from the poles. There is no clue to the perpetrators and the company officials are almost at their wit's ends as to how to stop further depredations.

Joint Installation.

The officers-elect of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, will be installed jointly Tuesday evening, January 13. It is expected that there will be a number of visitors present.

GRADUATION EXERCISES AT SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Primary Class Into Junior Department—Infant Class to the Primary Grade.

AT TRINITY REFORMED

INTERESTING EXERCISES WERE HELD YESTERDAY ASTERNOON.

Graduating Classes Gave An Idea of What They Had Learned and Diplomas Were Presented to the Graduates by the Pastor.

Graduation exercises were held yesterday afternoon after the regular session of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school when the members of the primary department were graduated into the junior department and the members of the infant department were promoted into the primary class with appropriate exercises. In order to secure accommodations for the class which graduated from the primary room a new department had to be organized and Mrs. John Scofield will hereafter be the superintendent of that class. There were many present at the exercises.

After a few remarks by superintendent of the school, F. E. Smith, the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph D., spoke a few words to the children congratulating them on the completion of a year's study in the lessons of the Bible.

The graduates of the primary department recited the creed, the Lord's Prayer, all the books of the Bible and some of the passages of Scripture. The distribution of diplomas then followed and each name was called out by the pastor as follows: Florence Wilson, Edna M. Cole, Helen Smith, Emily Templin, Helen Nischwitz, Gertrude Enander, Marian Norris, Julia Dilts, Bertha Hoagland, Cora Gano, Willie Bush, Arthur Thorn, Earle Huff, Clarence Zimmer, Raymond Scribner, George Lee, Roland Reighton and George Cole.

After the diplomas had been distributed Mrs. J. M. Tier, the superintendent of the primary department, made a few farewell remarks to her departing class after which Mrs. John Scofield welcomed them into the junior department with a few well chosen remarks. Then the class repaired to its new quarters at the rear of the main school.

The class promoted from the infant department to the primary grade was presented and after a short exhibition of the year's work the pastor distributed the promotion certificates. These are the graduates: Christina Carroll, Albertina Brown, Clara Lee, Ethel Campbell, Ida Saums, Gladys Mead, Adelaide Cole, Helen Leighthouser, Nellis Meeker, Ada Smith, Charles Lindsley, Walter Fisher, Ralph Runyon, Raymond Roth, Benjamin Cooley, Ernest Higgins and Walter Zimmer. As the new class entered its place in the primary room it was welcomed by the superintendent, Mrs. Tier. The doxology was sung by the new primary class and the graduation exercises came to a close.

Miss Mary Berkaw, who has been the assistant in the infant department during the past year, will assist Mrs. Scofield in the junior department while Miss J. H. Pessinger, assisted by Miss Addie VanCleef, will teach the infant class. Mrs. J. M. Tier and Miss Minnie Wyman will continue as teachers of the primary department.

Secretary E. H. Bird read the report for the day and said that there were officers and assistants present, 9; teachers, 4C; Bible class, 108; main school, 170; junior department, 11; primary department, 116; and twenty-five visitors. The collection for the day amounted to $19.39.

An interesting feature of the day's exercises was an announcement made by the pastor that the members of the primary department had raised $1.86, which they had consecrated to the Arabian Mission. The account of how the money was raised was interesting. A year ago Miss Pessinger gave ten pennies to as many of her girls in the primary class with the instruction to each to make as good use of her "talent" as she could. Yesterday Florence Wilson, Edna Cole, Helen M. Smith, Emily Templin, Helen Nischwitz, Gertrude Enander, Marion Norris, Julia Dilts, Bertha Hoagland and Cora Gano handed in $1.86 which they had made in various ways out of the penny given them a year ago.

CHURCH HAS GROWN DURING SIX YEARS

The Sixth Anniversary Was Celebrated at Monroe Ave. M. E. Church Yesterday.

IN FLOURISHING STATE

CHURCH HISTORIAN F. E. WHITESIDE TOLD OF ITS PROGRESS IN MORNING.

Rev. Herbert Munson, Its First Pastor, Preached Anniversary Sermon in the Evening—The Services Were Well Attended.

Special services in honor of the sixth anniversary of its emerging from a chapel were held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, yesterday morning and evening. Large congregations were in evidence at both services.

At the morning service, the time was taken up with a review of the church and its work from 1897 as compiled by the church historian, Rev. F. E. Whiteside. These showed it to have made rapid strides in regard to influence, membership and financial gain. The standing and results of the various departments is gratifying in the extreme.

Standing out prominently is the church membership which has increased one hundred fold since the organization. It is now in a most flourishing condition, far exceeding the expectations of its promoters. A like increase has been noted in the Sunday-school which is fast becoming one of the most influential in the city. The primary department is now just twice as large as it was six years ago. One of the most progressive organizations connected with the church is the Ladies' Aid Society which has accomplished much work, not only in the immediate vicinity but in many ways.

Besides these societies the historian noted the increase in the the Woman's Foreign and Home Mission Societies, the Epworth League, the Junior League, which has become an important factor in church work under the leadership of Miss Charlotte Aldrich, the school library and the young men's Bible class. The latter is not governed by any officers but by committees appointed at various times. It was this organization that was instrumental in securing the bell for the church which was installed a week ago.

At the conclusion of his review, Rev. Mr. Whiteside reminded the congregation that it had now passed the embryonic period and that it was now healthy and vigorous with a large field of usefulness before it. His remarks were supplemented by others from Rev. John MacMurray in which he dwelt upon the harmonious relations existing in the parish during his pastorate.

In the evening, an anniversary sermon was preached by Rev. Herbert Munson, of Hempstead, L. I., the church's first pastor. In it he referred to the excellent growth and gave many words of encouragement for the ensuing six years.

PROGRAMME REPEATED.

Christmas Music at First Baptist Church Was Given Last Night.

The Christmas music was repeated by the choir of the First Baptist church, last evening, and a large congregation assembled to enjoy it. The anthems included "Arise, Shine," Lansing; "O, Holy Night," "How Brightly Dawns," Shelley; "There Shall Come Forth a Rod," Tozer; "Hark, What Mean These Holy Voices," P. Stair.

During the service Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, of New York, preached a strong and impressive sermon, the chief thought being that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." In the morning, Dr. Sanders took for his subject, "What Think Ye of Christ," and he delivered a very careful and well-prepared discourse.

Council Meeting.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting this evening, when several matters pertaining to the opening of the year's business will be considered. The Mayor's message will also be read at this meeting.

VICTORY FOR MARRIED MEN AT "COCKED HAT"

Second of Series of Inter-Club Bowling Contests at Park Club Saturday Evening.

NOW COMES THE RUBBER

IT WAS WON BY MARRIED MEN AFTER A VERY HOT CONTEST.

Rolled at Park Club Alleys—The Victory Was Decided by Eight Pins—Social Features Followed the Game—The Scores.

There was a "cocked hat" tournament between the Bachelors and Benedicts on the Park Club alleys, Saturday evennig, which excited considerable interest. This was the second game in the series. The first was won by the Bachelors, and the second game was captured by the Benedicts by a margin of eight pins. The game throughout was exciting as the two teams were evenly matched. First one side would take the lead, then the other, and this continued until the twelfth frame, when the married men pulled out with a total score of 214 as against 206 for the single men.

There was a large gallery present including a host of women, and there was frequent cheering. The married men, however, seemed to have better nerve, while their opponents were a trifle shaky at times. As far as individual bowling was concerned, there was little advantage. There were no remarkable scores, although quite often tie scores would be rolled in several consecutive frames. The women seemed to evidence considerable interest in the contest and they would divide their applause between the single and married men.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the serving of refreshments after the game. Mrs. J. P. Northrop and Mrs. George D. Hallock presided at the table and they were assisted by several other women in serving. During the evening the pool and billiard tables were occupied.

The scores for the "cocked hat" tournament are as follows:

WAR VETERAN PASSED AWAY

Major-General Eli Long Died at Presbyterian Hospital This Morning.

WAS AN OLD RESIDENT

Was Distinguished Officer in Civil War—Was Wounded Many Times—Promoted From Lieutenant to General—Leaves Five Children—His Army Record.

The death of Major General Eli Long, which occurred this morning at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, deprived Plainfield of one of its best known and most highly respected citizens. Few, indeed, who lived in this city who did not know General Long and many will be grieved to learn of his sudden demise which was brought about through an operation performed Saturday afternoon for a complication of heart and kidney trouble. It was hoped that the operation would be successful and, in fact, the patient seemed to rally yesterday morning but towards night he gradually sank and peacefully expired this morning. He has lived in this city since the Civil War and at the time of his death resided on Grove street.

General Long was a distinguished officer in the Civil War, having won his laurels through hard fighting and meritorious conduct on several occasions. He is survived by five children who are: Dr. Eli Long, Jr., of New York; Percy C. Long, Miss Laura Long, Miss Margaret Long and Mrs. George Worth, all of this city.

General Long was a graduate of the Military Academy near Frankfort, Kentucky, and after he graduated he was appointed second lieutenant of the First U. S. Cavalry, on the recommendation of Hon. James Gutherie, of Kentucky. In 1857, he received commendatory recognition from his superior officers for the gallant part he played in the Cheyenne expedition. He was stationed at Fort Lyon at the outbreak of the Rebellion in 1861 and distinguished himself by capturing a large company which was headed for Missouri. He was subsequently promoted to first lieutenant and captain. He was under General Buell at Louisville; and was one of the escort to General Rosecrans at Stone River. He was wounded in December, 1862, and on recommendation of General Rosecrans he was promoted to colonel of the Fourth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, General Sherman warmly endorsing him.

He was engaged in the battle of Chickamauga where he was seriously wounded in a close engagement at Mc Minneville and again at Farmington where, while making a charge, at the head of his company his charger was shot from under him.

In another engagement, he routed General Wheeler at Calhoun and defeated General Roddy at Moulton, Alabama. He was again wounded at this battle and received a severe wound in the head which caused a concussion of the brain. For a time it was thought he was fatally wounded but blessed with a sturdy constitution he rallied and was brevetted major general of volunteers and colonel of the United States Army in March, 1865. In the same year he was made colonel of the Second Division of the C. D. M. and in the latter part of the year he was in the division which captured General Forrest and 4,000 of his men.

While at Farmington he was in command and it was his orders carried out which resulted in the tearing up of over thirty miles of the Knoxville and Chickamauga Railroad, while General Sherman was at Farmington. At the battle of Chickamauga his company lost 134 officers. During the engagement at Chickamauga his brigade won the title of the "lightning brigade" and all during the war they carried that name with them.

General Long like General Grant was an inveterate smoker but unlike General Grant he smoked a pipe instead of cigars. In all the engagements in which he fought he had one particular pipe which was stuck between his teeth whether it contained any tobacco or not.

As a resident of this city he lived a quiet life. Except for one term as borough recorder, he never occupied any political position but he had a lively interest in the welfare of the town. For a time, after the close of

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, this week is the scene of an elaborate revival of the only authorized version of the spectacular drama "Around the World in Eighty Days," a dramatization by Felix Da-Fontaine of Jules Verne's most famous novel. A splendid show entertains the patrons of Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre. The strong bill will have for its headliners Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds, in Joseph Hart's farce, "Examination Day at School," and Provost, in "Fun in a Turkish Bath." The patrons of Proctor's fifty-eighth Street are this week witnessing a spectacular production of Scott Marble's "Heart of the Klondike." Up in Harlem, at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street House an extraordinary revival is being given of Franklyn Fyle's great war drama, "Cumberland '61." Over in Newark a great treat has been arranged for the patrons of Proctor's in the presentation of Newark's most popular favorite, Mrs. Una Abel-Drinker, in a new vaudeville sketch entitled "The Open Gate."

The Whitney Opera Company, in the new spectacular military opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," is drawing immense audiences to the New York Theatre, New York. This piece is an innovation in amusement enterprise and a great novelty. It tells a most interesting story of the Civil War in lyrics and bright melody and may, perhaps, be most fittingly described as a "Shenandoah" or "Held By The Enemy" presented as an opera. The book is by Stanislaus Stange and the music by Julian Edwards, the author of "Dolly Varden." The music is the best score that Julian Edwards has ever written. While original in the main, the composer has very deftly interwoven into his own efforts all the martial music sd popular during the time of the Civil War, together with darky melodies and the battle songs of the blue and the gray. From the standpoint of scenery and costumes, the production is very quaint and beautiful, the dresses correctly representing those worn during the war period from 1861 to 1865, including the now somewhat ludicrous massive hoop skirts which were prevalent in those days.

—Rev. C. E. Herring, of Watchung avenue, took part in a watch-night service held in one of the large Methodist churches in New York.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

THE DELHI CELEBRATION.

A Brilliant Function Follows the Durbar—Novel Sunday Service.

DELHI, India, Jan. 5.—The chapter of Indian orders was one of the most brilliant functions following the durbar. It was attended by Lord Curzon of Kedleston, viceroy of India, and Lady Curzon, the Duke of Connaught, representative of King Edward, and the Duchess of Connaught and scores of native princes. Among the brilliant assemblage were nearly 300 members of the Order of the Star of India and many maharajahs. About forty Americans were present at the chapter. They included Mrs. Adair, Mrs. L. Z. Leiter, mother of Lady Curzon, and Miss Daisy Leiter, H. Phipps and family of Pittsburg, John Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Bemis and Mr. and Mrs. Peckham of New York, Dr. and Mrs. Workman of Boston, H. Getty of Chicago and Miss Getty and Consul General Patterson of Calcutta and his family.

The hall was aglow with hundreds of electric lights. The silken garments and the uniforms of the orientals, blazing with jewels, made the scene a most brilliant one. Lady Curzon and the Duchess of Connaught walked up the hall together, both attired in dresses of white and silver and wearing diamond coronets. They took their seats behind the golden thrones occupied by the viceroy and the duke. During the ceremony of investiture the bands rendered music from the balcony.

When the herald and trumpeters announced the beginning of the function, a red silken curtain at the foot of the hall was drawn aside, and the grand procession through the building began. The sight was most impressive.

Sunday morning Lord and Lady Curzon, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and all distinguished visitors attended the state divine service, conducted on the polo grounds by the bishop of Lahore at 11 o'clock. Thousands of troops were formed in line. Music was given by the massed bands, and the responses in the service were rendered by flag signals. A notable feature of the service was singing through megaphones by the bandsmen.

Tried to Steal Gems.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—In a dispatch from Delhi the correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "A body of Pathans made a bold attempt in broad daylight Friday to attack the guard and rob the jewelroom of the arts exhibition, where gems valued at $1,250,000 were in keeping. Members of the police force and the jewelers present after a scuffle succeeded in foiling the attempt."

Result of French Elections.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Senatorial elections were held yesterday in thirty-four department of France, in Algeria and in the colonies of La Reunion and Guadeloupe to select ninety-eight senators, of whom ninety-four will fill seats the terms of whose occupants have constitutionally expired, while the other four will fill vacancies caused by death. The elections passed off without incident and aroused little public interest. The results have confirmed the general expectation that the Ministerial majority in the upper house would be strengthened. The Conservatives have elected five Progressive Republicans, and the Liberals have elected twenty-five Republicans, eighteen Radicals and thirty-four Radical Socialists. Premier Combes has been re-elected from the department of Charente-Inferieure. Finance Minister Rouvier was elected in the department of Alps Maritimes. The ministry of the interior claims that the government gained fifteen and lost two, a net gain of thirteen seats.

Attempt to Escape Foiled.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—Thomas Doyle, who is serving a twenty year term in the New Jersey state prison for murder committed in Union county, was frustrated in an attempt to escape from the institution. Doyle, with a number of other prisoners, was being taken to breakfast just before 6 o'clock when he slipped from the line and entered an engine room. From this room he escaped to the yard, and by scaling the wall of small buildings he finally reached the roof of the main building. Doyle had secreted in his clothing an improvised rope about twenty feet long, with which he intended to lower himself. While crawling over the roof Doyle was discovered by Deputy Keeper Clayton, who operates the searchlight located in the prison tower. Clayton gave an alarm, and Doyle was easily captured and returned to his cell.

Rumors of Reconcilement.

VIENNA, Jan. 5.—Reports have been received here from sources closely connected with the court of Saxony of a possible reconciliation between the crown princess of Saxony and her husband. The family of the crown prince are especially concerned with the future of the princess' unborn child, desiring its birth to occur under conditions permitting of proper identification and to prevent possible substitution, which it is supposed the princess might attempt if the crown prince's family attempted to claim the child. The crown prince is reported as even now unwilling to abandon the belief that the unborn child may be his own.

Welcome to Panama's Governor.

PANAMA, Jan. 5.—A great popular demonstration took place here in honor of Dr. Duran, the newly appointed governor of Panama. Members of all political parties were seen among the big assemblage, and congratulatory speeches were addressed to the governor by both Conservative and Liberal orators. In his reply Governor Duran said he had accepted the post for love of the isthmus only and that his appointment proved the intention of the national government to bring about conciliation of the different political interests in Colombia.

PHILIPPINE REPORTS

Governor Taft and the Commission on the Islands.

LADRONISM IS THE GREAT BANE.

Not a Shot Fired by American Soldiers Since July—A Stable Currency Needed—Filipinos Pleased With Present Government.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The annual report of the Philippine commission and a separate report by Governor W. H. Taft, made public at the war department, gives a review of the results of the year's work of the commission and contain recommendations for legislative action by congress deemed essential to the welfare of the islands.

After reciting a history of the establishment of civil government throughout the various provinces Governor Taft in his report says it has not been definitely determined what shall be done with respect to Mindanao, where, he says, hospitality to the Americans does not extend beyond the Lake Lanao Moros. The governor is of opinion that it may be possible to induce the sultan of Jolo to part with some of the rights he claims to the Jolo group and thus obviate many obstacles encountered. The Moros, he says, do not understand popular government and do not desire it, preferring control by dattos. "Possibly far in the future," he says, "control by dattos may cease. For the present, however, it is necessary only to provide a paternal, strong but sympathetic government for these followers of Mohammed."

Governor Taft tells of the conditions that have made it necessary for the islands to purchase about $15,000,000 worth of food on which to live and of the effects war has had upon agriculture, almost the only source of wealth in the islands. The greatest blow to agriculture, he says, is the destruction of about 90 per cent of the water buffalo, on which the cultivation of rice is almost wholly dependent. After speaking on the ravages of Asiatic cholera Governor Taft says:

"The bane of Philippine civilization in the past was ladronism, and the present conditions are most favorable for its growth and maintenance. It is not certain whether in the depressed state of agriculture, with the temptation to ladronism, that the constabulary will be able without the assistance of the military to stamp it out. * * * Were there temptations to agriculture, were there prosperous conditions in the country, it would not be a troublesome matter to deal with, but when want and famine are staring people in the face the life of the freebooter forms to the desperado and the weak a very great attraction. The natural discontent with the government when suffering is at hand, promoted as it has been by the cholera restrictions and the high prices of rice and other commodities which have been greatly enhanced by the depreciation of silver, might well have caused a new breaking out of the insurrection, and in my judgment it speaks wonders for the ease with which this country may be governed in normal times that we have comparatively so little disorder since the surrender of the insurgent arms in April."

Since the civil government was completely established in the Filipino provinces throughout the archipelago in July of last year, the governor says, an American soldier has not been called on once to fire a gun, the country having been policed by the constabulary, a force of 5,000 or 6,000 men.

"It may be," says Governor Taft, "that as the conditions grow worse, for they are likely to do so before they grow better, it may be necessary in a province like Cavite, where ladronism seems inbred in the people, to proclaim martial law and even to call in the military finally to suppress it, but it is still hoped this may be avoided."

Governor Taft says the figures show that for the year ended June 30, 1902, the imports, exclusive of quartermaster's stores, of all goods were $41,000,000, while the exports were about $27,000,000. He says capital has seemed to be timid in coming to the Philippines, but adds, "It has come in a small way in various branches so that the aggregate is very considerable."

The governor points out among other ills from which the country is suffering that of fluctuating currency. On the subject of labor he speaks of the need of making temporary provision such as is recommended by the full commission.

The Philippine commission in its annual report says at the outset:

"The insurrection as an organized attempt to subvert the authority of the United States in these islands is entirely at an end, and the whole of the Christian Filipino population with the exception of a few thousand persons in the Moro country in isolated towns are enjoying civil government. Much remains to be done in perfecting civil government, in marshaling the forces of law and order against lawlessness and disturbances and in teaching the people of the Philippines not only that they have rights under the law, but also that they cannot hope to enjoy such rights unless they acquire courage and independence sufficient to assert them against attempts by their fellow Filipinos to perpetuate the system of 'caciquejsm,' or liberally translated, 'bossism.'"

"The Filipino people of the better class have received the passage of the Philippine act with great satisfaction," the report cites, and further along it says, "The coming year under the trying circumstances which now prevail will show how much we may depend upon the conservative and lawabiding character of the controlling elements of the Filipino people."

HE WILL NOT RESIGN

President Castro Denies Reports to That Effect.

BANK OF VENEZUELA IS CLOSED.

Action Creates a Panic In Caracas. Course Pursued by the Powers In Maintaining Blockade of La Guayra Causes Surprise.

CARACAS, Jan. 5.—The report that President Castro purposes to abdicate or resign the presidency of Venezuela is untrue. The correspondent of the Associated Press saw the president with regard to this matter yesterday. The president laughed when questioned and then said thoughtfully:

"You are at liberty to say that I have fought during two years to retain the supreme power which was vested in me by the people of Venezuela. I will no more abdicate than I will resign. The Matos revolution, without assistance from foreign powers, will soon be a past history."

There was a financial panic at Caracas Saturday afternoon. A large number of small traders and private depositors went together to the office of the Bank of Venezuela for the purpose of exchanging the bank's notes for silver. The bank refused to exchange more than $20 worth of notes for any one person and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon closed its doors. The panic continues. Bills issued by the bank are now selling for 80 per cent of their face value.

The course pursued by the allied powers in maintaining the blockade of La Guayra has caused astonishment among the foreign residents of this city. When the Dutch steamer Prins Willem V. arrived off La Guayra to take on board the European mails, the authorities at La Guayra sent the mail out in a small boat. This boat was stopped by the British cruiser on blockade, and the mail bags were taken on board the warship. The postal clerks who were in the small boat say the mail bags, notwithstanding their protests, were opened on board the cruiser.

Germans Seize a Custom House.

LA GUAYRA, Jan. 5.—The British gunboat Zumbador, formerly the Venezuelan war vessel of that name, which left here for Trinidad with a number of prizes in tow, was obliged to return to this port on account of the heavy gale blowing and strong contrary currents. The Germans suddenly landed a force of marines at Port Cabello and took possession of the custom house and wharfs before resistance could be offered. The excitement of the inhabitants was intense, and they prepared to defend the rest of the town, when it was announced that the landing of the Germans was only a movement to render the blockade more effective. This calmed the people, who believed the allies intended to occupy all the custom houses in the country.

Elephant Electrocuted.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Several hundred spectators witnessed the execution by electricity at Coney Island of Topsy, an elephant, who had killed three men and had recently become unmanageable. Immediately after 200 grains of cyanide of potassium had been administered concealed in a carrot a current of 6,600 volts was turned on through copper plates on which the animal stood. Almost instantly the elephant fell, and at the end of ten seconds, when the current was turned off, was pronounced to be dead. An autopsy showed that the poison had not had time to take effect. Topsy was about thirty-five years old and was the first baby elephant exhibited in this country when she was brought here by Adam Forepaugh twenty-eight years ago. She was nearly ten feet high and weighed about four tons.

Died In Boyhood's Home.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Jan. 5.—Professor Charles J. Bell, professor of chemistry in the University of Minnesota, is dead at the residence of his brother, Dr. William A. Bell, where he was spending the holidays, from kidney and heart trouble. Professor Bell was born in Somerville in 1855, graduated from Harvard in 1876, studied four years abroad, also at Johns Hopkins university, after which he was professor of chemistry in Pennsylvania State college until he accepted a similar position in the University of Minnesota. A widow, brother and sister survive him.

The MacDonough Made Fast Time.

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—After waiting for two days for good weather, the torpedo boat destroyer MacDonough, built by the Fore River Ship and Engine company, Quincy, Mass., was successfully speeded over a measured mile off Wood End, Provincetown. She exceeded her contract requirement of twenty-eight knots, making one leg at a rate of 28.56. The best two runs over the mile averaged 28.02, which was the speed which gained her acceptance by the government board.

Three Toy Pistol Victims.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—Will Weiss, eleven years of age, is dead and Henry Doyle, aged eleven years, and Will O'Neil, aged thirteen years, are dying in this city of lockjaw caused by shooting themselves in the hand in firing toy pistols on Christmas day.

Awakened by Water Cure.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 5.—John Fulcher, the negro prisoner in jail at Kansas City, Kan., awoke at midnight from his long sleep, which had lasted 159 hours. Fulcher was awakened by cold water which was being forced down his throat.

FLOODS AND SLIDES.

Railroads In Washington Tied Up and Towns Under Water.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 5.—The Great Northern Coast line and the Northern Pacific line to Summas are the only lines of railroad running out of Seattle which are open. For three hours these lines were blocked by slides. Floods have interrupted the train service on the west side of the mountain, and slides in the mountains have added to the trouble. In addition there have been numerous small slides on the west side lines.

The climax in the railroad flood situation was reached when the White and Stuck rivers in King and Pierce counties went out of their banks, burying the Interurban and Northern Pacific tracks between Seattle and Tacoma several feet under water, flooding the valley between Auburn and Kent and driving many of the residents all through the White river valley out of their homes.

Train service between Seattle and Tacoma has been abandoned, and there is no telling when it will be re-established.

The Northern Pacific advices from Auburn are to the effect that there are several bad washouts in the vicinity of Auburn and that the big bridge between Auburn and Tacoma is tottering and ready to go out at any time.

The streets in the towns of Kent, Christopher, Auburn, Darrington and others in that vicinity are flooded, and there is no telling how great the damage to property will be, but it will certainly be very heavy.

REBELLION FALLS FLAT.

Sultan of Morocco Has Taken the Wind Out of Pretender's Sails.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 5.—According to official news received here from Fez, the adroit move of the sultan in bringing his brother, Mulai-Mohammed, to the capital has attained the desired object of depriving the pretender to the throne of his prestige, and the latter has retired, discredited, to Taza. He has been deserted by a number of the local tribes, who dispersed to make sure of their booty.

Buhamara, the pretender, having claimed the intention of enthroning Mulai-Mohammed, his rebellion has no longer any reason to continue, as the sultan has publicly reconciled himself with his brother and Mulai-Mohammed has made a solemn entry into Fez, acclaimed by the populace. The sultan has announced the appointment of Mulai-Mohammed as governor of the province of Fez, thus disproving the rumors that Mulai-Mohammed aspired to the throne.

When this had been done, according to the official authority for these statements, the tribes around Fez swore fidelity to the sultan and denounced Buhamara as an impostor whom they would prevent from coming to Fez.

All immediate danger has disappeared. The routes from Fez to the coast are open. It is said the sultan is now preparing a large expedition with the intention of crushing the rebellion.

Child Bought Poisoner's Dose.

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Jan. 5.—August Weinert, thirty-five years old, sent his little daughter to a drug store to purchase some carbolic acid. When the child returned, he locked her, with his three other children, in a closet and drank the acid. He then released the children, and when they discovered what their father had done they ran for assistance. Two doctors worked over the man for some time, but he died two hours later. Weinert's wife was away from home when he took his life.

A Record Coal Shipment.

READING, Pa., Jan. 5.—At midnight the Reading company had transported to market for the preceding forty-eight hours 3,500 cars of anthracite coal. In forwarding this great quantity the company broke its record. Every locomotive of all classes was pressed into service, and all available freight crews were called upon to lend a hand. The officials estimate that during the holidays and because the miners failed to get back to work promptly 250,000 tons of anthracite failed to reach market.

Killed on the Way to Church.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 5.—Jacob Zook, an Amish farmer, residing near Eden, two miles east of Lancaster, was driving from church with his two daughters, Fanny, aged eighteen, and Katie, aged nine, when a trolley car crashed into his team, killing Fanny instantly and inflicting serious injuries on Mr. Zook and the younger daughter. The accident occurred at a grade crossing where the view is obstructed by a house.

Miners Hurt by Explosion.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 5.—Four miners were probably fatally injured and a number of others badly burned and cut by falling coal in an explosion of mine dust in the Chicago-Virden mine at Auburn. Three hundred and fifty men were in the mine at the time, but all except fourteen or fifteen, who were caught in the entry 2,000 feet from the surface, succeeded in reaching places of safety.

Flood Danger Past.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—Danger of a flood stage in the rivers here has passed for the present. While the Ohio at Davis island dam registers 16.2 feet and rising slowly, reports from headwaters points show the water either stationary or falling. The Ohio is not expected to go higher than seventeen feet.

A Buffalo Business Man Dead.

BUFFALO, Jan. 5.—William H. Walker, one of the most prominent business men of this city, is dead. He was formerly president of the Merchants' bank and first vice president of the Fidelity Trust company.

THE GREAT WHITE SALE

with its myriads of bright, new 1903 merchandise and reasonable prices, still continues—seems strange to speak of Spring Fabrics in the depth of winter, but it's a condition of merchandising. The store of today—that is, the progressive store—is always abreast of the times, and it pays the public to anticipate its needs when the materials are right, and every other condition of correct store keeping in line. We know that every day there is a growing tendency toward "Shopping in Newark"—shopping in our new store.

IRISH LAND QUESTION.

Conference Reports a Plan to Settle the Existing Trouble.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The Irish land conference has issued a voluminous report of its deliberations in which it is declared that the only satisfactory settlement of the existing land question is the substitution of an occupying or proprietary ownership of land for the existing dual ownership. As the process of direct state interference in purchase and resale would be generally tedious and unsatisfactory, therefore, except where owners or half occupiers so desire and except in those districts under the congested districts board, the report recommends that the settlement should be made between the owner and the occupier, subject to the necessary investigation by the state as to title, rental and security.

The report emphasizes the desirability of inducing landlords to continue to reside in Ireland, and with this purpose in view it says an equitable price should be paid to owners based upon income and that provision ought to be made for the resale to owners of mansion houses and demesnes. The purchase price should either be assurance by the state of such income or the payment of a capital sum producing it at 3 per cent or 3¼ per cent. If guaranteed by the state, tenants' repayments should be expended for a term of years, securing a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent on rents. To do this may involve some assistance from the state beyond the use of its credit, and the report considers that such assistance would be justified fully in the future welfare of Ireland and the settlement of this vexed problem. The report offers no definite financial proposals, but it considers that an unexampled opportunity exists at the present moment to deal with this question successfully.

Captain Shawe-Taylor, secretary of the conference, left here for the United States on board the Cunard line steamer Ivernia. He goes to America to ascertain the views of President Roosevelt and other prominent Americans on the land question. In an interview before leaving Captain Shawe-Taylor said:

"The government now for the first time has before it a practical solution of this question acceptable to both land owners and occupiers. It would be a national calamity if while truce exists between the two parties this unique opportunity is allowed to pass."

Pennsylvania Legislature.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—The Pennsylvania legislature will convene at noon tomorrow and will adjourn finally probably on April 16. The Republicans control both branches, and it is conceded that Boies Penrose will be elected United States senator to succeed himself. Henry F. Walton of Philadelphia will be chosen speaker of the house of representatives and John M. Scott of Philadelphia will be elected president pro tem. of the senate. These officials and other officers of both branches will be formally elected on Jan. 20, the date of the inauguration of Governor Elect Pennypacker. Neither branch will begin work until after the inauguration. Governor Stone will send his biennial message to both branches immediately after the organization. Both bodies will adjourn on Wednesday until Jan. 19 to allow the presiding officers to prepare the standing committees, which will be announced when the legislature reconvenes.

Minister Killed at a Crossing.

WINSTED, Conn., Jan. 5.—Rev. A. H. Norris, pastor of the Congregational church in Torringford, while driving to Burrville to preach to his congregation in that town, was struck and instantly killed by a special train on the Naugatuck division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Mr. Norris was in a covered carriage and drove upon the railroad crossing without noticing the approach of the special. The horse was killed, and the minister was hurled a hundred feet through the air. His body struck a tree, and when the train crew picked him up he was dead, having sustained a fractured skull and several broken ribs.

Engineer Killed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 5.—Passenger train No. 37 on the Southern railway bound from Atlanta to Birmingham was derailed near Weems Station, about fifteen miles from here. The baggage and mail cars were thrown from an embankment and wrecked. Engineer White was the only person killed. About twenty-seven passengers were injured. The injured were brought here. None of the injured is in a serious condition, as the passenger coaches remained on the track.

Negroes Break Jail.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—Three negro prisoners suspected of being infected with smallpox escaped from the county jail here by removing a window from the tower or third story of the building where they had been placed to separate them from the other prisoners. They are still at large. A fourth negro who had developed a case of smallpox refused to go with his companions.

New Minister to Wed.

PEKING, Jan. 5.—Sir Liang Cheng, minister designate to the United States, will marry the daughter of the Chinese minister at Paris, Yu Keng, before leaving for Washington. The wedding will probably take place at Canton. Yu Keng's daughter was educated abroad and speaks English and French. She is one of the few Chinese women of modern education and modern ideas.

THE MARKLES' REPLY

Independent Coal Operators Submit Statement.

HOW MINERS ARE CARED FOR.

Many Years of Uninterrupted Work Until Mitchell Tried to Organize Employees In 1900—Earnings of Contract Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The answer of G. B. Markle & Co., independent coal operators, to the demands of the miners was submitted to the anthracite strike commission, which assembled in this city today. It was written by John Markle, managing partner of the firm. The statement is in part as follows:

"The present firm was formed on Dec. 30, 1889, for the purpose of mining coal upon lands held by the firm under lease from the Union Improvement company for thirty years from Jan. 1, 1890, and from the Highland Coal company for thirty years from Jan. 1, 1892. The mines are situated at or near Jeddo. The firm employs about 2,400 men, and many of its employees reside in the villages of Freeland, about two miles distant, and Hazleton, about seven miles distant from Jeddo. The lessees erected and own all the improvements upon the property, including breakers, stores, shops and tenement houses.

"From the time of my first connection with the business in 1880 there have always been a resident physician and assistant physicians upon the property until recently, with the exception of a short interval. The firm selected the head physician, who chose his assistants, and we collected 75 cents a month for the married men and 50 cents a month for the single men over twenty-one, and the amount collected was paid over to the physician without charge or deduction therefor. This agreement was not compulsory upon the men or families.

"In the early part of 1898 my wife employed at her own expense a trained nurse to look after the sick, and later, when this nurse retired, another nurse from St. Luke's hospital in Bethlehem took her place, who introduced the system of district nursing in the borough of Jeddo and in the neighboring villages.

"Stores for the sale of general merchandise and of miners' supplies have always been maintained upon the property and have been and are an accommodation to the men and their families. The men have never been required to deal there.

"By the terms of the coal leases G. B. Markle & Co. are required to pay all the taxes upon the property. The taxes paid by the coal operators constitute the largest portion of the taxes collected in the county."

Continuing, the answer says a sliding scale basis of labor had been agreed upon in 1875 and had from that time been generally in force in the Lehigh region. In September, 1897, a committee of miners presented certain demands to the firm. An agreement was then in existence between the company and men to settle differences by arbitration. The company replied to the demands and received no further communication from the miners. Work at the mines continued uninterrupted until the latter part of 1900, when John Mitchell made his headquarters at Hazleton and endeavored to organize the Markle employees.

In September, 1900, another list of grievances was furnished the firm, the company's answer being that if the men were not satisfied with the reply the officials would be willing to arbitrate. The next communication from the men demanded arbitration, but the committee selected by the employees reported that the latter had broken their agreement with the company by striking before their grievances had been submitted to arbitration.

Finally on Oct. 27, 1900, a committee of the men appealed to the firm for an adjustment of the differences. This was accomplished, and on Oct. 29 work was resumed at the mines.

The answer further states:

"Between 1900 and 1902 many requests were made for the correction of alleged grievances, which were all taken up and considered and acted upon, but neither individually nor collectively, orally or in writing, did the men make any complaint in reference to the method of collecting the dues for the doctors or the priests, nor was our attention called to any defect in respect to ventilation or unfair treatment at the store nor as to the size of the cars nor as to the slope cleaning or the docking until April, 1902, and we had every reason to believe that, taken as a whole, the men were entirely satisfied with the conditions of their employment.

"In the course of the hearings at Scranton complaint was made of the size of the cars, but in reality the size has not been changed, as will be proved by the testimony of the builders, who will be produced. It was also alleged that the docking was excessive, but the accountant will testify that it was less than 2 per cent. Objection was also made that the full 10 per cent advance was not given. The manner in which the advance was computed was repeatedly explained to the men, and it will be shown by the expert accountant that it was correctly calculated."

Attached to the answer are several exhibits, one of which is a statement showing the earnings of certain contract miners during eleven and one-half months, including eleven of the highest earners and five of the lowest, the highest receiving $4,000 and the lowest $400.

A NEW NORMAL SCHOOL.

Very persistent is the agitation in behalf of a new Normal School in northern New Jersey. The State Teachers' Association is strong in its advocacy of the school while State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. J. Baxter earnestly recommended it in his annual report. Even if such a school should be established, it is now recognized that Plainfield would have no chance of securing it but that, in all probability, it would be located in Newark. While a Normal School in Plainfield is very much to be desired, a Normal School in Newark would be much better than no additional Normal School at all.

It seems very certain that the incoming Legislature will have to do something about additional facilities along that line. A substitute has been proposed by some of the Trentonites that the Normal School there be enlarged to meet the demands made by the north Jerseyites. This will undoubtedly be strongly opposed by the advocates of the new Normal School as one of the very aims which they have been working to accomplish, a Normal School close to the centres of population in the northern part of the State, would be defeated.

While the subject has not yet been gone into very extensively, it would certainly appear to the average mortal that the plan of the Normal School at Newark would be better for the State at large than the enlargement of the present Normal School at Trenton. That the State's facilities for preparing school teachers for their duties is inadequate to the demands is well-known. A glance over the places of graduation of the local teachers shows that Plainfield is compelled to depend largely on the Normal Schools of New York State and Massachusetts for its teachers. There are a few New Jersey Normal School graduates here and that number would undoubtedly be increased if the Newark Normal School should be established.

Somerville is going to lose a valuable official because its citizens can't seem to realize that the town is growing and that its public schools must be correspondingly enlarged. A. A. Clark, one of Somerset county's best known citizens, has resigned from the Somerville Board of Education because the people of that community insist upon refusing the board's earnest request for better educational facilities. If Somerville has even the slightest hope of ever being the "Queen City of Central Jersey," it must be willing to meet the demands of progress.

For the benefit of those who have not followed the municipal happenings of late we will state that the two retiring members of the Common Council were George P. Mellick and Sheriff B. Frank Coriell. Their places are now filled by W. A. Garrigues, of the Second ward, and W. S. Tyler, of the Third ward. The other members of the Council remain the same, Councilmen R. I. Tolles and Frank D. Randolph having been re-elected last November.

While the Common Council of 1903 held its first meeting Thursday evening, elected officers and appointed committees, the real business for the month of January was adjourned until this evening when the Council will meet again. This New Year's night session is held to conform with the law and only the formal acts of organizing were done. Tonight, the Mayor's message and sundry other business will come before the City Fathers.

With so much territory for each man to cover, it is really more good luck than anything else that a local policeman happened at the Netherwood station just at the time when the unbidden guest was in possession. It is wonderfully comforting to know, however, that when the policemen are around they are tending to business and little things do not escape their notice.

Of course it may have been entirely unintentional but it was really quite noticeable that the Elizabeth Journal devoted over half a column to U. S. Senator Kean's New Year reception while a similar event at the home of Congressman Fowler received just ten lines. There was consolation for Mr. Fowler, however, in the fact that he was referred to as the "popular Congressman."

Hamilton F. Kean has been selected to chairman the Republican county committee in Union for another term. The vice chairmanship will not fall to City Judge William N. Runyon again, however, as he does not happen to be a member of the county committee this year.

Westfield is investigating the benefits of city and borough government. There is an element there which opposes anything which even suggests progress but the advocates of the "forward" movement needn't lose heart, they are bound to win in time.

While the year 1903 may not see it, one of the good things we look forward into the future for is the consolidation of city and borough into a Greater Plainfield.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

A correspondent is authority for the statement that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has announced that it will furnish all the employes of the road with coal for their homes at actual cost. This generous action of the road following the 10 per cent. increase of wages shows that the officials have hearts that are not made of adamant.—Somerset Democrat.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Jere Foss has retained the business of the seafood firm of Foss & Jeter. He was the originator of the business and knows just how it should be conducted. Consult him when in need of anything in the fish, oyster or clam line.

B. J. Schriener has some of the choicest toilet perfumes at his drug store at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street which are to be found in this city. His line of cigars is inferior to none and box trade is made a specialty of.

The New York Painting and Decorating Company is constantly receiving new and handsome patterns in wall-papers and an inspection of them is invited. This company also executes fine work in painting and decorating, at reasonable prices.

Start the New Year right by deciding to buy absolutely pure milk and cream for use in your household. Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, sell this kind and it stands the test. A postal card will bring this milk to your house promptly every day.

Armstrong's pharmacy on Park avenue at the corner of North avenue is the best place in town to trade if one desires their money's worth in the quality of the goods. Every thing on sale at that store is of superior quality and is the best procurable on the market.

Anything that is usually found in a first-class market is always to be had at J. W. VanSickle's place of business on North avenue. He has the best cuts of beef, veal, mutton and pork and makes a specialty of roasting and broiling chickens. Orders may be telephoned.

Stop—don't neglect that cough. It seems insignificant now but it will soon assume alarming proportions and then—it may be too late. Drop around to Nagle's drug store on West Front street and get the sure cure for the malady. Nagle's prescription department is not outclassed by any in the State.

Improving Borough Property.

David F. Drake, who recently purchased considerable property in Prideville, has spent much time and money in beautifying that locality in the borough. He is busily trimming up the trees on Jefferson avenue and is also widening that thoroughfare to its proper width from its terminus to the foot of the mountain. Harrison avenue is also receiving some attention and it will be widened in the near future.

Week of Prayer in Trinity Church.

The week of prayer topics in Trinity Reformed church, this week, will be as follows: Tonight, "How to get a fresh start;" Tuesday, "Prayer;" Wednesday, "The Holy Spirit;" Thursday, "Spiritual Quickening;" Friday, "Consecration."

His Own Architect.

A permit has been granted to B. F. Talamay, of 536 West Fifth street, to erect a barn on his premises. He will be his own architect and builder.

Board of Health Meeting.

The January meeting of the Board of Health will be held tomorrow afternoon in the rooms on North avenue.

WILL NOT SUPPORT BOARD

SO ALVAH A. CLARK HAS RESIGNED FROM SOMERVILLE SCHOOL BOARD.

People Have Voted Down Board's Propositions to Erect Needed New School Houses.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 5—Hon. Alvah A. Clark has presented his resignation as a member of the Somerville Board of Education. This is doubtless due to the fact that the citizens of the place will not back up the board in its efforts to give the town better school facilities. Twice a vote has been taken on building a new school house on the present site and one in East Somerville, at the earnest solicitation of the board, and as many times the propositions have been defeated.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter Mr. Clark said he had come into the board only a short time ago by request; that he thought it his duty as a citizen to assist in whatever way he could to better the public school facilities, but he did not care to remain a member of the board and be subject to unjust criticism for doing what was his duty as a member and citizen.

About a hundred citizens of the town have now signed a petition asking the Board of Education to call a public meeting to vote on two new propositions—an addition to the present high school building and a new school building in East Somerville. This petition was tabled by the board.

The Sun's Superiority.

The New York Sun has proved its superiority by securing within the past few years almost the entire commutor element of New Jersey as its readers. This has been done mainly by its accurate accounts, tersely told, its news columns and opinions dealing with events of national as well as local importance. The high mental calibre of its readers is also another proof that it is the peer of all New York dailies. They know that when they want the news that can be relied upon, they read it in The Sun.

THE WHITE RAGE.

Some of Its Forms—Afternoon Dress For at Homes.

White is the rage just now, and some of the garments are literally works of art. White silk with all sorts of ruffles and frills of tulle, crepe lisse, chiffon and lace are put upon them, whether the garment in question is a dress or a long or short wrap. Incrustations of heavy lace are placed upon the skirts and other parts of the dresses. The lighter kinds of lace are employed as inserting above flounces or as insets. Taffeta, satin, crepe de chine and fine white broadcloth are all employed to make elegant gowns for all sorts of occasions. The cloth ones are not considered out of place for street and visiting, but white in the street in winter is too cold looking. Some of the cloth gowns have dainty, narrow borderings of fur of some kind or other. This gives the touch of comfort and is usually headed by incrustations of heavy lace. These separate motifs, as the French call them, are just the designs of lace, without the filling, and they can thus be applied anywhere. Some of them look like figures in bas-relief, so rich and thick they are.

AN AFTERNOON GOWN.

There are grenadines, albatross cloths, liberty and several other kinds of light and youthful silken fabrics which are made up into the prettiest of frocks for evening wear. And all of these are white and are to be trimmed with some kind of lace. I saw one dress for a young debutante made of white taffeta, with an overdress of white tulle, which is so very delicate and fragile a material that it will scarcely bear sewing. Still it is so filmy and misty that it can be compared to nothing but the fog as it blows in from the sea. It is too fragile for ornamentation save a few tucks along the skirt or on the flounces. This particular dress had a slip of taffeta, and the tulle skirt was made on the straight, which means that it was gathered at the belt, and there were several tucks around the bottom just above the deep flounce. The waist, a semidecollete affair, was of the tulle, over taffeta, with heavy lace at the belt and shoulders. The sleeves were of tulle, shirred and finished at the elbows with deep ruffles of the tulle, bordered with lace. No touch of color is added to these white gowns, save where in cloth a narrow fur border is put on.

An afternoon dress for at homes is made of white china crape, and this is ornamented with incrustations of heavy lace of a deeper shade. Some of the lace has tiny white silk buttons added to the design to accentuate the pattern. They are put in clusters to simulate buds or berries. This particular gown shows a slight innovation in the arrangement of the belt, which is suggestive of a complete negligee with a sash, belt and long ends. This is loosely fastened and is really a graceful plan. It makes a dress between a tea gown and a simple house dress suitable to wear to receive visitors in. It should always be made of soft and flexible material, as it depends mostly on its draping for its distinctive character.

Where a lady likes white and yet feels that it is rather too young or too voyante for her age or requirements she can have it fairly covered with black lace. For this purpose no lace will do but chantilly. Black net, chiffon, silk mull and fine grenadine are all seen among the prettiest of the new gowns. These may have a bit of velvet here and there, where the dress requires firmness.

For party and house dresses there is absolutely no limit set on the material to be used to make dresses of, except that it must be white. Black comes next in favor, and some of the combinations are curious. One black lace dress has three skirts, and each of these is bordered with a narrow band of Siberian squirrel fur. To this gown there are two linings, one white taffeta and the other black. Many of the new gowns have rows of fringe at all the edges, and these have flounces to afford edges to set the fringe on.

The fine passementerie braids are put on many of the lace gowns, and as they are produced in all the colors of the season they can be made to match everything. Some of these passementerie braids are really beautiful, and so delicate that it seems a misnomer to call them braid.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

The New York Times
"All the News That's Fit to Print."
Gives more space to news than any other New York newspaper. It prints a greater variety of news. It gives impartial news free from bias. It goes into homes that bar other newspapers. It is a sane newspaper, neat in typographical, rational in its news treatment, and independent in its opinions. It has refused to appeal to the vicious, the ignorant or the thoughtless.
Special Cable news is one of the most important features of THE NEW YORK TIMES. The London Times' foreign reports appear in this country exclusively in THE NEW YORK TIMES. No other American newspaper excels THE NEW YORK TIMES in the presentation of Domestic Telegraphic news. The Associated Press reports are augmented by hundreds of Special Correspondents.
The New York Times
Is Now Appearing Every Sunday
Improved and Enlarged.
A departure of the Magazine Supplement which accompanies each number of the Sunday Editon of THE NEW YORK TIMES is the introduction of Cartoons and Illustrations. The many bright, breezy, entertaining articles are materially more acceptable, being brightened by illustrations from the pens of well-known artists in black and white.
New features will constantly be introduced to improve the Magazine, but the old friend, THE MAN IN THE STREET, will remain to amuse people with his bright, chatty, and clever stories of men and women who figure prominently in the news and events of the day.
The News Section of The Sunday Edition of
will be as interesting as it always is—readers of the SUNDAY TIMES may depend on getting "all the news that's fit to print" promptly, accurately, and well told.
The Financial Quotation Supplement which accompanies the SUNDAY EDITION of THE NEW YORK TIMES covers all transactions in Stocks, Bonds, and Investment Securities—both listed and unlisted. It includes capitalization of corporations—dividends—date and rates, the fluctuations in quotations for the closing week — high and low price for both the current year and the year preceding, and other information indispensable to either investor or speculator to aid him in solving financial problems. The Quotation Supplement is kept on file by all banks and financial institutions for daily references.
THE NEW YORK TIMES
Saturday Review of Books
Which accompanies the Saturday Edition, treats books as news. The book publishers of the country have made THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW OF BOOKS their preferred medium for announcements of new publications.

Compliments Of the Season

A NEW YEAR greeting to you, O friends! Through every day of 1903 may you be blessed with the sweet, cheery temper that nothing can ruffle; may you every day learn wisdom and gain power in a manner agreeable to you! If anybody can wish you anything better than that, I yield the platform.

Women have much to be thankful for since the twentieth century began. Within the past few months the noble new woman movement has manifested its growing strength in the election of numerous ladies to high and responsible offices in various western states, from that of state superintendent of public instruction to county clerk. Early in 1902 the last barrier to full suffrage for women was swept away in Australia, and they are taking advantage of their new citizens' rights with intelligence and rejoicing. Probably the strongest, finest, most enlightened specimens of womanhood on this globe are to be found in Australia and New Zealand.

For the first time in its history the new art salon of Paris saw in 1902 women appointed among its prize awarding judges. For the first time in history 1902 saw a woman licensed as an apothecary in Russia. Also 1902 saw the university of Leipsic, in Germany, conferring its degree on women, a distinction our own American, Dr. M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college, sought in vain a few years ago. Neither in cold Norway is the new woman too frozen up to move. Municipal suffrage has been conferred on the feminine sex there.

Meantime, returning to America, in the United States 1902 has been a year of fuss and sputter among women's clubs. Those that have made solid, dignified progress are exceptions, and those exceptions are mostly confined to the clubs of country towns and small cities.

It is the time of good resolutions. To begin, let us this 1st of January make high resolve that during the year 1903 we will not fuss and sputter, come what will. The habit of eternally talking, of getting wrought up over trifles, is a perpetual power waster.

The mental and spiritual scientists have been grinding away at their particular brand of grist till it begins to be fairly well known in the community. Their favorite preachment early and late is "power from within." They are right. There is no power for you outside of yourself, not even the power of God, for that must dwell and be developed within you before it will be manifest. "The kingdom of heaven is within you."

Most women would give the best year of their lives to know how to gain power to achieve their ideals. They are beginning to understand that nobody else, not even husband or children, can achieve these for them.

Well, can you gain power when you pour yourself out from your toes in feeble talk? No matter what the incessant talk is, if it be about fashions, your ailments, children or servants or gossiping over the foibles or deficiencies of your acquaintances behind their backs, you are wasting the very life-blood of your soul in imbecilities.

Be silent and think. Thus and thus only you gain power. When a civil engineer wishes to supply a city with water from a small stream, he builds a reservoir and a dam and then lets the lake fill up silently and gently. Exactly so a woman may gain mental and spiritual power. The greatest men of all the ages, from Moses to General Grant, have been "silent men." Children weary themselves out in constant infantile prattle and babyish excitement. Women do the same. The frittering away of a life in useless gabble and squabble and in fussing over fashions and clothes is ill fitting employment for the immortal soul of a woman in a land where women have greater opportunity than anywhere else.

The way to stop this feminine fuss and sputter is to stop it. Now, at the opening of the beautiful new year, is the time to begin. Let us resolve, first, that we will only talk when it is necessary. Then, when we do talk, let us not criticise any human being. Let us each say: I myself am the soul I have to work on. When I myself am absolutely perfect, then I may criticise my neighbor's doings; not till then.

Let us be strong and sweet and silent. Let us clothe ourselves with beauty from within, the beauty that never changes its fashion except to grow brighter and brighter unto the perfect day.

Miss Charlotte E. Ainslee of London, who was senior lecturer in the Cambridge Training college, has been appointed head mistress in a woman's college in Edinburgh. This is considered a great step forward in Great Britain, for hitherto ladies have not been looked on as capable of being at the head of a college. Miss Ainslee receives $2,000 salary, which is considered immense in Great Britain.

Mrs. Levi Young is dean of the University of Idaho.

The lady who acts as parliamentary reporter for La Fronde, the woman's newspaper of Paris, has permission of the municipal authorities to wear man's attire when she is on duty, and she does so. This is to enable her to occupy a reporter's seat in the chamber of deputies and elsewhere in official circles. The French seem to respect masculine attire even when there is a woman in it.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"Make no excuses," said Mr. Kent. "You and Vincent are the kings of chefs. Talk about your Waldorf-Astoria! It isn't in it!"

The cooks joined in the breakfast, and it was a hungry and a merry party. Mr. Morton sat at the head of the table and was in splendid humor.

"You don't seem to be lost now, Brother Pence," said Mr. Kent, as he helped that gentleman to another portion of bacon and eggs. "You certainly have found your appetite."

"You let Pence alone," said Mr. Morton. "We will make you cook the next meal as a punishment."

"Perhaps you think I can't cook?" said Mr. Kent, defiantly. "You don't know what I can do!"

"I do," said Mr. Haven. "Pass the sugar, please."

Mr. Kent smiled in a sardonic manner at Mr. Haven, and continued by saying that when a young man he had served as cook for six months in a western mining camp.

Breakfast over, they adjourned to the veranda; Vincent volunteered to clear the table and look after the dishes. For an hour he was a busy man. He donned an apron and washed and wiped the dishes, and stored them away in the china closet. During this operation he smoked a large imported cigar. Every once in a while his face would wreathe in smiles. When his task was ended he lit a fresh cigar, and joined the rest of the party which was grouped on the west veranda, engaged in conference.

"We must divide our work and assign each member of the party a certain responsibility," Mr. Morton was saying. "In the first place we must ascertain, as near as possible, where we are, and then devise means to return to our homes. We may as well dismiss this man Hestor and his yacht from any further consideration. If not crazy he is a villain, and in either case we have little to hope from him. We must explore this island, and then see what can be done. About where do you suppose this island is located, Mr. Hammond? I have my own idea, and I would like to hear from others."

"We are somewhere in the West Indies, or in the Gulf of Mexico or the Carribbean Sea," said Sidney. "That is rather an indefinite answer, I admit, but we should be able by timing the sunrise by our watches—which are set by New York time—to tell about how far west we are, and possibly we can make a calculation which will determine our approximate latitude. I am inclined to think we are well to the west of Cuba and not many hundred miles from the Mexican or Central American coast."

"I entirely agree with you," said Mr. Morton. "I kept as close a watch of the direction taken as possible. Monday was cloudy, but I am sure that on that day and on a part of Sunday we were going in a westerly or southwesterly direction. I figure that we ran about 124 hours on a fairly direct course to this island. The 'Shark's' course was erratic only when Capt. Waters was avoiding other craft. Now, if we averaged 20 miles an hour, that would make a total of 2,480 miles. It may be 100 miles either way from this estimate."

Sidney produced an atlas from the library, and all pored over the map of North America, as if demanding a solution of the puzzle from the tinted page.

"You will not solve the problem of where we are at by gazing at that map," said Mr. Kent. "There are thousands of islands in the West Indies which are not on the map, and we may be in any one of them."

"Here is something that may be of service to us," said Mr. Morton, who had been absent for several minutes. "I took a notion to examine the room occupied by Mr. Hestor last night, and I found this on the dressing case."

Mr. Hestor unrolled a sheet of manila drawing paper containing a well-executed map labeled "Hestoria." It was spread out on the dining table and examined amid much excitement.

"Here is what Hestor named 'Morton Bay,'" said Mr. Carmody, pointing to the pear-shaped lake, "and the black L is the bungalow. Here are the hills which surround the lake," said Mr. Carmody pointing to the shaded portions of the map, back of the bungalow and around "Morton Bay."

"This is not a complete map of the island," said Sidney Hammond. "It is merely a detailed map of the immediate surroundings of the bay. There is the reservoir he spoke about, and here is the brook which passes the bungalow. Let's see if we can find any other map in his room."

A thorough search revealed none. They then proceeded to make a careful study of the map, but it threw no light on their position on the broad surface of the globe. All that the map showed was the contour of the bay, the course of the brook to the reservoir, and a little to the west of it, also the location of the bungalow and the small island in the bay. There was no scale, and the waters to the east were designated by no name.

"For all that this map shows we may be on the moon," said Mr. Kent. "All that we know is that we are alive and well, and somewhere in the tropics. We may be east or west or north or south of Cuba. For all I know we may be off South America."

"Well, we can consider this later," said Mr. Morton. "Let's get down to business. It would not be right for good Americans to do anything without an organization, and I move that Mr John M. Rockwell be made chairman, and that Mr. Sidney Hammond act as secretary. All in favor of the motion say 'aye!'"

There was a chorus of "ayes," in which Mr. Rockwell joined with a laugh.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Rockwell, "I have presided at many meetings, and with varied success, but this is the most interesting and perhaps the most important in my experience. I will make a formal speech when we are out of the woods; or more properly perhaps, out of the ocean. What is the pleasure of the meeting?"

"In my opinion, Mr. President," said Mr. Morton, "our first duty is to change the name of the island. Its present name is distasteful to me. I move you sir, that in view of the character of the men who now inhabit it, that we call it 'Social Island.'"

MAP OF "SOCIAL ISLAND," (or Hestoria.)

The motion was carried unanimously amid applause in which a flock of parrots and cockatoos joined.

"Now, Mr. President," continued Mr. Morton, "it occurs to me that there are three divisions of work that should engage our attention. The first is our sustenance during the time we are compelled to remain on this island. It can be classed under the broad head of housekeeping. The second is a thorough exploration of the island, and as careful an estimate of our whereabouts as possible. The third is to plan and provide means of escape. I move that the president appoint committees to supervise and be held responsible for the performance of these duties."

The motion being carried, Mr. Rockwell pondered a few moments and said:

"I am of the opinion that all members of the Social Island Colony should serve on the committee on housekeeping. If the work is shared by all, the task will be light, but if it devolves on one or two men it will be mere drudgery. I am going to appoint Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent as general superintendent of the Social Island bungalow, and of all the lands and game preserves thereunto appertaining. He will have full authority to call on the services of any member not employed at the time on other duties, and in case of dispute the president will render a decision. The president will also be subject to Mr. Vincent's authority in the matter of household duties. It will be accepted as unwritten law that each member must keep his own room in order. Mr. Vincent, will you accept this commission?"

"Yes, sir—or Mr. President, rather," said Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent. He was delighted with the title of general superintendent and by the extent of his authority.

TOOK BATH WITH EELS.

Harrowing Experience of an Indiana Girl Who Was Staying with Friends in Chicago.

The Chicago Inter Ocean tells this strange tale of a family on Delaware place with a palate for eels. As often as twice a week the head of the family carries home from the fish market two or three of the slippery, snakelike wrigglers.

In the front rooms of the apartment where lives this family are two young women from Indiana, who, during their sojourn in the city, are boarding with the family of eel eaters.

One night last week the man of the house took home three eels. After stumbling about the darkened house in a futile search for a bucket, he hit upon another plan. He tiptoed to the bathroom and turned the eels loose in the bathtub.

As soon as the house was quiet the younger of the two sisters, dressed for her dreams, stole out of her room with a heavy crash towel thrown across her arm and proceeded to the bathroom. The room was dark and she could find no matches. Not caring to search for a match, she decided to bathe in the dark, and accordingly turned on the hot and cold water. When the tub was well filled the young woman stepped in. The hot water had put life into the slippery eels, and when the young woman got both feet into the tub the creatures slid about her ankles and across her feet.

That was all she remembered. With one hysterical scream she began kicking furiously and crying for help. Her elder sister, fearing she was being murdered, ran to the bathroom, but found the door locked. After a couple of moments had elapsed the girl imprisoned in the bathroom fell out of the tub and managed to unlock the door. Not hearing the anxious questions her frightened sister was crying at her, she fairly flew down the hallway, clad only in the darkness.

"What in the world is the matter, sister?" asked the elder one,

"Oh, horrors!" shuddered the hysterical girl, "the bathtub is full of snakes!"

By this time the head of the family, clad in pajamas, was tottering up and down the hallway choking in a spasm of laughter. He stamped his feet, hit his head against the wall, and at last controlled himself sufficiently to light the gas in the bathroom and call his wife to take a look at the room. The floor was flooded with water, and two of the eels were wriggling upon the floor.

EVERYBODY LAUGHED.

Why an Unfortunate English Conjuror Made a Sudden Bolt for the Dressing Room.

At a public entertainment in London recently a conjurer had an experience which was highly comical, though quite disastrous from a professional point of view.

HEN WAS AN OLD ROOSTER.

Having produced an egg from a previously empty bag, he announced that he would follow up this trick by bringing from the bag the hen that laid the egg.

This little arrangement he had left to his confederate to carry out.

He proceeded to drop the bird from the bag, but what was his surprise on finding that the alleged hen was an old rooster, which strutted about the stage with ruffled feathers and offended dignity, and set up as vigorous a crowing as if it had just awakened from its nocturnal slumbers.

The whole audience shrieked with laughter, and the unfortunate conjurer made a bolt for the dressing-room.

MAKING ROOM.

Changes Planned to Cory Building to Accommodate Tenants Who Need More Room.

Several important changes are being planned for the Cory building at the corner of Park avenue and Front street. J. J. Kinney, the shoe dealer, wants more room and to give him the extra space in the rear, the Park avenue entrance to the Gayle hardware store will be used and another entrance will be established where the Postal Telegraph Company's office is if the company will move. The superintendent of the company, G. H. Usher, was in Plainfield last week. He proposes to establish a thoroughly up-to-date office with new furnishings.

Jerry Foss, the fish dealer, has received notice to move, and it is said that he expects to move on Park avenue opposite North avenue. The owner of the Cory building wants the telegraph company to take the place now occupied by the fish market, thus giving that room to the hardware store.

CHURCH OFFICERS.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTMAS TIME FOR MISS CURRY'S TOTS

How the Holiday Season Has Been Spent at Little Missionary Day Nursery.

MANY WERE MADE GLAD

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES HELD AT THE SEVENTH STREET M. E. CHURCH.

How Miss Curry's Charge is Growing, and in What Directions—Distribution of Gifts at the Yuletide Season.

The holiday week has been a busy one for Miss Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 St. Marks place, New York, with over two hundred children to provide with Christmas dolls, candy and clothes, together with the distribution where they would do the most good, of a miscellaneous lot of things sent in for that purpose. Besides, Miss Curry has had her hands full training the children for their Christmas entertainment. The work has grown so fast that the nursery was not large enough to accommodate all who desired to hear and see the children.

Rev. J. R. Henry, of the Seventh Street M. E. church, kindly offered Miss Curry his church, which was filled with the friends of the children and of the work. It was remarked how well the children sang and recited. At the close of the entertainment, L. B. Rolston, president of the nursery, spoke of its growth and great work, starting as it were from a grain of mustard seed, sown by God's faithful servant, Miss Curry, six years ago, when she had but twenty children.

The nursery work is extending with its kindergarten department now needing more room, its cooking school for mothers and young girls to improve themselves in that part of housekeeping, its Tuesday night mother's meeting which is well attended, and its Friday night men's meeting, where all classes and denominations meet to hear the Gospel preached. Mr. Rolston stated that he hardly knew what to say about such a grand work, only that God is behind it with His blessing. The training of the children speaks of thoroughness and patience on the part of Miss Curry.

With a merry Christmas to all Santa Claus made his appearance and made himself solid with the children by seeing that all had presents. Everyone was pleased with the evening's entertainment. The tree was transferred to the nursery and loaded down with nice things for thirty-five additional children, who otherwise would not have had anything. One family of five had nothing in the house. Another poor mother, with a baby fourteen days old, was without fire or food. And all were of this extremely poor class. It would have done one's heart good to see how happy they all were, forgetting everything while the good time lasted. Miss Curry seems to have the faculty of making the most unfortunate happy. Many have been made comfortable by her thoughtfulness. The Little Missionary Day Nursery is a beacon light on the eastside for the poor unfortunate young and old.

MAYOR'S IDEAS FOR NEW YEAR

Full Text of His Annual Message Presented to Common Council Last Night.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

Water Company's Contract, Telephone Signal Service for Police, New High School, Public Parks, Extension of Sewers Are the Topics He Touches Upon.

The following is the complete text of the annual message of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, presented to the Common Council at last evening's meeting:

MAYOR'S OFFICE.
Plainfield, N. J.
January 2, 1903.

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.:

Gentlemen: From the financial point of view, you enter upon the discharge of your duties more highly favored than any of your predecessors. Never before in the history of this city was there found at the beginning of the fiscal year so large a balance in the general fund. That balance is $31,244.43 and there are no outstanding obligations against it. The police department has been conducted with such economy as to save nearly $1,000 from its appropriation. In the street department, the last of the first series of $12,000 street improvement bonds has been paid off, as well as $3,000 of the last issue, leaving outstanding only $2,000 of these bonds, none of which has yet matured. The expenditures and liabilities in all departments were kept within the limit of appropriations, as indeed is strictly necessary under the law, and all payments were made from taxes and assessments for prior years and the early collections of taxes for 1902, without borrowing a dollar (except in the fire department) in anticipation of the collection of such taxes. Instead of having to pay interest charges for money borrowed, with the single exception stated, the city has received interest from its deposits in bank. This highly creditable condition of the city's finances is attributable in part to the continued enforcement of the Martin Act and, in part, to the collection of franchize taxes on public-service corporations, but also in large measure to the wise and economical administration of the city government by the Council of 1902.

Taxes.

The proceedings taken under the Martin Act to enforce payment of delinquent real estate taxes, have proved most effective, both with respect to taxes long past due and adjustable by the Commissioners and the taxes assessed since the Commissioners made their report. The proceedings under the act referred to, are complicated and require the exercise of the greatest care on the part of the several city officers charged with the performance of those duties. So far, the result shows how well the city has been served in this matter. There should be no relaxation of effort to punctiliously observe every requirement of the statute in future proceedings under the act.

The collection of delinquent personal property taxes has not proceeded satisfactorily. Some of these taxes, doubtless, are uncollectible, owing to the removal of the delinquents from the city, or other like causes; but the fact remains that large amounts are due to the city for personal property taxes from delinquents who still reside in the city, and whose personal property may be seized and sold, or, if any are without property subject to seizure, such persons may be taken into custody until they find means to pay to the city their just obligations. I respectfully suggest that this matter be referred to some appropriate committee to confer with the Corporation Counsel and the Tax Collector with a view of securing the prompt and rigorous enforcement of the law applicable to the situation.

School Taxes, School Bonds, Etc.

The determination of the amount to be assessed for school taxes, exclusive of the State school taxes, is now placed within the jurisdiction of the Board of School Estimate, composed of the Mayor, two members of the Common Council and two members of the Board of Education, subject to the limitation that the amount shall not exceed three-fourths of one per centum of the taxable valuation of

JUSTICE WAS WELL ENOUGH TO ATTEND

So the December Term of the Somerset County Court Resumed Session Yesterday.

FEW CASES WERE READY

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO ASSESS BENEFITS FOR COUNTY ROADS.

One Circuit Court Case Came Up for Trial and Was Completed—The Others Were Laid Over Until Next Monday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 6—The Supreme and Circuit list of the December term of Somerset county courts, which was laid over from the opening day, because Justice Garretson was too ill to be present then, were taken up yesterday when the health of the court was improved to such an extent that he was able to preside.

Only four cases on the Supreme list were ready for trial. Of these only two are of particular interest to Plainfielders—that of Elijah Stevens against John P. D. Kirch, administrator, and Enoch L. VanDoren against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company. These will be tried Monday.

On the Circuit list the only case ready is that of Den J. Galbraith against Chas. E. Moldenke. This, according to agreement of counsels, will be tried by Judge Schenck, after all the others have been disposed of.

The case of Wm. A. Reynolds against Richard H. Brokaw was tried yesterday. H. C. Suydam was the counsel for the plaintiff and A. A. Clark and Geo. W. Anderson for the defense. The plaintiff lives in Wilmington, Del., and is the executor of the estate of his uncle, the late Obadiah B. Reynolds, of Bound Brook. In looking over the papers of his uncle he found two promissory notes, endorsed by the defendant, and brought suit for payment. These notes had been charged to O. B. Reynolds when they came due. Brokaw claimed that he had settled everything with Reynolds and that when the notes came due he was to look after their payment. He produced a receipt, signed by O. B. Reynolds, in full. Verdict was in favor of the defense.

On the Pluckemin road Geo. W. Anderson, John J. Bunn and Richard Moldenke were appointed commissioners to assess benefits and on the Hillsborough and Skillman roads Geo. W. Anderson, Edward L. Fisher and George Terrell were appointed.

Court was then adjourned until Monday, as Justice Garretson did not feel able to go on with the other cases.

CAUGHT BETWEEN TRAINS.

Half Dozen People Had Narrow Escape at Grant Avenue Station.

A half dozen people had a narrow escape Saturday evening from being killed at the Grant Avenue station. They were getting off the 5:30 o'clock train from New York, and because of an eastbound coal train they were obliged to stand on the tracks until it passed. In the meantime a Royal Blue eastbound train came along at a high rate of speed. The people saw the fast train just in time, and they escaped being struck by laying flat on the ground between the express and the train which they left. It was a hair's breadth escape and everyone of the six people were thoroughly frightened. It is said that the matter will be investigated.

Another Chance.

Delinquent taxpayers will have a few more days of grace in which to make their appearance at the borough collector's office, as he has commuted the time to January 15. After that date the bills will positively be placed in the hands of the special marshal for collection.

Blocked Traffic.

A car on the Fourth street line jumped the track near Spooner avenue, late Sunday evening, and ploughed across the street into the curb. Traffic in that section was hampered for an hour while it was being replaced.

In Justice Mosher's Court.

Summons have been issued in Justice Mosher's court in the contract case of the New York Painting and Decorating Company against Van-Name. Papers returnable January 12.

At Methodist Church.

Three members were received on probation and four by letter at the communion service in the First M. E. Church, Sunday.

DR. PROBASCO AGAIN HEADS SCHOOL BOARD

Was Elected President of City Board of Education for the Tenth Consecutive Term.

SESSION WAS SHORT ONE

BOARD OF HEALTH'S SET OF RULES WAS ADOPTED BY BOARD.

President Probasco Named His Committees—Regular Reports Were Received—A Memorial for Miss Shattuck.

Last evening's meeting of the City Board of Education was one of the shortest in many months, despite the fact that it was the first of the year. Scarcely an hour was required to transact the business.

Prominent among the matters transacted was the passing of the Board of Health's set of rules, excluding pupils from school for stated periods when they had been exposed to contagious diseases. The subject was first broached last month but as the time a difference of opinion prevented its acceptance. It will now go into immediate effect. The isolation of pupils will probably alter the city's apportionment of State school money as the rate is based on attendance and this is not allowed after quarantine is removed.

Being the first meeting of the fiscal year officers of the board were elected as follows: President, Dr. J. B. Probasco; secretary, F. T. Woodhull; clerk, F. B. Clark. This makes Dr. Probasco's tenth consecutive term as executive officer. He immediately appointed his committees as follows: Teachers and text books, Messrs. Abbott, Lovell and Probasco; stationary and supplies, Woodhull, Abbott and Probasco; buildings and repairs, Abbott, Lovell and Probasco; fuel, Cave, Lovell, Woodhull; finance, Lovell, Abbott and Cave.

The usual reports were submitted as follows: Tax collector's, total amount received, $3,897; custodian's, total balance on hand, $20,058.69; medical inspectors', pupils examined, 17. Superintendent Maxson reported receiving $315 which represented the receipts from the Turner art exhibit given in the Franklin School. He also mentioned having been given $11.95 from the teachers of the city as a nucleus fund for a memorial in honor of the late Miss Emma V. Shattuck, principal of the Bryant and Lincoln schools. The board heartily approved of the teachers' action in beginning the movement. The concluding item of business was the appointment of James Keenan as assistant janitor of the Bryant School.

TO CLEAN PRIMARIES.

Gov. Murphy's Commission Has a Plan to Prevent Repeating.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 6—The Primary Election Reform Commission, appointed by Gov. Murphy under an act of last winter, made public yesterday its plan for purifying party primaries in New Jersey. The commission has prepared a bill to be presented to the next Legislature.

The bill as drawn provides for the conducting of primaries at public expense by the regular election officers on the first registry day. Official ballots are to be used, to be prepared by municipal clerks. Names are to be arranged upon the ballots in alphabetical order. Any person's name may be placed upon such ballots, either as a candidate or for delegate to a convention, on petition of ten persons. Persons deciding to vote in such primary elections shall declare their politics to the election board and may swear their vote in whenever it is challenged.

Vocal Sight Reading.

A class for young men and women will be started by Miss Anna O. Marsh, 915 Madison avenue, Thursday evening at 8:30. The teaching will be similar to Mr. Damrosch's in the people's classes in New York city. The charges for these lessons are very reasonable, because they are given in classes of ten pupils or more.

Restored the Child.

Mrs. William Schuyrocber, who lives on Harrison street, missed her eight-year-old son from the house yesterday and started out in pursuit of him. She met Chief Marshall Campbell to whom she told her tale and he soon found the child and restored him to its parents.

NAMED COMMITTEES.

Young Women's Club Preparing for Future Work.

The monthly business meeting of the Young Women's Club was held last evening when considerable business was transacted. The president, Miss Justina Smith, appointed committees as follows: House—Miss Moraller, Miss Lockhart; general social—Miss Agnes Morse, Miss Viola Conklin, Miss Genevieve Leo; monthly social—Miss Cregar, Miss Leahy and Miss Duffy.

A few changes were made in the by-laws and new rules adopted. The members decided to begin planning for occupying the new rooms in the Babcock building, when completed. The club received word from Mrs. George Babcock that she believed the building would be completed between March 1 and April 1. Reports were received from the various classes and these were encouraging.

LOCAL TEAM WON EASILY

DEFEATED JERSEY CITY Y. M. C. A. AT BASKET BALL.

Plainfield Association's Five Won by a Score of 22 to 1 Last Night.

Very one-sided was the basket ball game played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last evening between the fives of the Jersey City Y. M. C. A. and the local association. While the visitors were powerful players, they sadly lacked experience and the local combination threw goals at will. The final result was 22 to 1.

From the very start it was evident that the play of the visitors would be wholly on the defensive. They had no semblance of team play but their greatest fault was in failing to cover their opponents. The Y. M. C. A. boys, on the contrary, made the best showing they have made this season. There was an improvement in the team play and all the association players displayed much more accuracy in goal throwing. The game was too one-sided, however, to be very exciting and most of the interest was centered in the size of the score the local boys would roll up.

Both teams played hard and the pace was rather lively but the ball kept in the neighborhood of the visitors' goal nearly all the time, the Jersey City boys failing to take advantage of what openings they had. It was, however, their first game out of town and was played with little or no practice together.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Plainfield.		Jersey City.
Denton	right forward	Abrams
Hand, Neil	left forward	Shelton
Cahoone	center	DeWolf

Score—Plainfield Y M. C. A., 22; Jersey City Y. M. C. A., 1. Goals from the field—Denton (3), Hand, Cahoone (5), Scull. Goals on fouls—Cahoone (2), Shelton. Fouls—Plainfield, 8; Jersey City, 3. Referee—C. E. A. Heywood, Umpires—J. E. Downey and C. Dow, of Jersey City. Timekeeper—Ray Smith. Scorer—John H. Doane.

DIED IN BROOKLYN.

Aged Man, Who Formerly Resided in Plainfield, Passed Away.

Word has reached that city of the death in Brooklyn of Joseph Brick, who resided for many years on Terrill road near South avenue. He went to Brooklyn to live with a relative about one year ago.

The deceased was in the neighborhood of seventy-five years old. He leaves a widow and two sons, Henry and John, both of this city. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral but it will undoubtedly take place in this city.

Graduation Exercises.

Last Sunday graduation exercises were held at the First Baptist church Sunday-school. Fifteen children were graduated from the primary department to the intermediate grade, and several were graduated from the intermediate grade to the main school.

Cemetery Deal Off.

The options on the property at Oak Tree which was to have been used for a cemetery expired January 1, and the deal is now off. Out-of-town capitalists were planning to buy this land and locate a cemetery in Oak Tree near the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Sent to Skillman.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKee, who has on several occasions caused excitement on the streets, has undergone an examination and it was found that she was suffering from epileptic fits, and she has been sent to the institution at Skillman for treatment.

QUEEN CITY'S CHOICE PLACED IN OFFICE

Public Installation Was Held at Meeting of a Local Lodge of Odd Fellows.

FOLLOWED BY SPEECHES

GRAND MASTER BECKER AND STAFF WERE PRESENT.

Lodge Rooms Were Prettily Decorated, While Refreshments Followed Installation Ceremonies—Those Who Spoke.

The installation of officers recently elected by the Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., took place last evening in the lodge rooms. Japanese lanterns hung about the rooms and moss rope intertwining gave the room the appearance of a large summer garden.

When Grand Master Becker and his staff entered the hall every seat was taken while in the center of the room were two large tables laden with tempting viands to which the Odd Fellows and their friends did full justice after the installation ceremonies. These are the officers installed in their respective offices last evening and who will serve for the ensuing term:

Noble grand, William Leitheusser; vice grand, F. G. Walsh; recording secretary, H. J. Malloy; financial secretary, F. D. Fuller; treasurer, J. P. Allis; conductor, F. C. Smith; warden, R. E. Humphrey; inner guard, C. S. Everett; outside guard, George Moorehouse; right support to noble grand, A. Case; left support to noble grand, H. H. Hoffman; right scene supporter, J. McConnell; left scene supporter, James W. Way; right supporter to vice grand, P. A. VanFleet; left supporter to vice grand, J. H. Andrews; chaplain, B. W. Hand; P. G. R., J. Weil.

After the installation of officers, Chaplain B. F. Hand acted as toastmaster and called upon many of those present for a few remarks. Grand Master Becker responded to the toast "Fraternity;" Noble Grand William Junison, of Plainfield, 44, "The American Flag;" W. S. Smith, of Westfield, "Good Fellowship;" Grand Treasurer John H. Carney, "Comicalities;" R. J. Neil, "Duties of Odd Fellowship;" Past Grand Alex. Muir, "Athletics;" G. Thorn, "What Constitutes a Good Odd Fellow," and Eden Boice, "Stick to it."

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by a roaring sketch by Sweeney and Firstbrook in which many local hits were made. Among the guests present was a large number of members from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, who came to the hall of their companion lodge after their regular meeting.

The committee of Queen City Lodge which arranged the affair, was as follows: Past Grand A. Case, R. E. Humphrey, and D. C. Peterson.

ASSOCIATION MEN.

Conference of Employed Officers of Y. M. C. A. Held at Orange.

C. E. A. Heywood attended the conference of the Employed Officers of the Young Men's Christian Association, held at the Y. M. C. A. building at Orange yesterday. The subject under discussion was "Educational Work," and was introduced by the physical director of the Trenton Y. M. C. A. The entire morning and afternoon was taken up with a discussion of this and other subjects and after the session the delegates were taken through the new building. MAYOR NAMES NEW OFFICIALS

Appointments for the Year Made by Mayor and Confirmed by the Council.

THE B. OF H.'S REPORT

Dr. C. B. Lufborrow Was Appointed City Physician—Craig A. Marsh Reappointed Corporation Counsel—Health Board Presented An Illustrated Report.

The attention of the Common Council was occupied with a number of important matters at its adjourned meeting held last evening. All of the members, except Mr. vanHerwerden, who is out of town, were present. President Buckle was prompt in calling the meeting and the business was transacted expeditiously.

During the first part of the session several communications were received. One was from Charles J. Fisk, president of the Board of Health, in which he stated that the amount needed for the use of the board during the coming year, exclusive of that needed in case of small-pox, was $3,750, and he asked the Council to appropriate that sum.

Mrs. Sarah R. Runyon, per H. O. Newman, asked the Council to return $18.70 which sum was paid twice for taxes assessed in 1901. The matter was referred, as was also a petition from D. S. Alpaugh and others asking for an electric light between Fifth and Sixth streets on Sycamore street. At this time the Mayor's annual message was read, after which on Mr. Lee's motion the clerk was instructed to furnish each member with a copy of it. The message appears in full in another part of The Daily Press.

Following the reading of the message the Mayor made a number of appointments, all of which were confirmed. As members of the Board of Health, Charles J. Fisk and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges to succeed themselves and Charles H. Dunham to succeed Herman A. Weber, whose term expired. The term is for two years. Albert H. Atterbury was appointed as a commissioner of appeal for three years, to succeed himself, and Craig A. Marsh was re-appointed corporation counsel for one year. Leonard Waldo was appointed a director of the Public Library and Reading Room to fill out the unexpired term of the late E. C. Perkins, and Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow was appointed city physician for a term of three years, to succeed Dr. J. H. Carman.

Moses Quaas, who has been a special policeman, was appointed a regular man and the following special policemen were appointed: William Harding, Steven R. Hope, Charles Harris, Henry Pugh, Jesse Scull, Joseph Morrison, George Dean, Daniel F. Stewart, William Downs, J. H. Conroy, Edward Martin, Alexander D. Ayers, Charles Geise, Fred Winn, Jacob Wagner, Jacob Kriney, William J. Monsell, C. J. McCarthy, Frank R. Vanderhoff, Thomas Marcum, Thomas Clarkson, William Addis, Sr., Frank Kelson, Isaac Kennedy, Edward Maynard, W. J. Eakins, Edgar Brokaw, Lewis Peterson, Edwin Dobbs, Jeremiah Cash, James Babbitt, James Bulmer, Robert McCormick, Nathan Pollard, William Forrestel, Thomas O'Gorman, Samuel J. Robinson, Isaac Houston, David Bush.

The fourteenth annual report of the Board of Health was presented and after the reading of a portion of it, Mr. Lee moved that it be placed on file. The report is one of the most complete and comprehensive ever presented. It is arranged in a neat and intelligent manner and includes a full report of the health officer, Leon R. Thurlow, together with a number of pictures showing the isolation hospital, various appliances used in the treatment of contagious diseases and a number of dairies, as well as the labratory in the Board of Health rooms. The report will be subsequently published in The Daily Press.

Mr. Lee reported that while visiting fire headquarters early last evening he learned that the horse used for No. 2 hose wagon is lame and he considered it necessary to lay the animal off for the present. The horse has reached an advanced age and recent runs have been a severe strain on it. It is the mate to the horse killed a few years ago at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street.

In view of the fact, Mr. Lee offered

real and personal property in the city without the concurrence of the Common Council.

By reason of the recent action of the Board of Education and the Board of School Estimate, taken under the new school law, it is now, if the constitutionality of the school law be conceded, incumbent on the Common Council to appropriate the sum of $125,000 for the purchase of land and the erection thereon, of a new High School building, and to borrow the money and secure its payment by the issue of bonds payable not more than thirty years from the date thereof. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds are required to be deposited with the custodian of school moneys, viz.: the City Treasurer, and to be paid out only on the warrants, or orders, of the Board of Education.

How best to arrange for the issue, date of maturity and collection of interest and principal, are questions requiring mature consideration. Heretofore all school bonds issued in this city have been issued by the Board of Education. Of such bonds, there are now outstanding $40,000, $4,000 of which mature each year, and in addition to such bonds, there is outstanding a bond and mortgage of $21,000 on which $1,000 is payable each year. It will be seen, therefore, that $5,000 of the present bonded indebtedness of the Board of Education will be payable each year from the present down to and including the year 1911, and thereafter, $1,000 each year down to and including the year 1922. I suggest, therefore, that in order to equalize as nearly as may be the annual assessment of taxes on account of school bonds, some such plan as the following be adopted; that is to say, that the new bonds be all of the denomination of $1,000, and be made to mature as follows: On September 1, 1912, three bonds: on the first days of March from 1913 to 1916 both inclusive, five bonds, and that the remaining bonds necessary to be issued to raise the balance of the $125,000 shall be made payable in such manner that an equal number, as nearly as may be, shall mature on the first days of March of each and every year from 1917 to 1933, both inclusive. It is also suggested that in order to save interest on the deferred issue, not more than $60,000 of the proposed new bonds be issued and sold during the early part of the present year, and that the remaining bonds necessary to be sold to realize the total amount ordered to be raised, be not issued or sold until one year later than the date of the first issue. The plan suggested would make all the bonds payable within the thirty year limit prescribed by the statute. It is believed that the amount to be realized from the proceeds of the sale of the $60,000 of bonds would furnish all the money actually needed to purchase the lands and make the necessary payments to fall due on account of the building during the present year.

Water Supply Contract.

By reference to the correspondence between the Plainfield Water Supply Company and the city, on file with the City Clerk, and the action taken thereon by the last Common Council, it will be observed that the city has the option at any time between the present and the first day of April next, to renew the present contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company for the period of nine years from the second day of May next. This matter had the serious consideration of the last Common Council and is one requiring prompt attention from the present Common Council, to the end that if it shall be deemed wise to elect to exercise the option referred to, notice of such election may be promptly given, and if the contrary conclusion is reached, negotiations should promptly ensue looking to the protection of the city at the expiration of the present contract on the first day of May next. The last communication from the Plainfield Water Supply Company set forth that unless the city should give notice to the company on or before the first day of April, 1903, of its intention not to renew the existing contract, the same should be considered as renewed for nine years. It recommended that the city take some affirmative action rather than allow the city's rights to depend upon the failure to give any notice.

Police Department.

Recent investigations made by the police department have made it clear to my mind that the time has arrived for the introduction in this city of an up-to-date police telephone signal service. Twelve or fifteen signal boxes should be established at appropriate places throughout the city having telephone communication with police headquarters. Each box should have three or more signal buttons: one for police officers, one for citizens and one for fire alarm. Automatic devices in connection with such a system would record at police headquarters all signals there received. The use of the system would practically dispense with most of the duties of roundsmen. The record so made would be the best possible test of the manner in which the city is patrolled by policemen, and it would establish the records of the several members of the force in an impartial manner. The inauguration and use of such a system practicall ydoubles the effectiveness of the work of police officers. Violators of the law knowing that any police officer or any citizen having a key could summon aid, likely to arrive in a few minutes time, it would often operate to prevent infractions of the law. The efficiency of the fire department and its signal service would be greatly enhanced. After the system has once been installed, the expense of maintenance is very small. The need of this great public improvement being so manifest, and the city being now in funds which can be spared for that purpose without injury to any other department, I heartily commend for your favorable consideration the project of the speedy introduction of such a system in this city. From a rough estimate of the probable expense of the installation of such a system, it is believed that $5,000 would suffice.

In this connection, and before the wires shall be laid, it is important to consider whether the best interests of the city do not require better quarters and appointments for the city court and city jail and police headquarters than those now in use.

City Parks.

If Plainfield has one conspicuous defect it is that it possesses only one public park. The rapid development of the different sections of the city make it manifest that if the city is to acquire land for park purposes without requiring the purchase and removal of buildings, it is time that action be taken. The need of public parks for the health and well-being of our inhabitants, not to speak of the utility of such parks as tending to increase property values and attract new residents, are so obvious as to need no mention. Action in the premises has been too long deferred already. Legislation ample to enable the city to proceed promptly and effectively will be found in Public Laws of 1902, and other legislation likewise available will be found in the General Statutes.

Sewerage.

The system of sewerage now in use in this city was established after the best consideration which previous Common Councils, aided by the advice of a large committee of our foremost citizens, and the assistance of sanitary engineers of the highest standing, were able to give. Under the painstaking and intelligent supervision of our City Engineer, it is doing excellent service. There are portions of the city, however, not yet connected with the city's sewerage system, and the duty of the city with respect to supplying those sections with adequate facilities for connecting with the sewerage system is one of the pressing questions that will come up for consideration by your honorable body. While it is true that those sections of the city to which the present system does not extend have not been assessed for any special benefits to help pay for the cost of establishing the system, and taxable valuations of property in such sections have not been raised so as to represent property having sewer connections, it is equally true that all the property in the city contributes towards the expense of maintenance and also contributes towards the payment of the sewer bonds, principal and interest. In those portions of the city in which numerous buildings have already been erected, or are in process of construction, some means should be found to give the property owners the benefit of the sewerage disposal works and the use of the mains acquired mainly at the general expense. It is a large question and many difficulties will need be surmounted but, for that very reason, the matter is entitled to early consideration at your hands.

Street Improvements.

The very full report submitted by the street committee and on file with the city clerk, renders it unnecessary to call attention at this time to that department of city work. It has been in excellent hands and the method of construction, maintenance and repair in use it would be difficult to improve upon. I still adhere to the views already communicated to the Common Council that recourse to the method of making permanent street improvements by the issue of bonds, however temporary in character, and subsequently raising the money to pay the bonds by assessments made by Commissioners appointed by the county court, ought not to be resorted to except in those rare instances in which the ordinary method pursued in this city is found wholly impracticable.

Other Departments.

The departments of fire, health, alms, city court, library and other branches of our local government, have been managed with rare vigilance and skill. The reports of the heads of the several governmental agencies on file will give all needed information of their present status, and the recommendations found therein will furnish the basis for any desired improvements.

The record made up for the year 1901 was one of which the city was justly proud. That the city has been able not only to keep up to the high standard established, but to attain even a higher degree of efficiency, and to leave the city in a better situation financially, and in all other respects, than that heretofore attained, is indeed the subject for profound gratification on the part of all of our citizens. If the joint efforts of the legislative and executive departments of the present administration shall suffice to make up a record of equal excellence for the present year, it is believed that the result is assured.

Your obedient servant,
Olin L. Jenkins,
Mayor.

January CLEARING SALE!

THE most powerful economic trade movement of the entire year—broader in conception than any preceding sale and involving thousands of dollars' worth of finest and best productions from famous mills and makers in every part of the world. In accord with the governing principle of this great business, every surplus stock, odd lot and remnant must be disposed of before inventory, and to this end the most effective measures are resorted to. Former markings are ignored, cost totally unconsidered, and tremendous losses taken on high grade lines of all kinds of outerwear, underwear, furnishings and home or personal requirements. Many lots are small, and inasmuch as aisle tables all over the store hold a wealth of unmatched bargains, too much stress can scarcely be placed on the importance of getting here early.

Nearly all of the thousands of pieces here were made up expressly for us. Were fortunate enough to secure the samples of several makers and importers for a fraction of their worth, and without exaggeration the bargains of this occasion have at no time been approached, even during the most important of Muslin Underwear Sales gone.

DIPLOMATIC SHIFTS.

President's Appointments Indicate General Shakeup.

DAVID J. HILL GOES TO SWITZERLAND

He Has Held Office of Assistant Secretary of State For Longer Time Than Any of His Predecessors Excepting Mr. Seward.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A general shakeup in the diplomatic service was disclosed in the big batch of appointments the president sent to the senate yesterday.

Dr. David J. Hill, the present first assistant secretary of state, is nominated minister to Switzerland.

He will be succeeded in the state department by Frank B. Loomis, at present minister to Portugal, on leave.

Charles Page Bryan, former minister to Venezuela, succeeds Loomis in Portugal.

Dr. Hill has held the office of assistant secretary of state for a longer time than any of his twenty-four predecessors in that office, excepting Mr. Seward, and during a period of unusual diplomatic activity which required his close attention to the business of the department. The assignment to Switzerland is understood to be pleasing to him, not only for personal and family reasons, his children being at present at school in Lausanne, but because the post affords excellent opportunities for the prosecution of certain special work in which he is deeply interested.

Dr. Hill does not expect to leave his post here for several weeks, and when he does he will do so with the regret of Secretary Hay and his colleagues, for he has, as the secretary freely admits, been of almost inestimable service to the department during the momentous happenings of the last four years owing to his profound knowledge of diplomacy as a profession.

DAVID J. HILL.

The changes are made possible in consequence of the extensive diplomatic revolution that took place last September. Mr. Bryan, then minister to Brazil, was named as minister to Switzerland, and Arthur S. Hardy, then minister to Switzerland, was made minister to Spain to succeed Bellamy Storer, transferred to be ambassador at St. Petersburg in place of Mr. Tower, who went to Berlin to succeed Andrew White, resigned. Mr. Hardy sailed from New York a few days ago for Switzerland to present his letters of recall, and when that is done he will go to Madrid, according to the original programme. Mr. Bryan, although appointed and confirmed to be United States minister to Switzerland, has never yet been able to occupy that post and will not of course do so now. He is in this country and will go hence directly to Lisbon to fill Mr. Loomis' place.

Colored Mail Carrier Threatened.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Postmaster General Payne has received information that a posse of white citizens at Boeufriver, La., has ordered Charles Jackson, a negro mail carrier, not to return with the mail on his route and threatened him with death in case he did not heed their injunction. The reason given by the posse was the color of the carrier. The case was reported at once to the postal authorities, and Post-office Inspector Peters of the New Orleans division has been dispatched with orders to make a thorough investigation.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

To the public at large the most interesting happening at last evening's Common Council meeting was the annual message of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins. With characteristic frankness, Mayor Jenkins points out what he thinks should be done during the year and makes his recommendations without beating around the bush. There are some very important points which he brings to the public view and which promise to make the present year an eventful one for the Common Council.

What's to be done about the water supply question? His Honor calls attention to the fact that the present contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company expires April 1 but will be renewed for nine years more if no notice to the contrary is given by the city. All the talk about a municipal water plant has failed to bring forward anything substantial and it certainly looks as if the present arrangements would be continued.

Mayor Jenkins recommends the installation of a police telephone signal service in connection with the present fire alarm service. He also suggests that, at the time of the establishment of such a system, it would be desirable to secure better quarters for the city court, city jail and police headquarters.

That old bugaboo, the question of the constitutionality of the State school law, is heard from again. His Honor declares that, now that the Board of Education and the Board of School Estimate have passed on the project, it is incumbent on the Common Council to appropriate $125,000 for a new High School, if the constitutionality of the school law is conceded. He gives at some length a plan for the issuance of bonds which will not throw too heavy a burdon on any particular year in the future.

There are words of congratulation over the present satisfactory condition, financially and otherwise, in the city's affairs. But His Honor suggests the need of a more strenuous campaign to collect delinquent personal property taxes. He also declares against the issuance of bonds for future street improvement except as a last resort. There are sections of the city which are entitled to the advantages of the sewerage system and he hopes steps may be taken to extend that system in those directions.

There is not any lengthy reference to the project of public parks but His Honor declares that this is the time to act and explains that there is ample legislation whereby the Common Council can start the work without delay. While there may not be as much space devoted to this subject as was expected by some, it is well-known that the plan is particularly favorably regarded by the Mayor and that he may be counted upon to use his influence to bring the plans to a successful culmination.

In another column will be found the full text of the message. It will make interesting reading for every one who has the slightest interest in the welfare of the city. In concise and direct statements, Mayor Jenkins outlines his ideas and, however one may regard his suggestions, he cannot help but be interested in the Mayor's honest expression of thems There is nothing sensational in the message and there is reason to believe that a great majority, if not all of his suggestions, will be acted upon by the Council in the near future.

Commissioner Lindenthal, of New York, has conceived a scheme to place a gigantic mattress on the bed of the North river, 100 feet wide, on which to place the tubes of the Pennsylvania tunnel. The railroad company will undoubtedly use it exclusively for Pullman sleepers.

The mayor of a small town in Mexico has ordered that every house be painted inside of a month. If he added that the prevailing color should be red it is probable the whole town would be touched up in a day.

Although the new warden of the King's county penitentiary answers to the name of Melody it does not imply that the place will be conducted on harmonious lines.

a resolution that the fire and building committee be authorized to purchase a horse for the fire department at a cost not to exceed $250, provided the committee find it necessary after examining the condition of the horse now found to be lame. After the meeting the committee visited headquarters and considered the matter. The chances are another horse will be secured and the old horse allowed to rest.

Mr. Tolles introduced an ordinance providing for the installation of a separate sewer or drain for surface drainage in West End avenue, the same to be paid for by taxation, the same as in other cases of a similar nature. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Mr. Daniel brought up the question of electing two members of the Council to the Board of School Estimate to take the place of those whose terms expired the first of January. He understood that the matter had to be attended to during the month of January and for that reason spoke of it last evening's session. It was finally decided to lay the matter over until Monday evening, January 19, to which date the Council adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Miss Carrie McLaughlin, of Newark, has returned home after visiting at the home of Miss Elizabeth Cole, of the Park.

Miss Abigail Richardson, of Woodstown, N. J., spent Sunday with Miss Cecelia Holmes at the home of the latter's aunt, Mrs. William Mayhew, of West Fourth street.

In company with Erwin Leland, of Sandford avenue, who is also an '06 man, they were entertained, last evening, by Rev. L. R. Howard, a graduate of Williams.

—Neuman Brothers are quoting special prices for large lots of White Label canned goods, either by the box or by the dozen. They include the best of everything in asparagus, tomatoes, small green lima beans, string beans and Maine sugar corn.

Old Resident Dead.

The death of Thomas Harkins, an old resident of this city, occurred at his home on Midway avenue, yesterday, after a long illness. He was nearly seventy years of age and leaves one son and a daughter. Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church, tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

A Plainfield Residence.

In the last issue of the Scientific American's Building supplement, a fine cut and description of P. V. R. VanWyck's house on Stelle avenue is given. A long article explaining the many interesting features of the residence make an interesting story. The architect of the house is A. L. C. Marsh, of this city.

The Week of Prayer will be observed this week at the First Presbyterian church, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

FAMILY STARVING.

St. Louis Mother and Five Children Found in Pitiable Condition.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—Sick and tossing on a miserable couch in a poverty stricken abode and surrounded by her five young children the police found Mrs. Nancy McKane slowly dying from hunger. The dead bodies of her husband and sixteen months' old grandson lay in the same room. There was no fire and no food.

One of the children lay on a couch with the suffering mother, flushed with fever. The husband had died from consumption Friday, and the infant grandson had succumbed to insufficient nourishment.

The case was so appalling that the two police officers who accidentally discovered it provided coal and food themselves and then made a report to the city authorities, who took charge of Mrs. McKane and her children.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 6.—Eastern Steel company has begun work on four open hearth steel furnaces which will have a capacity of 150,000 tons per year and will be a part of one of the biggest steel manufacturing mills in the country. Work on the furnaces will be rushed day and night. President Gibbons states that the new mill will be working full handed by July 1.

Alleged Bank Robbers Caught.

MACON, Mo., Jan. 6.—Four men suspected of complicity in the robbery last week of a "Union" Missouri bank, when $15,000 was secured, have been arrested here. Fred Rawlins, one of the men, surrendered to the sheriff and betrayed his alleged confederates because "they had refused to divide fairly." The other three men disclaim any knowledge of the robbery.

CONGRESS CONVENES

Session Resumed After the Holiday Recess.

THE COAL QUESTION UPPERMOST.

Senator Lodge Introduces a Bill to Suspend Duty on Anthracite For Ninety Days—House Fails to Get a Quorum.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—When the senate reconvened after the holiday recess, few senators were absent. Almost immediately a discussion began regarding the coal situation. Mr. Lodge prefaced his introduction of a bill suspending for ninety days the duty on coal with the statement that in New England there was much distress owing to the scarcity of coal and that unless relief was afforded at once a number of factories would have to shut down. He was aware, he said, that such a bill should originate in the house of representatives, but it was his desire to call the attention of the finance committee to the state of affairs. Mr. Culberson followed with a resolution providing for the removal of the duty on anthracite coal and asked its immediate consideration. Mr. Platt (Conn.) objected, saying it was his understanding there was no duty on anthracite coal. Mr. Vest took exception to this statement and said that the board of general appraisers and President Roosevelt had decided that such a duty is imposed. Mr. Vest also introduced a resolution on the subject.

Another resolution bearing on the subject of coal introduced by Mr. Jones (Ark.) recited the charge of W. R. Hearst that there was an illegal combination among certain railroads to control the shipment of anthracite coal and called on the attorney general for evidence which it was alleged had been secured by him. It caused a lively debate, in which several Republican senators vigorously resented what they thought was a reflection on the attorney general. The discussion continued until 2 o'clock, when the resolution went over, being displaced by the omnibus statehood bill. Mr. Nelson (Minn.) addressed the senate in opposition to the bill and favored a single statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory. At 4 o'clock the senate adjourned.

The house resumed work after a recess of two weeks, but within two hours the machinery broke down for lack of a quorum. The bill to create a general staff in the army was the issue. An attempt was made to pass it under suspension of the rules, which requires a two-thirds majority. Although all the members of the minority of the military committee indorsed it, opposition developed because of the hurried manner in which it was proposed to pass the bill, and the division, 108 to 57, developed that it did not command the support of two-thirds of those present. A call of the house followed, but as the roll call showed about thirty less than a quorum the house adjourned.

Taft Slated For Supreme Court Bench

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—If existing plans carry, some time next month the president will send to the senate the nomination of Governor Taft to be an associate justice of the United States supreme court to succeed Justice Shiras, who is expected to retire during that month. Governor Taft will be succeeded as civil governor of the Philippines by General Luke Wright, at present vice governor, and the latter place will be filled by the appointment of W. W. Rockhill, the present director of the bureau of American republics. There are already many aspirants for the place which will be vacated by Mr. Rockhill, but so far the president has made no choice.

Smuggling Case Hearings Closed.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 6.—In the matter of the so called smuggling cases which have been heard before United States Commissioner Anderson Lieutenant Commander George W. Mentz, U. S. N., and Supervisor of Elections Benjamin Butler have been held for trial by the federal court on the charge of receiving and facilitating the transportation of smuggled goods. A bond of $1,000 was required in each case, but the personal recognizances of Lieutenant Commander Mentz and Mr. Butler were accepted. There are to be no further hearings before Commissioner Anderson.

Bishop of Hawaii Dead.

HONOLULU, Jan. 6 (by Pacific cable).—Bishop Gulstan F. Ropert, head of the Roman Catholic church in the Hawaiian Islands, is dead. Bishop Ropert had been ill for some time and was in a dying condition when the Pacific cable was landed at Honolulu. One of the first messages sent over the new cable was from Bishop Ropert, who realized then that his end was approaching and who sent a message to the pope at Rome asking for his blessing.

Herring Fishing Delayed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 6.—A prolonged period of mild weather has seriously affected the frozen herring industry in Newfoundland waters, and a number of American fishing vessels will have to wait a long while before they can secure cargoes. The herring fishery at Bay of Islands was unusually good to the end of last year, 160,000 barrels of herring being taken. The catch is valued at $250,000.

Philippine Customs Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has prepared for publication a comparative statement showing that for the ten months ended Oct. 31, 1902, the customs revenues of the Philippine archipelago were $7,475,586 against $6,921,559 in 1901 and $3,759,994 in 1899.

"SO FRIGHTENED!"

The Systematic Training of Women to Play the Coward.

Perhaps it is not necessary to recall to my women readers that thunderstorms, some of them severe ones, were rife in almost all parts of the land during the summer. Bolts from heaven shot forth in the eyes of men and women alike. Men mostly did not mind them. Women confessed with some pride that they were "frightened almost to death."

These thunderstorms were terribly beautiful. Great chasms of midnight blackness opened in the heavens, showing a crack of the light supernal, then closed again with that awesome, majestic roar which only God's own clouds and seas and winds can make. It is the music of the universe very near to one; that is all. That music and the gigantic electric telegraphing of the skies fill one with a sense of the glory and power of God as nothing else can. The soul that senses this can only stand and gaze and worship during such a storm.

But half the women on the earth are chronic cowards. They may think themselves devoutly pious and religious, but no woman is a real Christian who is afraid of the Almighty's most glorious works by land or by sea.

"Wasn't that an awful thunderstorm last night? I never was so scared to death in my life!" said one.

"Yes; I was frightened out of my seven senses too. It was daylight, but I pulled down all the blinds and lit the gas. I thought that would save me. What did you do?"

"Oh, Lizzie and I were together in our house all alone. We wanted to run into Mrs. Smith's, where there's always some man at home, but it was raining just awful, and we couldn't. So we closed the shutters and windows, pulled down the blinds and locked the door and went into the closet and held each other's hand till it was over."

"Well, I don't think you were frightened as bad as mommah and I were, anyhow," said a third woman complacently, as though the superlative degree of her terror entitled her to more consideration than the others. She called her maternal relative "mommah," though she herself was forty years old and weighed 170.

"Mommah and I were in her room and she was telling me how to manage Tom when the thunder began to crack and the lightning to flash like I don't know what. We were so frightened that we ran and jumped into mommah's feather bed, she on one side, I on the other, and we covered up our heads and lay there just shaking till it was over. We were so frightened!"

Mommah is lean; her daughter is fat. What a picture the two must have made! The lady continued:

"The storm was so dreadful that a washout stopped the trains at the junction, and poppah couldn't get home, and there mommah and I had to stay all night without any man in the house, and we were just scared to death all night. We went up to the third story room and nailed down the windows and put a chair under the doorknob and kept a bright light burning, and we neither of us slept a wink."

The woman was not so handsome that any bold, bad man would have carried her off for her beauty; neither was she so rich that she was worth robbing along any line of plunder whatsoever. She could lift her own husband—he was a smallish man—and swing him around under her arm, yet she was, oh, so frightened! She had simply been brought up to think idiotic timidity was sweet and womanly; that was all. When she was a little girl, if she and her mates saw a friendly dog or peaceful cow at the roadside or if two or three mischievous boys guyed them, it was their wont to shriek "Yeep, yeep, yeep!" and run like chickens, thus inviting the very pursuit they were afraid of. Little girls cry "Yeep, yeep, yeep!" and run on such occasions partly for the sensation of it, partly perhaps because they really are a little frightened, though not half so much as they pretend. If they were jeered and sneered out of their fears, as boys are, they would not be such cowards.

It is time to stop this systematic training of the feminine sex in cowardice. A woman is not generally so strong and brave naturally as a man. What then? For that very reason she should have an education that will make her body as strong and active, her soul as fearless and self reliant, as is possible.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"I shall appoint Mr. Hammond chairman of the committee on exploration," said Mr. Rockwell. "He will be assisted by Messrs. Kent and Pence, both of whom are great explorers."

"I don't want to explore," protested Mr. Pence. "I would prefer to go on some other committee."

"The chair will accept no resignations," said Mr. Rockwell, and he hammered on the table with a ruler to indicate that the question was settled. "Mr. Andrus Carmody will be chairman of the committee on escape; Mr. Morton and Mr. Haven will serve with him on that committee. The president volunteers his services on any and all these committees. Is there any other business before the meeting? If not we stand adjourned, subject to call at any time. Adjourned."

"That is the way to do business," said Mr. Morton. "Each man knows his duty and can go about it."

Mr. Vincent walked out into the kitchen and in a few minutes returned. He stood in the open door and looked over the gentlemen who were variously engaged.

"Mr. Pence," he called.

Mr. Pence had sunk back in his chair and was examining a book which Sidney left on the table. He lifted his eyes over his steel-rimmed glasses and gazed languidly at Mr. Vincent.

"You can come to the kitchen, Mr. Pence," said Vincent, "and pare the potatoes for luncheon."

"What's that?" exclaimed the astounded millionaire. "Pare potatoes? Absurd!"

There was a general roar of laughter.

"I am on another committee!" exclaimed Mr. Pence, "the committee on exploration."

"You now seem to be on the escape committee!" said Mr. Kent. "Take him along, Vincent."

Mr. Pence looked at Mr. Rockwell appealingly.

"I have nothing to do with it," Mr. Rockwell said, "unless Mr. Hammond urgently needs and demands your services on the exploration committee. If not, you will have to obey Mr. Vincent. He is general superintendent, and you voted for him and his authority."

Sidney said that he did not need Mr. Pence at present. That gentleman arose, and with a woeful expression followed Vincent to the kitchen. A few minutes later he donned a white apron and entered on his new duty. He proved an adept, and Mr. Kent looked in at a side door and regarded his work with approval.

"He is the best man you could select," said Mr. Kent, addressing the general superintendent, who was critically watching Mr. Simon Pence. "He can cut the thinnest paring you ever saw. The potato will weigh more when he gets through with it than it did when he began. He is a wonder. You ought to see him pare a dividend."

"MAKE HIM GO AWAY," PLEADED MR. PENCE.

"Make him go 'way," pleaded Mr. Pence.

But Mr. Kent had disappeared. Mr. Vincent went in search of more help. He found Mr. Haven.

"I shall have to ask you to chop some wood," he said.

"Certainly," said Mr. Haven, with surprising alacrity. "Where is the ax? I was a dandy at chopping wood when a boy. How long do you want it?" In a few minutes the sugar magnate was hard at work, and at the end of three hours he had accumulated a goodly pile of wood and a ravenous appetite.

During the day Vincent went about his duties in a most systematic manner. He took each member of the colony in charge, and showed them the mysteries of the storeroom and kitchen, and the exact location of all foods and cooking utensils.

After dinner Mr. Rockwell was detailed to wash dishes and Mr. Kent to wipe them. It was worth a journey around the world to watch the great capitalist scrape a frying pan or a kettle, and to see the deftness with which the famous speculator handled a towel on the knives and forks. He was giving a pan a finishing touch when it dropped to the floor with a crash.

"Tin plate seems to be going down," observed Mr. Haven, who was watching Mr. Kent with much interest.

"Yes," drawled Mr. Kent, "what do you suppose sugar is doing in New York while you are away? I'll bet it is not going up."

It began to rain during the forenoon, and Sidney was compelled to postpone an expedition he had planned, in which he proposed to follow the brook to its source, which he calculated would be the highest point of land on the island.

CHAPTER XVI.

AN EXPLORATION.

Thursday was a perfect day after the storm. The air was fresh and cool from the ocean. Sidney was up at an early hour and took his observation of the time of the sunrise. It was Mr. Kent's turn to get breakfast, and he did himself credit. In the meantime Sidney had been preparing for the exploration of the island. He looked over the stock of guns and selected a rifle and a shot gun. He found these weapons in fairly good order, but oiled and cleaned them carefully, and tested both several times.

It was about eight o'clock when Sidney and Mr. Kent disappeared in the thicket through which the brook took its course. Mr. Pence had been detailed to explore the north shore of the lake, and from the expression of his face he did not relish the task.

He refused to take a gun, and armed with a heavy club set out on what he regarded a most dangerous expedition. It was low tide, and the beach was clear of water to the frowning rocks which formed the gateway to "Morton's Bay."

For the first quarter of an hour Sidney and Mr. Kent found it fairly easy to follow the course of the brook. A trail had been cut along the winding bank the preceding year, but such is the virility of tropical vegetation that already it was well-nigh closed. On both sides was a jungle so dense as to be impenetrable.

At the end of an hour's hard work they came to a cleared space and found where the dam had been built across a gorge between two rocks. The dam was about 12 feet in height. Above was the reservoir; a lake covering perhaps 20 acres of ground, from which the timber had been denuded. The character of the forest around this artificial lake was far different from that through which they had passed. It was more open. Instead of the jungle of chaparral, Spanish bayonets, and other forms of thorny plants, brush and tree, the plateau on which they now stood was a noble tropical forest—a veritable park with glades, rocks, picturesque ravines and gentle hills.

"This is more like it," said Sidney as they took a seat on a rock beneath the spreading branches of a magnolia tree. "If the rest of the island is like this our task is easy and pleasant one."

A FRIEND'S ADVICE.

Will Often Help You Greatly—Read What a Plainfield Citizen Says.

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers but the testimony of friends or residents of Plainfield is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. Then the evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to direction. It was only a short time before I felt the good effects and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or over-exerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies, but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

STATE FLOOD SWEPT

Railroads Abandoned and Towns Under Water.

GREAT DAMAGE IN WASHINGTON.

Hundreds of Passengers and Tons of Mail Delayed For Several Days. Almost a Panic Occurs at Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 6.—Delayed Northern Pacific and Great Northern trains from the east have arrived from Portland with hundreds of passengers for Seattle and other northern points. Owing to the abandonment of the Northern Pacific and Interurban trains between Tacoma and Seattle these passengers are flocking to the boats. More than a thousand persons tried to board the steamer Flyer. The customs agents limited the number to 300, although the capacity of the boat is 500, and a rush ensued. A threatened panic finally was averted by the steamer Multnomah taking the Flyer's overflow.

Many tons of mail from the east are stacked up on the docks awaiting transportation by water. The mail comprises all of the sacks of letters and papers which should have reached the sound cities since last Thursday.

At South Prairie, Pierce county, the authorities had to blow up a large iron county bridge to break a log jam. The coal mines there are flooded. Five large bridges in this county were swept away.

FLOODS DO MUCH DAMAGE.

People Driven From Their Homes by Night In Washington Town.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 6.—Floods due to the melting of the heavy snow in the Cascade mountains, by rains and the Chinook wind still continue and are doing tremendous damage.

The White river overflowed its banks near O'Brien Station, fourteen miles below Seattle, and the people of the town in many instances were awakened by the water creeping into their beds. A relief train was sent from Seattle, and the rescuing party found several families the women and children of which were huddled on chairs and tables to keep from the water that was more than two feet deep on the floors. All persons were taken to places of safety. No lives are reported lost, but much property has been ruined or lost.

To Tunnel the Rocky Mountains.

DENVER, Jan. 6.—The Post says: "A meeting will be held at New York Jan. 11 between officers of the company building the Atlantic and Pacific tunnel, known as the "Brick Pomeroy" tunnel, through the range near Georgetown, and members of a syndicate of eastern and English capitalists, at which the proffer of the syndicate to take over the entire issue of bonds and assume what indebtedness the company has will be acted upon. The Denver stockholders have authorized O. I. Snyder of Buffalo, who is virtually at the head of the Atlantic and Pacific company, to represent them in the negotiations, and he has been empowered to go to England. The deal probably will be completed in London. The tunnel will be completed railroad size. It will be 3¾ miles long, the largest in the Rocky mountains."

Devery Ties Up Tammany.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—William S. Devery has turned the tables on Tammany's executive committee, surprising its members about as completely as he was surprised a few nights ago when he was barred from the deliberations of the wigwam. Just before the executive committee was to meet attorneys for the former chief of police appeared at Tammany hall and served papers in an injunction granted by Judge Gaynor of the supreme court staying the executive committee from meeting or taking any action whatsoever. The court's order was so sweeping it simply took the committeemen off their feet, and a condition of affairs bordering on pandemonium reigned in Fourteenth street from the time the papers were served.

One of a Famous Family Dead.

LEXINGTON, Mass., Jan. 6.—Rev. P. C. Headley, well known as a clergyman and historical writer, died at his home here, aged eighty-two. He was a native of Walton, Delaware county, N. Y., a graduate from Amherst college and the Theological seminary at Auburn, N. Y. Mr. Headley had three brothers, J. T. Headley, former secretary of New York state; J. B. Headley, a banker of Peoria, Ill., who married Senator T. C. Platt's sister, and Dr. William T. Headley, who was appraiser of drugs at the New York custom house till his death.

Americans Leave the Bogota.

PANAMA, Colombia, Jan. 6.—All the Americans serving on board the government gunboat Bogota have resigned, and the government has accepted their resignations. The American officers of the gunboat, including Captain Marmaduke, signed a year's contract with the Colombian authorities. They are to receive free transportation to the United States and four months' pay. Part of the crew of the Bogota leave the isthmus today for New York.

Hansbrough's Re-election Assured.

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 6.—Governor White took the oath of office for his second term yesterday, and the other state officers were also inducted into their positions, all changes being made without incident. The opposition to the re-election of Senator Hansbrough has been in a large part withdrawn, and it is now considered unlikely that any other man will be voted for.

FARMERS OF SOMERSET IN ANNUAL SESSION

Somerset County Board of Agriculture Held Meeting at Somerville Saturday.

THE OFFICERS CHOSEN

ADDRESSED BY LLOYD V. C. CONOVER ON "POULTRY RAISING FOR PROFIT."

Former Assemblyman E. E. Cooper Re-Elected President—A Small Attendance, But a Very Interesting Session Was Held.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 7—There was but a meagre attendance at the eleventh annual meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture in the Court House here Saturday afternoon, but the proceedings were none the less interesting. Former Assemblyman Edward E. Cooper, of Warren township, presided and delivered his annual address.

In the course of his remarks, President Cooper declared that the farmers should be careful in buying and feeding the stock. He said that farmers who were selling wheat for 75 cents a bushel when it is worth a dollar for feeding milch cows, hogs and hens were making a grave mistake. Mr. Cooper alluded to the good standing of the board and the excellent attendances that have been noted during the year just past. He congratulated the farmers on maintaining one of the foremost agricultural organizations in the State.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Hon. Edward E. Cooper; vice president, Judge Lewis H. Schenck; secretary and treasurer, former Justice A. P. Sutphen. The directors chosen from North Plainfield were Hubert P. Phillips and Chas. F. Debele.

In choosing the representative to the State Board (for two years) there was not a little excitement. William H. Rogers nominated Hubert P. Phillips, of North Plainfield, and Geo. B. Randolph, of Franklin township, was also named. It was the first chance the members had had to ballot in a long while and much interest was manifested. Mr. Randolph received fifteen votes and Mr. Phillips nine. There were many spectators present who were not allowed to vote.

The treasurer reported a balance of $112.41 on hand.

The address of the afternoon was made by Lloyd V. S. Conover, of Clinton, Hunterdon county, and his topic was "Poultry Raising for Profit." He is a large raiser and his ideas on the subject were very interesting. The chief plea he made to the farmers was not to keep "scrub" fowls, but choose some good variety and keep that alone, and better results would follow.

Mr. Conover told of his experience with incubators and brooders in a very nice way. At first he had but poor success, but of late years he has been at the top of the bunch of successful broiler raisers and egg getters. To make hens lay at the time when eggs are highest he declared that about the middle of August they should be locked up somewhere they could get nothing to eat and be fed either sunflower seeds or cottonseed meal. These make them shed their feathers so rapidly that in about a month's time their annual rest is over and they will begin to lay eggs and continue to do so all winter.

A vote of thanks was tendered Conover for his able address.

Little Property Left.

Great surprise has been occasioned in this vicinity by the announcement that Bret Harte, the novelist, left an estate valued at but $1,800. It was generally understood that he was worth a large amount of money as most of his books had enjoyed immense sales. The author's family lived at one time in this city on Putnam avenue.

Injured in Fall.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, is quite ill at his home. Several days ago he had a fall and injured himself internally. Monday night Mr. Jackson had several hemorrhages and yesterday his condition was critical. Today he was slightly improved.

Class Resumes.

Leal's School gymnastic class at the Y. M. C. A. resumed its sessions in the Y. M. C. A., Monday, after the holiday recess. Hereafter it will meet every Monday and Friday afternoon at 3:30.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

Plainfield Almost Free From Contagious Disease as Shown at Health Board Meeting.

The January meeting of the City Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on North avenue, with all the members present. Owing to the fact that several special meetings have been held recently, there was little business left to consider.

Health Inspector William Addis reported that he had made 165 visits during the past month and 1,890 during the past year. The city at present is practically free from contagious disease, there being only two or three cases reported and these are almost out of quarantine.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow reported that he had made forty-one dairy inspections during the past month and that he found general conditions still improving. He stated that the moral effect of the new sanitary code is excellent.

LOST PART OF LOAD.

Load of Hay Was Too Big to Pass Under Railroad Bridge.

A large load of hay was being driven beneath the Watchung avenue railroad bridge, yesterday afternoon, when the driver saw that the bridge was too low for his load. He tried to rein in his horses but they became frightened at a passing trolley car and started to run away. Part of the load of hay became fastened in the top of the bridge and was left hanging there. The hay was somewhat wet and when some of it was blown against the trolley wire long white sparks shot out to the amusement of a number of people standing on the sidewalk. It was not long before a trolley car came along and the hay was brushed away by the passing of the trolley pole.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE.

Coal Will Not Go Any Higher in This City This Winter Say Dealers.

He thought that there would be plenty of coal in Plainfield this winter at the prevailing price. Other dealers have expressed themselves in similar fashion.

FIREMEN TO PAY FOR DOGS

W. A. COTTER SAYS THEY ARE NOT EXEMPT FROM DOG TAX.

The Borough Firemen Raised the Question as to Whether They Were Exempt.

There has been considerable discussion among the firemen of the borough as to whether they were liable for dog tax. Under the law a fireman is entitled to an exemption of $500 on real or personal property and a number of firemen claim that dogs certainly come under the head of personal property, and therefore the dog belonging to a fireman should be exempt from tax. Collector Geo. F. Brown took the view that the tax on dogs, being of special nature, does not come under the meaning of the exemption.

As so much argument was provoked in the matter, Chief Stahl decided to submit the situation to William A. Cotter, counsel for the New Jersey State Firemen's Association for his opinion, as he is considered authority in all matters of interest to firemen. It was Mr. Cotter who pointed out the law whereby an exempt fireman is entitled to his exemption in any part of the State without regard to where the exemption was earned, notwithstanding several leading lawyers claimed that such a law was not on the statutes.

Mr. Cotter's opinion on dog tax is therefore worthy of note, it is as follows:

"I find no reason why a fireman can claim dog tax exemption, as it is not a tax on real or personal property as recognized by law but is special."

Yours very truly,
W. A. Cotter.

This settles the matter as Mr. Cotter's opinion is recognized as final by the firemen throughout the State and, without doubt, those who refused to pay pending this appeal will probably accept the situation and pay up with the same promptness with which they always respond to a call for duty.

BLAZING CURTAIN.

Caught From Gas Jet and Started a Blaze at Home of Dr. E. W. Hedges This Morning.

The fire department was summoned to the home of Dr. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, at 3 o'clock this morning, for a lace curtain blaze on the second floor. A window left slightly open was responsible for the fire, a draught causing the flimsy material to swing near a lighted gas jet.

Sergeant Frederickson was passing the place at the time and seeing the flames called to Patrolman Meyers nearby to pull box No. 25 and then aroused the inmates. The blaze was entirely extinguished before the apparatus arrived. Only a trifling amount of damage was done.

Plan on Foot to Organize a State Bankers' Association, Started by Bankers of Newark.

Newark bankers are prime movers in an effort to organize a State Bankers' Association for the promotion of matters of interest to banking institutions. The bankers of New York and Brooklyn are so well organized in this respect that such an organization is considered a most excellent and helpful one for this State. Every banker in New Jersey has received a circular letter concerning the above organization and a meeting has been called for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Fidelity Trust Company, Newark.

The local banks have received circulars concerning this meeting and setting forth its objects, that of a uniformity of action among bank officials, and of the discussion of questions affecting banking and commercial interests. The circular is signed by a dozen or more of the leading bankers of Newark and vicinity. The local banks believe the scheme a good one and no doubt will favor such an organization if it is perfected.

WESTFIELD LOST TWO ON ROSELLE ALLEYS

Leaders in Daily Press Bowling League Met in Series of Three Games Last Night.

SOME GOOD BOWLING

WESTFIELD MIGHT HAVE HAD ANOTHER WITH STEADY ROLLING.

Roselle Was Very Weak in the First Game, But Made a Strong Showing in the Final Contest—Westfield Fell Down.

THE DAILY PRESS BOWLING LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Westfield Club..	6	3	.667
Roselle Casino..	2	1	.667
Cranford Casino	3	3	.500
Park Club.....	1	5	.166

It takes good bowling to defeat the Roselle Casino bowlers on their own alleys as the Westfield Club five discovered last evening. Westfield won one of the series of three rolled in The Daily Press Bowling League and might have had a second if the visitors had been able to hold the pace with which they opened the game. But for the fact that one or two of each team fell away every game, the scores would have been usually high.

It was Roselle's first appearance in a league contest this winter and special interest was attached to it as it is generally conceded that the championship rests between Roselle and Westfield. Neither team was at its best as several of the veteran bowlers were absent and new players had to be utilized. Chas. Westerburg, a discovery of Captain Mulford of Roselle, proved exceptionally strong in two of the games.

In the first game, Westfield came to the front by a small majority which was steadily increased from 26 in the fifth to 63 in the windup. Roselle's men were not steady. Westfield opened the second game in record breaking form, chalking up clean frames in the third and fifth. At the end of the fifth, Westfield had within three of a 900 pace and led by 83 pins. Great rolling seemed contagious and the Roselle bowlers failed to break in the sixth and seventh frames while double-headers and even triple headers were frequent. Westfield couldn't stand the pace and wound up in weak fashion, Roselle coming to the fore by 27 pins amid much excitement.

Condit, Voehl and Worth all fell down in the third game and Roselle trotted through from start to finish. Captain Forster, of Westfield, tried to carry his team to victory but Hegeman was the only one who seconded his efforts. Howe and Miller were in great form while Mulford was rolling well.

The scores were as follows:

ROSELLE.	1st	2d	3d
Greves	121	159	146
Westerburg	176	153	127
Howe	173	188	199
Miller	141	150	204
Mulford	145	150	170
	756	800	846
WESTFIELD.	1st	2d	3d
Forster	154	140	214
Condit	174	157	131
Voehl	172	174	122
Worth	152	151	135
Hegeman	167	151	192

K. of C. Banquet.

Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, has issued invitations for the second annual banquet to be given at the Casino, Thursday evening. It is expected that a number of prominent members of the Council from various parts of the State, as well as local men of prominence, will be present.

Must Stop Annoying Him.

Several small boys in the borough have been in the habit of annoying an aged man named Theodore Rutan, of Duer street, whenever he appears on the streets and the authorities have determined to put a stop to it. The boys names are known and unless they stop the practice they will be punished.

Nearly Lost Digit.

John Hope, of East Third street, has to carry one hand in a sling as a result of an accident while working at the Scott Press Works. His hand caught in the machinery and one digit was nearly severed.

—Small lima beans, as if they just came from the garden, are included in the White Label brand of canned goods sold by Neuman Brothers.

THEATRICAL.

B. F. Keith presents another very attractive vaudeville bill for the second week in January and one that is sure to continue the capacity houses which have so long been the rule at the Union Square. On the bill for next week are the Five Juggling Johnsons, the marvellous club swingers; The Basque Quartette, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy in a comedy sketch, "Why Doogan Swore Off," written by Melville Baker, the author of "Foxy Grandpa;" The World's Trio, in a novelty change act; Grovini and Murray, singing and dancing; Wesson, Walters and Company in a comedy sketch; The Golden Gate Quartette, colored vocalists; Crawford and Duff in a comedy sketch; Newell and Niblo in a musical act, and other strong features.

Klaw & Erlanger have presented a big hit at Daly's Theatre, New York, in their production of Harry B. Smith and Gustave Kerker's new musical farce, "The Billionaire," in which Jerome Sykes plays the part of "John Doe." The keynote of the story is satire on the newest type of American character—the man of such great wealth that he has to invent extraordinary methods to spend his money to avoid the disgrace of dying rich. It is a perfect maelstrom of comic incidents and fascinating melody from start to finish. The great feature of this production is the theatre scenes in the second act, in which all the foibles of famous "first-nighters" and a first-night audience come in for very pointed satire. The scene showing the auditorium of a theatre is the most realistic presented on the stage in many years.

PERSONAL.

Miss Lillian Remson, of Jamaica, L. I., has been visiting Miss Beatrice Miner, of East Seventh street.

Edward Newton, of the Hotel Kensington, has returned from a visit with friends at Bridgeport, Conn.

C. Ames Brooks, of West Seventh street, is back at Princeton University after spending the holidays at home.

Miss Alice Morgan, of Albert street, has gone back to Mt. Holyoke College after a holiday vacation spent in Plainfield.

J. Holloway Titus, of Central avenue, has returned to his studies at Cornell University after spending his Christmas vacation in Plainfield.

Joseph Muir, of Essex street, who has been in Muhlenberg Hospital the past three months with an injured foot, has partially regained its use and it is possible he will be discharged shortly.

Washington in Winter.

Washington is a typical winter vacation resort and its bustle is purely social and political. There are gathered in the Capital representatives of every nation and country, and their comings and goings are of no little interest. Then the doings of the Senate and House are features which every tourist delights in following, and these features together with the visits to the numerous public buildings keep one busy all the while one is in Washington. The Royal Blue Line of which the New Jersey Central is the initial road is going to operate an excursion to Washington January 15, and cost of tickets for the three days excursion including all expenses is $12. Train leaves New York at 1 p. m., and arrives Washington at at 6.10 p. m. If you want to know about the trip drop a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York City, for tour book. Throat Sore

There is no telling what a sore throat will do if you give it "right of way." Uncertain remedies often cause dangerous delay. Make a cure sure with Painkiller, known for half a century as a specific for sore throat, croup, coughs, and all kindred troubles. Keep it by you for an emergency. It never fails. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, 'Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

BEFORE COAL COURT

Twenty-two Witnesses Testify In Philadelphia.

MITCHELL AS CROSS EXAMINER.

Men Who Remained at Work During the Strike Tell of Sufferings and Persecution—Scranton Sheriff on the Stand.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—Twenty-two men, all but one of whom were employed in and about the coal mines, appeared before the anthracite coal strike commission at its first session in this city and recited the oft told tales of persecution they and others underwent during the late coal strike because they chose to work rather than join the strikers. The single exception was Charles H. Schadt of Scranton, the sheriff of Lackawanna county, and his presence on the stand under the cross examination of President John Mitchell of the miners' union proved to be the principal feature of the day's proceedings.

The sheriff in direct examination said among other things that he issued a proclamation shortly after the strike was inaugurated calling upon all persons in the county to keep the peace; that it was difficult to get men to act as deputy sheriffs; that in most cases where there was trouble it was usually over when he or his men arrived; that he attempted to keep the peace in all localities and that the disturbances became so numerous and serious that he had to call on the governor for troops. He had appealed to Mr. Mitchell, whom he knew quite well, to assist in keeping the peace, and the miners' president promised to do so.

Sheriff Schadt was then turned over to the miners for cross examination. To the surprise of most persons Mr. Mitchell took up the examination. It is not known whether he decided to do so because his principal attorney, C. S. Darrow of Chicago, had not arrived from the west or whether it was because Mr. Mitchell was personally well acquainted with the sheriff. It was the first time that Mr. Mitchell had attempted cross examination to any extent.

In answer to the questions of the mine workers' leader the Lackawanna county sheriff said he had employed about forty or fifty deputy sheriffs and admitted that they were paid by the coal companies. Led by Mr. Mitchell, he said he could not say that a general state of lawlessness existed in the county, but in answer to another query said there was a reign of terror in existence in some localities.

Among other things he said that as a rule crowds dispersed when he ordered them so to do and that striking mine workers whom he knew obeyed his orders the same as other persons. He also admitted that the second contingent of troops sent into his county was ordered there without his request.

This appeared to satisfy President Mitchell, and General Wilson took the witness in hand and asked him why the county did not pay the deputy sheriffs. The sheriff replied that the companies had made the request for protection and counsel for the witness explained that it was the law of Pennsylvania that the company asking for protection should pay for it. This explanation rather surprised Chairman Gray, who, as he straightened himself up in his chair, said: "I am not familiar with such an un-American law. When the county or the state relinquishes the duty of maintaining and protecting life and property and keeping the peace, then they are open to criticism."

Syrians Ordered Deported.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Jan. 7.—Eight Syrians who were taken from the train here by Immigration Inspectors Powderly and Maguire and held for investigation have been ordered deported by the treasury department to their native country by way of New Orleans. All are afflicted with trachoma, a contagious disease of the eyelids. They stated that they were part of a ship load of immigrants who sailed from Marseilles, France, in November last. They were landed at Vera Cruz, Mexico, and had to work their way to the United States.

Yates' Man Won Speakership.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 7.—The long and strenuous contest between Lawrence Y. Sherman and John H. Miller as to which should be the Republican nominee for the speakership of the Illinois legislature has been settled, Miller defeating Sherman in caucus by a vote of 48 to 39. Miller's nomination was favored by the friends of Governor Yates.

Killed by Good Luck.

ROUBOIX, S. D., Jan. 7.—David Thompson, one of the best known prospectors in the Black Hills, over which country he had hunted gold for seventeen years, struck a ledge of great richness and after ten minutes of demonstrations of delight fell dead.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Estate of Charles L. Fair has been valued by California appraisers at $3,040,187.

Great Northern railroad succeeded in raising blockade in Washington caused by floods.

Troops of the sultan of Morocco were reported to have been again defeated by those of the pretender.

Christmas decorations in Chapel Royal, St. James' palace, London, took fire and caused alarm. Slight damage was done.

In his annual message Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania, in view of anthracite strike, recommended a compulsory arbitration law.

A PLAIN STATEMENT

Attitude of Administration Regarding Trusts Defined.

MONOPOLY MUST BE CHECKED.

Legitimate Business Not to Be Interfered With—Those Guilty of Discriminating Practices Must Be Punished.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The following abstract of the attorney general's recommendations regarding trusts and combinations has been given out at the White House. It represents the general attitude of the administration on this subject and was authorized by the president:

"The people do not desire the business of the country to be interfered with beyond the regulation necessary to control combinations where they act improperly and to correct any tendency toward monopoly. In this country where money is cheap and abundant and within the reach of keen and capable men monopoly will be impossible if competition is kept free.

"Small enterprises have certain advantages over large combinations and will live and thrive if assured of an open and fair field. Rebates and discriminating rates constitute one of the chief restrictions on competition. They unjustly swell the earnings of favored concerns and, supporting a vast volume of capital stock which represents nothing but unfair advantage over rivals, contribute largely to the upbuilding of monopoly.

"The situation respecting transportation discriminations and the entry of independent capital into new industries has lately been improved. It is now known that the amount of capital embarked in independent enterprises in the past two years at least equals the total capital of the great combinations formed within the previous twelve years. With assurance against predatory competition this improvement will continue. Individual industrial experience with the certainty of secure employment of capital may be trusted to compete effectively with such selfish combinations as are not formed for sound economic reasons, but merely in order to capitalize the country's prosperity for the benefit of their promoters. The existence of most of these combinations has not increased the productive capacity of the country. They have merely acquired the ownership of pre-existing industries.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR IMMEDIATE LEGISLATION.

"It is recommended that all discriminatory practices affecting interstate trade be made offenses to be enjoined and punished, such legislation to be directed alike against those who give and those who receive illegal advantages and to cover discrimination in prices as against competitors in particular localities resorted to for the purpose of destroying competition.

"In order to reach producers guilty of these offenses who are as producers merely beyond national control a penalty should be imposed upon the interstate and foreign transportation of goods produced by them, and federal courts should be given power to restrain such transportation at the government's suit.

"The casus omissus in the interstate commerce act should now be supplied by imposing a penalty upon carrier and beneficiary alike and by giving to the courts the right to restrain all such infractions of the law.

"The prohibition against carriers should be limited to those subject to the act to regulate commerce. Only carriers operating a line of railroad or a rail and water line as one line are required to publish their rates and adhere to them. It is impracticable to control lines operating wholly by water. Rates of water transportation are necessarily open to the freest competition, are invariably low by comparison, and thus naturally furnish the standard of reasonableness without express regulation.

"It should be made unlawful to transport traffic by carriers subject to the interstate commerce act at a less rate than the published rate, and all who participate in violating the law should be punished.

"Provision should also be made to reach corporations and combinations which produce wholly within a state, but whose products enter interstate commerce. This provision should relate first to concerns which fatten on rebates; second, to concerns which sell commodities below the general price in particular localities or in any other way in particular localities seek to destroy competition.

"There should be a comprehensive plan to enable the governor to get at all the facts bearing upon the organization and practices of concerns engaged in interstate commerce, not with a view to hampering any legitimate business of such concerns, but in order to be in position to take action if necessary.

"To this end a commission or a special bureau in the proposed department of commerce should be created, whose duty it should be to investigate the operations of concerns engaged in interstate or foreign commerce to gather information and data enabling it to make recommendations for additional legislation to report to the president. This would be a first step in securing proper publicity.

"These recommendations are based on the central thought that the first step should be taken by a law aimed at what are certainly known to be unreasonable practices directly restrictive of freedom of commerce, and by a law securing some governmental supervision as outlined above."

HEAR HOAR AND VEST

Senators Listen to Two Notable Speeches.

TRUSTS AND PROTECTION ATTACKED

Senior Member From Massachusetts Argues For His Antitrust Bill. Missourian Favors Free Coal. House Passes Staff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The day in the senate was eventful because of a notable speech by Senator Hoar on his bill regulating trusts and an attack by Senator Vest on protected industries through the operation of the Dingley law. Senator Hoar's utterances were listened to with marked attention. He said that nearly all thoughtful men in this country are agreed that some legislation, state or national, ought to be had for the regulation and control of what are called trusts and of large masses of capital accumulated by corporations or artificial persons holding property and conducting business without individual liability. There was, he said, a general feeling of insecurity and alarm about the matter, and we were dealing with a real peril and not with a fancied or imaginary danger. He argued that if his bill should become a law and prove effective no corporation engaging in the commerce which is within the jurisdiction of congress can keep its condition a secret. The bill, he said, depends for its validity on the constitutional power of congress to regulate international and interstate commerce. Should the bill not prove effectual he contended that it would be easy to extend its operation by imposing a like personal liability on every stockholder.

Senator Vest used as a text for his remarks his resolution introduced Monday instructing the committee on finance to prepare and report a bill removing the duty on coal. Feeble in the extreme and supporting himself on his desk, he called attention to the condition of distress which had arisen as a result of the shortage in the coal supply. There was breathless silence in the chamber as he spoke, and every senator on the floor turned in his direction in order to catch his words. He said that the question was no longer a partisan one, but one of humanity, and that we are not on the verge of a crisis, but actually in it. He charged the Republican senators with being silent and dumb to the state of affairs, having only in mind the party cry, "Stand pat." He characterized the Dingley tariff act as a "sacred elephant," with which nothing was to be done. He sarcastically remarked that if the whole question was one of raising money for the next presidential campaign that was the end of the discussion.

At 4:30 the senate adjourned after a brief executive session.

The house passed the bill for the creation of a general staff for the army by a vote of 153 to 52. By the terms of the bill it becomes the duty of the general staff to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the army in time of war, to investigate and report on all questions affecting the efficiency of the service and to render professional aid to the secretary of war and to general officers and other superior commanders.

The general staff corps is to consist of one chief of staff and two general officers, all to be detailed by the president from officers of the army at large not below the grade of brigadier general; four colonels, six lieutenant colonels and twelve majors, twenty captains to be detailed from officers of the grade of captain or first lieutenant, who while so serving shall have the rank, pay and allowances of captains mounted.

A number of bills of a minor character were passed, the most important being one to increase the pension of soldiers totally deaf from $30 to $40 per month.

Cholera in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—What is probably the most interesting and exhaustive treatise on the Philippine Islands ever compiled has just been issued at the war department in the form of appendices to the report of the Philippine commission for the last fiscal year. Cholera statistics are given prominence. From the time of its first appearance in Malolos, Bulacan province, to Sept. 1, 1902, the total number of recorded cases was 52,536, of which 37,473 resulted fatally, the mortality being 71 per cent.

Confederate Officer Dead.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 7.—General Richard Snowden Andrews, a Confederate officer who won fame for himself and his company as commander of "Andrews' battery," is dead at his home in this city. Death was caused by paralysis. General Andrews was born seventy-two years ago in Washington. He practiced architecture in Baltimore until the outbreak of the civil war, when he formed his famous battery, known as the "Maryland Flying artillery."

Cunneen Orders Coal Hearing.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan 7.—Attorney General Cunneen has ordered that a hearing should be held next Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the matter of the application of the New York American that he proceed under the Donnelly antitrust law against the coal carrying roads making up the coal trust.

PRIMARY REFORM.

When a ward primary shows more ballots cast than there voted men of that political party at the last election, it might be taken as a sign that the whole idea of primaries and their management needed something. That is a little experience that Plainfield has already enjoyed on several occasions. Bitter factional fights have brought about happenings which might have been expected in some cities, where municipal affairs are not conducted on the high plane that prevails here, but which brought the blush of shame to the face of every honest citizen who believed Plainfield above such things. The news, therefore, that the commission appointed by Governor Murphy to suggest some means of primary reform has a plan ready, will be received with general satisfaction.

A report is to be presented to the incoming Legislature and, with the public clamor for action along this line, it is reasonable to believe that the Legislature will take some action. Nobody has had an opportunity to carefully judge of the merits of this suggestion but it is undoubtedly better than the present arrangement and plenty of publicity will go far toward correcting any defects which may crop out in a general discussion of its merits.

The most radical changes proposed are that in future party primaries shall be conducted at public expense and by public officials instead of by the several political parties. To accomplish this it is proposed that the regularly appointed boards of registry and election shall conduct the primary elections as nearly as possible in the same manner as general elections for members of the Assembly are now conducted.

Heretofore there has been no adequate means to prevent persons of one party from participating in the primaries of another. This defect is to be remedied by compelling each voter to announce his party affiliations. If challenged he shall make oath that he voted for the head of the ticket of that party at the last election and intends to affiliate with the same party at the ensuing election.

Under such a system the commission believes that repeating at primaries will cease. Also that the plan will be economical because the primary elections will take place on the first registry day.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT.

Tomorrow, the body of the late General Eli Long, a faithful servant of the Nation, will be taken from his home on Grove street to its final resting place. There will pass from the sight of Plainfield men and women and children one who spent practically his whole strength in helping to make the Union.

General Long was a man and a typical American in the truest sense. Educated to the service of his country, he came into the prime of his manhood just at the time the Nation needed him the most. His entire early life was spent in the upbuilding of the United States, while in the preserving of their unity he was a commanding figure. The history of the Civil War records no general who made better use of his opportunities to serve his country than did General Long. His is a record to be proud of. He was wounded repeatedly, and most seriously, yet back again he went to the front to accomplish his part of the task his country imposed upon its true leaders. And yet few of his closest friends in this city realized how prominent a part he played in the dramatic events of a generation ago. He never spoke of those stirring times, and never identified himself with any movement to keep alive his glorious record.

General Long was exceedingly modest, and of rather a retiring disposition. There was no vainglory in his life at any time. His closing years were in marked contrast to those of earlier strife, being spent in quietude with his family in this city. Not a man knew him but to admire him, and every friend he had will be better for the honor of knowing such a soldier of the United States of America.

Mayor Jenkins' appointments to the City Board of Health make but one change in the membership of that board, substituting Charles H. Dunham for Herman Weber. With the same men at the head of that department, one may look for a continuance of the present policy. There is probably no city department which has so changed in a few years as the health department. It has now been brought up on lines followed by the most progressive cities of the country. There was a time when the Board of Health bothered itself with little except in cases of emergency. Now that department is constantly working to protect the health of the community in countless different ways.

Plainfield possesses no more efficient official than William F. Arnold, the city treasurer. Strong evidence of that fact was shown yesterday when his annual report was published in The Daily Press. Usually the treasurer's report of any municipality is all Greek to the taxpayer who has not had the training of an expert bookkeeper but Mr. Arnold's summary of the city's finances is so simple and yet comprehensvie that anyone can look over the report and obtain an accurate idea of just what condition the city's financies are today and how the money has been spent.

Think of it, a bronze medal for Paterson! There are some things in which Paterson is reputed to excell but this award comes as a genuine surprise to all the acquaintances of that Jersey city. The judges at the Paris Exposition gave the award as first prize for designing and erecting the best equipped isolation hospital in the world.

U. S. Senator John Kean has no aspirations to be State leader of the G. O. P. So he told a Jersey City Journal reporter who visited him at Elizabeth the other day. It takes time to be a State leader and the position is not handed out like a prize package, says Union county's representative in the United States Senate.

It's getting time for the Legislature to convene and already we are beginning to hear of the bills that are to be introduced. It looks as if history would repeat itself and hosts of useless bills be introduced to make trouble and worry in committee meetings.

It is to be hoped that the Common Council will think well of Mayor Jenkins' suggestion regarding public parks. Although he didn't menton lakes, they are part of his scheme.

The January term of the Union county courts, which opened yesterday, promises to be quite a long one. Plainfield is represented on the Grand Jury by some of its best citizens.

Never has a term of court seen a trolley company defendant in so many damage suits as the present one at Elizabeth.

One way to start the new year right is by subscribing for The Daily Press.

You Cannot Change

the course of a storm by tearing down the signals that give warning of its approach. Neither can you cure a cold by temporarily stopping a cough with opium-laden "medicines." Allen's Lung Balsam in which there is no opium, cures sore throats and sore lungs because it allays the inflammation and rids you of the mucus that stops up the air passages.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

How to get steam heat and a gas log in an open fire place, all in one, is any easy matter when once the Backus gas log is brought into view. It is simple, neat and extremely useful. It is sold in this city only by J. W. Gavett.

W. W. Warnock prides himself on the freshness of all bread, cake and pastry sold over his counters. It is always sweet and wholesome and not something from an antiquated stock. Have you ever tried Warnock's ice cream? It's delicious.

The secret of contentment is—trade at Callahan & Son's Richmond street store. There's where the groceries are to be obtained that give entire satisfaction and where it is possible to get fair prices quoted. Orders sent by telephone are always given careful attention.

A central point of attraction to shoppers is L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street, where a handsome display of goods is to be found at all times. Mr. Randolph boasts of the fact that he keeps one of the best appointed pharmacies in the State and a visit to the store will prove it.

FLEMING WILL NOT PAY.

Wealthy Philadelphian Who Put Out Caddy's Eye Goes to Jail.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 7.—David Fleming of Philadelphia, against whom a verdict of $6,495.87 was rendered in the supreme court about a month ago at Elizabethtown, in the Adirondacks, has refused to pay the judgment and has surrendered himself to Sheriff Adkins at Elizabethtown, where he must stay "on the jail limits" for a period of six months unless he decides to pay the judgment. This will release his bondsman, ex-Assemblyman George A. Stevens, proprietor of the Stevens House, at Lake Placid. After July 5, 1903, Fleming cannot be again arrested in this proceeding until after another six months have expired and even then only in the state of New York.

Fleming, who was a guest at the Stevens House last summer, while playing golf missed a stroke and in a fit of passion struck his caddy, George Salem, a ten-year-old boy, in the face, entirely destroying the sight of one eye. The boy brought suit through his attorneys and obtained a judgement of $6,000 and costs. Fleming is about twenty-four years of age and the only grandson and heir of Mrs. David Fleming of 115 Chestnut avenue, Chestnut Hill, a suburb of Philadelphia. She is said to be one of the wealthiest women in that city.

GERMANY WILL EXHIBIT.

First Installment of Appropriation For St. Louis Fair Voted.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The budget has appropriated the first installment of $375,000 for the German exhibit at the St. Louis exposition and places the total requirement for this purpose at from $625,000 to $750,000. The first installment has been placed at the disposal of the imperial commissioners.

A memorandum from the ministry of the interior explaining this item says: "However undesirable it may appear that an international exposition on the largest scale should follow so soon after the Paris exposition and however great the obligation to avoid every unnecessary expenditure may be, an obligation imposed by the present financial condition of the country, still the empire cannot do otherwise than accept the offer to exhibit at the St. Louis exposition after France and Great Britain have accepted. This decision is dictated not only out of regard for our friendly relations with the United States, but reasons of a purely commercial nature more urgently require our acceptance."

The memorandum makes use of American statistics to show that the United States occupies second position among the nations as a purchaser of German goods.

Buffalo Department Store Burned.

BUFFALO, Jan. 7.—The entire stock of Knowles & Gardiner's department store was destroyed by fire last night, and the building, a five story brick, extending from 563 to 565 Main street through the block to Washington street, was badly damaged. Fireman St. James was caught under a falling showcase and seriously but not fatally injured. He was removed to the Emergency hospital in an ambulance. The fire was first discovered half an hour after the last clerk left the store for the day. The fire started in the center of the building near the elevators, the shaft acting as a flue and carrying the flames to the upper floors. The entire stock was destroyed before the flames were checked, and the interior of the building was badly damaged. The walls and steel framework of the structure are still intact. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

HAVANA, Jan. 7.—President Palma and a large party of friends have left here on a trip to the province of Pinar del Rio. They will return to Havana Friday. The administration is in receipt of a telegram from the governor of Santiago province saying the chamber of commerce of Santiago has requested him to inform the administration that the chamber strongly approves the reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Fire Threatens New Orleans Papers.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—Fire in Campe street threatened for a time to wipe out Newspaper Row. Excellent work of the fire department saved both the newspaper offices from destruction. Just as the morning papers were being issued fire started in the four story crockery establishment of Winn & Gausch, which was completely destroyed. The Picayune job office and the Item office were both considerably damaged. Loss, about $25,000.

REPUBLICANS REVOLT.

Brackett, Brown and Elsberg Absent From Senatorial Caucus.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—With the exceptions of Senator Brackett of Saratoga, Senator Brown of Jefferson and Senator Elsberg of New York city all the Republican senators, numbering twenty-five, were present at the caucus of Republican senators held last night in the senate chamber. While the air was rife with rumors there was nothing on the surface to indicate any considerable friction. Senator G. A. Davis of Buffalo, who was chairman of the caucus, smilingly declared after the adjournment, "Why, I wasn't aware that there were any absentees from our caucus."

The business of the caucus was quickly transacted. Senator Davis of Erie was chairman and Senator Armstrong of Rochester secretary.

Senator Malby nominated Senator Raines as the choice of the Republican senators for president pro tem. of the senate, eulogizing his ability and eloquence as a legislator and debater. Senator Marshall of Brooklyn seconded the nomination. The announcement of his selection was received with applause. Senator Raines then addressed the caucus, thanking the senators for the confidence they had in him in selecting him for president pro tem. He did not refer to the absentees. In fact there was no mention made of them at the caucus. These selections were then made:

For clerk of the senate, James S. Whipple of Salamanca; for sergeant-at-arms, Charles R. Hotaling of Albany; for assistant sergeant-at-arms, W. W. Adams of Hornellsville; for stenographer, A. B. Sackett of Canandaigua; for principal doorkeeper, J. E. Gorss of Tonawanda; for first assistant doorkeeper, Charles H. Bernard of Broome.

After the caucus Senator Brackett of Saratoga was asked why he had absented himself from the Republican senatorial caucus.

"Because," replied Senator Brackett, "I have not revised my opinion of Senator Raines, who I believe is an unfit person for leader."

"Does the revolt of yourself, Senator Brown and Senator Elsberg against the leadership of Senator Raines apply also to the re-election of Senator Platt?"

"I believe it does," replied Senator Brackett.

"Does it mean that you will not vote for Senator Platt?"

"Yes, and I believe my conferees, Senator Brown and Senator Elsberg, will also vote against Senator Platt."

Senators Brown and Elsberg refused to discuss the matter. Prior to the caucus the three senators conferred with Governor Odell, who subsequently said that he had endeavored to dissuade the senators from their purpose.

Senator Brackett said he would vote for Senator Malby for president pro tem., but the gentleman from St. Lawrence said he hoped Senator Brackett would do no such thing.

MRS. GRANT'S PROPERTY.

Her Son as Executor Claims Exemption From Inheritance Tax.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—General Frederick D. Grant, as executor under the will of his mother, Julia Dent Grant, has taken proceedings in the surrogate's court of this county to have it adjudged that no property passing by virtue of the will of his mother is subject to the payment of the collateral inheritance tax. By the provisions of the will Mrs. Grant bequeathed all her property to her children for life, when it shall revert to her grandchildren. The will has been admitted to probate in Washington, where Mrs. Grant resided.

General Grant says his mother did not have any real estate in this state, and the only personal property she possessed here consists of 432 shares of the United States Steam company and $1,648 interest bearing scrip of no market value and which cannot be sold.

Younger Wants a Pardon.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 7.—Cole Younger has applied to the state board of pardons for a full pardon. He has been on parole from the state prison for a year and a half. The terms of the parole forbid him to leave the state or to exercise many other rights of citizenship. In fact, on parole he is civilly dead, as much as if within the walls of the prison. The purpose of this application of course is to enable Younger to return to his old home in Missouri.

Corbett to Meet Jeffries.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 7.—James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight of the world, and James J. Corbett, ex-champion, are practically matched to meet in another battle for the title. The Hayes Valley Athletic club of San Francisco has offered a purse of $20,000 to bring the two men together, and Corbett has stated that he would accept the offer. It now only remains for Jeffries to signify his willingness—something which under the conditions he can hardly refuse to do.

TAILOR MADE STYLES.

Smart Fabrics and Color Combinations.

The fabrics which tailors are using are charming, and sartorial art has reached perfection. It is wonderful what an amount of detail and finish is put into every seam and tuck. A bright shade of emerald green zibeline is being used for certain smart tailor mades. Black, too, lined with green and worn with an all green hat, makes a charming costume.

Many of the tailors are making simple pouched coats, open in front to show a waistcoat of white and gold or some other beautiful embroidery. Some of the new short walking skirts for country and morning wear in town are very charming. They must clear the ground and are often kilted to within four inches of the waist, where they are put into a shaped piece. Again, many of the quite plain skirts are strapped or braided.

Some of the tailor bodices still show the little tails, but these never became really popular, for they are not becoming. It is generally a mistake to take away from the length of the skirt.

CHIC TOUCHES.

Russian Embroidery—Several Furs on One Garment.

The little touches of Russian embroidery used on cloth gowns make them very bright and attractive. Those intermixed with deep coppery tinsel are very effective.

Plaited coats, reaching nearly to the hem of the gown, are charming for carriage wear, and the facings used on these models are handsome and elaborate.

Two or more furs are used on one garment, and this even on opera wraps. A large sack coat of brocaded satin in a yellowish shade had a large tippet of ermine fur bordered with plisse chiffon and flat revers of dark sable. A walking jacket of sack shape had a cross over collar partly of Persian lamb, with a scalloped border of ermine forming the other half.

String and stone colored laces are used on the beaver and leather tints of cloth, and the lace is generally inclosed in shaped strappings of the cloth or used as a border, with straps on either side.

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Their view was one to entrance a poet. They were at the edge of a glade covering about 40 acres. Here and there a rock showed above the waving grass and flowers, but otherwise the vista was unbroken.

"This is a superb spot," said Sidney. "Did you ever see such flowers and trees? How tame the products of conservatories seem compared with nature's work! There is a bunch of roses which would be worth $100 in New York. What kind of a tree is that?" Sidney pointed to a medium-sized tree about 15 feet in height, with broad spreading leaves.

"Why, it's a banana tree," he exclaimed in great delight. "And what is more, it is loaded with bananas."

A huge bunch of yellow and yellow-black bananas hung from the point where the broad leaves spread like a stalk of celery. Sidney took out his knife and cut several from the bunch.

"You are sure these are bananas, are you?" asked Mr. Kent. "Don't poison yourself."

"They certainly are," said Sidney, "and they are delicious. These are the first ripe bananas I have ever tasted. The stuff we get in New York is no more like this than potatoes are like pears. They pick them green, months before they are ripe, and ship them north to ripen in basements or in tenement houses. Did you ever taste anything so delicious?"

"They are fine," said Mr. Kent. "Cut some more."

They found scores of banana trees with bunches of fruit in various stages of development. They knew that life can be supported for an indefinite period from the banana tree alone, and while they had no intention of remaining on the island, the thought was a comforting one.

They returned to the brook and followed it in a northwesterly direction. For some time they had heard the sound of falling water, and soon circled a ledge of rock and had a full view of a beautiful cascade. The brook leaped 80 feet; not from the top of a precipice, but from a point fully 40 feet below the top. It came welling from a cavern and fell unbroken into a pool below. There could be no mistake as to this. On the crest of the rocks there were trailing vines and ivy directly above the tunnel from which poured the waterfall.

"There is the end of our brook," said Sidney as he studied the view before him. "I remember now that underground rivers and brooks are common in these southern latitudes. There are lots of them in Mexico and especially in Yucatan. I wonder if I can scale those rocks?"

"I know that I cannot," said Mr. Kent as he sat down on a boulder. "Go ahead and I will stay here and watch you."

It was a hard climb, but Sidney made it. He stood at last directly over the waterfall. Without stopping to admire the view spread out before him, he plunged into the forest which sloped upward. It grew thicker as he advanced. Suddenly he came to a solid mass of trees and brush, woven into a thicket so dense that no animal larger than a rabbit could penetrate it for a yard. Sidney walked along the edge of this jungle for half a mile or more, but his search for an opening was stopped by the fact that the vegetable barrier finally extended to the edge of the cliff. The explorer then selected a tall logwood tree, and after a hard struggle "shinned" up to the lower branches and climbed nearly to the top. From this elevation he had a fair view of this part of the jungle, but could only guess at its extent. He found that it continued unbroken to the top of a hill fully a mile away, and beyond he made out the outlines of other and higher hills, probably four or five miles away.

Sidney Hammond was not unfamiliar with such jungles, having encountered them in the mountains of New Mexico, but those northern thickets were not to be compared to the tropical mass which now confronted him. He sat in the branches of the tree for some time. Suddenly he realized it was hot, and at the same moment the sound of two shots came from the valley. He was fearful that his companion was in danger. Mr. Kent had selected the shotgun, hoping to shoot grouse or quail. These birds had been seen in abundance, but it had been decided to bag none until the time came to start for camp. In a few minutes Sidney was at the bottom of the cliff. Mr. Kent was not to be seen. Sidney ran to where he had left the millionaire speculator. He then yelled at the top of his voice.

An answering call came from a ravine to the left. Sidney ran in that direction. Mr. Kent was standing under a tree, with the shotgun half raised. He was looking intently at a jagged pile of rocks a short distance away. At his feet was a dead deer.

"Hurry up!" said Mr. Kent as Sidney approached. "Do you see that fellow on that rock over there? See him?"

Mr. Kent pointed at the rocks. Stretched out at full length on a flat slab of sandstone was a lean, lithe, dun-colored beast. He looked and acted like a big cat. When Sidney approached the large round head was lowered over the edge of the rock, and the animal was intently watching Mr. Kent and the deer. A moment later he rose to his feet, stretched out his neck, and emitted a half-yawn and half-growl. Sidney brought the rifle to his shoulder. The beast snarled and poised for a leap to the ground below. The shot rang out. The big cat turned his head like a flash and bit at his shoulder as if a bee had stung him. He gave a roar, leaped into the air and fell in a heap at the bottom of the rocks. Sidney advanced toward him slowly, but no caution was necessary. The mountain lion was dead.

"It seemed a shame to kill him," said Sidney, as he lifted one of his big paws. "He looked fine on that rock."

"He didn't look so blamed fine to me," said Mr. Kent.

It was noon, and although the sun was warm, Sidney was reluctant to return to the bungalow without making one more attempt to penetrate the jungle to the west, and if possible reach the crest of the hills which could be seen beyond. He imagined that from that point of vantage it would be possible to determine the approximate shape of the island, and hoped to identify it by a comparison with those islands shown on the maps which he had found in the books of the bungalow library. They therefore decided to satisfy their hunger with bananas and pawpaws. They found the latter very refreshing. Sidney knocked two from a tree. They were the size of a small pumpkin, and the flavor was much the same as that of a nutmeg muskmelon. These, with fresh water from a spring, were sufficient to stay their hunger.

"This is the first Robinson Crusoe meal we have had," said Mr. Kent. "There is not much of the romantic in my disposition, but I rather like this sort of thing for a change. But only for a change. I would rather be cast away in a bungalow with electric fans and a cooking range, than on a desert reef with a shotgun and a naked savage. To my mind, old Robinson Crusoe was in mighty hard luck."

It would not do to leave the deer behind; there being no place to hide it where wild animals could not reach the carcass, and it was agreed that Mr. Kent should guard his trophy and attempt to shoot some grouse, quail or other game, while Sidney completed the search for an outlet through the jungle. Mr. Kent said he would take chances with a shotgun, and agreed to fire twice in rapid succession if he needed assistance. Sidney started for the cliffs and promised to return within two or three hours.

He scaled the rocks and again stood on the height overlooking the valley. The bluff extended far as he could see, but as Sidney continued south he found that it gradually decreased in height until it finally came to the level of the "park." The edge of the jungle was irregular, but at no place was he able to penetrate it a distance exceeding 200 yards from the edge of the cliffs. Gradually he worked to the east. Here the jungle was not so thick, but yet it was impossible to force a way through it.

THE TRIAL OF GLENN

Sensational Developments at Manila Court Martial.

ARMY RECORDS TAMPERED WITH.

Defense Argues For the Summoning of Generals Chaffee and Smith. Accused Claimed to Have Acted According to Orders.

MANILA, Jan. 7.—When the trial of Major Edwin F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry, who is to be tried by court martial on the formal charge of unlawfully and willfully killing seven prisoners of war, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline and in violation of the sixty-second article of war, was resumed here the defense renewed its request that Generals Chaffee and Smith and other witnesses be summoned from the United States. The court refused this request for the present. The argument developed certain sensational features. In opening the defense announced that it had declined to submit the interrogatories for depositions ordered by Secretary of War Root on the ground that the question of summoning witnesses rested with the court, and submitted a written argument urging the right and justice of having witnesses. This argument charged that the records of the Sixth brigade, commanded by General Smith, had been tampered with and that important documents had been removed. It is said the defense desired to examine General Smith with regard to these documents, as well as concerning certain written and verbal orders, for the purpose of showing the character of the campaign he desired to have waged, and that General Chaffee was wanted for the purpose of obtaining certain orders and documents which were not recorded at division headquarters.

It was also declared in the argument that General Chaffee had sent a telegram to the department of southern Luzon when Caballes' force was operating clad in American uniforms. The text of this telegram is given as follows:

"The division commander directs that no matter what measures be adopted information as to the whereabouts of this force must be obtained."

The defense argued that this order was authorization for the application of the water cure and said that officers in the field so interpreted it. If this interpretation was proper, the defense said, General Chaffee was entitled to the opportunity to show why he had failed to interfere to prevent the court martialing of officers for executing the order.

Steel Trust's Earnings.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The quarterly meeting of the directors of the United States Steel corporation was held at the offices, 71 Broadway, and the regular dividends on common and preferred stocks were declared. The earnings for the last quarter of 1902 were said to be $31,339,813 as against $29,759,912 for the corresponding quarter in 1901. From the net earnings deductions are made of $24,528,188 for sinking funds, depreciation and reserve funds and for a special fund set aside for depreciation and improvements, of $15,200,000 for interest on bonds, of $8,040,000 on sinking funds for bonds and of $56,052,869 for interest on the stocks. These deductions leave undivided profits amounting to $33,841,565 for the year.

Last evening marked Roselle's first games in the league as its matches with Cranford and the Park Club had been postponed.

The third and deciding game between the Bachelors and Benedicts of the Park Club will be rolled on the club alleys Saturday night. This series has long been famous among the holiday happenings at the Park Club and this winter's matches have been of even more than the usual interest. At straight bowling, the Bachelors won, "cooked hat" was the winning game for the married man. The third and deciding contest will now be rolled.

A return game will be played at the Jersey City Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, January 16, by the five of the local Y. M. C. A. Yesterday the basketball league of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. renewed its activities by playing two games. The Rough Riders defeated the Iroquois 2-1, and the Mohawks defeated the Scouts 3-2. The games were exciting throughout. Saturday two more games will be played; the Iroquois will meet the Mohawks, and the Scouts will meet the Rough Riders.

The basket ball team of the City High School will meet the Business Men's team in the game in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this evening. The lineup will be as follows, subject to change: Left forward, R. W. Meeker; right forward, H. Munro; center, F. K. Anderson; right guard, A. F. Conant; left guard, H. G. Thompson. The boys have been doing good work in practice and are anxious to win his game which will doubtless prove an interesting one.

How the Nickname Originated.

Time and again in the world's history has a name applied in derision been adopted by the persons sneered at and later been considered with pride. Gotham, New York's alias, was originally applied in derision, doubtless because of some alleged foolishness of New Yorkers, the name being taken from "The Merry Tales of the Madmen of Gotham," satirical stories written in the fifteenth century by Adam Borde, a Carthaginian monk, who afterward died in the Tower of London.—Chicago Chronicle.

Superstitions About Birds.

Upon the graves of the dead in Turkish cemeteries little vessels of water are placed for the benefit of the birds, and some of the marble tombs have basins chiseled out for the same purpose, the superstition being that birds carry messages about the living to the dead, and, like everybody else in Turkey, are suspected of being spiteful unless something is done to curry their favor.—London Chronicle.

INSURANCE IN SURGERY.

Plan Adopted by English People of Moderate Means Which Seems to Be Good.

In England people of moderate means are beginning to insure themselves against surgical operations. The plan is that subscribers who pay an annual fee shall be entitled either to free admittance to a hospital or nursing at home and free operation or to a fixed sum paid down to defray the cost of an operation if one becomes necessary. In England, as here, the cost of surgical repairs to the human body has become oppressively great to persons who just manage to pay their way. People who are obviously poor get a great deal of excellent surgical and medical treatment in hospitals and elsewhere for nothing, but for the next class above them a serious illness—especially if it involves an operation—is almost ruinous, says Harper's Weekly.

It would seem as if the time was near when societies for insurance against specialists might be profitably organized in the larger American cities. The specialist has come to be a very important—indeed, an indispensable—institution, especially to families in which there are children. The office of the family doctor has now become simplified to the task of coming in and telling the patient which specialist to go to. It is not that specialists charge too much, for their honorable services are above price. It is that landlord, butcher, baker, grocer, milkman, coalman, dentist and trained nurse do not leave you money enough to pay them appropriately. To subscribe a considerable sum annually and have all the repairs and desirable improvements made in one's family without further disbursement would be a comparatively simple way out of a troublesome predicament.

Unfair.

"Don't you sometimes feel that wealth is unfairly distributed?" asked the social reformer.

"I do," answered Senator Sorghum. "Many is the dollar I've given away in a campaign that didn't do me a cent's worth of good."—Washington Star.

Fowler—Do you believe that during the courtship it is a case of two souls with but a single thought?

Growler—No, I don't. A courtship is a thoughtless affair.—Chicago Daily News.

Fudge—When will the funeral take place?—National Tribune.

ENGINE HOUSE FOR EAST END

Chief Doane Points Out Need of Better Fire Protection for the Netherwood District.

IS VALUABLE PROPERTY

Plainfield Has the Best Equipped Department for a City of Its Size, and It Has Been the Means of Materially Reducing the Insurance Rates—Its Present Needs.

In speaking of the work of the Plainfield fire department during the past year and of the necessary additions to it which should be made without delay, Chief T. O. Doane said, when seen by a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon, that so rapidly has Plainfield grown that it has actually outgrown the fire department. Another engine house should be placed between the present headquarters on East Second street and the Netherwood Hotel in order to properly protect the East End without leaving the "conflagration district" as the insurance companies call that part of the town which lies between Watchung avenue, Central avenue, Green brook and Fourth street, with no protection whatever in case two alarms should be sounded at the same time or when an alarm for a fire in the business district is sounded while the department is at work at a blaze in Netherwood.

"There can be no question but that another engine house is needed at or near Netherwood," said the Chief, "and the sooner it is secured the better. A combination hose wagon is needed and a team of horses. As it is now, if there should be an alarm sounded for a fire in Netherwood the business district is left without any protection whatever and a fire could get considerable headway before the engines would be able to reach it. Another reason why another engine house and hose wagon is needed in the east end of the town is because there are dwellings there which are valued between $5,000 and $50,000 which have but poor fire service, although they are entitled to protection against fire as well as those who live nearer town.

"In some of these houses the contents are worth $50,000 and some fire protection for this property is very important. As it is now it requires from eight to ten minutes to go from this city to Netherwood. A fire could get considerable headway in that time. Take the Netherwood Hotel, for instance. There are sometimes as many as 200 guests in that building and if a fire should get started in that building at night and get a good headway its total destruction would probably be well under way, before the fire department arrived there from this city.

"At first the city began to grow towards the West End, and it was not long before it was seen that it was necessary to have a fire house located in that locality. Of late years there has been a wonderful growth in Netherwood and it has come to a time when the need of better fire protection in that locality is felt."

"Has the paid department in this city proved to be an expensive luxury or has it proven to be cheaper than the old volunteer system?" asked the reporter.

"The paid system has paid for itself many times over," replied the Chief, "because it has been the means of reducing the insurance rates to a considerable extent. On December 24, 1900, the insurance companies reduced the rates 20 per cent. on barns and dwellings, 15 per cent. on merchandise and stores and 10 per cent. on factories. This was the only city in New Jersey where the reduction was made and it was made here on account of the very efficient fire department in this city. For a time this city had a more efficient department than any other city of its size in New Jersey and it is only recently that Elizabeth has secured the department it has, and in some respects gone ahead of Plainfield.

"There can be no doubt in any one's mind but the paid system has proven to be a cheaper one than the volunteer department, and no better illustration of the efficiency of the Plainfield fire department can be found than the figures showing the reduction of the insurance rates which are given."

"Eliminating the Babcock fire,

ORACLE OUT.

Second Number of City High School Publication Has Made Its Appearance.

The City High School publication, the Oracle, has made its second appearance and, like the first issue, it is bright and newsy from cover to cover. The leading editorial is on "Resolutions" and is very cleverly written. In the second editorial attention is called to the need of a cheering song which presents an excellent opportunity for some clever student to supply the demand and thus make his or her name immortal in the school annals.

"The Day After," is the title of a college love story by Miss Lillian Snodgrass, '05. Under the head of general reports is an able review of the recent senior play and also of the Christmas exercises. The Alumni Notes are unusually interesting to the graduate and the School Notes are bright and very clever. The second issue of the paper is very well edited and is a credit to the editors and to the staff of reporters.

SMALL-POX AT BRUNSWICK

TWENTY-SEVEN CASES ARE REPORTED IN ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Newspapers Refuse to Publish Anything, and Greatly Exaggerated Reports Are Afloat.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 8—The number of small-pox cases in this city are continually increasing, in spite of the efforts of the Board of Health and other authorities to keep the matter quiet, and a number of the houses in the exclusive parts of the town are quarantined.

It is reported that there are twenty-seven cases now at the isolation hospital. Monday there were a number of new ones removed to the temporary retreat. The physicians are very busy vaccinating all the factory hands who were not vaccinated last winter.

The situation here is made more alarming by the fact that the newspapers here have not printed a line about the presence of the disease in the community and exaggerated rumors have spread about the town to such an extent that the people are somewhat frightened.

PAID IT BACK.

Stole From Sunday-School Years Ago and It Troubled Him.

The clerk of the First Baptist church, Somerville, has received a letter from Rev. H. H. Barber, of Columbus, O., accompanied by $25, with the request that it be given to the Sunday-school of the church. The writer of the letter to Mr. Barber said that he appropriated $1.50 from the Raritan Baptist Sunday-school when he was a boy and he had had a troubled conscience over the theft for more than twenty-five years. At that time the Raritan Baptist Sunday-school was a branch of the Somerville Baptist church and was disbanded a quarter of century ago. The money will be placed in the treasury of the Sunday-school, as requested.

Assemblyman Finch is Active.

Assemblyman Edward Finch, of New York, a former resident of Plainfield, is taking an active part in the affairs of New York State in this is second term. Yesterday he introduced two bills, one regarding the police department of New York City, and another regarding the publication of the names of persons eligible to jury duty. Both bills are considered strong and popular ones.

Overturned Stove Did It.

An overturned stove set fire to a work train caboose on the New Jersey Central, just below Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon. The workmen were unable to quell the flames and to save the car the local fire department was summoned from box No. 49. One stream of water quickly extinguished the blaze.

HOW DRUM'S TAVERN BECAME VERY FAMOUS

In Absence of Proprietor, it Was Conducted on Rather Unusual Lines.

HOSPITALITY FOR ALL

WAS A SUDDEN CHANGE OF CONTROL, BUT THAT DIDN'T AFFECT POLICY.

Martin Murphy Was Left in Charge, But Earl Sanders Thought He Could Run the Place Better—Brewing Co. Finally Closed It.

Drum's tavern at Berkeley Heights is closed. Its proprietor is in jail at Elizabeth for failing to comply with the directions of the court. Between the time of Drum's departure and the closing of his establishment a week intervened and the happenings of that week have supplied the gossips of Berkeley Heights with material enough to keep them going all winter. Altogether it might be said to have been one of the most eventful weeks since the Passaic broke loose from its banks.

Terence Drum and his wife failed to agree last spring so they separated and the courts instructed him to pay her an allowance every week for her support. It wasn't long ago that he fell behind in his payments and so the constable came and carried him away until he should furnish bonds for the regular payment of that allowance. Even if the payments grew slack the thirst of the community did not and so Drum arranged that Martin Murphy, of Summit, should look after it in his absence.

According to rumor, Murphy proved a truly delightful host. Those who had money were royally entertained at their own expense and those who were less fortunate financially were, it is said, looked after just the same. Drum's tavern was high in popular favor when Earl Sanders, of Myersville, wandered in. Just what the trouble started over, no one seems to be able to say but Sanders, so the story goes, was not pleased with Murphy's stewardship and evicted him without waiting for due process of law. Sanders then assumed the role of host and Drum's tavern became even more popular than before.

Everybody was happy, except the dethroned Murphy and the proprietor in jail, until Saturday morning when the representatives of the Rising Sun Brewing Company, which had a claim on the place, put in an appearance. Then it was Sanders' turn to relinquish the helm and with his departure the famous hospitality of Drum's tavern came to an end. The brewing company's representatives closed up the road house and departed. The story of that famous week still remains, however, and the convivial spirits of that vicinity still talk over what a great time they had during the respective reigns of Martin and Earl.

Mrs. Howe in "Boston Days."

In Lilian Whiting's "Boston Days" among the galaxy of brilliant men and women who have made the famous metropolis "The City of Beautiful Ideals", Julia Ward Howe is a notable personage. Her picture is copied from an early photograph. Of these eminent men and women, whose story is briefly told, there are but few survivors, of whom Julia Ward Howe is one. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, the daughter of Mrs. Howe, must read the tributes paid her mother with mingled pride and pleasure.

Lecture on Japan.

The lecture to be given at the Casino Saturday evening by J. Dunbar Wright for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, will be one of great interest to all. It will illustrate Japan in many interesting phases. These pictures were taken by Mr. Wright himself, and therefore have a special value. This lecture will afford an excellent opportunity for Plainfielders to have a pleasant evening and at the same time assist a worthy cause.

Going to a Conference.

Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, will leave Monday, January 19, for Florida. Dr. Carroll goes to attend an important conference of the Methodist church. The trip will combine business and pleasure.

Mrs. Fisk's Teas.

The first of a series of teas to be given Thursdays in Januuary by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, at her New York home, will be given this afternoon. A number of Plainfield women are expected to attend.

AFTER THE GAS COMPANY

CITY AND BOROUGH HEALTH BOARDS WANTED NUISANCE STOPPED.

Found That the Sludge Was Being Emptied Into Brook Until Alterations Could be Made.

Acting upon numerous complaints received from residents on both sides of Green brook, Dr. W. E. Honeyman, of the Borough Board of Health, learned recently that the Plainfield Gas Company was responsible for an oily substance with a disagreeable odor finding its way into the stream.

For some time lately, the company has been using petroleum instead of naptha in the formation of its illuminating product and the waste has been temporarily let into the old North avenue sewer, the large tanks on the ground proving inadequate. From the sewer it emptied into the brook with the result that much annoyance was caused.

Dr. Honeyman communicated with Dr. B. VanD Hedges, of the City Board of Health, and Superintendent Brokaw, the works, was notified. He has promised that the trouble will be abated as soon as the storage tanks can be made ready.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARTIN.

Services Were Held at the Home on Manson Place Yesterday.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. James B. Martin were held yesterday afternoon from her late residence on Manson place. The attendance was very large.

Those who acted as pall bearers were Robert Slorah, Louis Nelson, Donald McInnis and J. Fred Wharton. Interment was in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Remarkable Impersonation of That Great President by Mr. Chapin.

The interpretation of an historic character by means of an impersonation in make-up by a distinguished impersonator, who employs the language of that character in original dramatic sketches, is something hitherto untried and singularly unique. For an accomplished character actor, the task of "making-up" to look like Abraham Lincoln is an easy matter, but to do the same things, to say the same things and to be the same strong personality is the task which Benjamin Chapin has undertaken and accomplished with remarkable success. Mr. Chapin has devoted his time for several years in original research and exhaustive study of the life and character of Abraham Lincoln. He is tall and angular and in many other respects bears a striking resemblance to President Lincoln. Mr. Chapin will appear in Plainfield under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, January 19, at 8 o'clock.

"That reminds me of a story." A characteristic pose of Mr. Chapin as Pres. Lincoln.

Too Few for Business.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, did not hold a business meeting last evening as intended, the attendance of members being small. No business meeting will now be held before next month, unless a special is called.

Denton Elected Captain.

At a meeting of the leaders of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes, last evening, Arthur L. Denton was elected permanent captain of the first basket ball team.

Pictures of the famous surgeon, Dr. Lorenz, at work in a Philadelphia hospital, showing the various methods of proceedure in treating a patient was passed around and a lengthy discussion followed on his manner of treating disease. The banquetters retired from the hall at midnight.

The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing games and dancing until a late hour when refreshments were served and the guests departed.

None So Fine.

There is nothing more refreshing or beneficial than a Turkish bath, and the appointments are so fine at Dr. Cooley's baths, Somerset street, that they can be enjoyed fully as well as at the New York baths. They are fine to break up a cold or an attack of rheumatism.

BETRAYED BY COCK CROWING

Patrolman Myers Found Two Midnight Wanderers Bearing Feathered Burdens.

HAD FIVE WITH THEM

Five Fowls Missing From a Hen House in The Borough—Men Were Held And Will Be Transferred To Borough Authorities This Afternoon.

'Twas in the first hour of this morning when John Morecraft and Harry Hayes slipped and slid along East Fourth street. Then Patrolman Myers loomed upon the horizon.

"Hello, officer," they said in chorus. Their hands were behind them. "Nice night, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Nick and then he was cut short by the shrill crow of a rooster, "Why I didn't know it was so near daylight."

Morecraft and Hayes said they didn't either and the latter made a suspicious attempt to smuggle something under his coat. The officer was about to proceed on his beat when something very much like a cackle made him look in Morecraft's direction and he was surprised to see a bunch of feathers in his hand.

"What have you there?" he asked. Morecraft mumbled something about a new duster and Hayes suggested they had better be going. That was enough for Meyers and both men suddenly found themselves gripped by the shoulders and started for police headquarters. Both tried to bluff Sergeant Frederickson that the chicken had been given them by a friend but it didn't go, and both were consigned to cells.

Now the most suspicious thing about it all was that five pullets disappeared from the hen-house of Mrs. Elizabeth Shotwell, 30 Pearl street, North Plainfield, and that four live pullets and one with its neck twisted were found in the possession of Morecraft and Hayes.

A complaint was preferred against them before Justice Smalley this morning and they will be turned over to the borough authorities this afternoon.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION.

How It Will be Observed at St. Joseph's R. C. Church.

Dr. Norris, Chancellor of the diocese of Trenton, will deliver a sermon and during the day the choir will render music including Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

The devotions will terminate Tuesday morning at 10:30 when a solemn high mass will be celebrated. Visiting priests will be in this city all during the forty hours' of devotion and will listen to confessions and attend to the spiritual wants of the parishioners.

MUST PAY.

Otherwise the Borough Taxpayers May Expect Unpleasant Visit.

After January 15 those who have not paid their little tax bill will expect a big policeman to come to their doors and ask them gently but firmly for the amount of their obligation. Dog, personal and poll taxes all come under the ban and if they avoid the policeman's call they had better pay a friendly visit at the office of George F. Brown on Somerset street, where they will be received with open arms if they have the amount of their bill with them.

Injured in Run to Fire.

While responding on a bicycle to the alarm from Box No. 49, yesterday afternoon, Monroe Staats, sub-callman to the chemical engine, took a header on West Second street, near Liberty. He was rendered partially unconscious by the fall and was carried back to headquarters by his comrades.

Denies Engagement.

Miss Sadie Doyle wishes it stated that she is not engaged to a former Philadelphian. She says that it is entirely without foundation, and that it was an idle whim of a practical joker.

what in your estimation was the extent of last year's fire losses in the aggregate?" queried the Press man.

"Aside from the Babcock fire the losses of the past year were very slight. In my report the loss on buildings amounted to $79,764; insurance on buildings, $387,590; loss on contents, $58,040.93; insurance on contents, $295,131.25. The loss on the Babcock fire amounted to $70,000; the loss on the contents of the building, $50,000 Eliminating that from the total loss on buildings for the year we have a loss by fire in this city on buildings, $9,764, and on contents, $8,040.93, which is very low indeed considering the fact that eighty-seven alarms were received. In 1901, our fire losses were even lighter than they were this last year as the loss for that year was $9,000 on buildings, and only $4,000 on their contents. The figures given for the past year's losses include the losses sustained at the "Eight Row" fire, of April 26."

When asked if there was not a greater frequency in the calls today than there was two or three years ago, Chief Doane said:

"Fifteen years ago the people were afraid to send in an alarm. They preferred to try to put the fire out themselves rather than run the risk of having their houses flooded with water. That was before the advent of the chemical engine. Today, if there is a fire in the house, even if it is a slight one, the people will pull a box because they know that their houses will not be flooded with water and they would rather have the firemen put it out than run the risk of the fire getting beyond their control and perhaps run the risk of having the entire structure burn. It is for this reason thatthere are so few really disastrous fires in this city and for such small losses."

"How about the cost of running the department, does not the appropriation appear very high? $21,000 seems a good deal of money to spend on a department for a town of this size," ventured the reporter.

"That is just where the people make the mistake. Out of that appropriation must come $4,500 for hydrant tax; $10,000 for salaries and horses' feed and other necessaries for the horses, and that leaves only $6,000 a year for operating expenses, repairs, etc. This is the only city in all the United States, as far as can be learned, where the fire department has to pay for water out of the fire fund and when it is considered that the department is really run on $16,000 a year, including horses' feed, men's salaries and so forth the Plainfield fire department is really operated upon a very economical basis."

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Long Shots Won at New Orleans. Results at Oakland.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—Doc Kyle, whose horses are getting good, had a good thing in Showman in the six furlongs condition race, which opened the programme here yesterday, but he could get nobody to take him seriously, and Showman won at 60 to 1. The wise people would have nothing but Uranium, and Uranium finished unplaced. Royal Deceiver, one of the few race horses bred in Louisiana, was a good second at long price, and Memphian was third.

Hazel H., a 12 to 7 outside chance, won the second race on a very close decision. The field bunched at the head of the stretch. In the rush home Four Leaf Clover took the outside rail, while Hazel H. fell on the inside. They finished inches apart at the post. After some deliberation Hazel H. was awarded the victory, with Four Leaf Clover second and Floyd K. third.

The winner of the third race, another six furlong sprint, dropped from the skies. Amigari, at 15 to 1, won handily, while Philo, the 9 to 20 favorite, ran without her usual speed and away below her true form.

Baseball Peace Conference.

Johnson made the announcement following the receipt of a letter from President Garry Hermann of the Cincinnati club of the National league and chairman of the committee of that organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—At Oakland yesterday only two favorites won. The weather was fine and the track good. CASTRO GETS ANSWERS.

Reply of the Powers Said to Have Depressed Venezuela.

CARACAS, Jan. 8.—The answers of the powers to President Castro's last proposal relative to arbitration were delivered to President Castro last evening by United States Minister Bowen. A meeting of the cabinet was at once called to consider these communications. It is expected that the Venezuelan answer will be handed to Mr. Bowen soon. It will be forwarded by him at once to Washington.

It has been learned from an authoritative source that the answers of the powers delivered by Mr. Bowen have created a feeling of depression in Venezuelan government circles.

All sorts of rumors are current in Caracas concerning President Castro's answer to the communications of the powers, but none of them is reliable.

Bubonic Plague Spreading.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 8.—A special from Tucson, Ariz., says: "The spread of the bubonic plague toward the United States has caused such great alarm in Arizona that six prominent physicians here sent the following dispatch to the surgeon general of the marine hospital service: 'Reliable reports from Guayamas indicate that an epidemic of bubonic plague at Topolombampo and Guayamas is extending north. Cargoes from infected ports are unloading daily at Guayamas and other ports with no precautions whatever. The mortality rate is over 50 per cent, and the epidemic is spreading rapidly.'"

TALES OF VIOLENCE

Coal Strike Commission Hears Twenty-seven Witnesses.

PERSECUTION OF NONUNION MEN.

Situation In the Anthracite Region During the Strike Presented In a Light Not Favorable For the Strikers.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—The nonunion men continue to occupy the attention of the coal strike commission in presenting evidence of lawlessness in the anthracite coal region during the strike. The testimony included many acts of violence, from murder down to plain assault and petty larceny. Dynamite played a leading part in the alleged persecution of nonunion men and their relatives.

Five witnesses testified to their houses being more or less seriously damaged by persons, some of whom, known to be union men, placing the high explosives on the property. Other witnesses told of a dam being blown up, one locomotive damaged, steam pipes in two different collieries either broken or damaged by dynamite, bridges and fences damaged by incendiary fires and attempted wrecking of trains. One youth said he was stabbed, several of the witnesses were boycotted, and several others told of being beaten by crowds and of their houses being stoned.

Besides this a young woman told the commission she was dismissed as a schoolteacher because her brother chose to work during the strike. A young man testified that he was attacked as he was coming out of church after being married, forcing him to seek refuge in a colliery, while his bride got home as best she could, and another witness said he was afraid to attend the funeral of his mother, who had died while he was working behind a colliery stockade.

One witness told of having been punished by a mob forcing him to walk seventeen miles at the head of a cheering crowd of strikers. Other testimony was also presented in the endeavor to show that a reign of terror existed in the strike affected territory of the state and that members of the union were largely responsible for it.

While most of the testimony given by the witnesses was of the same character as that heretofore heard by the commission, the arbitrators were greatly interested in each of the twenty-seven stories told on the stand. Many questions were asked the witnesses by the commissioners.

Counsel for the miners attempted to break down some of the stories, but they did not succeed in shaking their testimony.

General Chaffee Inspects Troops.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Major General Adna R. Chaffee, U. S. A., visited Plattsburg barracks. The Twenty-third regiment, which has been ordered to the Philippines, was inspected in the drill hall, after which General Chaffee called upon all married men to step to the front. He closely questioned each of those who responded as to what he proposed to do for his family while he was in the Philippines. To every man who stated that he wished to give his family practically all his pay General Chaffee put the question, "What will you do without money yourself?" and he advised them as to how much they should reserve for their use. General Chaffee's aid, Captain Lindsay, was present, with notebook and pencil, and made a record of what amount each man desired given to his family. This amount is deducted from the man's pay and sent direct to his family, the balance going to the man himself.

New Zealand's Labor Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In answer to many inquiries Frank Dillingham, United States consul at Auckland, New Zealand, has submitted to the state department an excellent summary of the industrial conciliation and arbitration act, generally known as the "labor law," which, he says, thus far has given fairly good satisfaction in the colony. The abstract furnished is of topical interest as bearing on the mooted question of the expediency of requiring labor unions in the United States to be incorporated. One feature of the New Zealand law is a section making individual members of a labor union liable for any deficiency in the assets of his union when the latter is the subject of an adverse judgment by a board or court to an amount not exceedng $48 in each case. It is also provided that unions both of workers and employers may sue and be sued.

Train Robbers In Northern New York

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 8.—An unsuccessful attempt to rob the United States mail was made on a Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg train near Gouverneur during the night. Two men who boarded the train at Gouverneur forced an entrance into the mail car and commanded Clerk Stack to surrender the postal valuables. The clerk called for help, and the express messenger responded, when one of the robbers jumped from the train, which was moving at fifty miles an hour. The other was captured and lodged in the Canton jail. The identity of the would be robbers is unknown.

LIBRARY DEDICATED

Carnegie's Gift to National Capital Thrown Open.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ATTENDS.

White Marble Structure Cost $350,000 and Is an Ornament to City. Donor Reports 730 Library Gifts Within Two Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A throng of persons of note assembled to attend the ceremonies incident to the dedication of the Washington Public library. The event occurred in the auditorium of the new library, a handsome white marble structure located on Mount Vernon square. The participants in the exercises included the president of the United States, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the donor of the buildinng, and the presidents of the building commission and the board of library trustees. Among those who attended the ceremonies were members of the cabinet, of the senate and house of representatives and people prominent in civil and political life throughout the United States.

The library building is a beautiful white marble structure occupying the center of Mount Vernon square, in the very heart of Washington. For its construction Mr. Carnegie donated $350,000, and as an architectural ornament to the national capital it is quite equal to the government buildings of the city.

The dedication exercises lasted scarcely an hour. After the bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. Dr. Satterlee, had pronounced prayer President Roosevelt was introduced and made a brief address. In closing he said:

"I am not here to make a speech. I unfortunately have to leave at once, as the president has several duties to perform. I have come because I feel that the movement for securing better facilities for self training, better facilities for education in its widest and broadest and deepest sense, is one of such prime importance that the president of the United States could nowhere more appropriately come than to this building, Mr. Carnegie, at this time to thank you for the gift that you have made to the people of the national capital."

When the applause had subsided, President Roosevelt left the auditorium, the audience rising as he passed out and the Marine band playing "America."

In a brief address Mr. H. B. F. MacFarland, one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, turned the building over to the board of library trustees, President Noyes responding on behalf of the board.

Mr. Carnegie next was introduced. He was given an ovation by the great audience. He said in part:

"The free library, maintained by all the people for all the people, knows neither rank nor birth within its walls. Even he who honors us today by his august presence, the holder of the highest position upon earth, the elected of the majority of the English speaking race, a position compared with which all inherited positions sink into insignificance, within these walls has no privilege which is not the right of his poorest and humblest fellow citizen."

Mr. Carnegie said that he had given, chiefly within the past two years, 730 library buildings. During the month of July last 276 applications for library buildings were received by him from all parts of the English speaking world. When he arrived in New York last month from Europe he found awaiting him applications for 450 additional buildings. Today he has on hand 385 new applications, making in all under consideration now more than 800, "the great majority of which," he said, "will no doubt be given."

Upon the conclusion of the dedication ceremonies the libary was thrown open to the public and thousands of people passed through it during the afternoon and evening.

The cash on hand Nov. 30 was $1,743,253. Expenditures for the month of December amounted to $1,537,676, and the balance on hand Dec. 31 was $1,824,882. La Discusion says that Secretary Montes is making preparations to coin 1,000,000 Cuban silver dollars to take the place of the Spanish silver now in circulation in Cuba. The new coins will be on a par with American silver.

Four Millions to Celebrate.

The Christian Endeavor World has received a message from President Roosevelt, written for Christian Endeavor day, and it will be read in the societies.

MAJOR GLENN'S TRIAL.

Natives Testify Before Court Martial. Cholera Attacks Garrison.

MANILA, Jan. 8.—Two natives, former officials of Calbayog, island of Samar, were the only witnesses at the trial yesterday of Major Edwin F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry, who is charged with unlawfully and willfully killing seven prisoners of war.

The witnesses told of Major Glenn's arrival at Calbayog and of his having directed the citizens of that place to assemble in his office. When the citizens appeared, Major Glenn read them General Smith's circular and advised them to aid the Americans in the pacification of the island. He said this pacification was in their hands and directed them to go out and confer with the insurgents. He warned the citizens that if the insurgents failed to surrender they would be used as guides to conduct an American column against the enemy.

One witness testified that Major Glenn had taxed him with knowing the location of General Lukban's camp. He said the major warned him that if he failed to find Lukban he would be either hanged or shot. The witnesses gave the names of the seven guides who are alleged to have been executed under Major Glenn's orders. They did not, however, give any testimony regarding the executions.

The American garrison at Ormok, island of Leyte, has been attacked by cholera. Nine men of Company B, Eleventh infantry, were seized by the disease, and five of them died. The post at Ormok has been quarantined.

The cholera has disappeared from many parts of the island, but it continues in Mindanao and Leyte and in certain parts of other of the southern islands.

A FIERCE BLIZZARD.

Great Damage Reported In the Northwest.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 8.—Specials indicate that the blizzard in the Dakotas and northwestern Iowa is one of the severest known. One death is reported, that of Michael Butler of Deadwood, S. D., who was killed by a falling tree. The loss at Sioux City by wind is estimated at $10,000. At Luverne, Minn., roofs were blown from buildings and through plate glass fronts on the opposite side of the street. Railway cuts were drifted full and wagon roads blocked over an extensive area. Stock is suffering, and there will be many losses. The wind had a velocity of sixty and seventy miles an hour in many places.

A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., says the railroads were seriously affected by the storm, and nearly every train arriving in the city was from one to six hours late. The trains from the west were the most seriously affected, although trains from the north were all late.

Several instances are reported where engineers stopped their trains entirely during certain spasms of the storm while they were on high or exposed ground, being afraid to run because there was danger of being blown off the track while rounding curves.

Felt In Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 8.—Reports from portions of the southwest and from nearly all parts of Kentucky indicate that the effects of the northwestern blizzard are being severely felt.

Costa Ricans Want American Aid.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 8.—The government is unable to provide funds with which to complete the railroad to the Pacific coast. It is negotiating with the American contractors for the line to stop work and receive an indemnity.

Weather Probabilities.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE.

Will Often Help You Greatly—Read What a Plainfield Citizen Says.

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers but the testimony of friends or residents of Plainfield is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. Then the evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to direction. It was only a short time before I felt the good effects and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or over-exerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies, but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Organization Is Completed Without Trouble—Governor's Message Read.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Both branches of the state legislature are now ready for business. The senate was called to order by Lieutenant Governor Higgins and the assembly by Clerk Baxter. As soon as organization was completed the governor's annual message was received and read. The chief recommendations were:

An amendment of the franchise tax law so as to compel corporations to pay on a basis of gross receipts.

A tax on mortgages of 4 mills on $1,000.

Reorganization of the New York police force so as to put an end to official blackmail.

New laws to prevent illegal voting both at primaries and regular elections.

Legislation for the improvement of state canals.

Reorganization of the fire department of Greater New York.

More money for charitable institutions and for public schools.

Laws to provide for the arbitration of disputes between employers and employees.

Legislation that will prevent members of the national guard from being discriminated against by labor unions.

A large crowd had assembled in the senate to hear what was expected to be a lively tilt over the election of Senator Raines as president pro tem, owing to the known opposition of Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg. They were in great measure disappointed, for the decision of the lieutenant governor that the whole discussion was out of order was with little friction sustained by the senate by a vote of 25 to 24, the three named voting with the Democrats. Both senate and assembly elected the other Republican caucus nominees.

The senate when it convened resembled a great floral show, so vast was the display of flowers. Bishop William Croswell Doane offered prayer. Lieutenant Governor Higgins, who presided for the first time over the deliberations of the senate, administered the oath of office to those who had not already taken it.

The assembly chamber was not as well filled as is usual at the initial convening of the house, but nevertheless presented a bright and businesslike appearance.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Alexander Love of Albany and the roll of the assembly called without delay. Immediately after roll call a vote was taken on the speakership. It was announced by Clerk Baxter that S. Fred Nixon had received 83 votes and George M. Palmer 60. Speaker Nixon then took his seat.

MILITIA AND STATEHOOD.

These Subjects Occupied Attention of Senate—House Has Brief Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The senate yesterday discussed the bill for the reorganization of the militia and also the statehood bill. Mr. Mallory of Florida led the Democratic senators in opposition to the section of the militia bill providing for a reserve force of trained men, the contention being that it not only infringed the rights of the several states, but also increased the standing army by 100,000 men.

When the statehood bill came up Mr. Beveridge had read a number of resolutions adopted at a recent convention in Oklahoma favoring single statehood with Indian Territory. Mr. Quay, who is leading the fight for the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico, criticised the resolutions, saying the people who adopted them had not acted intelligently because the single statehood bill had been withdrawn. He further charged that they did not represent the sentiment of a majority of the people of Oklahoma. Mr. Nelson of Minnesota continued, but did not conclude his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill.

The session of the house lasted a little more than two hours. The senate bill for the redemption of the silver coinage of the Hawaiian Islands and its recoinage into United States coin was passed after an hour's debate.

The Lawrence Stood All Tests.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—The torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence, the first of her class built by the Fore River Ship and Engine company, successfully passed her final government trial in a straightaway dash across Massachusetts bay at a speed exceeding the required twenty-six knots an hour.

Minister Storer at Court Ball.

VIENNA, Jan. 8.—The carnival season was opened here last evening by a court ball at the imperial palace, attended by Emperor Francis Joseph, Archduke Franz Ferdinand and other members of the imperial family, diplomats and officials. United States Ambassador Storer and his wife made their first appearance in Austrian society. Mr. Storer's great stature and plain evening dress made him a striking figure in the crowd of gorgeously attired guests. For the next seven weeks the people of Vienna will enjoy a continuous round of masked and costume balls and many other kinds of festivities.

Admiral Cooper Transferred.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 8.—Rear Admiral Cooper's flag was hauled down on board the Constellation at the training station here, and as this was done a salute of thirteen guns was given. The admiral retires from the command of the coast defense of this section and is ordered second in command of the Asiatic station.

All Quiet at Indianola.

REAR END COLLISION

Seven Killed In a Telescoped Smoking Car.

FIRE TORTURES THE INJURED.

Last Car of Freight Train Standing on Switch at Duquesne, Pa., Caused the Terrible Disaster.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—As a result of a collision between a passenger train and the rear end of a freight train on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Cochrane station, just above Duquesne, seven men are dead, one is dying and five others are injured.

The death list is as follows: C. E. Stroud, baggage master Elizabeth accommodation, Homewood; C. M. Boehner, brakeman of accommodation, Pittsburg; John Stewart, passenger, residence unknown; two unknown foreigners killed outright; two unknown foreigners died on the way to the hospital.

The passenger train in the wreck was the West Elizabeth accommodation, which left Pittsburg at 3:20 p. m. It was on time and had a clear track, according to the signals displayed. At the siding at Cochrane it ran into the rear car of an extra freight which had taken the switch, but failed to clear the main line.

The officials of the road attribute the disaster to the failure of Patrick Quinn, the rear brakeman of the freight, to see that his train had fully cleared. Up to 11 p. m. Quinn has not been located. When the passenger train came along the caboose of the freight overlapped the main track enough to catch the tender of the passenger engine, which was forced back upon the combination baggage and smoking car with terrible force.

The thirteen passengers were jammed against the rear end of the car into almost a solid mass. Three of the victims were apparently killed outright, two of the other four were literally roasted to death, and the two who died on the way to the hospital were so badly burned that recognition is impossible.

Almost immediately after the impact fire from the stove in the smoker communicated to the wreckage and the imprisoned victims were tortured beyond description. All of the victims were badly burned. Conductor Cook was found unconscious under the charred body of Baggage Master Stroud. He is so badly hurt that he cannot live many hours.

SENATOR TELLER'S SUCCESSOR.

Colorado Senatorial Fight Takes on a Doubtful Aspect.

DENVER, Jan. 8.—The general assembly, which is to elect a successor to Senator Teller, met at noon. The Republicans have a majority of three in the house, but only seventeen of the thirty-four Republican members attended the caucus, those opposed to Edward O. Wolcott for senator refusing to join in a caucus.

After more than six hours' voting, during which the division of the votes of the Republican members who are in majority made the election of a speaker impossible, the lower house of the fourteenth general assembly effected a compromise organization. During the early voting the vote stood 17 each for Wolcott and anti-Wolcott candidates and 31 for the Democratic candidates. Late in the afternoon a combination was formed between the anti-Wolcott Republicans and the Democrats, which resulted in the election of J. B. Sanford of Douglas as speaker, John Vivian as chief clerk, M. R. Plummer as sergeant-at-arms and A. E. R. Lyons first assistant sergeant-at-arms. All these are anti-Wolcott Republicans except Lyons, who is a Democrat. It is understood that the agreement gives the Republican speaker practically all the patronage of the house, but prevents the unseating of the eleven Denver representatives who are Democrats.

It is not believed that a United States senator to succeed Senator Teller can be chosen at this session.

Postmistress Cox Will Resume.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Minnie Cox, who lately resigned as postmistress at Indianola, together with her husband and her negro assistant in the postoffice, passed through Columbus en route to Birmingham. Mrs. Cox said that she expected to be allowed to reopen the postoffice at Indianola, as she was forced to resign there owing to the acts of only a few people of that place. She further said that the most prominent residents of the city had indorsed her for the position and that they still were her friends. She said that these friends are working in her behalf and an effort will be made to have the postoffice reopened under her charge, but with another assistant.

Sagasta's Funeral.

MADRID, Jan. 8.—The funeral of former Premier Sagasta took place yesterday. The archbishop of Toledo officiated at the funeral, which was witnessed by great crowds of people. The streets through which the cortege passed were lined with troops. The casket will remain in a vault pending the erection of a tomb.

Hawaiians Will Protest.

HONOLULU, Jan. 8.—The report of the senate commission on the leper settlement at Molokai has caused surprise here as well as considerable opposition. The Republican central committee has decided to take the matter up and has decided to circulate a protesting petition for signatures and send the protest to congress.

A PROBLEM FOR CITIES.

If we were all favored most generously in a financial way and practically had unlimited funds at our command, we could without doubt dispose of every cent in ways that would be to the advantage of ourselves and all concerned. So it is with the city. If the Common Council had a limitless supply of funds for its use, there are no end of methods for spending it that would greatly improve and beautify the city. It happens, however, that Plainfield hasn't discovered any gold mine as yet and so the supply of funds has to depend on the taxpayers who naturally object to paying anything but a reasonable amount. It devolves upon the Common Council, therefore, to expend this money to the best possible advantage. Therein lies the most difficult task that confronts the municipal legislators.

In another column will be found an interview with Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, in which he outlines the present needs of that department. He particularly advocates the location of another engine house in the eastern end of the city to give better fire protection to the Netherwood district. No one questions for a moment that it would be advisable to establish such an addition to the department. The only question is whether the city can afford it at the present time with the other projects which the Councilmen have in view.

Mayor Jenkins has recommended the establishment of a police telegraph signal service and, although the members of the Council have not yet formally expressed themselves on the subject, it is generally understood that the members view the plan with approval. So far, nothing has been said directly about a patrol wagon but it is probable that the city would consider the purchase of one if the signal system was inaugurated. Then the Mayor has suggested better quarters for the police department and there has been informal talk about the erection of a building for that purpose. All of these things cost money but they would undoubtedly be to the advantage of the city. It will now rest with the Common Council to decide whether this expenditure is justified and, if so, to see that the work is done as economically as possible.

Let the Councilmen look into the matter and let the public into their confidence as much as possible. When the situation has been carefully explained, then will come the time for criticism. The subject has not as yet been sufficiently outlined to allow an intelligent opinion to be formed. The public will wait with interest the details of the plan.

The New Brunswick newspapers are pursuing a foolish policy in withholding all news about the presence of small-pox in that city. While it may keep some people in other cities from knowing it, it is much more apt to cause a panic there. All sorts of dreadful rumors start and, if there is no means of ascertaining the truth, people begin to believe no end of terrible things. When that disease appeared here last winter, the public was given the actual facts. That will be the course pursued by The Daily Press this winter so that the public will know just what is happening and there will be no false cause for alarm. The truth is never half so bad as the rumors which always accompany it.

It is not often that fortune favors anyone as it did Dr. E. W. Hedges the other evening when a draught carried a curtain against a lighted gas jet. Just at the precise moment the blaze shot up the curtain, Sergeant Frederickson rode down the street. At the same instant Patrolman Myers and Night Watchman Cash were approaching the house from other directions. Without loss of time, two of the officers hurried to the house, aroused the inmates and extinguished the flames while the third hurried to the fire alarm box nearby and summoned the fire department. Such a combination of fortunate happenings would not occur again in a long time.

There was one thing missing in Mayor Jenkins' message. In his reference to the contract between the city and the Plainfield Water Supply Company, he ought to have suggested to the Common Council that some arrangements should be made whereby those patrons of the company who desire the installation of water meters could have them. Officials of the water company argue that the people do not want the meters; that they prefer a fixed rate; yet we haven't observed that the company is falling over itself in its efforts to allow them to have the meters if they so desire.

Former Chancery Clerk Lewis A. Thompson, of Somerville, will not be appointed State commissioner of banking and insurance for which position, it is said, that he is a candidate. Mr. Thompson's efforts in behalf of the Republican party in Somerset county have managed to land that county in the Democratic column and Governor Murphy is not going to reward any politician for encompassing the defeat of his own party. If Mr. Thompson and his friends had accepted Mayor Smalley's harmony proposition, the situation would look somewhat differently now.

In no department of enterprise has there been a higher ratio of growth than in advertising, comments the Philadelphia Record. Besides the enormous sums spent for publicity, there are schools for teaching the art and many periodicals devoted to it. This is the result of the success of advertisers, especially through newspaper publicity. Men who have succeeded are persistent in advertising and in trying to improve their methods of addressing the public.

It is rather different from the expected state of affairs when we see the railroad companies fighting against the individuals to keep down the price of coal. We have been so deluged with statements that trusts and corporations invariably raise prices that we hardly know how to accept this new light on the situation.

This is going to prove an eventful year for Asbury Park. If all the plans now made for that resort are carried out, it undoubtedly ought to become the most popular seaside resort in the vicinity of New York.

It may be interesting to note that Weather Prophet DeVoe declared that New Jersey will be blizzard swept before the month is over. Despite his prediction, nobody seems to worry greatly about it.

Plainfield ought to get its fill of minstrel shows this year. Two are now being prepared by local talent.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

This week's offering at the local store of the A. and P. Tea Company as a premium, is a very serviceable enamelled three quart stew pan. It is an article that should be in every house. It is given only with A. and P. goods.

The New York Bargain store is making its regular post-holiday bargains of men's clothing and furnishings. Some of the sacrifices made at this store are astonishing and many of Plainfield's citizens are taking advantage of the reduction in prices.

If you trade with Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, you are sure of getting the best drugs, toilet articles, etc. Prescriptions are compounded accurately and quick service is a specialty. Mr. Miller's pharmacy is one of the most attractive in the State.

For a specialty tomorrow, John Wirth will have the most delicious angel cake ever sold at a local bakery. His workmen are thoroughly experienced and have acquired "the know-how" in baking. All of Wirth's confectionery and pastry is made fresh every day.

A clearance sale is going on at the dry goods emporium of I. H. Boehm, of West Front street, preparatory to taking the annual inventory. A lot of women's cloaks and suits are being sacrificed, and a special sale is being made of trimmed and untrimmed hats at prices reduced to cost.

Through the efforts of Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, many persons who formerly purchased jewelry, watches, etc., in New York, are now trading at home. Mr. Vail's stock of goods is such that one can do as well at home as in New York and besides satisfaction is guaranteed.

In these days when it costs so much to live, it is a pleasure to know that by trading at S. Scheuer & Company's store on West Front street, you can buy at a great saving. This store is surely the people's store for the firm caters to all classes, always giving the best goods at the lowest market prices.

Carefulness in compounding prescriptions is an absolute essential to every pharmacy. Often it is not regarded as seriously as it should be, but this has never been the case a Shaw's. In the many years that this drug store has been supplying the Plainfield public it has won an enviable reputation for thoroughness in this respect. The same applies to all of Shaw's preparations.

TWO VALUABLE VOLUMES.

Received at Public Library Through Courtesy of Hugh Hastings.

Through the courtesy of Hugh Hastings, State historian of New York, the Public Library has received the two volumes recently published of the Ecclesiastical records of the State of New York.

This is a work of great value, including as it does, early documents showing the work of the Jesuit missions among the Indians, and documentary history of the Church of England in New York, but it is especially valuable for the great number of documents on the history of the Dutch Reformed Church in the State of New York. To all interested in the religious history of New York, the work will be of great value. It is likely also to be much consulted by the descendants of old Dutch families.

His Official Visits.

Grand Master Workman V. W Nash, of the Ancient Order United Workmen, will make the following visitations this month: January 7, Camden Lodge, No. 1; January 8, Paterson City Lodge, No. 44; January 13, Upchurch Lodge, No. 50; January 16, Bayonne Lodge, No. 9; January 20, Goodwill Lodge, No. 14; January 22, Central Lodge, No. 48; January 23, Alpha Lodge, No. 7; January 26, Watchung Lodge, No. 66.

Treasurer Resigned.

With the sincere regret of all the members, Charles Conover, who for three years has been treasurer of the Painters' Union, resigned his position at a meeting of the union, Tuesday evening. Since Mr. Conover engaged in business for himself he has not had time to attend to the duties of the office. During his term he missed three meetings. Nelson Greaves was elected treasurer in place of Mr. Conover.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 11—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Bringing others to Christ.—John i, 40-45; iv, 6-10; Mark v, 19, 20.

The supreme mission of the Christian in this life is to bring others to Christ. Like Andrew, having found the Messiah ourselves we should go to others, tell them this fact and invite them to come to Him. Christ's mission was to seek souls. To seek and to save the lost was His chief business in life, and as His disciples and followers it should be ours.

The principal factors in bringing others to Christ are personal work and individual effort. The church services and the preaching of the gospel are not by any means to be underrated in their importance, yet it must be acknowledged that most people are led to Christ by hand to hand, face to face work. This method is eminently Scriptural. Andrew led Peter to Christ. Philip led Nathaniel. Christ addressed the multitudes, yet He also had the time to speak to one man, Nicodemus, and to one woman, the woman of Samaria. Peter and John brought the lame man at the beautiful gate to the Master, and Philip was led off to the Spirit to have the revival at Samaria that he might preach the gospel to the Ethiopian and bring him to Christ. Surely there is one person in our homes or among our acquaintances that we can bring to Christ this winter.

To bring one person to Christ may seem an insignificant thing, yet eternity alone can reveal the results of such a work. Andrew could not see Pentecost and 3,000 souls saved under Peter's preaching in one day, when he brought him to Jesus. That may have seemed a little thing to him, but how important it was in the light of future events! It may have seemed a little thing for a Christian workman to have invited a Boston shoe clerk to Sunday school, yet how transcendently important it was in view of Dwight L. Moody's subsequent career! No soul seeking service is a little thing. If but the one soul is saved, it would repay a lifetime of work, for has not Christ declared that our soul is worth more than all this world?

To be successful in bringing others to Christ we must be consistent in our own lives as Christians. If your religion has not made you better, it will be useless to recommend it to somebody else. Peter had confidence in Andrew's word and life, else he never would have followed him to Christ. Get sin out of your own life before you attempt to show others the way to Christ. If still living in sin, we have not traveled the way of salvation ourselves, and how can we guide others along a way unknown to ourselves? It would be a case of blind leading the blind and both would fall into the ditch. Keep right with God yourself first of all if you desire to be successful soul winners.

In bringing others to Christ we not only bless them, and perhaps countless others through them, but we bless ourselves. "Whosoever shall do and teach [God's commandments] the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." "They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. vii, 1; Num. x, 29; Ps. ii, 10-13; Dan. xii, 3; Luke xiv, 16-24; xv, 1-10; John iii, 1-16; Acts i, 8; viii, 26-40; Rev. xxii, 17.

Missionary Unbelief.

Every missionary committee would do well to read the following by Dr. Herrick Johnson to its society:

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the great commission. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Apostles' Creed. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Lord's Prayer. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Doxology in long meter. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions in this generation believes that 300 more millions of the heathen world ought to die before we tell them of Jesus Christ. How long is this belief to go on? How many more millions must die before the church of God is ready? "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to Him that believeth."

The Fire We Need.

Rev. Dr. Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck, president of the New York State union, in calling its recent convention to order said:

"Our dependence is upon God. If we have come praying that God might stir your hearts, and if we continue thus to pray through these days, I feel sure fire will be kindled here that will go back with us to our fields and burn till souls are born into the kingdom of God. We believe that God wants us to carry away from this convention coals of fire that will burn their way into weary hearts."

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

25. W. C. N., Fort Meade, S. D.—There are a large number of strictly Christian Endeavor papers published in the United States. The Christian Endeavor World, with headquarters at Boston, stands at the head of the list. This paper is the international organ of the movement.

26. O. H. O., Kentucky.—The honorable honorary list was designed for those who, having passed on to take up the larger activities of the church, had little time for the duties of Endeavor committee service.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 11, "The Open Channel of Prayer"—Text, Math. vi, 6-8; vii, 7-11; John xiv, 13-14.

Prayer ardent opens heaven, lets down a stream
Of glory on the consecrated hour
Of man in audience with the Deity.

Prayer is something more than telling God the things we want. It is much more than asking for things we need. It is not needed to move God to feel kindly toward us and persuade Him into willingness to give us what we ask for.

There are much asking and begging which have little or nothing of true prayer in them. There is much in prayer besides petitioning, much more than importunity.

Real prayer is heart union and communion with God. Its expression in words is necessary not to inform God nor because He commands or needs it, but we need to express our thought and feeling, our desires and determinations, in words that they may have definite shape and become full formed and fixed. Without this they remain unclear and formless. What we think or feel or will strongly we have a natural impulse to speak out in words. So if we are conscious of having any relation to God we have a desire to talk with Him. We must speak to Him and in some manner have response from Him. We must call. He will answer.

To know God and have the sense of His care for us, His loving regard and interest in our well being, is worth much more to us than getting things we need for comfort. So prayer is of more value to us for heart union with Him and spiritual comfort than for getting good things granted us. In distress the sense of His presence is more blessed than any promise of deliverance. His companionship in suffering is better than deliverance from suffering. Religion like this becomes a reality of God with us at all times. We can never be separated from Him if we do not close ourselves off from His Spirit by our own act.

But prayer power is under law as truly and fully as any other force in the universe.

Sincerity of soul is the first essential for its working. No imitation of tone or position of body, no simulation of fervor, no outward acting, can bring the results of real prayer. Bowed heads and bent knees, tremulous voice and pleading words, may make men think we are praying. God looks deeper, at what is in the soul. The deep, sincere heart hunger is first necessary before the bread of heaven can be had for nourishment.

In all this the soul is as active in receiving as God is in giving. Prayer is no lying passive with open hands for blessings to be dropped into them. It is alert use of all powers of asking, seeking, knocking and doing.

As the end of all praying we are to find fellowship with men. Its beginning is not to be seen and praised by them, but its outcome is that as we wish them to be toward us that we are to be toward them.

Meekness.

Self sufficiency must be eradicated before meekness can have its perfect work. It has a peculiar delicate fragrance; we are reminded of it when we take a walk in the woods in the early spring and breathe in the aroma that comes from the dainty flowers, the violet, anemone and hypatica, that are almost hidden in the leaves under our feet. One must look down to find these first gifts of God to the spring. They are meek and lowly, but living the life He has given, because He wills it. Meekness is a remedy that adapts itself to all the others. If mingled with love, it aids in developing a Christian life.—Episcopal Recorder.

Meditation.

Meditation is done in silence. By it we renounce our narrow individuality and expatiate into that which is infinite. Only in the sacredness of inward silence does the soul truly meet the secret hiding God. The strength of resolve which afterward shapes life and mixes itself with action is the fruit of those sacred solitary moments. There is a divine depth in silence. We meet God alone.—F. W. Robertson.

Our Father's Word.

A little girl, says the Sunday School Times was looking through a kaleidoscope and came upon an arrangement that she thought was the same she had seen awhile before. "No," said her comrade, "it can't be, though it does look so, for my papa says it's never twice the same." Her father's word was better than her own eyesight. So should our Father's word be to us.

Causes of Joy.

Enjoy the blessings of this day if God sends them, and the evils of it bear patiently and sweetly, for this day is only ours. We are dead to yesterday, and we are not yet born to the morrow. But if we look abroad and bring into one day's thoughts the evil of many, certain and uncertain, what will be and what will never be, our load will be as intolerable as it is unreasonable.—Jeremy Taylor.

A Confession of Character.

People seem not to see that their opinion of the world is also a confession of character. We can only see what we are, and if we misbehave we suspect others.—Emerson.

Rejoicing In Another's Good.

There is no greater sign of a man's holiness than the procuring and rejoicing in another's good.—George Herbert.

A Blessed Keeping.

There's one thought wholly cheers,
E'en lightens dreariest loss—
Our loved are in the arms of love
Whose love first gave to us.

FOR THEATER WEAR.

Warm Wraps—The Latest Opera Cloaks—Net Skirts.

Although the loose paletot and kimono shapes are more modish in wraps, yet all the fashionable houses are showing charming little capes and coats in the new zibeline cloth, in satin brocade and in panne, and these are liberally adorned with plisse chiffon, bebe ruching and incrustations of lace.

Some of the latest opera wraps are made with loose sleeves, similar to the Inverness cloak, but cut in more circular fashion and fuller at the bottom edge. Since the advent of transparent yokes and the partial departure of the long sleeve the theater cloak has become of immense importance, as it is often retained during an entire evening in the stalls, as some of the theaters are very drafty on the ground floor.

The gown in the illustration is of fine lace trimmed with narrow velvet ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

Combinations of Pale Colors Are Fashionable.

Watteau effects are produced on evening gowns by the skillful blending of pale colors, and this combination is particularly effective on gowns of white lace, where a pink slip with trimmings of soft pink and blue ribbons and delicate mauve flowers is a charming example.

Accordion plaited chiffon, mousseline de soie and crape are much used on dinner and evening gowns. The long lisse frills fall from a fairly tight sleeve and spread out over the elbow, suggesting the orthodox skirts of the old time opera dance. They are very quaint and pretty.

A great many dance gowns have plisse flounces, and some skirts are plaited throughout and have bands of insertion laid in circular rows to fasten down the plaits. All lace gowns are interlined with chiffon or fine net to give a soft, misty effect.

For chiffon or reception toilets much velvet is worn, and this fabric is extremely adaptable for the present fashion in skirts.

The gown here shown is of yellow lace over pink silk, veiled with chiffon of the same shade.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

Thus Sidney toiled along. At times he saw deer, and could easily have shot them, for they were absolutely fearless, and seemed devoured by curiosity. He was startled once by the sound of a snapping twig behind him, and turned only to see a splendid spotted deer not two rods distant. Sidney threw up his hands and "shooed" him away. The buck ran a few yards and stopped, but did not follow up his study of human species.

Suddenly Sidney came upon the reservoir. He had made the circuit of all that part of the park south of the brook. It did not take long to complete the survey of the remaining portion. The "park" was an island in a jungle, which would yield a passage only to an ax. He rejoined Mr. Kent, who proudly exhibited an assortment of game, which spoke well for his marksmanship. He had several grouse and three splendid pheasants.

Sidney told what he had learned, and they started for the bungalow. The birds were strung across the back of the deer. It was a heavy load and they took frequent rests. With faces and hands scratched, and necks and cheeks sunburned, they reached the bungalow about five o'clock in the afternoon.

The colony was in a furor of excitement. Mr. Pence was in great peril! In fact, he might be dead!

Mr. Rockwell hurriedly explained what had happened as he ran with Sidney and Mr. Kent to the stone pier, where Mr. Carmody and others were launching a raft which had been constructed in great haste. Mr. Pence announced, when he reluctantly started along the beach, that he would not remain away later than noon. He said he might be back sooner, since the chances were that the tide would rise so high as to render his later return difficult and dangerous. He did not appear in camp at noon, and half an hour later Mr. Carmody took the marine glasses and went to the beach. Out near the gate to the bay he saw Mr. Pence standing on a rock, seemingly looking into the water. He saw Mr Pence go ashore and disappear for a time in a thicket. Then he returned to the rock and remained for nearly an hour. Mr. Carmody thought from his motions that he was fishing, but it was learned he had taken no tackle with him. Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Haven and others came down to the beach and watched the figure across the bay. They were equally mystified. At last Mr. Pence again disappeared. In a few moments he reappeared, and frantically waved a handkerchief on the end of a stick, as an evident signal of distress.

During this time, those on the stone pier noted with alarm that the tide had risen, so that it was impossible to walk along the beach at the base of the cliffs. It was at once decided to build a raft and rescue Mr. Pence. For some time he had not been seen, neither had the flag of distress been waved from the rock.

Rough paddles were chopped from pieces of lumber, and the raft was launched with Sidney Hammond, Vincent, Mr. Carmody and Mr. Morton as the life-saving crew. The tide was strong against them, and it was half an hour before they approached the place where Mr. Pence was last seen. They called his name, and were delighted to hear a faint response from behind the rocks. The rescuers paddled around and found a

Simon Pence was speechless with terror. The ledge on which he stood was now an island, but Sidney observed that at low tide it must have been connected with the shore. They placed the third member of the committee on exploration on the raft, and aided by the tide made a quick voyage back to the camp. By this time Mr. Pence had partially recovered, and under the stimulus of a glass of brandy told the story of his adventure.

"I went along the shore and kept a sharp lookout for alligators and things like that," said Mr. Pence. "Nothing happened, however, and I went clear out to those big rocks by the ocean. There the sea comes right in and you cannot get past. The rocks drop down into deep water, and there is no sign of a beach. I started back and decided to go out on that rock where you found me."

Mr. Pence paused and shuddered at the thought.

"It ran out from the shore like a pier," he continued. "I went out at the end and sat down to watch the fishes. The water was clear as crystal, and the bottom was white sand. It was cool in the shade of the rock and I enjoyed it. I noticed a funny piece of quartz in the rock, and took out my knife to see if I could pry it out. In doing so I pulled out a coin and it struck the rock and bounded into the water. I could see it as it zigzagged through the water. A fish chased after it, and for a moment I thought he was going to swallow it, but he didn't."

Mr. Pence took another small taste of brandy to steady his nerves.

"I could see where the nickel lay on the white sand," he said. "I knew it was a nickel, as I had but 11 cents and a bridge ticket when I left New York, and when I counted my money out on that rock I had only six cents. That proved it was a nickel; and besides, it looked like a nickel. I went—"

"You know what a nickel looks like all right," said Mr. Kent. "Go on with your story. It grows interesting."

"I did not propose to lose that money," said Mr. Pence, regarding Mr. Kent with suspicion. "I could see it as plain as I see you. It was in about ten feet of water. I went ashore and cut a pole about 16 feet long, trimmed it up nicely, and went back. I reached down into the water and started to poke the nickel along towards the other end of the rock where the water was shallow and I could reach it. It was slow work. Sometimes I would poke it into the sand, and one time I was sure it was lost, but I dug it up again. At last I got it around to the other side of the rock, but was astonished to find that the water was five feet deep there. Then I thought of the tide! I jumped to the other side. To my horror I saw that the water was three feet over the place I had crossed, and was running like a millrace!"

"Did you get the nickel?" asked Mr. K—

Civilized Birth-Rate.

Turning to the births, which numbered 927,062 in 1900, the most prominent fact that meets us is the continued decline in the rate. This is more significant when taken in connection with the increase in the marriage rate. The fact "gives furiously to think." We are in the habit of speaking of the French as a decadent people who have ceased to increase and multiply. But the truth is that a declining birth-rate is not peculiar to France. It is with us, also, and with the Germans in a less degree. In some parts of England the birth-rate now perilously approximates the death-rate. Taking the country as a whole we have still a substantial difference; but if the present tendencies continue to operate that difference will not be obvious long. It would seem that the more advanced the civilization the greater the disposition to sterility, and one of the most potent factors in the South African problem is the remarkable fecundity of the Boers as compared with our own race.—London News.

A Revered "Father's" Joke.

A prominent Episcopalian clergyman who lives in Mount Airy, and whose severe clerical attire and smooth-shaven face frequently give rise to the belief that he is a priest of the Catholic church, is chuckling over an experience that befell him the other day. "I was going to the city," he said, "and seated directly in front of me in the train were a young Irish couple and a little child. The little one was very playful and peered roguishly at me over the back of the seat. From flirting with the little girl I got into conversation with the parents, and I noticed that to my questions they would reply: 'Yes, father,' or 'no, father.' Finally the mother plucked up sufficient courage to remark: 'You seem very fond of children, father.' 'Of course, I am,' I said. 'I have six of my own at home.' You should have seen them look at each other in horror."—Philadelphia Record.

Income from Endowments.

A common note in the financial reports of institutions of all kinds is the regret at the decline of income caused by the fall in the rates of interest. The basis is now three or 3½ instead of six or seven a dozen years ago. This means that endowments must be doubled in order to keep up the income returns. The lower rate also has a far-reaching effect upon the chances open to the average man of retiring in his age with a competency. He has to save twice as much money to secure the income that he desires as in the early seventies.—Boston Watchman.

HER ROOSTER HAT.

"Humph!" growled Mr. Jobson, impatiently tossing away his paper one evening a couple of months ago, "these Audubon society people make me weary! What's the good of a tropical bird if you can't make some use of it? Of what other use are they except to be sewed onto women's hats, say?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Jobson, "I suppose on sentimental grounds they—"

"Yes, that's what it all is—just sentiment, maudlin sentiment," interrupted Mr. Jobson. "Now, look a-here: Isn't it a whole lot easier for a richly plumaged tropical bird to experience a quick and humane death from a few properly placed birdshot fired from the gun of an expert huntsman, than to suffer the fluttering and hopeless torture of being devoured by a relentless snake of the jungle? Isn't it a heap better that a gorgeously feathered bird of the tropics should be saved to adorn a woman's hat rather than flap down in a tropical swamp or morass somewhere or other and die without ever being any use to anybody? Look at the millions and billions of magnificently decked tropical birds that have their feathers pulled out every year in the jungles by predatory and crafty monkeys. Is there any good in that sort of thing, I'd like to know, and d'ye suppose it's any fun for a handsome bird to be clawed all to pieces by a mischievous anthropoid?"

"N-no," said Mrs. Jobson, "but the ground taken by the Audubon society—"

"Oh, yes; I know what ground they take," cut in Mr. Jobson, "and I know what 'ud happen, too, if people like the Audubon society folks could have their way about everything. We wouldn't have any meat, for one thing. They'd try to make vegetarians of the lot of us by claiming that it is cruel and outrageous to slaughter any sort of animals—better let 'em die in their tracks and be buried with headstones over each of 'em. We'd never know the taste of an oyster or a clam—the silly Billies 'ud demand that the mollusks be let alone and given a chance to think it all over until they croaked of their own volition. From that it 'ud be an easy step to the assertion that no trees ought to be cut down for lumber, since trees have life, haven't they? So've carrots and turnips and cabbages and onions life, haven't they? And I suppose that after awhile they'd get us down to a banana diet. I notice that some o' these Audubon society women wear seal-skin coats, all right, and yet seals are handled more brutally than any other kind of beast or bird whose pelts or feathers are required by human beings—they're simply clubbed to death. There are too durned many of these unwritten sumptuary laws as it is. And if a women wants to wear a great auk of the Andes on her hat, why, let her wear it—that's all I've got to say."

"But," put in Mrs. Jobson, "don't you remember that when I wore that aigrette in my hair to the theater last winter you complained so strenuously about it, and said I ought to be ashamed to wear feathers that are pulled from a live heron?"

"Never made such an idiotic remark as that in my life," said Mr. Jobson, in his usual it's-all-off tone. "Fact is, it's been a source of secret grief with me for some years past that you don't use more feathers and birds and gear of that sort, like other women. These top-pieces of yours that you spraddle over with a lot o' musty-looking autumn leaves and impossible grapes and poppies and truck like that, don't make any kind of a hit with me at all. You've just dreamt that I ever made any kick about birds or feathers. Just you get whatever you want in the bird or feather line, and let the Audubon society like it or lump it. If you feel like pasting a Lake Michigan whitefish or a half dozen on the half shell on the top of your bonnet you go ahead, and if anybody interferes with you tell 'em to mind their own business."

All of which Mrs. Jobson had in mind the other day when, as customary in such cases made and provided, she invited four of her closest friends to accompany her down town to help her pick out a hat. While Mrs. Jobson isn't a member of the Audubon society, she is in sympathy with the aims of that admirable organization, and she ignored—not, it must be confessed, without exercising considerable self-sacrifice—all of the hats in the millinery shops bearing ornate birds and birds' wings on their crowns or sides. But when she tried on one of the new-fangled hats of the autumn, with a full-sized bantam rooster perched on one side of it, and concluded that it "became" her, she had no scruples.

Mr. Jobson was just going up the front steps with his latchkey in his hand, when Mrs. Jobson entered the gate and called cheerily to him. When he turned and looked at her he pretended that he had to clutch at the railing of the front steps to keep from falling down, and he glared fixedly at her hat for fully ninety seconds before he was able to say a word. Then he gasped:

"Wh-wh-where did you get that buzzard?"

Holding down her discomfiture as best she could, Mrs. Jobson smiled and replied:

"It's the very latest thing, and—"

"Latest, eh?" broke in Mr. Jobson. "You bet it's late. It's pretty late in the day for any woman by the name of Jobson to go hiking through the streets of Washington with the whole carcass of a bird of prey stuck up on the top of the head. And a carrion bird at that! Lemme tell you something. In nearly every state in the union that I know anything about there's a heavy fine for killing buzzards, because they're natural-born garbage eradicators, and for all I know there's such a law in the District of Columbia."

"Why," began Mrs. Jobson, "it's the very latest idea in millinery, straight from Paris, to have one of these—er—roosters on one's hat, and it's only a little while ago that you reproved me for not wearing more feathers on my—"

"Feathers, madam!" snorted Mr. Jobson. "To my certain knowledge I haven't employed the word 'feathers' for exactly 24 years and nine months. I don't interfere with your private affairs or with your raiment or toggery, Mrs. Jobson, but if you think for one-eighth of a second that you're going to ever walk out on the public street with me while wearing that infernal, moth-eaten buzzard or nightmarish bald eagle of the Rockies, then you've got several million more thinks a-coming, Mrs. Jobson, and I don't mind telling you so right now from the go-off!"

However, Mr. and Mrs. Jobson were observed strolling and gazing into the shop windows the other afternoon, and Mrs. Jobson was not only wearing her rooster hat, but Mr. Jobson was making goo-goo eyes at it and outspokenly admiring it and comparing it in terms of laudation with other hats of a similar sort in the milliners' windows.—Washington Star.

HARDER TO WIN.

Amendments to P. H. S. A. A. Constitution Make It More Difficult to Win School Insignia.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the City High School Athletic Association held yesterday several amendments were proposed to the present constitution of the association. The most importanht amendment was one stating that only persons who have played in one-half the regular scheduled games of any team against teams of High School grade, in one season and arranged for by the P. H. S. A. A. shall be privileged to wear the "P. H. S." insignia of the school. This amendment also provides that the number of games in which the person, claiming the insignia, shall have played be not less than three.

It was also decided that the candidates for insignia shall apply for it in writing to the Board of Directors stating in full the grounds on which they claim it. These amendments will be posted for three days on the school bulletin and will then be voted on by the school as members of the Athletic Association.

It is probable that the letters and school insignia will be purchased by the Board of Directors and presented to those who have won them before the school.

CITY HEALTH BOARD'S WORK

Summary of Annual Report of Plainfield Board of Health and Health Officer.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS

Greatest Needs of City Are Said to be Thorough Sanitary Survey of City and Municipal Control of Collection and Disposal of Garbage—About Milk Supply.

The fourteenth annual report of the Board of Health, presented to the Common Council last Monday evening, is one of the most complete yet given. The preliminary part of it contains a resume of the board's work for the year and is followed with a more detailed report by the health officer, Leon R. Thurlow. In this report it is stated that the two greatest needs of the city at present are a thorough sanitary survey of the city and a municipal control of the collection and disposal of the garbage.

The vital statistics show that the death rate last year, 16.06, was the lowest since 1899, when it was 15.25. The rate is per thousand population. Last year there were 257 deaths ranging in age from under one month to over 60 years. There were 311 births during the year, and of this number 271 were white and 40 colored; 154 were male and 157 female. The birth rate per thousand of the population of 16,000 is 19 44, and exceeds the death rate for the year by 3.38 per thousand. There were recorded during the year 134 marriages, of which 115 were white and 19 colored. This represents a rate of 8.30 per thousand. There were 192 cases of communicable disease and 57 deaths reported. Of these deaths 39 were due to tuberculosis, diphtheria, 6; scarlet fever, 6; typhoid fever, 3; small-pox, 4. The cases of tuberculosis were not reported.

That part of the report which treats of the visitation of small-pox in this city last year is familiar to everyone. Fourteen cases were reported during the year from four distinct sources. The method of the Board in the treatment of the disease met with remarkable success and this is shown by the fact that there have been no secondary cases. In all 1,650 persons vaccinated, 10.3 per cent. of the population, of which over 50 per cent. had never been vaccinated.

In detail about the small-pox cases Mr. Thurlow says:

"The method of the Board in the handling of the small pox cases has met with remarkable success. There have been no secondary cases which we feel was due to thorough isolation of the patients, the vaccination of all persons exposed, and the thorough disinfection of the infected houses and clothing.

"Free vaccination was offered to all citizens of Plainfield who could not afford to have their family physicians attend to them; the factories, department stores, and schools were all visited and free vaccination offered. This action on the part of the Board of Health called forth some criticism but later events more than justified this procedure. About 1,650 persons were vaccinated, 10.3 per cent. of the entire population of Plainfield, of which over 50 per cent. had never been vaccinated. An example of the value of vaccination is shown in the following instance.

"A case of small-pox broke out in a crowded boarding house in Plainfield. For the first three days no physician was in attendance and the seven or eight boarders, and one a child of three years who had never been vaccinated, were more or less in the sick man's room.

"As soon as the trouble was discovered, the patient was removed to our hospital, the house and all clothing thoroughly disinfected and all suspects vaccinated with one exception. This boarder while at work, hearing the case to be one of small-pox, immediately left the city to avoid vaccination, and we were unable to locate his whereabouts.

"Not a single case of small-pox developed among the suspects in Plainfield from this exposure, but two weeks later we received information that this man who had escaped, was sick with small-pox in Allentown, Pa. This is only one of the many illustrations of the value of vaccination."

The milk supply of the city has

HORSELESS FIRE APPARATUS

A COMBINATION HOSE WAGON AND CHEMICAL ENGINE TRIED AT NEWARK.

Chief Doane, of Plainfield Fire Department, Was Invited to Ride On It.

An automobile combination hose wagon and chemical engine is the latest thing in fire fighting paraphernalia and a trial trip of one, the only one ever given a run in any city, has been made at Newark. Invitations were sent out to many fire chiefs throughout the State to have a ride on the new apparatus and among those who received one was Chief T. C. Doane.

The chemical engine is operated by steam and was designed by the International Fire Engine Company, which owns it. It was operated by John E. McElroy, of Kearney, who has supplied numerous apparatus to the Newark department. The wagon weighs about 7,000 pounds and is built on a steel body. It holds about 1,000 feet of two-and-one-half-inch hose and its tanks hold thirty-five gallons of water and also carries 150 feet of small chemical hose. It is geared to run at any speed up to twenty miles an hour.

Its cost is $6,000. It is said it will save $300 a year on horses feed and wear and tear on the harness. It is also claimed that the machine, which is guaranteed to run for twenty years will save its cost in that time.

The test was a perfect success in every particular and its exhibition of hill climbing was quite wonderful. It is reported that the machines will make a tour of the State and it is possible that it will make a visit to this city.

AT REST BENEATH STARS AND STRIPES

General Eli Long's Funeral Services Were Held From His Late Home Yesterday.

MANY MOURNED LOSS

CASKET COVERED WITH AN AMERICAN FLAG WHEN LOWERED INTO GRAVE.

Rev. T. L. Murphy Conducted the Impressive Episcopal Service and Read Tennyson's Last Poem "Crossing the Bar."

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea;
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For though from out our bourne of time and place,
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crost the bar.

These last lines from the pen of Tennyson read after the simple but impressive service of the Episcopal church over the remains of the late Major General Eli Long, marked the last sad rites over one who helped in the preservation of this country and who, in death as in life, was honored and revered not only by his family but by his fellow townsmen. The funeral services were held at the late residence of the deceased at 74 Grove street at 2:30 yesterday afternoon when the parlors and rooms of the house were crowded with friends.

The flag-draped casket placed in one end of the front room was opened and for half an hour before the services began there was an almost constant stream of those who passed by the casket as it lay in state to have a last look at the departed soldier. The rooms were laden with flowers. Some of them were set pieces and were very large and handsome while others were large clusters of sweet perfumed blossoms which permeated the atmosphere with their rich odors.

At 2:30, Rev. T. L. Murphy, former rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, opened the simple service of the Episcopal church. It was deeply impressive and many were moved to tears. During the service the hymn, "Lead Kindly Light" was read by the minister and just before the close of the services the last poem of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," was read.

The interment at Hillside cemetery was private and none but the family and relatives attended the services at the grave. As the handsome black casket was being lowered into the grave the flag under which the General fought and for whose principles he bled, was placed upon it and was lowered with the remains into the last resting place. The pall bearers were Robert F. R. Huntsman, T. S. Armstrong, Robert Cook, Dr. O. R. Thiers and Charles Place, of this city, and Thomas Warman, of New York.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Spent at Home of Miss Anna Thain, of North Avenue.

Miss Anna Thain, of North avenue, entertained a few of her friends last evening. Games were played, and a musical programme was provided which was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Among those who were present were Miss Herlick, Miss Pacey, Miss Harr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKinley and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Huffman, Richard Higgins, Harry Kean and William Baker.

For Sunday-Schools.

A union prayer meeting will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the interest of the Sunday-schools at the Grace M. E. church. The meeting will be led by James R. Joy and Walter M. McGee will lead the singing. All the Sunday-school members and workers are coridally invited.

Big Contract for Locomotives.

The latest order placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for equipment is for sixty-five locomotives, especially designed for the southwest system's freight traffic. This makes the outstanding contracts for engines for that road the large number of 350, of which not one has yet been delivered.

Convocation.

The convocation of the Episcopal church will be held in St. Stephens' church, Netherwood, on Tuesday, January 27.

DIRECTOR AGAIN.

Captain J. Frank Hubbard Was Re-Elected Head of Board of Freeholders for Twenty-Sixth Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 9—The new Union County Board of Freeholders organized yesterday afternoon. Captain J. Frank Hubbard, of Plainfield, who has been a member of the board thirty-five years and its director over twenty-six years, was unanimously re-elected. Captain Hubbard is seventy-five years old, and owing to illness was unable to be present at yesterday's meeting.

The six members of the board who were elected in November were also sworn in. They are Freeholders Cady and Swain, of Summit; Brucklacher, McCandless, Pierson and Klee, of Elizabeth. All of these, with the exception of Emil Klee, were members of the board prior to the November election. The standing committees will be announced at the next meeting.

The board held its annual New Year's banquet after its session adjourned.

KILLED ON TRACK.

Bound Brook Baker Met Death on Railroad—Supposed to Have Been Getting Coal.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 9—Frank J. Maulbeck, a baker in business at this place, died at 3 o'clock this morning from injuries received a half hour earlier on the New Jersey Central tracks. Both of his legs were cut off by a freight train which was leaving cars at Bound Brook.

Evidence points to the fact that Maulbeck was getting coal for a coal box and an empty bag were found near the body. Maulbeck was married and had lived at this place some time. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Eldrige, awaiting the arrival of County Physician Taylor.

BATTLE ON TROLLEY.

Two Orange Citizens Arrested for Being the Aggressors in the Fight.

Trouble on an incoming Scotch Plains trolley car led to the arrest of Elias Runyon and Michael Burke, of Orange, by Patrolman Lunger, last night. The two Orange men exchanged words and a few blows with Frederick Skillman and Edward Apgar who afterward preferred complaint against them. It is also alleged one of the arrested men displayed a revolver during the excitement.

When arraigned in the city court, this morning, Runyon paid a $5 fine but Burke was unable to produce the wherewithal and will spend twenty days in jail.

AFTER HIS DAUGHTER.

Brooklyn Man Came Here to Find Daughter, Who He Thought Was in Theatrical Troupe.

Walter Wardell, an old man claiming Brooklyn as his home, came to this city, yesterday, and solicited the aid of the police to find his nineteen-year-old daughter who he said was here with a theatrical troupe. With Patrolman McCarthy he looked at the various members but none of them resembled the missing girl.

He spent the greater part of the day in looking about the city but finally gave up the search. He had no apparent reason for believing the runaway was here other than that she went to some place with an actress friend.

Cigarette Started It.

Supposedly caused by a cigarette butt, a small fire broke out behind a radiator in the rear part of the Hotel Kensington at 12 o'clock last night. It was discovered by Porter James Dougherty and the department was summoned. Chief Doane and No. 2 hose wagon responded and extinguished the flames in a short time. The damage will be trifling.

Change of Titles.

J. M. Siefel, formerly assistant train master of the New Jersey division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has had the title of his position changed to that of crew dispatcher and assistant general yardmaster of New Jersey and Lehigh divisions, with offices at Easton.

Lost Top of Finger in Press.

While at work in the Crescent Embossing Company's plant, yesterday afternoon, Miss Lillian Sutton, of Liberty street, caught one of her hands in a press. The top of one finger was so badly crushed it had to be removed at Muhlenberg Hospital.

With New Company.

A number of machinists have resigned their positions at the Potter Press Works to accept similar positions at the Pederick-Ayer Company's shop on West Front street.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS WANT ATHLETIC FIELD

City High School A. A. Will Take Measures to Secure One.

HAS NO GROUNDS NOW

PROBLEM OF HOW TO RAISE FUNDS FOR COMING SEASON.

Classes Do Not Want to Give An Entertainment This Year—The Athletic Association May Conduct One of Its Own.

One of the new year resolutions of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association appears to be the securing of a proper athletic field for their own use. It will be remembered that the City High School baseball nine opened its season last spring on Pittis Field but was compelled to abandon it as the owners decided to use it for another purpose. Arrangements were then made with the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel and the remainder of the local schedule was completed on Hope Common. In order to get the subject started in plenty of time for the spring activity, a committee has been appointed to look into the subject.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the association, held yesterday afternoon at the close of the school, the subject was discussed. The feeling appears to be that the High School teams should have a home of their own. It is thought that suitable grounds may be obtained in the southern part of the city comparatively near the trolley line. With this idea in mind, a committee composed of Principal I. W. Travell and Instructor Lindsey Best was empowered to consider the subject.

Among other matters that came up at the meeting were the reports of the field day and tennis committees and the payment of a few bills. There was also a discussion of how funds were to be raised for the coming season to support the baseball team. Two years ago, subscriptions were taken up. Last year each class gave an entertainment and turned over the bulk of the proceeds. The Senior class has had its entertainment already and the athletic association will get a portion of the net proceeds but the other classes seem adverse to following the precedent set last year. There was some talk of getting a college glee club to give an entertainment for the benefit of the athletic association.

SAENGERBUND OFFICERS.

Elected at Monthly Meeting Which Was Held Last Night.

An election of officers was the principal matter of business transacted last evening at the monthly meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein in Saengerbund Hall. The officers: President, William Gardner; vice president, Joseph Haurand; secretary, John Retzer; financial secretary, M. Mensenbabe, and treasurer, Carl Felber. After the business meeting bowling and an informal smoker was enjoyed until a late hour.

New Assistant Operator.

Wesley Randolph, who has been assistant telegraph operator at the North Avenue station, has been transferred to night duty at Westfield. His place in this city has been taken by V. E. Peterson, of Long Branch, who was assigned to the Plainfield office by Superintendent F. G. Sherman. Mr. Peterson reported yesterday for duty.

Expects to Pass Title.

There was a report about town, yesterday, that work had been stopped at Music Hall. Investigation revealed the fact that the title in the transaction between W. M. Stillman and Mr. Sherman, the purchaser, had not yet been passed and for this reason the deal is not closed. Mr. Sherman expects to close up the matter this week.

Borrowed Another Wagon.

One of the large carbonated water wagons of the Brandt Company broke down at Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon. The driver was compelled to borrow another vehicle to get his load to this city.

Will Devote Time to Music.

Charles Suhr, who has resigned his position at Woodhull & Martin's store, will in the future devote his attention to his orchestral music.

Bishop to Visit Here.

Bishop Scarborough will visit St. Stephens' church, Netherwood, Sunday, January 25, and administer the rites of confirmation.

KEAN IS STILL CHAIRMAN

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE LAST NIGHT.

All Was Harmony and the Members Sat Down to a Banquet.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 9—The annual meeting of the Union county Republican executive committee passed off very serenely, last evening. A good attendance was noted, Plainfield contributing a large delegation, but it required but a very short time to transact all business.

By acclamation the following officers were elected: Chairman, Hamilton F. Kean, of Elizabeth, vice chairman, Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood; secretary, James C. Calvert, of Elizabeth; treasurer, Frank H. Smith, of Plainfield. A vote of thanks was tendered William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, retiring vice chairman, and Charles E. Reed, of Rahway, retiring secretary, for their efficient work during the past year. The assemblage afterward adjourned to the Berkley where a banquet was held.

RAISED WETUMPKAH'S CHIEFS

ELECTION AND INSTALLATION TOOK PLACE AT MEETING OF LOCAL TRIBE.

Deputy Great Sachem Humphrey and Staff Were Present at the Ceremonies.

The election of officers and the raising up of newly-elected chiefs occupied the attention of the members of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., at their meeting on Park avenue last evening. There was a very full attendance and after the business of the evening had been transacted an informal smoker was held.

These are the new officers which were installed last eveinng: Prophet, Dr. A. H. Dundon; sachem, Frederick H. Firstbrook; senior sagamore, Michael Armstrong; junior sagamore, John Clark; chief of records, E. F. Dorman; collector of wampum, W. A. Westphal; keeper of wampum, M. Leichtentritt; trustee, F. J. Blatz; representative of the Great Council, Harry H. Coddington; alternate, W. A. Westphal; first sannap, R. E. Humphrey; second sannap, O. A. Campbell; first warrior, R. D. Scott; second warrior, T. P. Kolb; third warrior, Z. P. Foster; guard of the wigwam, J. F. Moran; guard of the forest, William Neal.

The installing was done by Deputy Great Sachem R. A. Humphrey and staff, from Miantonomo Tribe.

HUNTING SEASON OVER.

Snow Saved the Lives of Many Little Cotton Tails.

The local hunting season has closed and the hunter has laid aside his shot gun for a time. The hunting this season has been exceptionally good but there has been so much snow on the ground that many of the little cotton tails have been spared for another year with a whole skin which would have otherwise been punctured by the powder and ball of the relentless hunter. Beginning with January the season for hunting rabbit and quail came to a close but the hunter has several more months in which he can shoot duck, geese and other web footed fowl.

FIGHT FOR CHAIRMANSHIP.

John Moody, of Cranford, May Head Democratic County Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Union county Democratic committee at Elizabeth Monday night for the election of officers and for organization. There is some talk of a change in the chairmanship of the committee and John Moody, of Cranford, is favorably mentioned as a candidate for that office. The present chairman is John L. Crowell, of Rahway, and he promises to fight hard to retain the chairmanship for another term.

SECOND YEAR ENDS WITH BIG BANQUET

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Celebrated Anniversary Last Night.

SOME STRONG SPEECHES

WHICH FOLLOWED THE SERVING OF AN EXCELLENT REPAST.

Banquet Held at the Casino—Francis J. Blatz Acted as Toastmaster—Those Who Spoke and Their Interesting Remarks.

In a manner eminently appropriate the second anniversary of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, was observed last evening at a banquet given in the Casino. Although the Council has only passed its second mile-stone, it is a sturdy organization and bids fair to become one of the strongest in the State. The true spirit of patriotism and love of country was exemplified to a marked degree in all the toasts and "the land of the free and the home of the brave" was referred to as the greatest country on the globe. The excellent menu, as served by "Mine Host" A. B. Rosell, divided honors with the other part of the evening's programme, the toasts, and notwithstanding that the hour was late when the speech-making began, nearly everyone remained to the last and then did not seem weary.

The dinner was served in the large hall, where 153 members and their friends, were seated at long tables. The room was attractively decorated with evergreens, with here and there a touch of red through the use of crepe paper. On the stage, there was a bank of greens, behind which Suhr's orchestra was placed. During the evening the orchestra gave one of its best programmes of popular music, adding much to the enjoyment of the affair. Every detail of the celebration was arranged and carried out with perfect precision and the committee in charge received many praiseworthy comments for its work.

Following the banquet, Grand Knight John O'Keefe made a few remarks in introducing the toastmaster of the evening, Francis J. Blatz, and the latter without any undue ceremony started the speech-making. The first speaker was Rt. Rev. John A. O'Grady, of New Brunswick, who responded to the toast, "Our Country." After reviewing briefly the various toasts, this eminent divine paid a glowing tribute to free America referring to it as the greatest Republic the sun ever shone upon, a government of the people, by the people and for the people. He said that the brotherhood of man must rest on the fatherhood of God, and that in these days of expansion it would soon be the brotherhood of nations.

Monsignor O'Grady referred to the Knights of Columbus as a loyal and devoted body of citizens. He said that the uninitiated one could have no idea of the beauty of the inside work of the organization. He impressed upon all the fact that they must be devoted citizens of a great country and faithful members of the church.

The next toast was "Catholic Progress and Its Lessons," responded to by District Deputy William A. Pendergast, of Brooklyn. This speaker characterized Catholic progress as for the betterment of mankind and while Cathoilcs have much in this country to be thankful for, he believed that Americanism should be grateful at this progress. He said that Catholic principles stand for law and order and the church will always be as it has in the past, the upholder of the law. He paid a tribute to the free institutions of this country, thereby making it possible for all to secure the highest learning. He said that Catholicism as expounded by the church cannot represent anything else but the highest principles.

A pleasant intermission was occupied by Thomas Baker, of New York, who entertained with popular songs and some good stories. One of his songs, "Mr. Dooley," brought down the house, as he substituted the name of Chief Kiely for the original name. All joined in the chorus.

Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church, responded eloquently to the toast, "Leo XIII," he having paid a visit to the venerable Pontiff last summer. He said that there is one universal admiration for the Pope, who is such a magnificent revelation of intellect. He spoke of his power over 250,000,000 people, directing them by his head and hand.

come in for much consideration during the past year and Mr. Thurlow has the following to say regarding it.

"At the present time the milk supplied in Plainfield comes from eighty-eight different dairies which lie in all directions about Plainfield, from within the city limits to a distance of thirty miles. There are about 6,000 quarts sold in the city by sixty-one retailers, forty-one of whom deliver by means of a wagon, seven deliver from house to house and sell only a few quarts, and there are thirteen stores that retail.

"At the beginning of the year a thorough systematic inspection of all dairies supplying milk in Plainfield was established. In making these inspections especial attention is paid to cleanliness of the stables, yards, cattle, and dairymen, and in the manner of handling and cooling the milk. It is important in order to produce pure milk that the cattle should be housed under clean, light, well ventilated conditions and should be fed only on good wholesome food, and that the milk should be properly cooled and stored.

"In connection with the above inspections, the milk from the different dairies is analyzed both chemically and bacteriologically. The samples are taken promiscuously and each milk is analyzed as often as possible. The purpose of the Board in making this constant supervision of the milk supply is to have the citizens of Plainfield furnished with a pure clean milk. When one considers that chemically pure milk contains all of its normal constituents such as fat, sugar, proteids, and mineral salts, and is free from any chemical preservative, and that bacteriologically pure milk contains less than 10,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter (a cubic centimeter is about 20 drops) and is absolutely free from disease germs, he will realize the Board's undertaking.

"During the past year 177 samples of milk have been analyzed. The majority of these were found to be of good quality, but some were watered, others skimmed, and one contained bacteria to the number of 2,160,000 per cubic centimeter. A record of the inspections of the dairies and the analyses of the milks is kept and is open at all times to the public in the office of the Board of Health.

"The average citizen is far too careless of this very important food product. He does not realize that milk is the most important food of children and invalids and that if improperly produced may be very harmful. Besides protecting themselves, the citizens of Plainfield would greatly aid the Board of Health if they would refuse to buy milk unless they know the conditions under which it is produced. If they cannot visit the farms they can see at the office of the Board, records of inspections and analyses.

"On the other hand they must not be too ready to blame the milkman for the carelessness of servants. As soon as possible after milk is left at the house it should be put in a cool place and properly cared for. The milk bottle should not be used for any other purpose but should be washed and returned when empty. People have complained to the milkman when the bottles they return are positively filthy.

"Bottled milk is by far the cleanest and there is less chance of its being contaminated by improper handling. The Board is urging the milkmen to use bottles and it would also urge the public to buy only bottled milk."

On the subject of water, the report states that the city supply has always been found to be most excellent, and the ice supply is also reported to be excellent and permits were granted for the sale of ice from the various ponds and hygeia ice plant.

In conclusion, Mr. Thurlow speaks of the new sanitary code as being one of the most important features of the year's work, and the Board is now able through the code to greatly improve the health and cleanliness of the city. As previously stated this report is illustrated by Mr. Thurlow, showing several dairies, the isolation hospital, equipment used in treating patients ill with contagious diseases, etc.

SUGGESTS SITE FOR PARK

"A PLAINFIELDER" BRINGS UP AN OLD SUGGESTION.

Thinks Location Near Netherwood Is An Excellent One—Invites Comment.

Jan. 6, 1903.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I have read with interest in your issue of today, the mention of one of Plainfield's great needs made by Mayor Jenkins in his New Year's message to the Common Council: namely, the desirability of acquiring park land for the city. I remember reading a similar suggestion in an article published in your paper about three or four years ago which also named a site suitable for a park, and it seems to me that it would be hard to find a better one as regards location and natural scenic beauty.

The site suggested as adaptable is the wooded high land at Netherwood backing Belvidere avenue, between the hotel and Rahway road. That the neighborhood is attractive can be judged by the numbers of people who make their way out there on Sundays and holidays to enjoy the extensive view and breathe the fresher air of this upland section of the city, and its being accessible both by trolley and railroad adds one more feature to its suitability as a park site.

With a good driveway for carriages and equestrians such a park should add immensely to the attractiveness of Plainfield as a summer home for residents of New York who are unable to go further from the city and their daily business.

The publishing of these few remarks in your largely circulated paper might invite comment from interested citizens.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

MITCHELL AROUSED.

Takes Exception to Remarks of Judge Gray.

MORE DAMAGING TESTIMONY GIVEN.

Chairman of Strike Commission Said He Would Like to See Miners' Union Come Up Out of the Mire.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The principal feature of the proceedings before the coal strike commission yesterday was the exception taken by President Mitchell to a remark made by Chairman Gray that he would like to see the miners' union come up out of the mire that is around the baser parts of it into the sunlight. The miners' president said the union should not be indicted unless a connection could be shown between it and acts of lawlessness. The head of the commission replied that he did not wish to indict the organization, but hoped it would disentangle itself entirely from the violence and lawlessness committed during the strike. The incident came suddenly while a witness was on the stand, and caused quite a stir among the lawyers on both sides of the controversy. Outside of this the entire day was taken up in hearing the stories of nonunion men or their relatives of alleged persecutions during the period of the strke.

The Mitchell incident was brought about by Commissioner Parker. Anthony Ferguson of Mahanoy City, outside foreman at the North Mahanoy colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, testified that he was beaten while on his way to work, that he recognized two of his assailants as union men and that they were prosecuted and convicted. Mr. Parker asked the witness if the men were expelled from the union for what they had done, but the foreman did not know. Mr. Mitchell has stated on the witness stand that all members of the union found guilty of crime are expelled from the union. Noting the interest the commission took in Mr. Parker's question, the lawyers for the nonunion men called on Terence Ginley, a member of the executive board of the union in the district where the assault was committed, for the information desired. Ginley said he did not know whether the local union to which the men belonged took any action, and he went on to give a long explanation of how the local unions and individual strikers used every means to disperse crowds and help maintain the peace. The action taken by the local unions, he said, was principally advisory. He told of the attempts made to keep the peace at Shenandoah before the big riot there and added that there had been no disturbance until the Coal and Iron police were sent to the place.

Chairman Gray then asked:

"So you wait for conviction by the civil authorities before disciplining your men. Do you think you have effective discipline unless you make investigations yourself and bring the men up and punish them in some way? I ask you as a member of the order and as a man who would be glad to see your order come up out of the mire and the clouds that are around the baser parts of it into the sunlight and into the air of free government and a free country."

"If it is proved that our men have committed acts of violence, there is no question about our disciplining them," replied the witness.

Then followed a discussion over the Shenandoah riot and the killing of a man, and in reply to Mr. Mitchell's remark that it was not the miners who did it Chairman Gray said:

"But there was a crowd, and as yet I have heard no evidence of a disciplining voice in that mob. No man there said, 'Shame on the cowards!'"

Mr. Darrow—You must not expect the railroad company to furnish that.

The witness said the union would prove that union men tried to prevent the riots, to which Judge Gray replied he hoped so.

There was further discussion on this subject, and then Mr. Mitchell arose and said to Chairman Gray:

"I do not know whether I quite understood you in expressing yourself to the witness as to your solicitude for the organization that it should rise above the mire or that part of it should rise above the mire."

Chairman Gray—Perhaps I may have been misunderstood. It was not an unfriendly wish that was expressed. I said I hoped it would lift itself out of the mire and of the conditions created by these things which have been testified to around its baser parts."

Mr. Mitchell in reply said that while the commission is going to determine all the questions that are being presented here there is a greater jury passing upon the attitude of the strikers. "As to the action of your organization and the position of the coal operators," he said, "there is no doubt in my mind that many of the witnesses are brought here and do not come as witnesses ordinarily do to testify against the strikers and indirectly against the United Mine Workers. It does seem to me until there is some connection shown between the United Mine Workers of America and acts of lawlessness the organization should not be placed under any indictment at all."

Chairman Gray said that he did not wish Mr. Mitchell to understand that anything he said indicted the organization.

BOWEN COMING HOME

Minister to Represent Venezuela Before Commission.

ALL CONDITIONS OF POWERS ACCEPTED

Cabinet at Caracas, After Two Very Stormy Meetings, Yields to "Unjust" Demands Because It Must.

CARACAS, Jan. 9.—It has been learned from an authoritative source that United States Minister Bowen has received orders to leave Venezuela next Saturday for Washington, where he will present the Venezuelan case to the British-German commission. An American warship will call for Mr. Bowen at La Guayra. The foreign office here is working day and night in the preparation of documents in order that the MINISTER BOWEN.

Venezuelan case be ready for presentation. Mr. Bowen has refused to accept compensation from Venezuela for his services, and the government has expressed its appreciation of this disinterestedness. Mr. Bowen will be accompanied to Washington by his wife.

After two stormy meetings of the cabinet all the conditions set forth in the replies of the powers to President Castro's last proposals in the matter of settling the Venezuelan dispute through arbitration have been accepted by the Venezuelan government. The government considers these conditions to be unjust, but declares it is obliged to yield to force.

The conditions of the powers cover cash payments to the allies and guarantees for the payment of the balance of their claims. It can be said on good authority that the question of raising the existing blockade will not be considered.

All Barriers Removed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Confirmation has been received here of the reports from Caracas to the effect that all barriers in the way of a settlement of the claims of Great Britain, Germany and Italy against Venezuela had been removed by the last named country yielding to the demands of the European allies. Minister Bowen, it is learned, will leave Venezuela either Saturday or Sunday and will come direct to the United States on one of our warships. Minister Bowen will be clothed with authority to represent Venezuela as her commissioner for the adjustment of all claims.

Wireless Messages in a Storm.

SYDNEY, C. B., Jan. 9.—Mr. Marconi will leave here Monday for Cape Cod to give attention to the completion of the wireless transatlantic station at that point. Mr. Marconi took advantage of Tuesday night's snowstorm to test the behavior of the wireless system under adverse weather conditions. Messages were sent to the London Times and to friends in England announcing the birth of a daughter to R. N. Vyvian, Mr. Marconi's chief engineer at Glace Bay. There was also a severe storm on the English coast at the time, but the messages went across without a hitch.

Ambassador Holleben Going Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Herr von Holleben, the German ambassador, has left here for New York to consult specialists. He has been a sick man for some time, and his indisposition has been aggravated by a protracted spell of inclement weather. He expects that his physician will advise a prolonged rest at some of the health resorts in southern Europe and therefore has arranged to sail on Saturday. At the ambassador's request he has been given a prolonged leave of absence.

Fratricide Over a Cigarette.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 9.—A special to the Journal from Gainesville, Fla., says: "Because his brother refused to give him a cigarette paper Pink Grove, a young man living at Grove Park, Fla., plunged a knife into his brother's heart, killing him instantly. Grove was arrested and is in jail."

Heavy Snow In West Virginia.

TERRA ALTA, W. Va., Jan. 9.—Sixteen inches of snow has fallen here and in this vicinity, and it is still snowing. High winds caused it to drift, and many roads are impassable. The railroads have snowplows with two and three engines attached at work to keep their lines clear.

Killed by an Explosion.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Jan. 9.—John Matthews and Charles Bradfield, carpenters, were killed in an explosion at the gas plant at Mapleton, Monona county. The explosion wrecked the plant, broke nearly every pane of glass in the town and damaged surrounding buildings.

CONSTABULARY BILL

House Passes the Philippine Measure Slightly Changed.

SENATE DEBATES VEST RESOLUTION

Senator From Missouri Tries to Prove That the Author of the Dingley Law Made Rates High For a Purpose.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The house yesterday passed the Philippine constabulary bill as it was reported from the committee, except for an amendment limiting the number of assistant chiefs to four. The bill provides that the chief of the constabulary and the assistant chiefs who are United States army officers shall have the rank, pay and allowances of brigadier general and colonel respectively, the difference between such pay and their pay in their regular grades to be paid out of the Philippine treasury. The bill also provides that when the Philippine scouts are ordered to assist the constabulary they shall be under the command of the chief or assistant chiefs.

The senate again discussed the Vest resolution requesting the finance committee to report a bill removing the duty on anthracite coal, and Mr. Aldrich replied to some of the criticisms of Mr. Vest made last Tuesday. Mr. Aldrich insisted that the resolution would not accomplish the result sought and that it infringed the constitutional rights of the house in respect to revenue bills. Mr. Aldrich said that a Democratic senate voted to put a duty of 40 cents on coal in 1894 and that they favored free coal except on the day when they could have voted free coal into the tariff bill.

Mr. Vest in reply said that the 40 cent duty on coal was the result of a "hold up" by a few Democratic senators.

To confirm his assertion that Mr. Dingley had made the statement that the Dingley rates were placed high in order to negotiate reciprocity treaties Mr. Vest read from a letter addressed to him by the editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin in which the writer declared that Mr. Dingley made the statement to one of his Washington correspondents. Mr. Hale expressed his disbelief in the statement and feelingly referred to Mr. Dingley's services to his state and country and paid a high tribute to his character.

President Exposed to Smallpox?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Great excitement has been caused at the White House over the report that smallpox may have been transmited there by a delegation of visiting politicians from Alabama. J. O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue, from Alabama, and two political friends arrived here on Wednesday and went to the Hamilton House, the home of Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the senate, and a large congressional colony. During the night Collector Thompson was taken ill, and in the morning, while his friends were calling on the president, Mr. Thompson's condition became so alarming that the attending physician summoned the District health officer. The latter, it is reported, pronounced Mr. Thompson a victim of smallpox and immediately ordered him to be sent to the pesthouse.

Falling Bridge Drowns Workmen.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 9.—A part of the superstructure erected in connection with the raising of the Market street drawbridge to meet the elevation of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks here fell into the river late yesterday. There were about twenty-five men on the structure. Some were able to jump to places of safety, but most of them went down with the wreck into the river. Tugs and small boats rescued ten men, but it is feared that ten were drowned, as they are still missing.

Reception at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt last night held the first of his four annual evening receptions. The event was in honor of the diplomatic corps. The White House was brilliantly decorated and illuminated for the occasion and was crowded with people of high standing in official and social life. A number of guests from out of town attended the reception.

HEALTH BOARD'S WORK.

As the years pass, the public realizes more and more the necessity of safe guarding its health. Boards of Health formerly devoted their efforts chiefly to handling epidemics of contagion. That old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is being put into practical operation by the Health Boards. Measures are being taken to prevent disease and to improve the sanitary conditions on every possible occasion.

Since Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk has been a member of the City Board of Health, that organization has taken many progressive steps. One of its most important acts, the passage of a complete sanitary code, was only recently completed. Another was started a year ago when a health officer was installed here and given special supervision over the milk and food supply of the city. During the appearance of small-pox here, he played an important part.

This office of health officer was more or less of an experiment. Certain members of the board felt that the occasion demanded that such an official be appointed. They felt that time would prove the wisdom of their course. They now point with justifiable pride to the record of his work as shown in his annual report which was presented in conjunction with that of the board at the Common Council meeting Monday night.

Owing to its length, The Daily Press is unable to publish the complete report but a summary of it with certain particularly interesting portions in full is published in another part of this issue. One novel, but very interesting feature of the report is the illustrations in connection with the small-pox cases and the milk supply. Mr. Thurlow's report is an interesting one and gives a comprehensive idea of what the Board of Health has been doing and of the usefulness of a health officer who is now to be found in every up-to-date city of any size.

The Middlesex county Board of Freeholders appears to be justly indignant over the action of the Perth Amboy Common Council in granting a franchise for the trolley line over the proposed Amboy bridge without consulting the Freeholders or giving the franchise to the highest bidder. Now the Freeholders propose to change the location of the bridge so as to take the granting of the franchise out of the hands of the Perth Amboy Council. While we do not pretend to be posted with the local conditions, it looks from here as if the Perth Amboy Councilmen did not pursue the proper course and as if the indignation of the Board of Freeholders was perfectly justified. It is becoming the proper thing nowadays to grant franchises to the corporations that offer the most instead of bestowing them gratis without open bidding.

You've seen the man we mean. He comes to the front door of your office and sticks his head in holding the door open. There he stands and great chunks of chilly weather drift into the room which it has cost you many precious lumps of coal to heat. He is warm enough and the fact that there is a draught blowing on you which may result in pneumonia he never considers. Really that's a habit which many people would do well to break themselves of. If you have anything to say, come inside and say it but please don't stand there and hold the door open.

One of the suggestions made by Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow in his annual report was that the city should control the collection and disposal of the garbage. When the Plainfield Sanitary Company went out of business the interested ones desired to sell the property, including the crematory, to the city but the Councilmen did not view the plan with favor. There are, however, many who favor municipal control of that department.

Hamilton Fish Kean was elected chairman of the Republican county committee last evening and then he entertained the men who elected him chairman at a banquet. There wasn't any fight over the chairmanship as it was known that a majority of the committeemen were for Kean. Now it remains to be seen how far that faction will go to harmonizing party interests in Union county before the next campaign.

If the members of the Common Council are seriously considering the purchase of either a patrol wagon or new apparatus for the fire department in the future, they will do well if they visit the coming automobile show at New York. The day is not far distant when horseless vehicles will become very common in the city departments of fire and police.

A little excitement is stirring the political circles at Trenton and Washington over the appointment of a postmaster for Lakewood. All isn't harmony in Ocean county Republican circles and the rival factions are having nearly as much fun as they do in Union and Somerset counties.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Smalley Brothers claim that they have the best sausage made in this city. Yesterday a fresh lot of it was made and they are selling it very fast. Their Jersey pork cannot be beaten in this city.

Like an old friend, tried and true, you will find Peck's store. There is never any change in the quality of goods, only the best is handled and when you consider this fact the price will appeal to you strongly.

W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, has secured a fine lot of spinach, string beans, tomatoes, cucumbers and radishes which he is selling to his customers at bottom prices. He has also secured some very fine Boston lettuce for salad.

A choice line of men's furnishing goods has arrived at the store of J. R. Blair, on Park avenue, for the post holiday trade. He has one of the most complete lines of men's hats in this city and his stock of umbrellas and dress suit cases is unsurpassed.

T. L. Walsh, of North avenue, is carrying one of the largest and best post-holiday stocks of fruit he has ever handled. It is complete in every detail and embraces all the best grades of oranges, lemons and bananas. He also continues to make fresh vegetables a specialty.

In the old days it used to cost a fortune to own a piano, but nowadays you can purchase one at your own price. G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, will make you fully acquainted with all the details, whereby you can get a fine instrument at a low price and easy terms.

Somebody has said "there is just as good fish in the seas as was ever caught" but it would be hard to duplicate some of the beauties at the store of the Rogers' Seafood Company. They come fresh every day, too. And don't lose sight of the fact that Rogers gives green trading stamps.

Because there is a little snow on the ground and the air has a keen chill it's no reason why you shouldn't think of summer. Your residential grounds are seen most during the warm months and now is the time to think about putting them in order. Drop a postal to the Belleview Avenue Nursery and have prices quoted for shrubbery and trees.

The new year is opening auspiciously for Woodhull & Martin and the trade at this store is increasing constantly. This is due to the most desirable line of new goods being received every day. The housefurnishing department in the basement is just filled with attractive goods and it is so easy to make selections. In the carpet department you will find a choice assortment of the best carpets, rugs, lace curtains, etc., while every department in the main store offers the best quality of goods.

Father Egan also referred to the Pope's love for America and his wish that she may always prosper. He hoped that the Pope would yet be spared many years.

"The Knights of Columbus from the Outside," was the toast assigned to City Judge William N. Runyon, and in a short speech, he paid rich tribute to the Knights of Columbus after saying a few words in a lighter vein he became more serious and characterized the Knights in the quotation "By their fruits ye shall know them." He said that Watchung Council had laid aside its swaddling clothes to don knickerbockers of sturdy boyhood. He added that with such principles as those which constitute the Knights of Columbus, the world must applaud and he hoped its greatness would be like the eternal hills. In conclusion he wished the Knights God-speed.

The last speaker on the programme was Past State Deputy James A. Burns, of East Orange, who organized Watchung Council. He is known as the "papa" of the Council, and his remarks bearing on the subject were appreciated fully. Other remarks were made by Past Supreme Knight Cone, of New York, and Brother Leahy, of Seattle, Wash., after which Mr. Baker sang several songs and related witty anecdotes. It was long after 2 o'clock when the affair came to an end and all departed singing the familiar song, "Auld Lang Syne."

Among the distinguished persons present were Past Supreme Knight J. J. Cone, of Jersey City; State Deputy Thomas Fay, of Long Branch; Past State Deputies W. Carroll Matlack, of Elizabeth; J. A. Burns, of East Orange; Rt. Rev. John A. O'Grady, of New Brunswick; Rev. Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church; Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church; Rev. Wm. Smith, curate of St. Mary's church; Rev. Wm. Dietrich, of Bound Brook; State Warden T. J. McLaughlin, of Newark; District Deputies W. N. Pendergast, of Brooklyn, and Thomas White, of Perth Amboy; Grand Knight Wm. Whelan, of Elizabeth; Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Plainfield; Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield; Grand Knight D. T. McCarthy, of Elizabeth; Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, Collector F. H. Smith, Chief Patrick Kiely, Councilmen R. I. Tolles, Robert L. Lee, W. S. Tyler, W. L. Gloak, Frank D. Randolph and Clarence L. Murphy, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Chief T. O. Doane, Andrew McCardell and Postmaster E. H. Bird.

The committee having charge of the affair and to who all credit is due for the success attained, consisted of A. A. Cannon, chairman, M. J. Whalen, A. Arthur Boone, J. J. O'Keefe, Charles J. Ward, Francis J. Blatz, D. J. Galbraith and W. J. O'Keefe.

Mrs. George Shaw, of Central avenue, left on Wednesday for Milton, Wisconsin, where she went to attend the wedding of her sister.

FOR CUBAN TREATY.

Beet Sugar Association Withdraws All Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The American Beet Sugar association at its annual session here passed resolutions withdrawing all opposition to the ratification of Cuban reciprocity, but recommending that the treaty be so amended as to express in precise language what is intended to be secured by it to the beet sugar manufacturers of the United States—viz, that during the period of five years covered by the treaty no sugar exported from Cuba shall be admitted to the United States at a reduction of duty greater than 20 per cent of the rates of duty thereon as provided by the tariff act of July 24, 1897.

The association also adopted a resolution protesting against unnecessary stimulation of the sugar and tobacco industries of the Philippine Islands by means of further tariff reductions, thus, as the resolution stated, encouraging the people of those islands, where labor costs but a few cents a day, to produce those things which this country can produce rather than such commodities as we are unable to produce.

The action of the association was not unanimous, the vote on the passage of the resolution standing 3 to 2, although Mr. T. Oxnard, the president of the association, said he had enough proxies with him to make the vote 12 to 2.

HORSE MEAT BANQUET.

Novel Feast in Berlin by Society For Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Six hundred people sat down last night to the most remarkable banquet that ever has been given in Berlin. The dishes consisted entirely of horse meat and were served in various forms. The Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals issued the invitations to the dinner, which was given for the purpose of demonstrating the nourishing and palatable qualities of horse meat, thereby causing increased consumption of the meat and a ready market for old horses. This would prevent owners from working the poor animals to death, as well fed specimens would bring good prices.

The bill of fare consisted of horse soup, pickled horse tongue, fillet of horse and roast horse. All of the dishes were nicely prepared and were evidently greatly relished. The presiding officer of the society, Privy Councilor von Seefeld, said 30,000 horses had been eaten in Berlin last year and that he hoped for a large increase in this number. Many prominent members of the reichstag and of the city council were present at the banquet.

THE INDIANOLA CASE.

Mrs. Cox Declines to Be Interviewed. Her Husband Makes Statement.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 9.—Minnie Cox, the negro postmistress at Indianola, Miss., is here, accompanied by her assistant, Annie Moore, colored. The two are stopping with a brother of Annie Moore and will remain here until the Indianola trouble blows over, so it is announced. Mrs. Cox declines to be interviewed.

Her husband, W. W. Cox, a postal clerk on the Southern railway, gave out a very guarded statement, in which he said he and his wife were hopeful of a settlement of the Indianola affair, as they desired to return to that place to live, having many friends there among both the colored and white population.

THREE KILLED IN A WRECK.

Express Crashes Into Rear End of Local at Ada, O.

KENTON, O., Jan. 9.—The Cannon Ball express, one of the fastest passenger trains on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, crashed into the rear end of a local passenger train at Ada, O., last night.

Three passengers were killed and fourteen injured. Both trains were bound west. The cars were badly wrecked.

The dead are a man of the name of Joseph Stein of Fort Wayne, Ind., and two men as yet unidentified. One of the injured is J. J. Casey of Toledo. He is severely hurt and his death is expected.

FOR THEATER WEAR.

Warm Wraps—The Latest Opera Cloaks—Net Skirts.

Although the loose paletot and kimono shapes are more modish in wraps, yet all the fashionable houses are showing charming little capes and coats in the new zibeline cloth, in satin brocade and in panne, and these are liberally adorned with plisse chiffon, bebe ruching and incrustations of lace.

Some of the latest opera wraps are made with loose sleeves, similar to the Inverness cloak, but cut in more circular fashion and fuller at the bottom edge. Since the advent of transparent yokes and the partial departure of the long sleeve the theater cloak has become of immense importance, as it is often retained during an entire evening in the stalls, as some of the theaters are very drafty on the ground floor.

LACE GOWN.

The gown in the illustration is of fine lace trimmed with narrow velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

Combinations of Pale Colors Are Fashionable.

Watteau effects are produced on evening gowns by the skillful blending of pale colors, and this combination is particularly effective on gowns of white lace, where a pink slip with trimmings of soft pink and blue ribbons and delicate mauve flowers is a charming example.

Accordion plaited chiffon, mousseline de soie and crape are much used on dinner and evening gowns. The long lisse frills fall from a fairly tight sleeve and spread out over the elbow, suggesting the orthodox skirts of the old time opera dance. They are very quaint and pretty.

DAINTY EVENING DRESS.

A great many dance gowns have plisse flounces, and some skirts are plaited throughout and have bands of insertion laid in circular rows to fasten down the plaits. All lace gowns are interlined with chiffon or fine net to give a soft, misty effect.

For chiffon or reception toilets much velvet is worn, and this fabric is extremely adaptable for the present fashion in skirts.

The gown here shown is of yellow lace over pink silk, veiled with chiffon of the same shade.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1901, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"No," said Mr. Pence sadly. "An eddy of water whirled the sand over it while I was away. I put my handkerchief on the pole and waved for help. In my excitement I dropped the pole and it floated away with my handkerchief. The tide kept on rising until I could not stay on that side of the rock, so I went to the place where you found me. I expected every minute that an alligator, or a crocodile, or a shark would come along and get me. It was awful."

"You should be more careful with your money, Simon," said Mr. Kent. "You let me keep that bridge ticket for you. With your careless, reckless disposition in money matters you will be so reduced in circumstances when you reach New York that you will have to walk home."

Mr. Pence looked at the millionaire operator doubtfully but said nothing. He reached into his pocket, produced the six pennies and the red bridge ticket, and went to his room where he placed them in the inner recesses of a drawer.

During the absence of the relief committee Mr. Kent dressed the deer with much deftness, and Mr. Haven had, after some trouble, prepared three of the birds for the roasting pan. The range glowed with heat, and Sidney aided in the preparation of a dinner which had much of promise. The explorers had brought back two dozen bananas, and these graced the table. Pawpaws were picked from a tree near the bungalow. In about two hours the table was set, with a huge joint of roast venison and browned potatoes as the piece de resistance. This was flanked by a grouse and the gold-breasted trumpeter, which had fallen before the prowess of Mr. Kent. Sidney had essayed some "baking powder biscuits," and had attained a culinary triumph. These served with jellies, some fine claret, and topped off with bananas, pawpaws and coffee completed a dinner which will not be forgotten by those who gathered around the board in that tropical bungalow.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE HURRICANE.

"What does the exploration committee do to-day?" asked Mr. Kent, next morning as he pushed his chair back from the breakfast table and bit the end from a cigar. "Morton," he said, as he finished the last of his coffee, "those venison chops were fine. Nature must have hesitated a long while before she decided whether to make you a financier or a cook. I am not sure that she did not make a mistake. Come on, Hammond, you cannot find out where we are by studying that map. Let's get busy."

"I do not care to be officious," said Sidney, "but I wish some of you gentlemen would give our committee your assistance for a day or two. The work I have in mind properly belongs to the housekeeping committee anyway. The 'park,' as we call it, is our game and fruit preserve. In an hour any one can shoot grouse, quail, pheasants, or deer, and can pick all the bananas we need. The trouble is to get there, and to bring back these table luxuries. The trail along the brook is almost impassable. Two men with axes can put it in good shape in a day. I would like to explore the east shore of the island with Mr. Kent. Mr. Rockwell, you are President of the Social Island Colony. I suggest that you detail members to do this work on the trail."

"Certainly," answered the magnate. "Mr. Morton and I will put the trail in good shape. Mr. Carmody is working on his plans for a boat, and will not need assistance for a day or two. How far is it from here to the 'park?'"

"About a mile, I should say," said Sidney. "Follow the brook until you come to the reservoir. I would take a gun along. You may meet one of Mr. Kent's 'painter' friends."

This being settled, Sidney prepared to start across the bay. Mr. Vincent expressed a wish to help on the work of exploration, and it was decided that matters could be expedited by forming two parties—one to explore the coast north of the gateway of the bay, and the other to work along the south shore. It was therefore agreed that Mr. Pence and Mr. Vincent should take the south shore and Mr. Hammond and Mr. Kent the north shore. Mr. Pence protested vigorously against doing any more exploring, but Mr. Kent cut him short and reminded him that he was under military discipline.

"In cases like this," he said, "it is always customary to shoot those who disobey orders. I have always been your friend, Pence, as you know, but if the chairman of the committee on exploration ordered me to shoot you I would do it with cheerful promptness."

Mr. Kent examined his rifle critically and looked serious. Mr. Pence said he was only joking, and would be glad to go. Each member of the expedition provided himself with a luncheon, and at eight o'clock they got on board the raft and paddled across the bay. The sun was not warm and shone through a peculiar saffron haze. The air was motionless. It was decided that Pence and Vincent should be landed first, and that Hammond and Kent should return for them with the raft not later than five o'clock in the afternoon. All were provided with rifles and ammunition.

They soon reached the shore at a point where it was possible to scale the rocks overlooking the ocean. Mr. Pence and Mr. Vincent left the raft and it was agreed that they should return at about five o'clock. They climbed the rocks and disappeared in the forest. Sidney and Mr. Kent pushed away from shore and headed the raft for the inlet.

There were no clouds in the sky, but the sun was almost obscured in a golden haze. They noted an unusual number of birds flying past, seemingly coming in from the ocean. There was not a breath of air stirring.

"I believe a storm is brewing," said Sidney.

"It is not in sight yet," replied his companion, as he speared ineffectually at a passing fish. "I am going to come out here to-morrow and catch some of these fellows. I wonder what we can use for bait?"

"The brook is full of minnows," said Sidney. "I noticed a dip net among the things in the storeroom. Grubs, worms, or almost anything will do for bait."

"We might try mosquitoes," said Mr. Kent. "Some of them are large enough."

They approached the gateway connecting the ocean with the bay. This they found to be a passage not more than 100 yards in width, the cliffs rising perpendicularly or beetling over the water. Outside was a bar over which the long swell of the ocean rolled in curling breakers, as they reached the upheave of the shore. Inside was deeper water, where the waves regained a part of their strength as they glided smoothly into the gateway.

"Let's see if we can get outside," said Mr. Kent. "If we can pass those breakers we can paddle out a mile or so and perhaps size up this island. Let's try it. You can swim, I suppose?"

"Yes, I can swim, and I guess we will have to before we can pass those breakers," said Sidney, as he watched the great surges sweep over the bar. "We will try it if you wish to take the risk."

"I am not afraid," said Mr. Kent, stoutly.

"All right. We will leave our guns and shoes ashore," suggested Sidney. "Our shirts and trousers are no more incumbrance than a bathing suit."

They stripped and paddled the raft boldly out to the bar. The nearer they approached the higher did the combers appear. A mass of green water would rise from the sea; its upper edge frayed with a line of light; the top-heavy mass would poise for an instant and then fall in a graceful curve, breaking into spouting masses of foam. The roar of these falling tons of water was in their ears, but they pushed steadily on. A giant wave dashed its strength out in a watery roar so near them that the spindrift was in their eyes and the salt on their lips.

"Now is the chance!" shouted Sidney. "Hard! Row hard!"

They pushed on their crude paddles with all their strength. One hundred yards away the sea was an undulating plain of smooth rollers. Could they reach it? The next wave rose before them. The forward end of the raft tilted back until it was nearly upright. Five feet in their rear the swell broke and churned the water in fury.

Put in a Pole of His Own.

"Mr. Shaw, the telephone company is going to place a pole in front of my residence. I won't have it. What shall I do?" These outbursts greeted the present secretary of the treasury one day some years ago, as he was seated in his office.

"Unless you can occupy the ground in front of your residence until the company leaves, I see no redress," remarked Mr. Shaw. "Have you any men in your employ?"

"Yes, two Polish gardeners," answered the irate property owner.

"Then place into the hole a Pole of your own," suggested the secretary.

When questioned about the story the citizen explained that he got his Pole there first and the company moved on. —Detroit Free Press.

Longest Lawsuit on Record.

To Dr. Winkler, a lawyer of Lucerne, Switzerland, belongs the honor of settling what is probably the longest lawsuit in the history of any country. Ever since 1370 a boundary dispute has been going on between Hungary and Galicia. The area in dispute is a tract of land about 70 miles south of Cracow, owned partly by Prince Hohenlohe, a German, and Count Zamoyski, an exiled Polish noble from Posen. This dispute of 500 years' duration has led to much bitter feeling in the neighborhood, as both Hungarians and Poles have hotly contested the question and loudly asserted their claims. The arbitrator has decided in favor of the Galician claim, and allows Hungary only 20 acres to straighten her boundary.—N. Y. Times.

Warranted Takes Jackson Handicap at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—The anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, officially designated Jackson day, was generally celebrated here yesterday. The Cotton Exchange, banks and many of the larger business houses were closed, and a big crowd went to the races.

A feature of the day was the Jackson handicap, at one and a half miles. The stake closed with eighty-six nominations and was worth $1,680.

Gannon's ride of Major Mansir, the favorite, and Redfern's judgment in placing Warranted tell the story of the feature of yesterday's card. Carl Kahler and L'Etrenne were the winning favorites. The former was run up to $2,005 and bought in. The weather was fine and the track good.

Iselin Orders Six Yachts.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 9.—C. Oliver Iselin, the well known New York yachtsman, has contracted with a shipbuilding company at West Mystic, Conn., for six one design racing yachts after designs by C. F. Herreshoff, who drew the lines of the fast sixty footer Niagara. The new boats will measure twenty-five feet on the water line, forty feet over all and will carry 1,200 square feet of canvas. They will compete in the regattas of the Newport Racing association this coming summer.

Elliott In a Drive at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—One of the best things of the season at Oakland was Elliott, a colt in the string of Walter Jennings. He started in the seven furlong handicap, for which Caviota was favorite, and was played from 10 to 1 to 4½ to 1. Claude and Sylvia Talbot set the pace, but when the stretch was reached Elliott assumed command. In a drive he won by a head from the poorly ridden Gold Van. Claude was third and the favorite last.

"Spike" Sullivan In Trouble.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—William J. Sullivan, the American boxer, better known as "Spike" Sullivan, and a companion named Charles Harris have been remanded at a police court on a charge of attempting to pass "Bank of Engraving" notes. Bail was refused. Sullivan denied all knowledge of the notes and said he only met Harris casually at a railroad station while awaiting a train which he intended to take for his training quarters.

Great Shooting Match In April.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9.—The Grand American handicap shoot at inanimate targets will be held in Kansas City April 14, 15, 16 and 17 at Blue River Shooting park, arrangements for the grounds having been completed by Elmer E. Shaner, secretary and manager of the Interstate Shooting association. It is expected that there will be over 300 entries and that the shoot will be the largest in the history of the event.

Big Boxers May Meet.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—"Parson" Davies has deposited $1,000 with "Honest John" Kelly of New York city, who is at present in New Orleans, as a forfeit to bind a match on behalf of "Kid" Broad to box either Terry McGovern or Young Corbett at 126 pounds for the largest purse offered. WORK OF ART FOR CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Purchased With the Funds Raised at the Horace K. Turner Art Exhibit.

THEY'RE EXPECTED SOON

CARBON PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD'S FAMOUS PAINTINGS.

A List of Those Which Will Go to the Various Public Schools in the City—A Memorial for Miss Shattuck.

As a result of the Horace K. Turner art exhibit, recently held in the Assembly Hall of the Franklin School, about $250 has been expended in pictures for the various schools of the city. These pictures, which consist chiefly of carbon photographs of the world's famous paintings, have not yet arrived but are expected soon and on their arrival will be immediately placed in position in the various schools. The number of pictures for each school is determined by the amount of money raised by the pupils of that school by the sale of tickets for the exhibit.

The High School will receive three pictures, a photograph of the Colombo (Ceylon) Breakwater in a storm. Regnault's "Automedon," and "Spring" by Corot. A photograph of Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespere's home; "Ancient Britons," by Douglas; the Capitol at Washington; and "The Nursery," by Waterlow, will be placed in the Franklin School. The Washington School will receive George Riecke's "Sunset Glow" and "Road to the Village," "By the Riverside" by Lerolle, a photograph of Longfellow, and "The Nursery" by Waterlow. The Irving School will receive four pictures—"Sunset Glow," by George Riecke; "The Child Handel," by Dicksee: "Taking a Sail," by Walden; and "Feeding the Birds," by Millet. Nine handsome pictures will go to the Whittier School. They are Watts' "Sir Galahad;" "The Chariot Race," by Wagner; photographs of Niagara Falls from Prospect Point and Ann Hathaway's Cottage; Ruysdael's "Windmill;" "Taking a Pilot" by Seeley; "The Vikings" by Douglass; "Automedon," by Regnault; and "The Wave" by James. The Bryant School will receive Nutting's "Meeting at the Stream;" "Sunset Glow," by Reike; and "The Windmill" by Ruysdael.

The pupils and teachers of the Lincoln School have contributed funds for the purchasing of pictures in memoriam of Miss Emma V. Shattuck, for so long principal of the school. The companion pictures of "The Divine Shepherd" by Murillo and "St. John the Baptist," by the same painter, are the pictures selected.

For the Bryant School, there has been purchased by money raised in a similar way, a large bromide copy of Bodenhausen's "Madonna" which will be hung in the school assembly hall as a memorial of Miss Shattuck. The class of 1903 in the High School proposes to invest about $60 from the proceeds of its recent entertainment in works of art as a gift from the class to the school but the subjects have not yet been decided upon.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB HELD FIRST MEETING

An Informal Organization of Society Folk Met at the Casino Last Night

SPENT TIME AT GAMES

CHIEF ATTRACTION OF THE EVENING WAS A PING-PONG TOURNAMENT.

Main Room of Casino Was Devoted to Badminton—Then There Was Bowling, Pool and Billiards in the Lower Rooms.

The Casino presented an animated appearance last evening when the first meeting of the Friday Night Club was held there. Over 180 people were present and spent the evening in informal social intercourse. The plan for a Friday evening social club has apparently sprung into popular favor here as is evidenced by the large number of people who were present last evening and the rapidity in which they entered into the spirit of the occasion.

The main dance hall was transformed from a ball room to a badminton court where men and women enjoyed in the exhilerating English game. There were three courts arranged in a line lengthwise through the center of the room, and on each side of a net raised on two posts seven feet high in the center of each court, which is marked off very much like a tennis court, two players were stationed and endeavored to keep a feathered shuttle cock flying back and forth by means of two racquets. The game is comparatively new in this city but it promises to become quite as popular as ping pong.

This room was very tastefully decorated with greens and red flowers and all the electric lights in the hall were covered with red which cast a soft light on the players.

Down stairs, bowling and other games including pool, billiards and cards were enjoyed by both the men and the women. Some very good scores were made on the alleys and, when the bowling tournament begins some very clever playing is anticipated. On the pool and billiard tables the playing was very good and it is planned to hold some tournaments in these games also.

In the reception room on the main floor a ping pong tournament was started. This proved to be the center of attraction as very handsome cups were offered as prizes by the committee.

In the ping pong tournament there are fifty entries for the mowen and fifty for the men. The men's tournament was not played off last evening but Miss Elsie Goddard took the lead in the first games in the women's tournament. The tournament will be continued next Friday evening.

Whist, euchre and other card games were also enjoyed during the evening.

The committee, which had the arrangement last night in charge, was Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Miss Maude Van Boskerck, Miss Huntington, Miss Gilbert, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Evarts Tracy and G. Herbert Taylor, treasurer.

The meetings will be continued until the last week in March when, it if is the desire of the members of the club to continue the meetings longer, they will be held during the summer. The committee was very gratified at the large attendance at the first meeting of the club.

Stands High in Review of Year's Trap Shooting.

In the last issue of the Sporting Life there is a year's review of the work at trap shooting and it is of interest to Plainfielders because Neaf Apgar, of this city, a representative of the Peters Cartridge Company, is fifth in the long list for the average number of wins. He has 125 points in the one day average wins and 169 for the general average wins. These scores are computed from the flying target events of the season. The list this year comprises nearly 750 men. This shows that over 400 more men shot well enough to win an average in 1902 than the previous year.

FIRE INSIDE CLOSED SAFE

Unusual Blaze in Blacksmith Shop of Horace J. Martin Yesterday.

CAUGHT FROM STOVE

Set Fire to Composition Packing Inside of Safe—Safe Began to Smoke—Contents Was Not Injured—A Customer in the Shop Discovered the Fire.

A fire of quite an unusual nature occurred yesterday at the blacksmith shop of Horace J. Martin on Somerset street when an iron safe in one end of the shop suddenly began to emit dense clouds of smoke although the safe had not been opened for several days and no one had been near the strong box.

Smoke was seen to be issuing from the safe shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning by a customer who was waiting for some horses to be shod. Mr. Martin thought some of the dust on the top of the box had become hot and was smoking but after it had been brushed off the smoke continued to pour out of the iron sides of the safe. Suspicions of midnight burglars and nitro-glycerine and dynamite began to fill Mr. Martin's mind.

As the door flew open a thick volume of smoke arose. Mr. Martin then rolled the safe into the back yard where all the contents were removed.

Just as the last paper of value was being removed from the safe the interior burst into flame and it was several minutes before the fire could be quenched with several buckets of water.

The interior of the safe was practically ruined but none of the papers or other contents were injured. The safe became over heated from a stove and the composition packing which was supposed to render it fire proof took fire and slowly smouldered until the inside of the safe was ruined.

The safe was the first one owned by the First National Bank in this city but it has been in Mr. Martin's possession for the past twenty years. It was that safe which was washed down Green brook at the time of the freshet and was finally recovered without any of the contents being injured.

Dempsey is basso and choir master in St. Mark's church and is a most accomplished and enthusiastic singer.

The programme will include seven quartettes, a duet, and eleven solos The concert will be a musical treat and ought to be well attended.

CHILDREN TO REMAIN WITH THEIR MOTHER

Vice Chancellor Emery Announced His Decision in the Carson Case Today.

HIS PETITION DENIED

FATHER SECURED WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS TO SECURE POSSESSION.

Vice Chancellor Could See No Reason Why Children Should be Deprived of Mother's Care—Quarrel Was Between Parents.

Vice Chancellor Emery this morning decided that the children of James H. Carson and Sadie E. Carson, over which much litigation has lately arisen, shall be awarded to Mrs. Carson. On their separation on April 7, 1901, Mrs. Carson took the three children, three, five and eight years old respectively, and has since held them against the demands of her husband Mr. Carson through his counsel, Winfield S. Angleman, took out a writ of habeas corpus with which to reclaim the children, but after a long contest the prayer of the petition, on which the writ was based, is denied.

The vice chancellor in giving his decision, says among other things: "Considering the welfare and happiness of the children as the object to be secured by the decree or order in this case, I reach the conclusion upon all the evidence, that the custody of the children should for the present be awarded to the mother. Petitioner's counsel claims that the wife was guilty of misconduct in leaving her home with the children, and that therefore under the statute of 1902, he is entitled to the custody of the children as his common law right. To this claim there are two answers.

"First—the welfare of the children is the object of the statute, and the provision as to misconduct of either party was intended to give a preference to the innocent party, and to impose upon the party charged with or found guilty of misconduct under the statute the burden of overcoming this preference and showing that notwithstanding the misconduct and the inequality of rights, still the welfare of the children requires an award of the custody to the party guilty.

"Second—the character of the misconduct charged in this case is not such as to affect the mother's love and affection for her children, but arises entirely from differences between the husband and wife, as to which each may be in some fault. I do not now decide this point as it is not necessary.

"In the present case, the weight of evidence shows that the wife left the house because she was ordered out by her husband, and even if it should be considered that her apprehensions as to her safety in living with her husband are not well founded or are exaggerated, the husband has made no effort to secure her return, nor does he now ask or seem to desire it. Her remaining away, under the circumstances, cannot be considered as such 'misconduct' as to deprive her of the custody of her children where it is best for the welfare. They are still of tender years and need a mother's care and oversight. The petitioner could not himself take care of them, as he is engaged from home in his daily work, which he pursues industriously.

"No suggestion has been made as to how he proposes to supply the mother's care and attention which his children need, and I think I should be taking a great risk with the happiness and welfare of these children if I deprived their mother of their custody."

Mrs. Carson was represented by Codington & Swackhamer, while Francis J. Blatz was associated with them.

Discharged From Muhlenberg.

Joseph Muir, of Essex street, who has been in Muhlenberg Hospital since last October undergoing treatment for an injured foot received in a football game, was discharged yesterday. While it was at first thought the limb would have to be amputated this was not done, but it will be many weeks before he will be able to use it to any extent.

A Trip to Chinatown.

A party of prominent Plainfielders will make a tour of New York's Chinatown district, tomorrow, under the guidance of Gee Wah, the North avenue laundryman. NEW UNIFORMS.

Boys of Independent Fife and Drum Corps Expect Them Soon.

The new uniforms of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps are expected to arrive tonight. The money for the uniforms was raised at a fair which was held in Saengerbund Hall recently. The new suits are gray with broader stripes than the old uniforms and the overcoats are of the pattern commonly worn in the United States Cavalry. The election of officers of the corps will be held Monday evening.

The committee which had the matter of securing the new uniforms comprised: J. V. Beekman, S. C. Terry, D. V. Force, M. H. Brokaw, H. G. Adams, J. H. Adams, F. L. Manchester, Frank Carver and W. Kreitling

ANOTHER UNIFORMED ORDER

FREEDOM COMMANDERY, KNIGHTS OF GOLDEN EAGLE, INSTITUTED.

Uniformed Rank of Well-Known Fraternal Order Established With Formal Exercises.

Freedom Commandery, No. 5, is the newest local military organization. It was instituted last evening, as an adjunct to Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. of G. E., ranking similarly to the uniformed divisions of other lodges.

The ceremonies transpired in the I. O. T. Hall and were in charge of Grand Commander A. L. Clark, of Trenton. His staff was composed of Grand Marshal Frank Gano, of Long Branch; Grand Preceptor Thomas Farrell, of Trenton; and Mahlon Grover, of Trenton, and George Lippincott, of Trenton, of the Grand Commander's staff.

Those who are to be officers of the new commandery were installed as follows: Captain, Dr. J. H. Buchanan; first lieutenant, Dr. O. M. Luckey; second lieutenant, Horace J. Martin; acting first sergeant and second sergeant, Lafayette Rosenstiehl; third sergeant, R. D. Carver; fourth sergeant, Frank Bowman; fifth sergeant, R. V. Kenney; ensign, A. C. Hoagland.

All the officers and the new members looked resplendent in their uniforms and the exercises were highly interesting. The new commandery starts out with good prospects and, under the guidance of Captain Buchanan, its complete success is assured. As yet no stated place for drilling has been designated but this will be accomlished shortly and the members will be put through the manual at frequent intervals.

GREAT PROGRESS OF LOCAL PRESS MAKER

Inland Printer Tells of Walter Scott and How He Has Built Great Plant.

WORDS OF HIGH PRAISE

SOME OF THE INVENTIONS HE HAS SUCCESSFULLY MADE.

His Advancement From Machinist to the Head of One of the Greatest Press Manufacturing Establishments in the Country.

In America, says the Inland Printer, the name of Walter Scott has become as indissolubly linked with printing presses as that of Scotland's bard of the same name is linked with poetry. The success of the modern Scott has been as marked in his line as is the poet's in the field of verse. From the position of machinist to the head of one of the largest establishments in the world constructing printing presses seems quite a stride, but Mr. Scott has achieved this prominence in not a great many years, first by laying a foundation in a good education and next by close application and hard work. The immense buildings at Plainfield, New Jersey, over which he presides, and the product turned out there, speak in no uncertain way of his inventive genius, keen business policy and wondrous grasp of the requirements of the modern newspaper or job printing establishment.

His first patents were granted in 1874. Up to 1893 he has received one hundred and five patents, up to 1903 he has received two hundred and has many pending applications for patents.

Mr. Scott commenced to make folding machines in 1874. He was the first to combine a printing and a folding machine to print from a roll of paper and deliver the sheets printed, cut, pasted, and folded in book form. The first machine was made for the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Mr. Scott was the first to introduce what is now known as the straight run or srtaight line printing and folding machines, viz.: a series of presses placed in parallel plans one above the other, the rolls of paper being at one end of the machine and the folder at the other. The first machine of this kind was made in 1890.

Mr. Scott was the first to construct multi-color printing machines so that several colors are printed in succession on the web of the paper as it passes through the machine, delivering the copies perfect in form. Such a machine was made for the Chicago Inter-Ocean in 1891 and shortly afterwards for the Kansas City Journal and the New York World.

We cannot in this short article call attention to the several ingenious and special machines belonging to the printing, folding, stereotyping and electrotyping machinery produced by Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott was born in Scotland, May 22, 1844. He was educated at the Ayr Academy, studied theoretical and applied mechanics and machine designing, and learned the machine business. In 1869 he visited the principal cities of the United States, and finally settled in Chicago. In that city he was foreman of the press room of the Inter-Ocean. His success may be attributed not only to his genius, but also to his ability as a machinist and a business man. He not only conceives his inventions but attends to the designing and construction with an exactness of precision which is astonishing even to those skilled in the art, at the same time assiduously looking after the business interests of the concern.

The works in the East End of the town cover an area of five acres. The buildings are of brick, contain a floor space of upwards of 115,000 square feet and are connected with each other by a narrow gauge railroad, 2,300 feet in length, which runs through the bulidings. The yard contains 1,800 feet of standard gauge tracks connected with the Jersey Central Railroad Company and the buildings are lighted by 600 incandescent lamps and sixty-five arc lights, of 2,000 candle power each.

A description of the manufacture of the machines cannot be attempted in this article. Suffice it to say that printing machines for every class of work, from the ordinary drum cylinder press used in the small country printing offices to the mammoth printing machines intended for modern metropolitan dailies, are turned out at the factory in this city by the most approved methods.

GOOD ROAD OVER MEADOWS

STATE WILL BE ASKED TO HELP BUILD THE THOROUGHFARE.

Plan to Macadamize the Plank Road Between Newark and Jersey City.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Jan. 10—If the Legislature can be prevailed upon to give consent to the plan, it is proposed to macadamize the Plankroad. The scheme that has received the approval of the county officials of both Essex and Hudson, is to have the causeway across the meadows improved under the State road act, which would make the State bear one-third of the cost.

While no final decision or agreement has been arrived at as to the division of the remaining two-thirds, it is probable that it would be shared on the basis of the Chancery decision, which placed five-eighths of the cost of maintenance of the road upon Essex, and three-eighths upon Hudson.

The proposed improvement would connect with the fine Hudson county Boulevard in Jersey City, and with a short break on this side of the Passaic, would from a link connecting the good roads and drives of this county with the Hudson county driveway, extending from Bayonne to the Palisades.

A conference of the Legislative committees of the Essex and Hudson Boards of Freeholders will be held shortly to consider the details of the plan, and the two county counsels will draft a bill to be presented to the Legislature early in the coming session to authorize the State's aid in the improvement.

County Engineer James Owen said new bridges should be built over the Passaic and Hackensack rivers to replace the present structures, which he declared to be in bad condition. A liberal estimate of the cost of macadamizing the road, he thought, would be from $75,000 to $100,000, and the expense probably would not exceed the first amount.

On the basis of the road costing $75,000 to build, Essex county's share of the cost, if the State paid one-third and the remainder was divided in accordance with the Vice Chancellor's decision, would be $32,250, and Hudson would pay $17,750.

THEATRICAL.

Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, continues to be the most successful of a career that is a succession of artistic triumph. Paul Heyse's play has taken rank among the great offerings in the history of the theatre, and this is not only for the power and impressiveness of the story, but also for the beauty of the English translation, the magnificence of the mounting and the excellence of the interpretation. Mrs. Fiske's Mary has, if such a thing is possible, improved with repetition, and it is generally admitted that this foremost of American actresses has given no more superb portrayal than that of the Magdalen. The admirable work of the supporting company including Tyrone Power as Judas, Henry Woodruff as Flavius, M. J. Jordan as Caiaphas, Ida Hamilton as Miriam, and Rose Eythinge, Earl Brown, Max Figman, James Young and the others of the large company continues to win high favor. The storm scene continues to arouse wonder and awe, and is indeed a masterpiece of stage realism.

There is no denying the fact that New York critics have been set by the ears harder with Humorist George Ade's merry operatic satire, "The Sultan of Sulu," than with anything in the musical comedy or comic opera line seen in Broadway since the days when the Gilbert and Sullivan pieces were the rage. A composite of New York's critical judgment is to the effect that while Mr. Ade has not produced with his first effort the prettiest nor the best comic opera yet written by an American, he has given the public the wittiest one and one that promises for his future works more than has yet been claimed for previous American librettists. "The Sultan of Sulu" is undoubtedly in for a prolonged stay in New York. Manager Henry W. Savage had originally intended to follow up "The Sultan" with Mr. Ade's forthcoming piece, "Peggy from Paris," but it seems likely now that he will have to find a new Broadway home for "Peggy" or defer her visit to New York indefinitely.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

BASEBALL CONFERENCE.

Peace Committee Holds Session Without Results, but Expresses Hope.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10.—The baseball conferees were in session all day yesterday until late at night.

The general discussion was opened by each one of the eight conferees being called on for an expression of opinion as to what he favored, what he thought ought to be done, how it could be done and how far the conference should go. Then a general discussion followed over the opinions thus expressed, some taking sharp issue with others, but all in a friendly manner.

There seemed to be a consensus of opinion that it would be necessary to draw a line in both the territorial and the player question and that the line would be drawn for things to remain as they were at the time of the recent truce in the meeting at New York last month. This is accepted as meaning that about a score of players who have signed different contracts will remain where they were at the time of the meeting in New York last month.

It was also accepted as meaning that the American league will hold its franchises for clubs in Pittsburg and New York, there being some doubt about Pittsburg, but none about New York. All the conferees were emphatic in stating that there had been no bitter words during the meeting.

Mayor Harrison Closes Chicago Club.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Mayor Harrison has refused to allow the American Athletic club of this city to hold any more boxing shows until the present officials of the club resign and reliable and honest persons succeed them. This action on the part of the mayor is the result of the decision rendered by Referee Ben Donnelly, the old football player, in the bout between Benny Yanger and Tim Callahan before the club on Monday night.

Big Skaters to Meet.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Peter Sinnirud, the big Swede, who has no peer as a skater in the amateur ranks and who will turn professional next month and participate in the championships at Montreal, has already arranged a match race in which a share of money will go with the glory of winning the race. The event is with John Nelson, and several heats will be raced to decide the event. It will be held in Montreal.

Some Surprises at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Fog obscured the view of two of the races at Oakland, and the weather was hazy during the greater part of the afternoon. There were several surprises, among them being the victories of Action, a 20 to 1 shot; Ravino, who was quoted at 12 to 1, and Urchin, a 10 to 1 chance. Leader was supposed to be the best for the three-year-old race and was a pronounced favorite.

"Kid" Lavinge Resurrected.

"Kid" McCoy's Plans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—George Grant, manager of "Kid" McCoy, has announced that McCoy will arrive in town from West Baden tomorrow. He says the "Kid" will go to Muldoon's farm on Monday or Tuesday and resume training for his battle with Choynski.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—It is authoritatively announced that P. J. Donovan will continue to manage the St. Louis National league baseball team during the coming season at a salary of $9,000, a contract for that amount having been signed with the Robisons.

One Favorite Won.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10.—Cogswell was the only winning favorite. Nettie Regent was claimed out of the last race for $725, and Cogswell, the winner, was run up to $725 and bought in. Weather fine; track fast.

The Shamrock's American Spars.

GLASGOW, Jan. 10.—The American made spars intended for the Shamrock III. have arrived here. The hollow mainmast, excluding the topmast, is eighty-two feet in length.

HE WILL NOT RETURN

Ambassador Von Holleben's Leave of Absence Final.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT DISPLEASED.

Knowing This and Feeling Ill, the Doctor Asked For a Vacation, Which Was Promptly Granted Him.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Ambassador von Holleben was not recalled from Washington; but, learning that his government was not wholly satisfied with his work and feeling ill and pressed, he cabled for a long leave of absence, which was immediately granted. He will not return to Washington. Baron Speck von Sternburg's temporary assignment as charge d'affaires of Germany at Washington will be followed after a decent interval by his appointment as ambassador. The baron in the meantime will retain his position as consul general of Germany at Calcutta and be carried on the pay roll in that capacity. Oddly enough, the exact whereabouts of Count von Sternburg is not known at the foreign office, where it is thought he is visiting kinspeople in Saxony.

The only thing the foreign office officials will say about Dr. von Holleben is:

"He has not been recalled and his leave is granted upon his own initiative. The government would never recall an ambassador in the midst of important negotiations without grave reasons, which certainly do not exist in this case. The supposition that the government is annoyed because the ambassador failed to obtain President Roosevelt's acceptance of the arbitratorship of the Venezuelan dispute is wholly incorrect. Germany reckoned in advance that the president might have weighty reasons for declining; hence her note of Dec. 23 contained the alternative proposition to refer the matter to The Hague arbitration court. Still it was felt that the international political factors in the case dictated the appropriateness of first offering the president the arbitratorship."

Left Without Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The state department has been informed that Baron Speck von Sternburg is to come to Washington as a minister on a special mission. Meanwhile Herr von Holleben, the present ambassador, who has been granted invalid leave, is not expected to return to Washington from Germany. He left the city without saying farewell to the president or to Secretary Hay, but it is understood by both that the ambassador is very ill, and his condition is accepted as sufficient excuse for any omission of form.

Another German Representative Out.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Baron von Heyking, the German minister to Mexico, has been granted an extended leave of absence. It is possible that he will not return to his post.

Murder and Suicide.

ADRIAN, Mich., Jan. 10.—William B. Chio, aged forty-five, of Toledo, O., shot and killed his wife Elizabeth, aged thirty-five, and then fired the .32 caliber revolver at his own breast. Both victims were dead, the woman with a bullet wound through her heart, when a crowd of people who heard the shots broke into the parlor of Platt's hotel, where the tragedy occurred. The couple had been living apart, and the woman was an employee of the hotel. She had charged that her estrangement from her husband had been due to the latter's abusive treatment of their fourteen-year-old daughter.

American Evangelists In London.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The American evangelists Torrey and Alexander, who have just returned from their Australian mission, were accorded a splendid reception in Exeter hall. The building was filled with an enthusiastic audience, while on the platform were many prominent persons, including Lord Kinnaird and the Rev. Thomas Spurgeon. The last named extended a hearty welcome to Messrs. Torrey and Alexander and expressed his most fervent wishes for the success of their English mission.

Arapahoe Indians Starving.

LANDER, Wyo., Jan. 10.—The Arapahoe Indians are in a starving condition. Not a day passes but a band is in town begging. The Indians raised no crops this season, and they have no rations issued to them by the government, as their treaty expired last year.

Premature Blast Kills Four.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. Jan. 10.—Turner Harris, Emanuel Watts, Meade Crawford and James Hunter, negro miners, were killed at the Short Creek coal mines by the premature explosion of a blast.

PENSION BILL FLOOD

House Passes a Large Number of Private Measures.

AN ANTITRUST BILL AGREED ON.

It Is Said to Cover the Administration's Suggestions—Hobson's Retirement Is Opposed—The Coal Shortage Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Yesterday was private pension day in the house, and 144 bills were passed, none of especial importance. Mr. Russell (Tex.), the successor of the late Mr. Degraffenreid, criticised the house for undue haste in the consideration of private pension legislation and precipitated quite a debate. He called attention to the fact that since the civil war 10,000 special bills had been passed by congress, over 1,000 of these in the first session of the present congress.

As a result of extended consideration of the various pending antitrust bills the subcommittee of the house judiciary committee, of which Representative Littlefield is chairman, has practically agreed on an antitrust bill. It has not yet been adopted formally, but it is said to meet the approval of all members of the subcommittee. It will be laid before the full committee, and then it is expected its features will be made public. It is understood that it provides for publicity, not through a new commission to be created, but through the interstate commerce commission. It is further understood that the bill covers administration suggestions for antitrust legislation.

The naval affairs committee of the house decided by a vote of 5 to 4 not to report the bill authorizing the transfer of Naval Constructor R. P. Hobson to the retired list.

The senate committee on the District of Columbia continued its investigation into the shortage of the coal supply in Washington, hearing Joseph Crawford, general agent of the Pennsylvania railroad; W. J. Zeh, a local dealer, and some of the officers of the senate and house of representatives.

THE COLORADO FIGHT.

Call Issued For a Conference Looking Toward Harmony.

DENVER, Jan. 10.—Chairman D. B. Fairley of the Republican state central committee has issued a call for a meeting of the committee in Denver Monday, Jan. 19. This is in response to a request signed by seventeen members who wish the committee to attempt to harmonize the two factions of the party, now divided on the senatorial question. It is said that an effort will be made by the Wolcott adherents to oust Chairman Fairley.

Frank C. Goudy, one of the leading Republican candidates for United States senator to succeed Henry M. Teller, has issued a statement to the voters, in which he declares that some of the members of the legislature who were pledged to him have been won away from him by misrepresentation. Mr. Goudy says the present situation in Colorado is "one of the strongest arguments ever presented to the people that United States senators should be elected by popular vote."

Fighting the Plague at Mazatlan.

MAZATLAN, Mexico, Jan. 10.—Thirty-seven people are in the lazarentes, and six deaths have occurred, one entire family having died of the plague. Many people have left the city and gone to live on the islands nearby. A number of Americans have also departed. It has been decided to disinfect the entire city at once. The charity commission will pay for the houses that have to be burned and for all clothing destroyed. A man attacked by the plague was found on his way to El Castillo. He was brought to the city to be sent to a lazaretto, but he died on the way there. A woman in order to save her son from being taken to a lazaretto put him in bed at home. His father and she herself were in consequence attacked by the plague and died within a few hours. The house has been burned by the authorities.

Prayers Did Not Save Her.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Mrs. Louis Hanson of Spencer street is dead after having been treated by prayers of so called elders in a society which has obtained a firm foothold in Ithaca known as the "Church of the Living God," or, "Holy Ghost and Us society." She was a devoted member of the sect, and despite the entreaties of her husband and daughters she refused to be treated by a physician. At the last moment Dr. Meany was called, but Mrs. Hanson died within twenty minutes after his arrival. Coroner Jud, who was then summoned, stated that death was due to pulmonary congestion and heart failure. This is the second recent death of members of the society in Ithaca who have been thus treated.

Milk Famine Threatens Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A milk famine threatens Chicago, as 2,400 milk drivers may strike next Tuesday. Ten of the most prominent dairymen of the city met the representatives of the Milk Drivers' union, but the differences between them were not settled, and the drivers declare they will tolerate delay only a few days longer.

Coal Famine In Missouri.

MARSHALL, Mo., Jan. 10.—A coal famine prevails in Marshall and the nearby towns. Slater has sent to this city for coal. Many families are burning their fruit trees and shade trees. Wood is selling for $8 a cord, and such fuel is very scarce.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and continued cold; fresh southwest to south winds.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Collections Prompt. Distribution of Merchandise Heavy. Supply Short.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Collections are notably prompt at all leading centers, bearing testimony to the strong financial position of the nation's industries at the opening of the new year. Distribution of merchandise is heavy, and manufacturers are pressed for prompt delivery. Orders for spring goods come forward freely, and in many lines there is more than a sample business in fall weights. Tardy deliveries in the past lead purchasers to anticipate requirements more than heretofore, and orders are being placed far in advance of actual needs.

The fuel situation is still the one seriously disturbing element, rendering abnormally high the cost of manufacturing and restricting the purchasing power of almost the entire population. Fortunately this comes at a time of exceptional prosperity or there would be a general contraction of consumption in other lines.

Weather and transportating conditions have militated against a free movement of grain, yet interior receipts of wheat for the week reached 4,624,726 bushels against 3,520,214 bushels last year, and corn was marketed to the extent of 4,514,732 bushels compared with 3,439,113 bushels a year ago. Under more favorable auspices these gains would have been much larger, as producers are anxious to sell larger.

Failures for the week numbered 350 in the United States against 373 last year and 24 in Canada compared with 27 a year ago.

STAMPING WORKS BURNED.

Boy's Carelessness Caused Costly Blaze In London, Ont.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 10.—One of the most disastrous fires in the history of this city and one which almost resulted in the loss of life occurred late yesterday in the immense plant of the McClary Manufacturing company.

About 5 o'clock a boy working in the stamping department and whose duty it was to put sheet iron through oil rollers for the purpose of preventing the sheets rusting struck a match to light the gas. He dropped the burning match, and it fell into the vat of oil. With a report like a cannon the oil went up in a sheet of flame and spread on the ceiling of the room on the first floor.

About 500 men, women and boys were in the building. There was a rush for the elevator and the stairs, and in a terrible crush, scorched and smoke begrimed, they reached the street, hatless and coatless, but none seriously injured. The fire burned furiously for hours, the firemen being utterly unable to cope with the flames.

The net results of the fire are 300 men out of employment and a loss of $300,000. Some of the best machinery of the kind in Canada was destroyed, the McClary firm being practically the only stamping firm in the Dominion and also one of the largest in America.

Philadelphia Accepts Carnegie's Offer

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Andrew Carnegie's offer of $1,500,000 for the erection of thirty branch free library buildings in this city has been formally accepted by the board of trustees of the Philadelphia Free library. A committee was appointed to prepare papers to present to the city council and to Mr. Carnegie and to ascertain the proper course of procedure before the municipality can take advantage of the gift. This committee will probably complete its work within two weeks.

CABINET FOR MRS. COX.

Resignation of Indianola Postmistress Will Not Be Accepted.

WASHINTGON, Jan. 10.—For nearly two hours the cabinet was in session, all the members except Secretary Root, who is in New York, being present. Secretary Hay had little new to report on the Venezuelan situation. No answers have been received to the latest proposition of President Castro, which was transmitted promptly to the allies.

Satisfaction was expressed at the action taken by the representatives of the American Beet Sugar association, although regret was felt that the action was not unanimous.

The Indianola (Miss.) postoffice case was again the subject of some consideration, but Postmaster General Payne had little in the way of developments to communicate. Attorney General Knox, to whom the case was referred, said that he had not time yet to take it up, but he expected to begin consideration of the papers almost immediately.

Reference to the Indianola case led to some discussion of the subject of southern appointments, but no action was taken as to the general policy of the administration. The papers relating to several appointments were determined upon, but no information concerning them was made public.

It was decided that the resignation of Mrs. Minnie Cox as postmistress will not be accepted, and the question of reopening the office is left for further action. It is felt by the administration that to accept the resignation at this time would establish a precedent.

MUST FACE GRAND JURY.

Chicago Will Investigate Alleged Conspiracy of Coal Dealers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A special grand jury met in Chicago today to investigate the alleged conspiracy between certain coal operators, railroads and coal dealers to increase the price of coal on the Chicago market. Attorney General Hamlin is here from Springfield to lead the investigation. He has with him evidence which, he says, will show that a conspiracy exists, and the whole matter will be thoroughly investigated.

A special committee composed of members of the Illinois Manufacturing and Merchants' association called on State Attorney Dineen of Chicago last Wednesday regarding a special grand jury to probe the alleged combine. Mr. Dineen at once took the matter in hand and consulted Attorney General Hamlin by long distance telephone. Judge Hamlin, who for several days has been investigating affairs out of Springfield, assisted by a committee of four members, favored the plan, as he had secured a large amount of evidence to show that some deal had been planned by which the price of coal on the Chicago and other markets could be kept up.

BIG GAME CAPTURED.

Men Captured at Memphis Identified as Train Robbers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 10.—It now looks as if the Memphis police made an important capture when on Wednesday last they arrested Thomas Clark, George Rogers and John F. Estelle. When taken into custody, the men had nitroglycerin in their possession. Estelle has since been identified by the engineer as one of the participants in the Burlington holdup near Marcus, Ill., on Aug. 5 last.

Yesterday Mrs. E. Delap of Wisconsin positively identified Clark as a man who had bought a skiff from her two days before the Burlington robbery.

The robbers escaped in a skiff which was found overturned. J. C. Sanderson, a brakeman on the Frisco system, has identified Rogers as one of the prime movers in the holdup on the Frisco at Jonesboro, Ark., several months ago. Estelle has been taken to Savanna, Ill., in charge of an officer.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Dr. L. F. Flick, president of the Free Hospital For Poor Consumptives here, announces that Henry Phipps of New York, formerly a partner of Andrew Carnegie, had contributed $300,000 for the establishment of an institution in this city for the treatment and study of consumption. The institution is to be known as the Henry Phipps Institute For the Study, Treatment and Prevention of Tuberculosis. It will be so endowed as to derive an income of about $30,000 to $40,000 annually.

French Murderer Not to Die.

NICE, Jan. 10.—The sentence of death passed upon Henri Vidal Nov. 5, 1902, has been commuted to penal servitude for life. Henri Vidal confessed at Nice to the extraordinarily wanton murder of two women and to attempts to assassinate various others. It was for these murders that he was sentenced to death, but he is believed to have been the author of a series of crimes on the Riviera which made him one of the notorious murderers of France.

Big Four Trains Collide.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—The information received here is that two Big Four passenger trains collided head on at full speed at 9:50 o'clock last night near Bethalto, a village twenty-eight miles north of St. Louis and ten miles north of Alton, Ill. Traffic is blocked on the road, but until messengers can reach the scene from Alton little will be definitely known. It is reported that many were injured, but none killed.

Costly Blaze at Oil Wells.

LEMBERG, Galicia, Jan. 10.—There has been a serious fire at the oil wells of Berysiav. Twenty-seven springs were affected, twenty houses were destroyed and a girl was burned to death. It is estimated that the damage done will amount to $120,000.

GOBIN ON THE STAND

Lieutenant Governor Tells Commission What He Saw.

THE NONUNIONIST CASE IS CLOSED

During a Severe Examination General Gobin Has Several Sharp Tilts With Darrow, Counsel For the Miners.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—After occupying eight days, during which time they presented about 150 witnesses, the nonunion men, who are a party to the arbitration agreement, have closed their case before the coal strike commission, and the coal companies opened their case this morning.

The principal witness before the commission yesterday was Lieutenant Governor J. P. S. Gobin, senior brigadier general of the national guard of Pennsylvania. General Gobin was in command of the Third brigade during the time the troops were on duty in the hard coal fields. He was on the stand three hours and a half and during most of this time was engaged in a recital of the conditions as he found them in the territory he covered. He was on duty from July 30 until about Nov. 1 or 2. From his observations and from reports made to him by his officers it was his opinion, he said, that an "excited state of lawlessness" existed in the regions, that disturbances were numerous, that the presence of the troops was absolutely necessary to preserve law and order and that it was difficult to maintain the law even after all the troops in the state had been placed in the disturbed territory.

During direct and cross examination General Gobin had several tilts with Clarence S. Darrow, counsel for the miners, but they never reached a serious point.

Rev. Carl Hauser, a Lutheran Slovak minister of Freeland, said when he was called upon to officiate at the funeral of a nonunion man in the Panther Creek valley he experienced the greatest difficulty in securing pallbearers. When the body was taken from the house, Mr. Hauser said, the strikers yelled "Scab!" and spat upon the coffin. Some of them made such remarks as: "It's a shame to bury a 'scab.' Throw him to the dogs."

Attorney John T. Lenahan, for the nonunion men, presented indictments and pleas of guilty of certain union men for acts of lawlessness and also records showing that members of the union went on their bail bond. These were presented, he said, to show there was some connection between the strikers who broke the laws and the union.

The evidence of the 150 witnesses called by the lawyers for the nonunion men since they opened their case related almost wholly to their personal experiences and to the conditions prevailing in the strike affected territory as regards lawlessness.

Chairman Gray and Commissioner Wright were both absent from the sessions. Judge Gray was slightly ill, and Colonel Wright had business to attend to in Washington. In the chairman's absence General Wilson presided.

Music at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Mr. Mark Hambourg, the pianist, gave a delightful musicale at the White House last night, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a brilliant assemblage of 200 persons representative of official and resident society. It was the first of a series of Friday evening musicales which Mrs. Roosevelt proposes to give during January. The guests were seated in the east room, which looked particularly attractive in its new decorations of white and gold. The evening's entertainment included a programme of fifteen pieces, embracing selections from Chopin, Rubenstein, Leschetizky, Liszt, Hambourg, Boott and a series of Irish melodies. Mr. Hambourg's performance was of a high order, his delicate touch, exquisite technique and masterful rendition of the work of the masters bringing forth round after round of applause. He was assisted by Francis Rogers, baritone, and Mr. Bruno Huhn, accompanist at the piano.

Bowen's Departure Delayed.

CARACAS, Jan. 10.—As it will be impossible to have the documents setting forth the Venezuelan case ready for delivery to United States Minister Bowen before midnight Mr. Bowen will probably leave for Washington tomorrow. He will sail from La Guayra on the Dolphin.

Chemical Company Burned Out.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 10.—Fire has swept away two-thirds of the manufacturing plant of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company here, only the acid building remaining. No estimate of the loss is given out from the officers of the company.

Moroccan Pretender Defeated.

MADRID, Jan. 10.—A dispatch received here from Melilla, Morocco, says that Bu Hamara, the pretender to the throne, has been defeated near Fez and has retreated to Taza. Several more tribes have abandoned the revolutionary movement and have submitted to the sultan.

The Reading's Coal Output.

READING, Pa., Jan. 10.—The daily coal run on the Reading company's main line this week averaged between 1,500 and 1,600 cars. It is expected that the output of the company's mines for the week will aggregate 270,000 tons.

Shot Wife and Himself.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Charles Adams, a bartender at the Russell House here, shot his wife and then shot himself. Both will probably die.

TWO IMPORTANT SUBJECTS.

Next week will see the New Jersey Legislature in session and while it will undoubtedly take several weeks to get the Legislature in running order, it is sincerely to be hoped that there will be no time lost in introducing a repealer of the Meeker election law. Last year gave excellent evidence that the best interests of the community are not served by the present arrangement and that municipalities will be decidedly the gainer when their local officers are elected at separate times from the Congressional and county candidates.

Another subject which really ought to have attention from the State authorities is this school law. If the present law is unconstitutional, let's know it without delay and have the defects patched up. The present law was built purposely to remedy some legal troubles in the original State chool law.s If there are any more that haven't been discovered, let the Attorney General and his assistants find them, amend the law so that it will comply with the State Constitution in every particular and then allow the city of Plainfield and other municipalities, which have been held up by the fear of some illegality, to proceed with the erection of their school houses.

Latest of railroad deals places the control of the Reading system in the hands of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Vanderbilts. As the Reading controls the Jersey Central, the local system is therefore affected. It is generally reported that the Reading and Jersey Central systems will be continued on their present lines and that no change of officials may be looked for. There have been so many changes in the Central during the last few years that one hardly knows where to find the company.

For striking his caddy in the eye, causing him to lose the sight, Golfist David Flammer, millionaire of Philadelphia, has been sentenced at Plattsburg, N. Y., to spend six months within the jail limits, which are a half mile circle. He is now living at the best hotel in the town. Reports say he is bearing the incarceration bravely.

It looks as if the Kean faction of the Republican party in Union county was quietly working to secure the good graces of its opponents. Frank H. Smith, who has always sided with the friends of Congressman Fowler, has been made chairman of the county committee.

It is stated on good authority, the $3 secured by the New Market postoffice robbers belonged to an editor and was for a subscription to a local paper. The fiends should be hunted down and have justice dealt to them in merciless doses, befitting the crime.

Any railroad that could boast of four tracks along its main line has heretofore been considered very fortunate but now the Pennsylvania Railroad plans to go them all one better and have six tracks between New York and Philadelphia.

Unless all signs fail, the election in North Plainfield next March will be one of the hottest the borough ever saw.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A few days ago, when there was some excellent skating on the ponds in this locality, an elderly man took his three grandsons to Tier's pond to show them how he used to skate when he was a boy. At once the rest of the young people on the pond made room for the four skaters and stood respectfully to one side to see the fun. The developments were not unlike the pictures of "Foxy Grandpa" which are seen in the Sunday papers. Grandpa first showed the boys how he used to cut the pigeon's wing—then he sat down. He arose again with difficulty, readjusted his glasses, and started to cut a figure eight, but somehow the skates would not work right and grandpa decided to sit down again. After several more attempts, he remarked to the boys that he thought it was almost time for dinner and he guessed it was time to go home.

An interesting fact has come to light in the death of a young woman who died in this city very suddenly recently. It seems that the young woman visited the palm reading parlors of Prof. LeRoy, who until recently had his parlors on North avenue. There were five in the party and each had a reading except that last one. When the last young woman entered the little tent in the corner of the room and presented her hand to the seer the Professor suddenly dropped the hand and said that he could not read her hand. A few days afterward the young woman died and the parents hearing of the facts as told by her comrades went to the palm reader and asked for an explanation why he could not read her palm. The father of the girl was very much surprised when the palm reader informed him that he saw at once that the girl's life line ended that month and that he did not want to reveal the secret to the unfortunate girl.

It would be interesting to know whether any one in or out of the First Baptist church has any knowledge of the little romance told so well in the following clipping:

THE WICKED PARSON.

A true story in rhyme of a happening in Plainfield's First Baptist church fifty years ago.

Upon the little Jersey town
The golden moon smiled sweetly down;
Snow filled the highways; all about
The merry bells were ringing out.
And, in one cutter tucked away,
'Twas noted that young Israel Day
Did sleighride Lucy Shepherd

The news like wildfire sped away.
All week that little Jersey town
Went quite distracted; up and down
With busy tongues the gossips hied.
"'Twill be a match," the good wives cried,
It came at last the parson's way,
The tale of how young Israel Day
Did sleighride Lucy Shepherd.

A wicked, wicked man was he;
Next Sabbath morn in church he stood.
"Sing Sixty-Eight—old hymn and good—
'See Israel's gentle Shepherd stand
With all engaging charms' "—his hand
Did bid the congregation rise.
He gazed into its twinkling eyes—
But little did the parson care.
The hymn at end, he led in prayer
Then, "Fifty-Five" spoke solemnly,
As calmly viewed he Israel Day
And blushing Lucy Shepherd.

"O, happy day that fixed my choice,"
It was too much, mirth rose in might,
One good old deacon laughed outright;
"O, parson, parson, 'tis too bad."
Another cried, surprised and sad
That such irreverence should be.
It s aggered the good domicile;
But, just desert, he lost his fee—
For, strange, but true, the gossips say,
Hence held aloof young Israel Day
And Israel's gentle Shepherd;

DUNELLEN.

An unknown man, driving a wagon load of corn husks, fell off his seat in front of Taylor's Hotel, yesterday afternoon and for a time it was feared he was quite severely injured. A careful examination, however, disclosed the fact that it was nothing worse than a bad drunk. Although it was carefully explained by his companions that the man had had but three drinks, it was plain to see that they were too many. He was stunned by his fall and was wrapped up in a blanket and taken home on top of the load.

SIX NOBLE VOLUMES.

Contain the Diplomatic Correspondence of the Revolution.

New Light Thrown on Various Episodes Which Contributed to Shape the History of the United States.

[Special Washington Letter.]

FACTS partially stated cannot be fully understood. The four Gospels are required in order to gain an understanding of the life of the Christ, because each synoptist tells only his side of the story, or the story as seen from his standpoint. Facts of history can only be understudio when reasons are given for the actions of the prominent actors on the world's stage.

The history of the revolutionary war which gives us only the movements of the armies is an incomplete history. That is a perfect narrative which tells us why Washington, Gates and other generals moved as they did move, and which tells us all about the resources upon which the armies and civilian officials depended for their maintenance.

A full century elapsed before the congress authorized the publication of the diplomatic correspondence of the revolution, without an understanding of which no complete history could have been written concerning that period. In 1888 the publication was authorized, and it is in six volumes. These volumes are to be found in the congressional library, the department of state, and in a few of the libraries in the great cities of the land; but very few earnest students of history have access to them. The congress ought to have them printed by the hundreds of thousands, and send them broadcast to the people, instead of sending their own political speeches, which are of infinitely less consequence.

The report of the committee on printing, which has been loaned to the writer, says: "A knowledge of the revolutionary diplomatic correspondence is essential to the understanding of our revolutionary history, and of the treaties executed during and at the close of the revolution, which form in large measure the basis of our international law. This correspondence shows the movement of the French politicians in 1776 to supersede Washington by Marshal Broglie; the movement of the American politicians in 1776-77 to induce Washington's withdrawal and to have Franklin recalled from Paris; the atrocities of British troops, and of refugees in the United States put forward by our diplomatists as a claim against Great Britain, and a set-off against British claims for indemnity to loyalists; the extent to which the fisheries were controlled by American fishermen, prior to the revolution; and, what is still more important, how general was the understanding between the negotiators that the treaty of 1782-'83 was not a treaty by concession by Great Britain, but of partition, under which the United States retained all the territorial rights previously possessed by them in North America when part of the British empire.

"It also shows the intrigues against Washington, and sets forth the unique majesty of Washington, which compelled those who intrigued against him, when they came into his presence and saw him in the solitude of his grandeur, if not to become, as was the case with De Kalb, loyal adherents, at least to sullenly acquiesce in the supremacy which they were forced to concede.

"It further shows George III.'s character for falsehood and dissimulation, and gives that letter of Franklin in which he says of Arnold: 'He seems to mix as naturally with that polluted court (England) as pitch with tar.'"

Careful perusal of these interesting and valuable volumes makes it very clear that our diplomacy was in great measure financial economy. We required funds which would inspire France with confidence in our cause and Great Britain with dread. By the use of arguments drawn from finance and war, our diplomatists sustained themselves in their discussions with neutral powers. Franklin, at Paris, was a sort of subsecretary of the treasury, negotiating loans, and not merely our diplomatic agent.

For example, under date of November 29, 1776, Silas Deane wrote to the committee on secret correspondence: "Let me by every letter urge on you the sending of a quantity of tobacco, rice, flour and wheat. Twenty thousand hogsheads of tobacco are this instant wanted in France, besides the demand in other kingdoms." And in another letter he says: "A loan of six or eight millions will probably enable you to finish the war. This I am confident may be negotiated on terms which I will propose hereafter. The present contest has engaged the attention of all Europe in favor of the United States, the Russians on the north, and Portugal, in the south, excepted; I make no consideration of the mercenary little electorates in my calculation. You may smile and recollect the sale of the bearskin in the fable, but, at the same time, you must be sensible that your wants are real, and if others can be induced to relieve them, it is indifferent to you whether they have a consideration in hand or in prospect."

This diplomatic correspondence sets forth all of the views and ideas of the numerous interested patriots for the purpose of raising revenue; and from the complex mass one is selected to show to what extreme lengths they were willing to go, in order to succeed in their war for liberty. It seems absurd to-day, but Mr. Deane was very much in earnest when he wrote: "I trace the Ohio river from its junction to its head, to Lake Erie, Fort Detroit, thence west to the Mississippi and return to the place of departure. These three lines of near a thousand miles each include an immense territory, in a fine climate, well watered and, by accounts, exceedingly fertile; it is not inhabited by any Europeans of consequence, and the tribes of Indians are inconsiderable, and will decrease faster than the lands can possibly be called for cultivation."

The vast empire is thus well described, and then he proceeds to give it away, give away Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, or parts of those magnificent sovereign states: "To this I ask your attention as a resource amply adequate, under proper regulations, for defraying the expense of the whole war." Then he proceeds to tell how a company should be formed, the congress retaining one-fifth interest in the scheme. He says:

"These are the outlines of a proposed grant, which, you see, contains more than 25,000,000 acres of land, the one-fifth of which, if a settlement is carried on vigorously, will soon be of prodigious value. At this time a company might be formed in France, Germany, etc., who would form a stock of £100,000 to defray the expense of this settlement. You want money, and by holding up thus early to view a certain fund on which to raise it, even the most certain in the world, that of land security, you may obtain the loan and engage the moneyed interests of Europe in your favor. I have spoken with many persons of good sense on this subject, which makes me the more sanguine."

Wouldn't it jar you, just to think of selling off three sovereign states for $500,000? In Chicago, or in any one of a score of cities now flourishing in that domain, are hundreds of men who can write their checks for that amount of money; and there are several men there now who would cheerfully give that amount to their country, if it were needed. But honest old Silas Deane could not foresee, nor even imagine, what tremendous probabilities there were in that 25,000,000 acres.

Arthur Lee, while at Berlin, June 26, 1777, wrote that his bureau had been broken open and some papers stolen. He fixes the crime upon the English ambassador: "Upon being informed that I was gone to the governor, and that suspicion fell upon one of his servants, the ambassador went away in great confusion, and in half an hour the port feuille, with all the papers, was laid down at the door and the person ran off undisturbed. The examinations taken show that his servant repeatedly told other servants at the hotel that his master would give 2,000 ducats for my papers. The whole is before the king. The return of the papers, (those which he particularly wanted not having been left in the bureau) disappointed him of his object, while the whole odium rests upon him. He will do better next time and his court will no doubt encourage him. Public ministers have been regarded as spies. Mr. Elliott (British ambassador) will give them the title of robbers."

The scoundrel did not dare to look an American citizen in the face. Two years later Paul Jones wrote to La Fayette: "I must tell you that Mr. Elliott was furious when he found my business at Copenhagen, and that I was received with great distinction at court and in all the best societies in Denmark. Every time I was invited to sup with the king Elliott made an apology; he shut himself up for more than a month, and then left town."

These interesting excerpts from the diplomatic history of the revolution but slightly set forth the value of the rare publication; and the volumes can only be secured by congressional enactment for additional printing.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Tassels and Braid Pendants Revived.

Tassels and braids and gold and silver trimmings abound on day frocks as well as on evening wraps. They are a pretty finish and have a smartness all their own. These dainty trimmings will remain in vogue many a day, for they are of great value in the construction of a smart garment.

Moleskin coats seem to have entered on another year of popularity. Some of the less expensive furs are being trimmed with white and pale colored cloths adorned with embroidery.

Hats have never been prettier. Some women experience the greatest difficulty in procuring a hat to suit them, which, as a rule, means that they will not pay enough for their millinery. It it better to have one good hat than three bad ones and cheaper in the long run.

Nothing so makes or mars the appearance of a costume as the hat. The small turban toque is the smartest thing brought out for many a day, as is the French sailor with its upturned brim and its jaunty bow of velvet on the hair behind. White is very desirable, especially for a dark haired person.

A long spray of orchids suitable for an evening gown is shown in the cut.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR DRESSY OCCASIONS.

Useful Net Gowns—The Capacious Theater Bag.

Blouses, high or low or with a dressy amount of transparency, are made in all the popular nets, and, as every modish woman possesses one or two separate slips, the evening toilet only requires a little care in its selection to be a great deal more effective than when made by the average dressmaker.

The new fur tippets are charming to wear at the theater in the evening over a pale colored gown. However, they are cumbrous over a smart evening cloak and totally inadequate without one. The best thing is a three-quarter paletot, very wide and loose and with openings at the side.

The domino of rich material has capabilities as an evening wrap, and one of pale yellow merveilleux, with very slight alteration, has been so transformed that it is greatly admired. The hood of lace is now fastened by jet ornaments, and the girdle of jet now forms the fastening at the neck.

The cut shows a bride's dress.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PRETTY FABRICS.

Panne For Evening Gowns—Pompadour Taffeta.

Panne is a beautiful fabric, but its wearing properties are not great, though for evening wear they are good enough.

Some extremely pretty frocks for girls are made in flowered crepe de chine, and there are some very wonderful novelties in the way of nets and gauze.

Pompadour taffeta—that is to say, plain taffeta grounds with floral designs thereon—are most attractive. They make charming ball frocks and in the end are a far more economical investment than tulle or net.

Some of today's finest confections in the world of dress no words could do justice to. As for furs, one needs to spend a small fortune on them, but if it is impossible to do this some compensation is offered us in the new squirrel and musquash coats, which are obtainable cheap and are so smart when worn with discretion.

A smart floral garniture is shown in the cut. It is of mingled red and pink poppies.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VISITING TOILETS.

Cloth In Pale Shades Popular—Incrustations of Lace.

Pretty afternoon visiting toilets are made in very fine faced cloths in pale shades. There is again a revival of the pastel tones which look charming for house frocks and for formal occasions during the winter. They may not be economical, but they are elegant, particularly when trimmed with guipure and incrustations of fur, for simple as are tailor made frocks the afternoon toilets are full of detail and elaborations.

Incrustations of guipure, embroidery and fur are a distinct feature of the season's dress, especially for evening wear, and very often the lace is jewelled.

Emerald green, cerise and a lovely shade of rose pink are popular, but those women who look best in pale grays, faint mauves and pastel blues are wise to remain faithful to these tints. Fashion changes so quickly that it is foolish to invest in a color which does not suit one simply because it is the mode.

There are certain combinations of which we never tire—for instance, white velvet or thick cream oriental satin trimmed with sable and old lace. Satin fur and lace form a combination which is never out of style.

The cut shows a French waist made of pale blue silk and Russian lace.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"Hurrah!" shouted Sidney. "Once more and we are all right!" As he spoke a mountain of water welled up from the ocean. Sidney gave it one glance. He knew the moods of the sea too well to make any mistake about that wave. Fifty feet away it reared its crest. Dark blue and blending green above it rose until it towered above their heads.

"Dive into it!" cried Sidney, as the edge of the comber broke into dazzling white.

Mr. Kent hesitated for a moment, but Sidney dived straight into the breaker. For a few seconds, which seemed minutes, his ears were filled with the crash of waters. The undertow pulled him down as if he were a straw. It seemed as if the weight of tons was holding his down; but, with a lusty stroke he came to the surface. He shook the water out of his eyes and looked for Mr. Kent. He was not in sight!

Sidney raised himself out of the water as high as possible and searched the foam-flecked water. The succeeding wave swept over him. Like all good swimmers, he kept his eyes open when under water. To the right he saw the dark outlines of some dark object, and struck out for it.

As Sidney came to the surface the second time, he saw Mr. Kent only a few yards away. He was conscious and was struggling desperately but wildly to keep afloat. In a moment Sidney was by his side. The next wave did not break and both had a breathing spell.

HE WAS STRUGGLING DESPERATELY.

"Throw your left arm across my back and hang to my shirt," said Sidney, as he passed his arm under Mr. Kent's chest. "Keep cool; we are all right."

Mr. Kent did not for a moment lose his nerve or his self-control. He did as Sidney directed, grasping his shirt with a firm hold and using his right hand to aid in swimming. Three times they went below in the boiling surf, but they made slow yet steady progress towards the inlet. Mr. Kent did not reply in answer to Sidney's reassuring words, but devoted all his energies to keeping above water.

At last they passed the danger point, and reached the quiet waters, where the shattered surges rolled with a gentle swell. Mr. Kent glanced back and released his hold.

"I'm all right," he said. "Much obliged."

Mr. Kent struck out for the raft, which was bobbing up and down in the water a few rods away. Sidney swam at his side and soon climbed aboard the raft. He helped Mr. Kent to his feet, and then swam for the paddles, which were floating toward the rocks. He recovered them and was again safe on the raft.

"Are you all right, Mr. Kent?" asked Sidney, as he grasped the hand of his companion and shook it earnestly.

"I am all right, except that I have a quart or more of salt water in my stomach," said Mr. Kent, who seemed more chagrined than hurt. "It is a lucky thing for me that you are a strong swimmer. I could not have kept up. You saved my life, Hammond. I don't know how to thank you for a little thing like that."

"Don't try," said Sidney, laughing heartily. "I am glad you are not injured. How did it happen?"

"Like a fool, I did not take your advice and dive in time," said Mr. Kent. "I thought the raft would ride that wave, and so I took a chance. It tipped squarely over and when I tried to jump my foot slipped. The raft came over right on top of me, and for a moment I was stunned. I don't know how long I was under water. The first thing I remember was when you yelled in my ear. I knew enough to do as I was told. In my time, I have helped persons out of the water, and have not forgotten the rules. The next wave would have fixed me. I could not get my breath, and was losing my strength."

They soon were on shore; removed their garments, wrung them out, and remained in the shade of a tree until their clothing was dried sufficiently to wear. Mr. Kent would listen to no proposition involving an immediate return to the bungalow, and stoutly declared he was as well as ever. After an hour's rest they proceeded to climb the slope of the rock which formed the north portal of the gateway. It was a long, hard struggle over the rocks and through brush and briars. But they kept on and at last stood on the summit of the crag, 400 feet above the ocean.

"Look at that!" exclaimed Sidney.

He pointed in the direction where there was a cleft in the ridge of hills to the northwest. There showed the faint outlines of a distant giant mountain peak; a pyramid whose top was white with eternal snow.

"See that mountain peak!" he exclaimed. Mr. Kent's eyes were not so good as Sidney's, but he soon made out the outlines of a mountain.

"That peak is about 150 miles from here," said Sidney in great joy. "It must be on the mainland of Mexico or Central America. There are no ranges on any islands with peaks like that. We are within sight of shore. That mountain is a long way off, but I do not believe that it can be more than 150 miles. It looks like a volcano. I imagine I can see a column of smoke above it. With a favoring wind we can make the mainland in a day. This is great. We can build a boat and get away from this island in less than two weeks at the most."

"It certainly looks as if you are right," said Mr. Kent. "I wonder how big this island is?"

They studied the shape of the coast, but it gave no answer to Mr. Kent's question. From where they stood it was apparent no exploration of the shore from below was possible. Even at low tide the ocean beat at the foot of the rocks, casting its spray far up their sides. In places, the never-resting waves had worn caverns into the cliffs. They determined to make an attempt to reach the northern ridge of hills by skirting the brow of the cliffs, but postponed this until after luncheon. This they ate with good appetite, and luckily found a spring of clear, cool water bubbling from the crevice of a rock.

"Simon Pence is a queer character," observed Sidney, tossing a banana skin over the cliff. "I suppose he means well, but he is what some people call a little 'near.'"

"Did you ever hear of the time the committee waited on him to get a contribution for some charity?" asked Mr. Kent.

Sidney had not.

GRAND ARMY HONORS.

Eastern Veterans Think They Should Go to Gen. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, This Year.

Pennsylvania's candidate, Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, is considered a certainty for commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The encampment will meet in Washington in October, and in the meantime the friends of Gen. Stewart will make an active canvass for delegates, of whom there are 1,500.

Gen. Stewart is the only aspirant for grand army honors who has been indorsed by the state encampment. In addition to that support the general has received hundreds of letters and voluntary pledges from grand army leaders and delegates. His candidacy last year was defeated by Gen. Stewart's absence from Cleveland because of illness. Eli Torrance, who was elected commander in chief, is Gen. Stewart's friend, and the same forces, it is expected, will be back of the Pennsylvanian this year.

Since the organization of the grand army Gen. Stewart has been prominently identified with it. He was commander of Zook post, No. 11, of Norristown, in which town he lives. He was assistant inspector general in 1880 and assistant adjutant general to Commander in Chief Robert B. Beath in 1883, and also to Commander in Chief J. P. S. Gobin in 1897, James L. Sexton and W. C. Johnson in 1898, and Albert D. Shaw in 1899. He was Pennsylvania department commander in 1897.

During the civil war Gen. Stewart served with the One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Pennsylvania volunteers, enlisting when 16 years of age. In civil life he served as a member of the house of representatives in 1885. He was elected secretary of internal affairs in 1886, and was reelected in 1890. He was appointed adjutant general by Gov. Hastings in 1895, which post he has filled since.

QUEEN OF SOCIETY.

Beautiful Duchess of Devonshire Reigns Supreme in Great Britain's Social Sphere.

The duchess of Devonshire, who is one of the royal guests at Windsor for Ascot, is now recognized as the queen of society after royalty. If there had been any doubt of it before her supremacy received the royal cachet in the Derby week, when she was permitted to entertain the queen to dinner while the king entertained the jockey club. Her supremacy, however, was really recognized by society some time ago when she took the lead in "getting up" the present form "ladies in society" of a diamond tiara to the then princess of Wales on the occasion of her silver wedding. The duchess is very keen on politics, a skillful player at bridge and devoted to music.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE. (Recognized by Everybody as England's Social Leader.)

The duke of Devonshire, who, it is intimated in dispatches from London, will succeed Lord Salisbury as prime minister of England, has had a remarkable career. His wife is one of the most brilliant women in Great Britain, and long has been acknowledged the leader in nobiliary society.

As the marquis of Hartington the duke was Gladstone's right-hand man, but he broke away from the great leader on the question of giving home rule to Ireland, and has since been a guiding force of the liberal unionist party, which has outtoried the tories in its jingoism.

Englishmen Like Cocoa.

Cocoa is running a close race with tea as a beverage in England. It is on account of taxation. Tea is taxed sixpence a pound, while the tax on cocoa is only a penny a pound, and the cheapness of the latter has caused many to begin using it.

Longevity Among Royalty.

Europe has five reigning princes who are over 80 years old, and nine others who are more than 70.

DEFEATED Y. M. C. A. BOWLERS IN THREE GAMES.

The Park Club Team Increased Its Lead in Every Game and Won Easily.

The Park Club bowling team of five members, entertained the Y. M. C. A. team on the club alleys, last evening. In each game the visitors lost by an increased number of pins.

In the first game both rolled poorly, the individual scores being very ordinary. The visitors lost the game by 101 pins. In the second game the home team began to show its real strength and won with 195 pins to spare. In the third game the Parks rolled in the old-time form and Dr. Thiers brought the total up to a high mark by making a double header. This game was won by the Parks with 249 pins to spare.

A return game on the Y. M. C. A. alleys has been scheduled for Friday evening, February 6, when it is hoped that the Y. M. C. A. team will make a better showing. The scores of last evening's games follow:

WANTS SKATERS TO UNITE

NEED OF ORGANIZATION TO SECURE BETTER SKATING FACILITIES.

"Fresh Air" Points Out Troubles With the Several Local Skating Ponds.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The ice on Tier's pond New Year's day was miserable, yet the pond was crowded from early morning until late in the evening. Little tots on double runners mingled with their elder brothers and sisters, and a goodly number of adults took an airing, and talked over the days when they and their Sunday girls sported on ice that Jack Frost might have been proud of, and went home with appetites that only an old-fashioned dinner would satisfy. Numbers of girls, some of an older growth, gave a dash of color to the ever changing scene. Arrayed in bright colored sweaters they skimmed along with surprising grace, considering the iniquitous condition of the ice.

A rather rowdy element, around with hockey sticks, regardless of the welfare of others, spent the day dashing after some inoffensive stone, or friendless condensed milk can. This class is altogether too numerous and something should be done to restrict it. Hockey is all right when properly played, and when played in its proper space, but the place is not amongst a crowd of skaters, many of whom are ladies and children.

The proportion of adult skaters in Plainfield is small when compared with other towns of its size. This is due, I think, to there being no organization, and consequently no care taken of the ice or its surroundings. There are many hundreds of adults in this vicinity, who engaged in business during the day, would gladly welcome an hour's exercise on shining steel on a well lighted pond or rink.

Now, Mr. Editor, please "shake up the dry bones" and let's see if something cannot be done regarding a decent skating resort. Fresh Air.

Divorce Set Aside.

The divorce obtained last June by Frederica M. Poillon against her husband, John J. H. Poillon, wherein his wife's cousin was named as correspondent, was set aside yesterday by Justice McLaughlin in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, on the ground that good character cannot be destroyed by such evidence as the plaintiff offered. The principals in the case are former residents of this city.

Getting New Members.

DOG ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL

Huge Mastiff Beaten Off by Milkman After Attacking Little Esther Wolff.

HER INJURIES SERIOUS

Chas. O. Smith Was Driving Along Grove Street Saturday Afternoon When He Heard Child's Screams —Faced Dog With Whip and Finally Drove It Away.

Charles O. Smith, a milkman, saved a child from being horribly mangled by a large mastiff dog Saturday afternoon on Grove street. Before he was able to get the child from the enraged animal part of her scalp was torn off and she was terribly scratched and bruised about the chest and body where the animal had torn he clothing and lacerated her flesh.

Smith was driving along Grove street after he had finished his day's work when at the corner of Craig place he heard a child scream and call "Mamma" as though in pain, and at the same time he heard the angry growls of a dog. He turned out of his way and on passing around a corner he saw a great mastiff dog tearing at the child's clothing and making vicious grabs for her head, the hair of which had already been pulled out in large quantities.

He immediately jumped out of the wagon and ran towards the animal with his whip and instead of running away the dog stood over the child and showed its teeth at the approaching dairyman. Smith rushed up to the dog and lashed it with the whip until the whip broke. Then the dog turned on him but was finally beaten off with the but end of the whip. The child was placed in the wagon, cut and bleeding from the wounds on her head and body, and was taken to her home on Somerset street. She was able to tell the milkman that her name was Esther Wolff and lived at 85 Somerset street.

The child's mother went into hysterics when her child was brought into the house bleeding and it was some minutes before she was made to understand what was the matter as she thought Smith had run over her with his wagon.

The child's father, August A. Wolff, is a tailor and has a shop at 85 Somerset street. When seen this morning he said to a reporter, who called, that his child was very badly injured about the head and body. Asked if there were any indications of blood poisoning he answered that he did not know, but that his child was suffering greatly from the injuries received and that he thought that she was injured internally.

Smith until recently lived on Somerset street but now resides on West Fourth street. He is a member of Warren Engine Engine Company and yesterday was the recipient of congratulations at the hands of his friends for his bravery.

Friends of Mr. Wolff started an investgation Saturday afternoon to find out who owns the dog but so far they have not been successful. According to Smith, the dog is a valuable one as he remembers seeing a large handsome collar about its neck.

LIFE AND CUSTOMS IN JAPAN

WERE TOLD OF BY J. DUNBAR WRIGHT IN A DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.

Given in Casino Under Auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Japan, the "land of the Cherry Blossoms" was pictured and talked of in a delightful manner to a large audience at the Casino, Saturday night. Under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, of Muhlenberg Hospital. J. Dunbar Wright gave the lecture, the pictures being reproductions of those he secured himself while travelling through the Orient. The proceeds of the affair will be for the benefit of the city's sick institution.

A close observer and with an eye for the beautiful Mr. Wright secured plenty of material for his talk while on a pleasure trip and the result was seen in every part of the recital. Most of the illustrations were of the Japanese themselves and the cherry blossom groves. The every day life of the natives, both in city and county, was depicted, those of the children being especially characteristic. Much of the lecturer's material was secured in Yokohoma and Nagasaki and his hearers were given a keen insight of the routine and appearance of the far away cities. In his speech Mr. Wright is very entertaining and unlike many of those of the professional platform he never allowed interest in his subject to lag. Altogether the lecture was highly successful and thoroughly enjoyed.

Covers were laid for thirty in the private dining hall, the decorations of the table being red and green. After partaking of an elaborate menu, the Shakesperians bade farewell to their generous host and hostess, and turned their faces homeward, with unanimous expressions of delight.

The members of the club present on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. James R. LEGISLATURE TO MEET AT TRENTON TOMORROW

Some of the Questions to be Considered at This Winter's Session.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

MESSAGE WILL BE A DOCUMENT OF UNUSUAL INTEREST.

Passaic Purification, Ballot Machines, Primary Reform, State Surplus Are Among the Issues to be Considered.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 12—The State Legislature will convene at the State House tomorrow. The preliminaries to organization have all been arranged so that the members may begin business without any interruption due to political differences. Governor Murphy's first annual message will come before the Legislature. This will undoubtedly prove a highly interesting and an extremely important document.

There are a number of State matters about which the Governor may be expected to have something important to say. First in importance to Newark and Essex county is the Passaic valley sewage relief plan.

In this connection there will be much public and legislative discussion of the question of State aid. All kinds of projects are springing up for the distribution to many municipalities in the State of the surplus now carried in the State Treasury.

An effort will again be made this year to wipe out the collateral inheritance tax. This is a tax on all bequests that must be paid to the State, and it is claimed that the tax often proves a great hardship. The sum realized by the State varies, but it has reached $100,000 or $125,000 yearly. There is great interest in primary election reform. A special commission has this subject under consideration and will make its report to the Governor. The question has been thoroughly canvassed, and the commission will have direct and important recommendations to make.

The substitution of the voting machine for the present method of balloting at popular elections is a prominent subject for legislation. The use of the voting machine would be a long step in the progress of the State. The Governor's special commission has reported on this matter and finds the voting machine a feasible and perfectly reliable affair. The State may have to bear the cost of substituting the machine for the ballot box if the substitution is to be made.

The interior of the State House has been redecorated, and presents a very handsome appearance. The old Senate chamber has been demolished, and the Senate this year is to convene in the Chancery chamber, on the second floor, and will hold its sessions there. The new Senate chamber will not be ready for occupancy until next year.

TWENTY-THREE CAKES.

Disposed of at Cake Sale of Young Women of Trinity Church.

A successful cake sale was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. S. Potter, of East Second street, under the auspices of the emergency committee of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church. In all twenty-three cakes were sold bringing a profit of between $11 and $12. The money will be placed in the emergency fund to be used for a special appeal from the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church for the work in Arabia.

The committee in charge of the sale consisted of Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman; Mrs. Zeisz, Mrs. Alfred Baker, Miss Cora Laire, Miss Alice Pugh and Miss Grace Rowland, while Mrs. H. S. Potter, as president of the band, gave assistance by opening her house for the sale and helping in other ways.

No Evening Service.

Owing to the stormy weather last evening no service was held at the First M. E. church. Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass and a very few people gathered, but it was thought best not to hold a regular service. At the suggestion of the pastor the people went to other services.

Two Strong Sermons.

Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders preached two sermons yesterday to large and appreciative audiences in the First Baptist church. His discourse last evening was on faith and was listened to by a large congregation, considering the weather.

BENEDICTS WIN FINAL MATCH WITH BACHELORS

Secured the Last Game by the Narrow Margin of Four Pins.

ON PARK CLUB ALLEYS

A MEMBER OF THE BACHELORS TEAM MADE A RECORD SCORE.

The Game Was Exciting Throughout—The Usual Social Period Was Held and Refreshments Were Served at the Close.

The Benedicts, in the third and deciding bowling match against the Bachelors on the Park Club alleys, proved their claim to supremacy by winning the match. The game was rolled Saturday evening and the married men won by a margin of four pins. A week ago the same team was victorious by a margin of eight pins, and although the lead was cut in half, the final score shows that the winners rolled a strong game throughout. Though the married men claim victory, the single fellows take satisfaction in knowing that one of their number, Morris J. Dumont, made a record for the alleys at "cocked hat." His score was 45 and so far as is known this has not been equaled before on the Park alleys.

F. O. Ball distinguished himself by making a score of 33, while Dr. Thiers sustained his reputation by rolling a score of 31. In only three instances did the Benedicts roll below 20, and this was true of their opponents. There was plenty of cheering throughout, and the closeness of the scores made the tournament very exciting. This gives the married men two of the three games rolled and they naturally feel proud over their victories.

After the game the usual time followed and refreshments were served. Mrs. Irene S. Murray and Mrs. George D. Hallock presided at the table and they were assisted by others of the club.

The scores made in the "cocked hat" tournament were as follows:

BENEDICTS.		BACHELORS.
F. O. Ball	33	Morris Dument	45
W. Guiford	17	Morgan Townsend	23

NO SALOON AT JUNCTION

COURT REFUSED TO GRANT LICENSE FOR ONE NEAR TROLLEY BARNS.

Judge Vail Heard Applications at Saturday Morning's Session of Court.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 12—License applications from the townships throughout the county occupied the attention of Judge Vail at a special session of court, Saturday morning. The requests of George Earl and Charles Warner to keep inns and taverns at Linden and Union were granted.

Those of Frank Shafer, for a bar at the Rahway Junction of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railroad, where the company's barns are located, and Abel Bonnet, for one at Clark, were refused. The court declared that one at the former place was not needed and the second was denied on the ground that one of the twelve signers to the application was not a freeholder.

The application of Frank Nichols, of Fanwood, was laid over until Friday and that of Thomas McDonald, for an inn at Cranford, was adjourned until January 28.

Starving.

Rev. W. T. Griffin, of East Seventh street, preached a sermon last evening in Trinity Reformed church, taking for his subject, "The Starving of the Soul." Mr. Griffin was very earnest in his discourse and left a good impression on the mind of his audience which was large, considering the stormy weather.

Short Prayer Service.

Preceding the regular preaching service at Trinity Reformed church, last evening, a short prayer service was held at 7 o'clock. L. W. Randolph was the leader and, while the attendance was small owing to the very stormy weather, the meeting was a very helpful one.

BOWLERS ARE PAIRED FOR PARK'S TOURNEY

Individual Ten-Pin Tournament to Start at Park Club Saturday Evening.

PLANNED ON NEW LINES

THIRTY-TWO MEMBERS OF THAT CLUB WILL CONTEST FOR TROPHY.

Will be Played by Rounds on Lines Similar to Tennis and Golf Tournaments—Play of Finals Will be Made a Social Event.

Owing to the illness of Allan B. Laing, chairman of the committee on bowling of the Park Club, there has been some delay in starting the annual individual bowling tournaments at that club but plans are now underway which will see the start in the handicap ten-pin tournament Saturday night and the "cocked-hat" a little later. President Charles L. Nichols has appointed F. O. Ball chairman of a special committee to take charge of the tournaments and Mr. Ball and his assistants have lost no time in making their arrangements.

A decided innovation is to be made this year in the method of conducting the ten-pin tournament. As usual, it will be handicap. Instead of the round-robin schedule in which each player meets every other player, it will be conducted by rounds on the same principle as tennis or golf tournaments, each round disposing of half the contestants and the winners pairing off together for the next round. Each match will be decided by the best two out of three games.

Thirty-two entries have been received and handicaps allotted. Play will beign Saturday night and many of the members are devoting more than the usual time to bowling in preparation for the event. In order that the tournament may go off promptly, a time limit has been fixed for each round. All games not played within that limit will be forfeited to the player who is ready. The dates have been fixed as follows: First round, February 7; second round, February 21; third round, March 7; semi-finals, March 14. The finals must be played off some evening between March 14 and 28, at least four days notice being given to the bowling committee. The intention is to make the finals an informal social event at the clubhouse. A trophy will be presented to the winner.

Handicaps and pairings for the first round were announced Saturday night as follows: Edmund Rushmore, 0, and Harry Curtis, 20; J. I. Taylor, 25, and B. S. Rockwell, 5; H. D. Hibbard, 0, and Morgan T. Townsend, 0; William A. Townsend, 0, and William R. Faber, 0; R. T. Willis, 0, and Laurens H. VanBuren, 0; Arthur Peck, 0, and A. L. C. Marsh, 10; C. Everett Murray, 20, and Frank S. Curtis, 25; Theo. Maxwell, 20, and John Valiant, Jr., 25; William Barlow, 10, and Charles B. Morse, 25; A. W. Kenworthy, 20, and Edward Overton, 10; Dr. Charles R. Thiers, 0, and William A. DeLong, Jr., 30; E. M. Daniel, 10, and F. O. Ball, 0; J. C. Peck, 20, and J. P. Northrop, 15; J. Barlow, 20, and F. H. Ball, 10; Clifford W. McGee, 10, and Frank Rogers, 10; Herbert S. Rogers, 10, and Morris J. Dumont, 0.

Winners of the first and second matches, third and fourth and so on will meet in the second round and the winners then will meet under the same arrangement in the next round and so continuing until the contest is narrowed down to two and then the tournament finally won. The same handicaps will prevail throughout the tournament.

Blamed for Train Wreck.

According to a correspondent in the Washington Star, Roy Young, of this city, has been held responsible for the train wreck at Whitehouse siding which cost the New Jersey Central thousands of dollars and resulted in the death of two men. Young was a train dispatcher at Jersey City and is alleged to have issued conflicting orders. He has since been discharged and has moved to Bloomsbury.

Musical Treat.

The music-lovers of Elizabeth and vicinity are much interested in the musical treat to be given at Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, Tuesday evening, January 20, by Alma Webster-Powell, the well-known prima donna soprano and Signor Eugenio de Pirani, composer and pianist. A very select programme will be given. The prices will be popular.

LOCAL BANKERS THERE.

W. F. Arnold Elected a Trustee of New Jersey Bankers' Association.

The New Jersey Bankers' Association was organized in Newark Saturday under most favorable auspices. The objects of the association were stated in The Daily Press last week, being to bring the banking men of the State into more close touch with one another. Plainfield was represented among the eighty representatives from the various institutions by W. F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, and J. Herbert Case, secretary of the Plainfield Trust Company. Mr. Arnold was elected a member of the executive committee for a term of two years. Edward C. Stokes, of Millville, was elected president of the association.

SOCIETY FOLK AT A TEA

GIVEN IN HONOR OF MRS. J. GILMORE DRAYTON, OF THIS CITY.

Charming Affair Was Given by Mrs. R. Henry Depew at Her Home Last Saturday.

A tea in honor of Mrs. J. Gilmore Drayton was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Henry Depew, at the corner of Hillside and Evergreen avenues, when there were between seventy-five and a hundred people were present, including a large number from out of town. The tea was served between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

The rooms in which the tea was held were very tastefully decorated and presented a very attractive appearance. In the dining room the color effect was pink. Roses and carnations were arranged about the room in great profusion. In the living room the predominating color was red and was secured by a tasty arrangement of American beauty roses and red carnations while in the hall the decorations were of yellow jonquils which gave to the whole a rather novel effect.

Assisting Mrs. Depew and Mrs. Drayton, in receiving were: Mrs. E. Hammond, of Geneva, N. Y.; Mrs. Alexander Myle, of New York; Mrs. William Radford, of Yonkers; Miss Beulah Ewing, of Philadelphia; and Mrs. Frank S. Martin, Mrs A. D. Drayton, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mrs. Stuart Patterson, Mrs. A. W. Kneinecke and Miss Drayton.

Those who assisted in the dining room were: Mrs. T. D. Wilson, Miss Rodman, Miss Lucy Otterson, Miss Josephine Lapsley, Miss Elsie Martin, Miss Marjorie Fleming and Miss Helen Martin.

TO MAINTAIN COT.

Pond Tool Beneficial Association Considering Plans to Have Cot at Hospital—Officers Elected.

At a regular meeting of the Pond Tool Beneficial Association, held Saturday evening, the following officers were elected to serve one year: President, J. Fred Wharton; vice president, John King; secretary, Samuel J. Robinson; treasurer, George H. Batchelor; trustee for eighteen months, Patrick Nugent.

Responding to a communication from W. C. Kinney, of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, Edward Harding was appointed chairman of a committee of seven to devise means to contribute to the support of the institution. It is possible the society will maintain one or more cots.

PROTESTED AGAINST CANTEEN.

Senator Dryden Receives a Petition From W. C. T. U. of Plainfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12—In introducing a bill to restore the canteen in the army it was expected that Congressman Parker would provoke a storm of opposition from the temperance people throughout the country. Senator Dryden has received a petition from the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Plainfield protesting against the sale of liquor in government buildings or camps. It will be filed with the committee on military affairs of which Mr. Parker is a member, but as a majority of the committee feel that the restoration of the canteen will actually promote temperance in the army, protests of this sort will have little effect.

What They Say.

Gen. Horatio C. King, of New York city, says the following regarding Mr. Chapin's performance: "I was delighted with this most remarkable and lifelike impersonation of Mr. Lincoln. The entertainment is instructive, enjoyable, unique." Reserved seats will be on sale at Hodge's pharmacy this evening at 8 o'clock.

WORST DAY OF THIS WINTER

Icy Streets and Sidewalks With a Freezing Gale Make Progress Unpleasant.

DIFFICULT TO STAND

Man and Horse Have Been Having Their Troubles Between Ice and Wind—Great Demand for Sharp-Shod Horses—Snow Storm Left Undesirable Complications.

With sidewalks like skating rinks and the middle of the street not much better, progression about Plainfied this morning was not as pleasant as it might have been. Then a howling gale swept out of the north-west and chilled to the marrow those who were slipping and sliding along. Altogether it was the most uncomfortable day for pedestrians that has visited Plainfield this winter.

The trouble began yesterday morning when the snow began to fall as if it really had intentions of staying. But the temperature was against it. The mercury climbed steadily until the fast falling snow changed to a drenching rain and Sunday afternoon found the streets in horrible condition with a combination of slush and water. Although it came in the form of rain, it was ice on the walks and roads before it had been there very long. Towards evening, the mercury dropped again and what remained of the water was soon converted into ice.

Feet possessed a striking desire to move heavenward last evening and all but the very sure footed and a few of those sprawled out on sidewalk and street. The conditions were not a bit improved this morning. On the contrary, they were worse for the wind had risen and blew a gale. While the temperature was not very low, the cold wind made the day seem the worst of the winter. Horses as well as pedestrians had their troubles. While sharp shod horses managed to navigate after a fashion, the wagons slipped and slid so that driving became a fine art.

Manager Mills, of the United States Express Company, refused to allow any of his horses go out this morning and the most important packages were delivered on foot. A shipment of milk cans for a local dealer was delivered by a picturesque row of expressmen. Local blacksmiths are working over time and their shops are crowded with horses waiting to be shod.

In the borough the streets like those in town were like glass, and horses though they were sharp shod would slip and fall unless they were carefully guided. A large horse attached to the milk wagon of William Lindsley fell in front of William L. Smalley's butcher shop this morning and broke some of the harness.

As Street Committeeman James K. Arnold stepped out of his front door this morning a sudden gust of wind lifted his hat from his head and the last seen of it was when it turned gracefully around the next corner and was lost to view. The councilman deemed it wisest not to try to follow the hat as the streets were a trifle too slippery to allow for any one hundred yard dashes.

ICY PLUNGE.

Harry J. Kingsley, of East Fifth Street, Narrowly Escaped Drowning in Tier's Pond Saturday.

Harry J. Kingsley, of East Fifth street, an employe of the Scott Press Works, accompanied by several friends, went to Tier's pond Saturday afternoon to enjoy the skating. He determined to pass under the Sandford avenue bridge to the other side of that thoroughfare when the ice gave way and in a twinkling he was submerged up to his waist and was struggling in the water in an endeavor to keep himself from falling through all together.

By rare presence of mind he managed to throw his weight upon the ice as he fell and with the assistance of a number of bystanders he was able to crawl out none the worse for his wetting.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Assemblyman Williams, of Orange, has announced that his pigeon bill, which provides against the slaughter of pigeons by trap shooting sportsmen, will be introduced again on the first night of the session, and that he will "fight for it from the stump up." This is both gratifying and encouraging. Mr. Williams' bill passed the House last year, but never came to light after it was handed over to the Senate. It is a measure that ought to be passed, and the cruelties practiced in New Jersey by the New York pigeon slaughterers should be stopped. New York has such a law, and for this reason the alleged sports rush over to New Jersey.—Elizabeth Journal.

Because the Perth Amboy City Council favors one traction company, while a rival company has a strong pull with the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, the outlook is good for a long delay in the construction of the proposed wagon bridge across the Raritan at Perth Amboy, with possibly half a dozen law suits in the mean while. The conduct of the Perth Amboy officials in endeavoring to restrict the use of the bridge for trolley purposes to one favored company cannot be justified. Whether or not at this stage the Board of Freeholders can legally adopt a new approach to the bridge on the Perth Amboy side of the river is a disputed question, but if it has that power every consideration of public policy demands that it be exercised.—Newark News.

LITERARY.

The reviews of the last quarter's progress which constitute the main section of the January-March number of the Forum cover, as usual, the leading departments of public activity, especially in the United States. The most prominent place is given to Henry Litchfield West's review of "American Politics," including, of course, the Congressional elections, and this paper is closely followed by a similar account of "Foreign Affairs" from the pen of A. Maurice Low. "Applied Science," in its various phases, is treated by Henry Harrison Suplee. The present issue is completed by articles on "Waterways: an Economic Necessity," by Prof. Lewis M. Haupt, and on "The Passing of the American Indian," by Thomas F. Millard.

Field Marshal Viscount Wolseley, K. P., begins a very interesting series of four articles on "The Young Napoleon" in the January Cosmopolitan. Field Marshal Wolseley is today probably the ablest living military writer, and his work will be received with a wide welcome, not only from those interested in Napoleon's career but from all those who are interested in military affairs. Three other features in the January Cosmopolitan will attract attention. The first is a sketch of Russell Sage and his methods and the immense resources controlled by him. The second, a very able paper on Daniel Gray Reid and the men who have recently played so large a part in financial affairs in connection with the Rock Island Railroad. The third is by Representative Walter P. Brownlow, of Tennessee, on the movement to build one hundred million dollars' worth of good roads each year, one-third to be paid by the Government.

The January Magazine Number of the Outlook contains some six or eight illustrated articles besides full-page portraits, poems, a story and the usual very full editorial treatment of current history and literature. Hon. John D. Long contributes the third in his series of articles on "The New American Navy," called "The Organization and Education of the Navy" and the article is illustrated with an original drawing by Henry Reuterdahl and portraits. James Barnes, the author of several naval histories and stories, tells a strange chapter of United States history under the title, "The Tragedy of the Lost Commission," with quaint illustrations; "The Italian Immigrant in America" is a subject treated with special knowledge and wide human interest by W. E. Davenport, while the types of the Italians are shown by really fine photographs; a winter article, with strikingly beautiful pictures is contributed by Oscar von Engeln.

Proclamation of Peace Between Baseball Leagues.

NATIONALS AND AMERICANS UNITED

Agreement Reached at Cincinnati Will Prevent "Player Snatching"—Each League Is to Use the Same Rules.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—Following the adjournment Saturday night of the joint conference of committees of the National and American Baseball leagues at which peace was officially proclaimed, there was an informal conference of the national representatives here.

While the time was spent largely in festivities over the declaration of peace there was much talk about the meeting of the National league here on Jan. 19, one week hence. President Robinson of the St. Louis club, who still remains with President Herrmann of the Cincinnati club, said the meeting next week was called simply to say "amen" to the proclamation already made. It was stated by others that with five of the eight National league clubs already fully committed to indorsement no trouble was expected from Boston or the two clubs of Greater New York.

Among the questions informally discussed was the expected interchange of championship games between all teams of the National and American leagues, so that fifteen instead of seven visiting clubs would be seen at each place. This matter may be brought up at the National meeting here next week as well as at the American league meeting in New York next month.

Among other things, the agreement provides that contracts entered into between either league and players shall be considered binding; that no player shall be taken from one league without consent of the other; that there shall be no consolidation in cities where both leagues are represented by clubs; that the circuits of neither league shall be changed without the consent of the other; that each league shall use the same rules, and that playing schedules shall be arranged by a joint committee composed of three men from each league.

The circuits of each league shall consist of the following cities:

American League.—Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis.

National League.—Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Work on Cup Defender Delayed.

BRISTOL, R. I., Jan. 12.—Work on the new cup defender has been practically at a standstill for two weeks, the nonarrival of the steel angle beams putting a stop to all construction work. The steel is ordered from the Phenixville (Pa.) Iron works and has been expected daily for the last fortnight. Not a frame is in place, although the keel is already sheathed and prepared. It was hoped by Mr. Herreshoff to have had the framing well along by this time. There is also a scarcity of bronze plates here, not enough having arrived to plate more than a small portion of the hull.

Memphis Entries Large and Select.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 12.—The list of entries to the stakes of the new Memphis Jockey club's next spring meeting at Montgomery park, as announced by Secretary McFarlan, makes by far the largest and most select showing ever received here. Every division is filled with the best thoroughbreds the west can boast. A comparison of this and last year's entries shows an aggregate number of 611 nominations for the stakes to be decided at the coming meeting against 490 for last year's fixtures.

Canoeists at Sportsmen's Show.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—One of the features of the coming sportsmen's show to be held at Madison Square Garden Feb. 21 to March 7 will be a series of canoe tilting matches on the artificial lake which will occupy the center of the Garden. The prizes will include two paddling canoes and four gold medals. Tilting from canoes has long been a popular amusement at club meets, and the contests will be participated in by amateurs only.

Yale Crew's Head Coach.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—Captain A. B. Waterman of the Yale crew announces that Philip H. Kunzig of Philadelphia, captain of the 1902 crew, will be the head coach of the varsity crew this season. Mr. Kunzig will spend the greater part of the spring in this city, but the preliminary work will be under the supervision of Associate Coach John Kennedy.

American Cycle Reorganization.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Colonel Albert A. Pope, one of the receivers of the American Bicycle company, says that a majority of the company's bonds has been deposited under the reorganization plan, but that deposits of securities are still being received, so that all who desire to avail themselves of the plan may do so.

Vanderbilt Gets Ransch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—J. S. McDonald has paid $5,000 to Burns & Waterhouse for the release from the contract on Ransch, the jockey, and signed the boy to ride for W. K. Vanderbilt abroad at a salary, it is stated, of $10,000 a year, with the privilege of renewal for two more years.

WANT TAFT TO STAY

Demonstration In Governor's Favor at Manila.

HAS THE SUPPORT OF ALL PARTIES

Thousands March to the Palace, and Speakers Pay Him Warm Tributes of Praise—Ladrone Outbreak In Southern Luzon.

MANILA, Jan. 12.—The general regret of the Filipino people at the possible departure of Governor Taft resulted yesterday in a popular demonstration for the purpose of urging the governor to remain in the islands. The streets of Manila have been placarded with signs saying "We want Governor Taft" in English, Tagalog and Spanish. A crowd of 8,000 men marched to Malacanan palace, the governor's residence. Upon reaching the palace speeches were made by representatives of the Federal, Liberal and Nationalist parties in which the governor was urged to remain.

The speakers said Mr. Taft's presence was necessary to preserve order, for the prevention of political disruption and to insure the maintenance of the present policy. The speakers paid personal tributes to the governor, the crowd cheering its approval.

In replying to the addresses Governor Taft said it would not be decided whether he is to leave the islands or remain until next August. He assured the people that if he did leave the present policy of the American government would suffer no change, it being not a question of individual, but of national policy.

After the speeches the thousands of natives who filled the grounds of the palace broke into a cheer for the governor.

The fleet under Admiral Evans, continuing the naval maneuvers, has been practicing shooting at targets in Manila bay. The battleship Kentucky fired her 13 inch guns on Saturday. The reports of the practice have not yet been completed, but the average of hits is believed to have been high.

There has been an outbreak of ladronism in the province of Albay, southern Luzon. A large force is at present in the field pursuing the bandits, and additional constabulary have been dispatched to the province. The provincial officials report that they expect to disperse the robber bands within ten days.

Philippine Trade.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A statement compiled by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department from official returns shows that during the month of September, 1902, the imports of merchandise into the Philippine Islands amounted to $2,785,009, an increase of more than $500,000 over the corresponding month of 1901 and considerably above the average monthly value for nine months of the current year. The export trade of $3,589,535 is the largest of any single month since American occupation, the exportation of hemp alone amounting to over $2,500,000, practically three-fourths of which was sent to the United States. Sugar and tobacco shipments to all countries during the month aggregated $573,679.

Murdered and Robbed In the Street.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Edward Powers, a produce merchant, was killed at an early hour this morning by an unknown highwayman who attacked him on the street a few blocks from his home. Powers' body was found at daybreak by a policeman. Powers conducted several stalls in the West Philadelphia market and left there about midnight Saturday with $250 on his person. This money was missing when the body was found. His gold watch and chain had also been taken.

Letter Carrier Assaulted.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Jeffrey J. Ryan, a letter carrier connected with the central postoffice, was assaulted and brutally beaten by an unknown man when on his way home from the theater. The following morning upon reporting for work at the postoffice he collapsed and at the hospital was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain. He gave the convicting testimony recently in a criminal case in which the defendant, a member of a disreputable gang, was sent to prison for fifteen years for an unnatural crime.

Two Fall In a Duel.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 12.—In a pistol duel at a logging camp twelve miles from this city James Bryant, a principal, was killed and W. Dulaney, a bystander, was mortally wounded. Bryant and William Ates, the duelists, had a difficulty recently, and on meeting later renewed the quarrel. Pistols were brought into play, and Bryant fell at the first shot. Dulaney, who endeavored to prevent bloodshed, was struck by a bullet from Bryant's pistol.

Blaze In a Wood Plant.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 12.—Fire almost entirely destroyed the oldest portion of the W. Dewees wood plant of the American Sheet Steel company at McKeesport. The fire originated from a broken gas pipe, and the slight explosion which resulted from the break set fire to the wooden supports of the building. The fire will throw nearly one-third of the skilled employees out of work. Nine of the sixteen sheet mills will be thrown off for a week.

Last Trip Up the Hudson.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Navigation of the Hudson between New York and Newburg is closed. The steamer Ramsdell of the Central-Hudson line made the last trip of the season up the river yesterday. There is heavy ice between Newburg and Yonkers.

A HEAVY SNOWSTORM.

Upper New York State Generally Visited.

BUFFALO, Jan. 12.—About a foot of snow has fallen here. It was light and feathery, and there was no wind to drift it. Steam railroads report trains from the east running close to schedule time. Lake Shore mail trains from the west are from an hour to an hour and a half late. Unless a high wind springs up the storm will cause but little delay to traffic in this section of the state.

A dispatch from Syracuse says a blizzard prevailed there for several hours yesterday. A stiff wind piled the snow in huge drifts which made many of the highways impassable.

A dispatch from Cooperstown reports a heavy snowstorm throughout that section, more than a foot of snow having fallen.

Blizzard at Hoosick Falls.

NOT AN ANARCHIST.

Man Who Fired Shot In Madrid Did Not Attempt King's Life.

MADRID, Jan. 12.—Feito, the man who fired a pistol Saturday at one of the carriages in the royal procession in which the Duke of Sotomayer, the grand chamberlain, was supposed to be riding, has been examined again. His bearing during the question confirmed the previous reports that he is suffering from monomania. A careful official inquiry has shown that Feito is not connected with anarchists.

It was first reported that Feito had attempted to assassinate King Alfonso.

The minister of the interior has telegraphed to the prefects in the provinces that the attempt was directed against the grand chamberlain and not against the king. His majesty has received a host of royal and other congratulations upon his escape.

A dynamite bomb which was sent here by rail in a box from Barcelona has been found at the railroad station. All attempts to find the consignee of the box have been fruitless. The bomb reached here the day before the funeral of Senor Sagasta and is supposed to have been for use during the passage of the funeral cortege.

St. Louis People See the Pope.

ROME, Jan. 12.—The pope received Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benoit and members of their family and Mrs. A. J. Lindsay of St. Louis in private audience yesterday. A pretty incident occurred during the reception. The three-year-old daughter of the Benoits, who was present, caught sight of the apostolic ring on the pontiff's hand and suddenly demanded, "What is that big thing on his finger?" Mr. and Mrs. Benoit tried to hush the little girl, but the pope had noticed her question and expressed his pleasure at her interest. He caressed her and allowed her to examine the ring.

Citizens Hold Up a Coal Train.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 12.—Because there was a coal famine in the city and the dealers were unable to secure any coal a large number of citizens of Arcola held up a coal train of thirty cars on the Illinois Central road as it was passing through the town during the afternoon, uncoupled the engine and refused to allow the cars to proceed farther despite the efforts of the trainmen, aided by the local police. The citizens are willing to pay the value of the coal, but are determined to have it.

Waterbury Carmen Strike.

WATERBURY, Jan. 12.—All the motormen and conductors employed by the Connecticut Lighting and Power company in this city, numbering about 140, went on strike at midnight, since which time no cars have run in the city. The discharge of three men for violation of rules, the company alleges, was the cause of the strike. The employees demand their reinstatement and a new wage scale. Trolley connection with Naugatuck, Waterville and Oakville is cut off.

Holleben Has Nothing to Say.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Dr. von Holleben, the German ambassador to the United States, has sailed for Hamburg on the Hamburg-American liner the Graf Waldersee. Before boarding the vessel he was asked if he had any comment to make on the reports which had been circulated about his return to Berlin or his relations with the present administration. He said tersely that he had absolutely no comment to make.

Rapid Increase of Emigration.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The emigration for the year 1902 through Hamburg and Bremen amounted to 266,884 persons, an increase of 63,586 over 1901. The number of emigrants sailing from these ports has trebled since 1898. The majority go to the United States.

NEW YORK'S CANALS

Annual Report of Superintendent Boyd.

WATERWAYS FALL INTO DECLINE.

Lacking a Definite Policy, the Department Can Do Little Than "Postpone Disintegration."

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The annual report of the state superintendent of public works, now made public, covers the disbursements for ordinary repairs and operating expenses, trade and tonnage of the canals of the state during the season of navigation of 1902, the condition and the work of improvement connected therewith under special appropriations in progress or completed during the year ended Dec. 31, 1902, and the expenditures on account thereof.

"The canals as a whole are only now emerging," says Mr. Boyd, "from the chaotic condition in which they necessarily were left as a result of the hastily started and suddenly interrupted deepening improvement authorized by chapter 79 of the laws of 1895. That navigation has been maintained with so little interruption during the past four or five seasons, I believe, will be recognized by those familiar with the actual conditions as they have existed as due largely to good fortune."

The antiquity of structures leads to an accelerating rate of decay, and the best the department can do, Mr. Boyd says, is to "postpone disintegration." The absence of a definitely understood canal policy has made more difficult the problem of maintenance.

"There has been a desire," says Mr. Boyd, "which still obtains to expend no money in repairs of an elaborate character which would not avail in case of an enlarged or reconstructed canal. The hopeful feeling which is very general that the state is very soon to define its policy with respect to future treatment of the canals and having defined it to enter upon the prosecution of the plans determined upon encourages me in the belief that the problem involved in what I have here set forth will not have to be met face to face, but that it may thus be evaded."

The opening of the canals last year was earlier than in twenty years previous, and navigation was maintained until Dec. 4, largely for coal shipments. In spite of the lengthened season the total tons carried was only 3,274,446 as against 3,420,613 tons in 1901, a falling off of 146,167 tons. This loss is more than accounted for in through freight, for whereas there was an increase in way freight east of 84,976 tons the total decrease in through freight was 210,619 tons, the loss being about equally divided between eastern and western shipment.

The superintendent recommends that the amount to be provided for extraordinary repairs and improvements be not less than $275,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 12.—All arrangements have been perfected for the National Live Stock association, which, with the National Wool Growers' association and the National Association of Railroad Live Stock Agents, will meet in convention in this city this week. The three conventions will attract 7,000 persons directly connected with them, besides a host of others interested in the live stock business. A fund of $20,000 has been raised for the entertainment of the visitors. The live stock convention will begin its sessions tomorrow and will continue Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The Wool Growers will meet Saturday.

Severe Storm In Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 12.—Lower Michigan has been in the grasp of a snowstorm that in the western part of the state assumed the proportions of a blizzard. Lake Michigan was lashed by a forty miles an hour wind into a condition that made it impossible for any of the boats to leave their ports for Chicago. At Benton Harbor the street car service is stalled, and trains on the M. B. H. and C. railway had to be abandoned. Three Rivers and Niles report a blizzard, the temperature very low and trains delayed by the snow.

SCHOOL DECORATION.

Some of our forefathers had rather peculiar notions regarding the schools of the land which, from the modern point of view, were decidedly wrong. Among other things, they appear to have believed in keeping the walls of the school room as bare and plain as possible save for the necessary adjuncts including the blackboard and a map or chart. The idea of appealing to the artistic tastes of the children by presenting to their view good pictures or other artistic decorations seems to have been much frowned upon. It is encouraging to note, however, that those ideas have gone and that the educational authorities now see the wisdom of making the school room a place pleasing to the eye instead of a close resemblance to a prison.

Along this line, it is interesting to note that the city schools are soon to be improved by the addition of a number of photographs of famous works of art. While it is not to be expected that the schools could afford originals or even accurate copies in oils, the carbon photographs are very satisfactory and will do much toward improving the appearance of the school room. There are already a number of photographs and pictures on the walls of the local schools and each additional one received is simply advancing a good cause.

It is also pleasant to learn that the Senior class of the City High School is about to devote a portion of the proceeds of its recent play to purchasing works of art for the High School building. While the precedent for this was set by several previous classes, it is none the less creditable that the Seniors should devise this means of bestowing a permanent token of their regard for the institution which they are soon to leave.

"The cessation of advertising killed the bicycle business," is the way the Philadelphia Record quotes Colonel A. A. Pope, "and the way to revive it is to resume that same important matter. You can see how I feel in the matter when I tell you that I spent $500,000 in one year in that sort of publicity, and that it is my idea for the future to advertise." The Bicycle Trust stopped advertising because it had stopped competition, and it supposed it did not need publicity. It saved a great deal of money—and went into the hands of a receiver. Colonel Pope knows the bicycle business better than any one else does, and he says there must be a return to advertising. When the bicycle manufacturers ceased to advertise the public abandoned cycling and turned to other amusements.

Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, has a plan for the establishment of a bureau of public roads in the Department of Agriculture which will carry out with a national scope the work that is now being done by the State Commissioner of Roads and his assistants in New Jersey. The idea is that the National government should assist in the good road building so as to make it general throughout the country instead of being confined to a few States more progressive than the others. With this idea in view, the sum of $20,000,000 is appropriated for the purpose in a bill which Congressman Brownlow has introduced. It is to be divided according to the ratio of population.

New Jersey's Legislature convenes tomorrow. Plainfield has one representative there, Assemblyman William Newcorn, and as he has had the advantage of one term and during that time showed himself to be an active worker, he ought to get some important committee appointments. Mr. Newcorn was mentioned for majority leader on the floor and, although the honor did not come his way, he will be heard from quite frequently.

If Former Chancery Clerk L. A. Thompson, of Somerville, had argreed to Mayor N. B. Smalley's harmony proposition, Somerset county would at present undoubtedly be represented in both houses of the Legislature by Republicans. As it is, the Democrats elected to office from Somerset county ought not to forget to what part of North Plainfield they owe their election.

That suggestion made by a correspondent that the skaters of Plainfield ought to organize and form an association for the proper maintenance and control of a skating pond is a worthy one. Plainfield is certainly not well equipped as far as suitable places for skating are concerned.

If the officials of the water company are so sure that their patrons would prefer to pay a fixed charge instead of according to the amount of water used, why should they object to giving them the opportunity of doing the latter?

That independent telephone company is heard of again. This time it does not announce Plainfield as one of the places which it intends to connect with its system.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The week of prayer ended last evening with a very small congregation in the Methodist church. The meetings have been uniformly well attended during the week and it is hoped have achieved the good results desired.

Two well known citizens from this place got into a spirited encounter Saturday night in a local saloon and it is claimed a revolver was drawn. No damage was done, however, and the matter was finally settled amicably.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will hold a regular meeting this evening in Apgar Hall. The recently-elected officers will be installed and two new members will be initiated.

Firman Gise is engaged in repairing some mason work in Levering & Garrigues, which was accidentally broken down recently.

A large number from here enjoyed the skating at New Market Saturday. The local ponds were covered with snow.

Husdon Wilcox, of Somerville, was in town Saturday. He is improved greatly from a recent illness.

Quite a number from here will sing in an opera which will be given by Plainfield amateurs shortly.

The Afternoon Card Club will meet on Tuesday at the home of Miss Emma Craig.

A horse slipped and fell on the ice on North avenue this morning but got up uninjured.

The young children of Harry Swackhamer are confined to their home by illness.

Mrs. Lewis Tinsman is showing a slight improvement from her illnses.

The Banjo Club will hold a regular weekly practice this evening.

The Willing Workers held a meeting on Saturday afternoon.

NEW MARKET.

The annual week of prayer of the congregation of the First Baptist and Seventh-Day churches ended last evening in the First Baptist church with a small attendance. The congregations throughout the week have been small owing to the bad weather and illness in a number of homes.

There were a large number of skaters on the lake Saturday afternoon and evening. The ice was like glass in the channel and good all over except for a little snow.

A hockey game was to have been played between the Alis team from Plainfield and Cranford. The latter team failed to put in an appearance however.

William B. Smith has recently won a new name in the newspapers, being called "The Mayor of New Market."

Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman are the happy parents of a young daughter.

R. E. Wallace, of Elizabeth, visited friends in town yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The application of George Nichols for a liquor license at the hotel being built, near Galvin's Park, is meeting with opposition from the residents in that part of the township and those just over the line in Westfield. One of the opposition is the Westfield Golf Club. Many contend that there is no need of a hotel in that locality as there is very little travel, except by trolley. Judge Vail laid the application over on Saturday until Friday of this week.

Nearly all the members of the Brookside Gun Club turned out to the weekly shoot of the club held Saturday afternoon. Some very good scores for novices at trap work were made and the interest in the sport bids fair to make the new organization a permanent one.

The week of prayer service, being held at the Baptist church, will be continued each evening this week, excepting Saturday. "Prayer and Watching" was the topic of last night's meeting. "Soul Winning and His Servant" will be the topic tonight.

"Bringing Others to Christ" was the topic of the B. Y. P. U. meeting held Sunday evening in the parlors of the Baptist church. Owing to the storm but few of the members were in attendance.

Mrs. Isaac Oliver and Mrs. Ann Dobbins, who have been visiting at the home of friends in town, have returned to their homes at Kearney, this State.

The household goods of the late Ann Cleaver were disposed of at private sale at her late home on Friday and Saturday.

Miss Gertrude Maccowen will give a lecture on "Whittier" Tuesday evening at the Methodist church.

Frazee Connett, of Alton, was given ten days by Judge Clark, Friday, for being drunk and disorderly.

Mrs. James Buckley has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Terry, of Plainfield.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the cuhrch last night.

WHEELMAN HURT.

James Poma Rendered Unconscious by a Fall From His Wheel on Park Avenue.

James Poma, a barber in the employ of Lafayette Rosenstiehl, of Somerset street, was rendered unconscious yesterday morning by a fall from his wheel on Park avenue and it required almost ten minutes of hard work on the part of friends to revive him.

Poma was riding down Park avenue on his bicycle when the front wheel slipped from under him and he was hurled headlong onto the icy pavement and struck on his chin. He received several severe abrasions on the face, arms and legs and was carried into the tailor shop of M. Acolia, opposite Justice Nash's office where he boards. Stimulants were administered to him there and in about ten minutes he recovered consciousness. He was able to be at work this morning although he is still suffering considerable pain from his injuries. The wheel was wrecked.

SAW CHINATOWN.

Local Officials Piloted Through Its Mazes by Gee Wah.

New York's Chinatown district underwent an invasion of Plainfielders, yesterday afternhoon and evening. In charge of Gee Wah, the Poo-Bah of the local Celestials, and Charlie Wing, proprietor of a Somerset street washery, twelve prominent officials and citizens saw all that was to be seen in Mott, Doyer and Pell streets.

A pleasing feature of the inspection was a fourteen course dinner at the restaurant of Sam Yen, on Doyer street. The Plainfielders had their first try at chop sticks, bird's nest soup and the many other delicacies that make life worth living to the Chinaman. The tour ended in the evening with a service in a Joss house.

Joint Affair.

There will be a joint installation of the officers-elect of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, tomorrow evening. It is expected that a number of prominent members of the two organizations will be present.

The regular meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association will be held this afternoon in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, after which Rev. Dr. Hubbell, of Central avenue, will entertain the association at dinner at Truell Court.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

If you examine the stock of shoes at John H. Doane's store, you are sure to notice the superior quality of these goods for men, women and children. The prices will also appeal to you.

A new shipment of fine new potatoes has arrived at the grocery store of F. H. Firstbrook, on Liberty street. New Florida oranges have also arrived. Special bargains are being made of dates and figs and nuts.

During these cold winter days persons are very liable to contract severe colds. One of the best remedies for a severe cold is some of E. S. F. Randolph's Honey of White Pine and Tar. Mr. Randolph's special Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is a household necessity.

As they say in street vernacular, "get in on the ground floor" if you want to be equipped for winter's blasts. The ground floor in this case is Werner's clothing store where everything in the winter clothing line is now being disposed of at zero prices.

Powlison & Jones would like all Plainfielders contemplating putting new furniture in their homes to see their immense stock. It is at present more complete than it has ever been and the designs are the newest and best. All goods bought now will be kept until delivery is desired.

Ever heard of Fowler? He's the candy man on East Front street. Of course, you know that's where you get the best confections but are you also aware that his prices at present are lower than ever? It doesn't mean that the quality of the goods has suffered because it is just as high as ever.

How often do people hesitate about sending a handsome fabric to the laundry to be done up, and how often does it come back torn or poorly laundered. This will not be the case if it is sent to Meissner's hand laundry, on Watchung avenue near Fifth street. Mr. Meissner makes a specialty of this kind of work.

You will find in trading at the Oriental goods' store on West Front street that you can secure the celebrated Vantine goods at the same price asked in New York. A complete line of these goods are kept and it is an excellent place to secure beautiful favors, hand-painted china, etc., at reasonable prices.

The basement opening at Hill & Shupp's Saturday and today is a strong attraction. The woodenware, hardware and housefurnishing goods have been placed in a new location and special sales of these goods are advertised for today. The white sale which opened Friday is a great success, offering many bargains in muslinwear, embroideries, laces and white goods.

To Repeat Cantata.

The Christmas cantata, given so successfully at the First Presbyterian church, will be repeated tomorrow evening in its entirety. Several rehearsals have been held and an enjoyable evening is assured.

Missionary Tea.

A missionary tea will be held this afternoon in Vincent chapel, at which time Miss Petrie, a home missionary, will speak.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

SULTAN REARRESTS BROTHER.

Ruler of Morocco's Change of Front Reported.

MADRID, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to El Liberal from Tangier, Morocco, says, "Official reports from Fez declare the sultan has rearrested his brother, Mulai Mohammed."

Other advices from Tangier state that the departure of the five women missionaries, four of whom are English and one American, from Fez Jan. 8 for Tangier had long been meditated and was not an outcome of new developments.

Many sensational reports are current here of affairs in Fez, but there is little reliable news to be had. It is considered a satisfactory feature, however, that the tribes to the south of Fez are remaining quiet. Seven Jews have been murdered in the Haina region.

The sultan is reported to be suspicious of the movements of his brother, Mulai Mohammed. His majesty keeps the loyal horsemen from the south around his person instead of sending them against the rebels.

Heavy rains now threaten to interrupt communication with the interior of the country at an interesting moment.

Europeans Desert Fez.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Tangier, Morocco, says all the Europeans of Fez have now left that place and that the foreign consuls there will follow immediately.

IMMENSE COAL OUTPUT.

All Records Broken, Yet the Famine Is Not Relieved.

READING, Pa., Jan. 12.—The Pennsylvania and Reading railroad officials claim that for the week just ended more anthracite coal was taken down the main line than for any previous week in years. The total is 10,200 of all classes of cars, or an average of 1,700 cars for each working day of the week, equal to nearly 225,000 tons. This was distributed in the company's territory as far as New York and along its branch in this state and elsewhere.

The coal famine throughout this section has reached such an acute stage that many industries in the smaller towns will soon have to close, and in the country districts the distress is so widespread that teams have started for the Schuylkill county coalfields, thirty and forty miles distant, to supply pressing necessities.

In answer to the criticism that if so much coal is mined and shipped why it does not relieve the famine it is stated that there are many industrial establishments that do not use coke or bituminous coal and that many scores of these must be supplied with anthracite to keep them in operation.

Distressing Accident In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 12. — Five persons were hurt in a street railway collision, and at least one will die. A Liberty avenue car was standing in front of Superintendent Maxwell's office in Homewood when a big Frankstown avenue car ran away on the grade behind it and crashed into the rear of the stationary car with great force. John Kaltey, a policeman, standing on the rear platform, had both legs crushed and almost amputated, will die; W. Lamrick, standing with Kaltey, had one leg badly crushed; Mrs. Laura Chapman and Dr. Morris, passengers, were both seriously cut about the head and shoulders.

Washington Legislature Meets.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 12.—A Republican successor to George Turner, Democrat, in the United States senate will be elected by the legislature which convened today. The leading candidates in the contest are Levi Ankeny, a millionaire banker of Walla Walla; Harold Preston, a well known lawyer of Seattle, and ex-United States Senator John L. Wilson. Probably the most important piece of legislation to come up at this session will be a bill to provide for a railroad commission to be appointed by the governor.

Captain Barnum Upheld.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The record of the court of inquiry appointed at request of Captain Malvern Hill Barnum, Eighth cavalry, to investigate certain allegations made against the official conduct of that officer by Major Charles G. Ayres, Eighth cavalry, has been received at the war department from General Bates, commanding the Department of the Missouri. Its findings were favorable to Captain Barnum, the allegations of Major Ayres not being sustained by the evidence.

Severe Weather In England.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The recent period of unusually mild weather has given way to a return of severe cold, and gales and snowstorms are prevalent over Great Britain. In the north of England and in Scotland the falls of snow have been very heavy, and trains have been imbedded in snowdrifts and locomotives derailed. Hungry passengers have been kept for hours on the snowbound trains. Much damage has been done by floods in Ireland.

Albany Business Man Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Jeremiah Whitehead, one of the oldest and best known business men in Albany, is dead. He was born in England in 1821 and came here at the age of six. He built the first glass hearse seen in this vicinity. On Wednesday of next week he would have been installed for the forty-seventh time chaplain of Wadsworth lodge, F. and A. M. He had been an Odd Fellow for fifty years.

The Plague Spreads.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, Jan. 12.—Two deaths have occurred here said to be due to bubonic plague. The people are greatly alarmed, and all possible efforts are being made to put the city in perfect sanitary condition.

The Newest Coats—Red Hats Popular.

The woman who possesses good furs, good lace and good feathers can never be out of style.

A few red hats are seen, and they are likely to prove more popular. The newest coats are in sack form, and walking toilets are made with the short skirt and the coat so abbreviated in length that it is often a sack bolero. The most of these coats stop at the hip line, but many only just reach over the edge of the waistband and in this form are most becoming to a short figure.

All garments are big, wide and loose. The straight front corset has made a very small waist impossible, and the stout figure no longer has the tied in waist with excessive rotundity above and below.

The only tight portions of our present attire are the tops of the sleeves and the waist and hips of our skirts. All else may be full and loose, and even the straight seam at the back of coats is disappearing, as it now runs straight to about the middle of the back and then slopes out violently.

The picture shows a suitable evening wrap for a young girl.

WHAT IS WORN.

A Great Deal of Brown Seen on the Street.

A good deal of brown and a little blue are worn, but the greater demand is for the mixtures of black and white, which give the effect of gray from its palest to its deepest tints. Zibelines with loose tufts of black or white wool are shown in brown, black and slate. Black and white or gray effects appear in the newest tweeds.

Quite the latest revival is corduroy velvet, and this never becomes so popular that it can be termed common. A beaver colored corduroy with skunk fur and some touches of turquoise blue is uncommon and stylish. So is a deep Lincoln green, made in the Russian style, with buttons and belt of oxidized silver.

The snowflake tweeds are admirable in black and white. Even on these fabrics we find the Russian galloon. Red zibeline usually has black tufts of a large size. The silk passementerie or gimp worn by a former generation has again come to the front, and even the tassels with pendent balls and fringes have been reproduced.

A dainty little dress for a small bridesmaid is here shown.

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"It was decided to raise a sum of money for some deserving charity," continued Mr. Kent. "I have forgotten what it was—there are so many of them. At any rate, the paper went the rounds, and they called on me among others. I signed for a sum, and glanced over the list. Morton was down for $2,000, Rockwell had signed for $2,500, Carmody had pledged $3,000—he is very liberal and charitable, as he can afford to be—Haven was down for something, and there was a lot of others. I noticed that Mrs. Simon Pence was on the paper for $50. Well, the committee called on Pence. They were admitted and explained their mission. He sighed and looked at the list. He read it up and down, and suddenly came upon the name Mrs. Simon Pence. He picked up his pen and wrote something. The committee was all expectation. He handed it back to them. What do you suppose they saw?"

"I am sure I cannot guess."

"He had written 'Mr and' before 'Mrs. Simon Pence.' That was his contribution. There is no way to beat him. Let's be moving."

They made their way along the edge of the cliffs for perhaps half a mile, but could go no further. Retracing their steps, they again stood on the rock overlooking Morton's Bay" and the ocean.

At the same moment both gave an exclamation and pointed out to sea. The upper rigging of a ship showed clear on the eastern horizon, but she was hull down on the waste of waters. For half an hour they gazed at the dim outlines of masts and sails.

"She is fully 25 miles away," said Sidney, as he gazed longingly at the disappearing vessel. "We must erect a signal from some point like this, and keep a man on watch during the day. If one ship passes more are likely to, and some may come near enough to see and understand our signal."

"Look at those clouds," said Mr. Kent. "There comes your storm. What time is it?"

"Half past two. Those are remarkable looking clouds. I never saw anything like them before. Let us get our raft across the bay. If Vincent and Pence are wise they will come back at once. We are going to have some wind."

In the southeast a murky rainbow of clouds extended over a quarter of the horizon. The crown of this arch reached about 30 degrees above the sea line. Its upper edges were gray, with flecks of white. Then it shaded into a blue, and lower into a band of darker gray. Below it was saffron blending into a murky red at the horizon. Before Sidney and Mr. Kent had reached the raft, the breeze had died away. Slowly the dun arch climbed the heavens.

It was three o'clock when the raft reached the place which had been agreed upon. Sidney fired his rifle twice as a signal; and both yelled at the top of their voices. There was no response, and they both fired, and again shouted. Sidney climbed up the rocks. He called repeatedly, but there was no reply.

There was a moaning sound in the air which seemed to come from the sea. Everything was bathed in an unearthly reddish-yellow light. The trees were motionless as if cast in bronze.

"See how fast the tide is rising!" exclaimed Mr. Kent. "You can see it rise. Look at that!"

He pointed towards the inlet. A dark ridge rose out of the lake. On the opposite shores was a moving line of white.

"Jump ashore. It's a tidal bore!" cried Sidney. The wave came rolling towards them like the smooth billows in the wake of a steamship. It lost its force as the lake widened, but it was strong enough to hammer the raft against the rocks. They pulled the raft as high on the beach as they could. The water rose at the rate of a foot a minute. The roar of the surf beyond the cliffs was like the sullen thunder. And as yet not a breath of air.

Across the bay they saw men on the stone deck beckoning them to return. It was half-past three o'clock. They had promised to have the raft on the south shore at five. Both agreed that they must wait for Vincent and Pence. It seemed strange they did not appear.

The arch was overhead. It looked like a mass of writhing snakes. The moan in the air took a higher key. The lake was shrouded in a darkening pall.

Sidney felt a puff of hot air on his face. The moan from the sea became a roar. Three hundred feet above, the crown of a palm tree bowed to the west.

"This way, Mr. Kent!" shouted Sidney. He grabbed the older man by the arm and they dashed to the shelter of an overhanging rock. And not a moment too soon.

The hurricane broke on the island with a fury which seemed incarnate. A tree which had withstood the storm blasts of generations was torn from the heights above and went whirling across the lake. In a moment it was dark as night.

From where the two men were sheltered they could judge of the storm only by the tumult. It came from the southeast and passed over their heads. From above there came a torrent of water and a shower of rocks, stones and logs. It did not seem possible a human being could survive such a storm for a minute. There were occasional flashes of light. The sky became tremulous with its sickening flicker. Gradually this became more intense. Then there was a glare as if the universe had burst into flame. The hills seemed to rock in the explosion which followed. Those who grow frightened at the puny manifestations of nature in a northern thunderstorm, cannot afford to cavil at an apparent extravagance of language essential to a word picture of a tropical hurricane.

As night came on the storm increased in fury. They gave Vincent and Pence up as lost, and never expected to see them alive again. All night long they crouched under the ledge of rock; wet and hungry and sad at heart. The crash of falling timber, the rumble of tumbling rocks, the incessant reverberation of thunder, the lashing of the rain, and the spectacle of a sky aflame with writhing skein of lightning made an impression on their minds never to be effaced.

But at five o'clock there was a lull in the storm. There was a faint gleam of the dawn of day. Nature mustered her forces for one more terrific blast. When exhausted, the light broke through the clouds. As by magic the hurricane was over. The wind died to a refreshing breeze. Of a sudden, the foliage on the ridges across the bay was radiant with sunshine.

Sidney and Mr. Kent came from behind the sheltering rock. They presented a sorry sight. Their duck suits were streaked with mud and their faces tense and drawn by excitement and lack of sleep. They washed their hands and faces in the lake, and then climbed the ridge, where they obtained an unbroken view of the bay. To their delight they saw the figures of four men on the stone pier. Sidney waved his hat and was greeted by an answering signal. The people of the bungalow shouted across the water, and Sidney and Mr. Kent yelled in return. Mr. Morton, Mr. Carmody and his companions speedily built and launched a new raft and were soon rowing to the relief of the missing ones.

"Where are Pence and Vincent?" shouted Mr. Morton, as the raft neared the shore.

"They did not return," said Sidney. "I am afraid they were lost in the storm."

Sidney would not listen to the proposition that he return with Mr. Kent to the bungalow. Though wet and hungry, he joined Mr. Morton and plunged into the forest to find the missing men, dead or alive. He was glad to learn that the bungalow had survived the hurricane with small damage, and that none of the occupants were injured.

The Easiest Solution.

While a long line of taxpayers were awaiting their turn at the tax office on Monday, along came a burly Irishman, who constantly inquired, "Where is the end of the line?" From most of the waiting men came the answer, "Behind me, sir." Finally, upon reaching the head of the stairway leading to the basement, and being told by one of the men that he would have to go down stairs and there find the line, he sat down at the head of the stairway, exclaiming:

"Shure and Oi'm tired. Oi've tried to git down to the end of the loine and can't foind it, so now Oi'll set roight down where Oi am and wait till the end of the loine comes up and foinds me."—N. Y. Times.

Books on Ships and Trains.

Many of the transatlantic liners are now equipped with circulating libraries, some steamships having upward of half a thousand volumes, principally "seaworthy stories," but a goodly supply of substantial reading as well. Other lines will probably follow suit. Nearly all of the better trains in transcontinental service today have circulating libraries operated on the same principle as obtains on board the European vessels. This system allows of a passenger borrowing a book from one library and exchanging same for another work on returning car or steamer upon payment of a nominal fee.—N. Y. Times.

So Bad It's Good.

Washington was spending the winter of 1777 at Valley Forge when his attention was called to the fact that his command was shoeless.

"Things look pretty gloomy," remarked his aide.

"True, but we may Lafayette," replied the father of his country.

The troops hearing this became so cheerful that they at once rushed out to win the battle of Princeton.—N. Y. Times.

IMMIGRATION ABUSES.

Commissioner Sargent Says a Great Reform Has Taken Place.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Frank P. Sargent, commissioner of immigration, in an address to the Jewish Chautauqua society on the subject "Immigration and the Future of Our Country" at which Simon Wolf of Washington, president of the Union of Hebrew Congregations, presided, stated that many abuses which formerly existed in the system have almost wholly disappeared and that under the energetic impulse of President Roosevelt there is much promise of wise and just practices in future.

Continuing, he said: "The large number of persons who seek a home in this country makes it inevitable that at times a few cases of injustice will arise. It is the purpose of the bureau of immigration to deal fairly with every case that is presented. Ellis Island has been a place for the harboring of vultures who preyed upon the immigrants, and people began to look upon the place as the hell hole of America. Last April the president placed a gentleman of his own selection in charge at the island. He made changes in the discipline and in the personnel of the office and introduced sanitary measures.

"Abuses which had existed for years unchecked were stopped. I do not presume to say that conditions there today are ideal, but we are trying to make them so. We are asking congress for $300,000 for extensions to buildings and better facilities for caring for those who are detained.

"I am opposed to the importation of any class which tends to lower the standard of wages and prices in America. When efforts are put forth to contract to bring such people here, we do not hesitate to send them back."

MARCONI'S GREAT PLANS.

Would Extend System to All Parts of the Globe.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 12.—The Marconi Wireless Telegraph company of Canada has given notice of an application to parliament for an act of incorporation to transact and do business all over British North America, British isles, Europe and on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and on the islands and places near the same.

Powers are also asked for leasing or purchasing existing telegraph, telephone and cable companies.

A dispatch from Washington says: "President Roosevelt has consented to furnish the first national message across the Atlantic by the Marconi system.

"Major Flood Page, the representative of Marconi in this country, has called on the president to arrange the details for sending the message. He was presented to the president by former Attorney General Griggs, and the nature and length of the message were discussed.

"The president will send a message to King Edward and Emperor William congratulatory upon the establishment of the wireless system across the ocean. The date for the transmission of the message has not yet been fixed, but it will probably be about Jan. 15.

"The president will prepare his message and forward it to Major Flood, who will dispatch it from the Cape Cod station. It will be received on the other side at Poldhu, Cornwall, England. Replies from England and Germany will be returned through the same channels. Marconi will be in this country about Jan. 15, and he will proceed at once to Cape Cod and personally supervise the sending of these messages."

Fight at the Naval Academy.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 12.—As a result of a fight between Midshipman Robert A. Pearson, a member of the fourth class, from Concord, N. H., and Francis G. Blasdel of New York the former is in the hospital with a broken jaw, and Blasdel is locked up. The affair was the result of Pearson's refusal to be hazed by upper classmen. The upper classmen had been "running" him, and some time ago he is said to have fainted under the ordeal. He was accused of cowardice and was required to fight a third class man. Blasdel was pitted against him, who in the first round broke Pearson's jaw. The latter, however, continued to fight until the fifth round, when a first class man present stopped the contest.

The New Battleship Maine.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Captain Leutze, commanding the battleship Maine, has been at the navy department conferring with the officials in regard to the disposition of that vessel. It is probable that the Maine will leave Philadelphia in about two weeks for a cruise to the gulf of Mexico in order to test her machinery before being regularly assigned to a station. It is expected that she will be attached to the newly organized battleship fleet on the north Atlantic station.

Cyclone In Georgia.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 12.—Advices from Berrien and Worth counties, in the southern part of the state, are that a severe windstorm has done much damage in each. At Omega, in Worth county, the hotel was blown down and a number of houses unroofed. The cyclone swept a path a hundred yards wide through the town, damaging every house and uprooting every tree it encountered.

Frozen to Death.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 12.—William D. Beckett, a prominent lawyer of this city, was found on the roadside five miles west of the city frozen to death. Beckett had been ill for several days, and he is believed to have wandered into the country and to have fallen exhausted where he was found by a dairyman. The body was frozen stiff.

FIGHT OVER AMBOY BRIDGE

FREEHOLDERS OF MIDDLESEX PLAN TO BLOCK AMBOY'S COUNCIL.

Want to Fix New Approach for the Bridge That Will Render Franchise Ineffective.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 12—Because Perth Amboy granted to the Raritan Traction Company a franchise to lay its tracks in Sheridan street, the Perth Amboy approach to the proposed county bridge over the Raritan, the Board of Freeholders has appointed a special committee to arrange for a new approach to the bridge on Perth Amboy side, thus rendering Perth Amboy's action ineffective, so far as giving control of the bridge approach is concerned. The special committee consists of the finance committee, the chairman of the roads committee and the solicitor.

This action was taken upon the resolution of Freeholder Joseph Allgair. He said that he voiced the sentiments of the board when he accused Perth Amboy of bad faith, since the deed of gift of Sheridan street to the city for the purpose of a street and bridge approach specified that no franchise to any company should be granted for Sheridan street without the joint consent of the city and county.

Before the resolution was presented Director Fountain referred to the matter, which had been brought up by a communication of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, which claimed that it was ready to bid for the bridge franchise. Mr. Fountain declared that even if a franchise were granted to the highest bidder, it should carry restrictions as to the amount of fare that should be charged and convey to the county other concessions.

By the terms of Allgair's resolution, which was opposed only by the Perth Amboy members of the board, the committee is to endeavor to secure a new approach to the bridge at the Perth Amboy side, and the contractor is to be notified to confine his work to the Sayreville side of the bridge, that side opposite Perth Amboy.

CANINE BIT SMALL BOY

Took Possession of Hallway in Stillman Building and Attacked All Comers.

FINALLY MADE ESCAPE

Chester Denton Went to Drive the Animal Out, When it Attacked Him and Bit Him Through His Shoe—Dog Was Discovered by Mrs. Howard Martin.

A good-sized canine entered one of the hallways in the Stillman building late yesterday afternoon and took possession of the first fight of stairs to the exclusion of people living in that part of the building. He was discovered when Mrs. Howard Martin, who occupies a suite of rooms in the building, attempted to go to her rooms.

Mrs. Martin returned to Mrs. Denton's store and asked Chester Denton if he would drive the dog out of the hall. He volunteered his services, but afterwards was sorry for it. When he got close to the animal he spoke gently to it. The animal made a dash for the boy and in three attempts succeeded in putting one large tooth through the lad's shoe to the foot, where blood was drawn.

After it bit the boy, the canine ran out of the building. The boy then returned to his mother's store, explained the circumstances and Dr. Jenkins was summoned to cauterize the wound. The dog was a strange one and no one seems to know its owner. It is said that a similar dog has been making life miserable for other people on West Front street. It is supposed to have been the same dog which attacked the little girl on Grove street, Saturday.

DRUM CORPS ELECTION.

After the election of officers a session of practice was held. A communication was read at the meeting from the clothiers in New York, where the new uniforms are being made, in which it was stated that the new uniforms would be delivered this week. The matter of holding a dance was discussed at the meeting and most of the members are in favor of holding something of the kind after the uniforms arrive.

POLICE ARRIVED.

That Ended a Fierce Fight in a Borough Hotel Last Evening.

A fierce fight took place last evening at Burn's Crescent Hotel, in the borough, in which several men were more or less cut and injured. The fight started from an argument between two men.

While the affair was at its height Marshals Winn and Wise entered and arrested John Case, of this city, and Albert Rochett, a brick manufacturer of Dunellen. Both were locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct and were released this morning on bail to appear for a hearing this evening before Recorder Doud.

It was reported that one of the men escaped from the lockup during the night but this morning it was denied by Chief Marshal William Campbell.

FOUND DAUGHTER.

Man, Who Came to Plainfield Looking for Her, Found Her at Last in Boston and Taken Home.

Walter Wardell, of Brooklyn, who came to this city last Thursday in search of his daughter who, it was said, had accompanied an actress from this city, as told exclusively in Friday afternoon's Daily Press, is a happy father. A telegram arrived at his home at Brighton announcing that a young girl, answering the description furnished by the police of Brooklyn to the Boston authorities, had been found roaming about the streets of that city in a dazed condition. She was taken to her home in Brooklyn.

The girl had been missing since Tuesday and her father had followed theatrical companies from place to place for three days trying to get a clew to the whereabouts of his daughter. She can give no coherent account of her self on account of her condition.

NEW LIFE FOR WOODMEN

INTEREST IN THAT FRATERNAL ORDER TO BE RENEWED.

Trouble Between District Deputy and Robin Hood Camp Was Amicably Settled.

Steps have been taken by the Supreme Lodge of the Woodmen of the World to revive interest in the order in this city. Robin Hood Camp, No. 8, which was organized here about one year ago and discontinued meeting four months afterward, has been asked to continue its sessions, and will probably do so in a short time.

The new supreme deputy, J. V. Barnes, of Brooklyn, was in this city and had a conference with the officers of the camp and the troubles which led to the cessation of interest were amicably settled. It is said they were caused by a disagreement between the local organization and the former deputy, J. V. Barnes, of Massachusetts. Deputy Garvin will visit Plainfield again within a few days and all arrangements will be completed for the revival of meetings. They will undoubtedly be held in the Coward building.

The present officers of the camp are: Counsellor commander, William Newcorn; clerk, Fred J. Huff; physician, Dr. A. H. Dundon.

MANY STRANGE FACES IN THE LEGISLATURE

Changes in Both Upper and Lower Houses at Trenton This Winter.

ABOUT THE LAWMAKERS

SOME STATISTICS REGARDING THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY.

Make-Up of Both Houses As They Will Gather at the State House, Trenton, This Afternoon—Some Senators Missed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 1—When the Legislature meets for organization this afternoon many familiar faces will be missing. In the Senate the absent ones will be more marked than in the House. Five Senators, who each had served a term of six years, retired to private life when the last Legislature adjourned. Although none of them made any pretense to oratory or were brilliant in debate, yet they had a pull in lawmaking and office getting which their more gifted colleagues did not possess.

Elijah C. Hutchinson, of Mercer, who will be chosen President of the Senate, is a successful business man of very high character. He is one of five laymen who have filled that elevated position in a period of twenty years in New Jersey.

The Democrats have made a gain of three Senators, and from supposed Republican counties—Gloucester, Salem and Somerset. Should they elect six Senators next year, they will control the Senate. The counties where vacancies will then occur are Middlesex, Passaic, Hunterdon, Sussex, Cape May and Burlington.

In the body are seven lawyers—four Republicans and three Democrats. There are four merchants and three contractors, a bank president, a physician, restaurant keeper, merchant miller, glassblower, civil engineer and real estate dealer. For the first time, perhaps, in a generation the Senate is without a farmer.

The oldest Senator is Colonel Haines, of Burlington, who is in his seventieth year. The youngest Senator is Mr. Wakelee, of Bergen, who is only thirty-three. All the Senators were born in this country with the exception of Mr. Hudspeth, who is a native of Canada. Sixteen are native Jerseymen, two are from Pennsylvania, one from New York and one from Maryland.

Among the Senators are fourteen former Assemblymen, and two who have filled the Speaker's chair. The latter are Hudspeth and Bradley. The average age of the Senators is forty-five years.

Charls Wright, of Burlington, who served a term of five consective years in the House, has been retired. His is one of those familiar faces that will be missed. Mr. Montgomery, of Middlesex, and Mr. Stalter, of Passaic, have been given fourth terms. There are quite a number of three-term men, nine of the Essex delegation being in that category. Mr. Scovel, who represented Camden a few years ago, comes back again.

There are a great many young men in the Assembly, ten being under thirty years of age. The youngest member is Mr. Kelly, of Hudson, he being only twenty-four. The oldest member is Mr. Gibbs, of Camden, who is sixty-four, he being but a few months older than Colonel Wildrick, of Warren.

For the first time in years there is no native of Ireland or Germany in the Assembly. The land of the midnight sun has a representative in the person of Mr. Peterson, of Passaic, Norway being his native heath. He is a sanitary engineer and is the only Democrat who was elected in Passaic. Mr. Newcorn, of Union, is a native of Austria. Those are the only foreigners, but they have become as much American as the Americans themselves. There are eight natives of New York, two of Pennsylvania and one of Massachusetts. All the others are native Jerseymen.

Twenty-nine members are beginning their first year of service, sixteen are in their second year, thirteen in their third year and one in his fourth year. Mr. Horner, of Burlington, who will be chosen Speaker, is only thirty years of age, a lawyer by profession, affable and genial, a clean debater and quick to act and decide. It is predicted that he will make a very acceptable presiding officer.

The House will have twenty-five

THREE BIG TRANSFERS OF LOCAL PROPERTY

Schepflin Building and White Building on Front Street Change Hands.

BARNABY HOUSE SOLD

MORRIS ABRAMS PURCHASED SCHEPFLIN BUILDING FOR $25,000.

Name of Purchaser of White Building, Occupied by Hill & Shupp, is Withheld for the Present—Barnaby Estate Traded.

During the past few days several very important real estate deals have been effected in this city, the largest deal probably being the sale of the business property on West Front street owned by Edward White, and occupied by Hill & Shupp. The property was sold to a Plainfield business man as an investment through the real estate office of Elston M. French. The name of the purchaser is withheld for the present at his request. Mr. French says positively, however, that Mr. Schloss is not the purchaser. There will be no change in the tenancy of the property.

Another important deal is the purchase of the Schepflin building on West Front street by Morris Abrams. The purchase price was $25,000, which is $13,000 less than the mortgage. Mr. Abrams will not make any changes in the building for the present.

The third deal is the exchange of the property owned, and occupied by F. A. Barnaby on Plainfield avenue, for a farm at South Branch, owned by Mr. McCutchen, who spends his winters in Plainfield. Mr. Barnaby will take up his residence in New York.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

AT ANNUAL MEETING OF UNION BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

Reports Show the Organization to be Particularly Sound Financially.

At the annual meeting of the Union Building and Loan Association, held last evening, the following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, Dr. M. B. Long; vice president, E. M. Laing; secretary, J. V. E. Vanderhoef; treasurer, M. C. VanArsdale; directors, C. H. Dunham, Allen B. Laing, Samuel J. Robinson, Dr. O. L. Jenkins and R. A. Meeker.

The committees appointed were as follows: Auditing and finance, C. H. Dunham and R. A. Meeker; salaries and bonds, Clarence Goss, S. J. Robinson and E. M. Laing; appraisers and loans, E. M. Laing, W. H. Brokaw, J. C. Manning and Dr. O. L. Jenkins. There were also five applications for loans received and indications point to many more within a short time.

Reports read showed the association to be in a flourishing condition and, although an infant organization, is exceptionally sound financially. Last year's results were very encouraging and during the next twelve months it is the purpose of the officers to double returns.

All inmates of the house have been vaccinated and the quarantine will not be raised until the house has been thoroughly disinfected.

The Democratic Club will hold its first annual dance in the Casino, Thursday evening, February 12.

WHICH STYLE WRITING, VERTICAL OR SLANT?

Superintendent of Borough Schools is After Opinions on That Question

SENT OUT CIRCULARS

HE NOTES THE ADVANTAGES OF BOTH STYLES OF WRITING.

Circulars Are Now Going Out to the Parents of the Children in the Borough Schools to Get Their Opinions on the Question.

Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, of the North Plainfield schools, is making an investigation among the parents of the pupils in attendance at the borough schools.

There seems to be some diversity of opinion in regard to the advantages of the vertical system over the Spencerian method and Superintendent Wightman has started an investigation with a view to finding out what the opinions of merchants, pupils and parents are in the matter.

He has had printed a number of circulars in which the lines of investigation have been outlined. Here are some of the questions which the parents of the pupils of the North Plainfield school are requested an answer:

"We wish to know what the parents of North Plainfield prefer?"

"We wish to know what the large business employers of this country prefer?"

"We wish to know whether the vertical or the slant penmanship serves the largest requirements in education and in business life?"

The circular then goes on to say that the following points are conceded for the vertical system: It is more legiable. It is more easily and quickly acquired by primary children. Uniformly good writing is secured by the pupils. Position is better, prevents elevating of right shoulder and spinal curvature, and is less fatiguing. Much time is saved in reading written work.

The following are cited in favor of the Spencerian style: It is more rapid (sometimes disputed). Vertical penmanship destroys individuality in handwriting (all write alike). Vertical penmanship does not look as well (to those accustomed to the Spencerian system). If there are any other points in favor of the slant system it is requested in the circulars that these be mentioned.

The circular closes with a request that all the parents, after weighing all the points in favor of both systems, state which they prefer and why.

Tests have been made in the school by the teachers in which the penmanship of all the pupils in the entire school have been examined and samples taken. Pupils who have been in the primary class only four months show such skill in writing that one could easily be mistaken in thinking it was the penmanship of an older pupil. All the samples, which were shown to The Press reporter were very legible and it was seen at a glance that the claim that the vertical system destroys individuality in penmanship is false as each sample was very different from the others although each was perfectly legible.

Educators in this and other cities are greatly interested in the experiments and investigations which are being made by Superintendent Wightman and the results are looked for with much interest.

In Justice Huff's Court.

The following summons have been issued from Justice Huff's court: Frank H. HORSE IS DEAD.

Peter Zimmerman Claims That Jos. Granger Borrowed It at Night and Won't Pay for Its Keep.

Peter Zimmerman, the West Front street butcher, has commenced suit in Justice Huff's court against Joseph Granger, of this city, on novel grounds. He demands $200 in tort.

The plaintiff owned a horse which he claims Granger had a habit of hitching up at night when the hostler was absent. With the rig he proceeded to Galvin's Park and when Edward Brittin made his balloon ascension, it is alleged, he drove the horse about the country in order to bring the aeronaut back. The animal was taken sick and has since died.

Zimmerman claims he asked Granger to pay for the horse's keep during its illness, but though admitting its use, the latter refused to recompense the owner. The case will be heard Thursday afternoon.

THE CLERGYMEN AT DINNER

PLAINFIELD MINISTERS' ASSOCIATION ENTERTAINED BY REV. MR. HUBBELL.

Although Host Was Unavoidably Absent, a Pleasant Afternoon Was Spent.

Although the members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association were entertained at dinner by Rev. William S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, last evening, the host was unable to be present. He was detained in New York and, at his request, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich very kindly acted as host in his place. The members met first in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church where a highly interesting paper on "The Influence of Greek Philosophy on Christian Ethics, was presented by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. This was followed with an informal discussion of the paper, which was finally terminated when the time for dinner arrived.

The members adjourned to Truell Court, where a dinner was served and a social time enjoyed. Those present at the dinner were Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, Rev. Edwin L. Earp, Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, Rev. John McMurray, Rev. George B. Shaw and Rev. O. G. Norseen. Several others, including Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, were at the meeting but were unable to attend the dinner.

After the election the members of the company made a tour of inspection of the factory building on Chatham street and expressed themselves as being well pleased with the manner in which it is conducted. The business during the past year was beyond all expectations and there are orders enough on hand to keep the force going regularly for many months.

AGED WOMAN BURNED ALIVE

Horrible Fate of Mrs. Catherine McMurtry at Her Home at Raritan.

CAUGHT FROM A LAMP

Supposed to Have Become Frightened at Fire Started From Old Stove and Fell Down, Dropping Lamp—Was Burned to Death Before Assistance Came.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 13—Mrs. Catherine McNurtry, about sixty-five years of age, who lived all alone at Raritan, met a horrible death by burning Saturday night.

The true facts of the matter are not definitely known, but the supposition is that she had gone out of her room for some reason or other and that when she returned she found a hole burned in the floor from an old-fashioned stove. Becoming excited she started to run out to give the alarm and fell, smashing the lamp she carried and setting fire to herself. Stunned by the fall she laid there and burned to a crisp before assistance reached here.

Someone going by the place saw smoke coming out of the windows and sent in an alarm. When the firemen arrived the blaze was soon put out and the charred remains of Mrs. Mc Nurtrey were found. The funeral was held in St. Bernard's church Monday at Raritan. For twenty years she had been an employe of the old mill there. One son survives her. He lives in New York.

FELL IN POND.

Narrow Escapes From Drowning in Tier's Lake Yesterday Afternoon.

Cold plunges due to breaking ice continue to be the fashion in the vicinity of Tier's lake. Yesterday afternoon furnished an unusual quota of accidents, several of which came near resulting seriously.

One of the first to go through beneath the Elm street bridge was "Tony" Lusardi, the well known buck and wing dancer, who was rescued with difficulty by Fred Zimmer. He broke through the ice in a spot where the water is deepset and was completely submerged. He was in the water so long his body was thoroughly chilled and he was gotten home with difficulty. This morning he was suffering from a heavy cold.

Three boys broke through the ice later in the day at a point near Sandford avenue and were rescued by G. W. Sherman, of that street. He underwent considerable risk in getting them out.

Better Sidewalks.

Steps have been taken by one property owner on John street to have a better system of sidewalks. At present the thoroughfare is facetiously referrred to as "Mud Lane" and is almost impassable in wet weather. In a short time the progressive citizen will lay a flag walk in front of his ground with the hope that all others will follow suit.

Was Keeping Warm.

He admitted the facts and parted with a $5 bill instead of making Elizabeth his headquarters for twenty days.

lawyers. Thirteen of those lawyers are Republicans and twelve are Democrats. All the legal lights on the Democratic side, with two exceptions, are furnished by Hudson county. There are four farmers in the House. The vocations and professions of other members are as follows: Merchants, four; manufacturers and druggists, three each; express agents, managers, salesmen, plumbers, contractors, editors, two each; physician, miller, bank clerk, potter, clerk, cigar manufacturer, undertaker and engineer, one each.

The Democrats made a gain of seven Assemblymen at the last election. Those gains were in the counties of Passaic, Somerset, Monmouth, Middlesex, Ocean and Salem. Judge Hoffman is succeeded by a Democrat, who is a cigar manufacturer. Mr. Champion, a veteran of the war of the rebellion, who was also retired in that county, makes way for an undertaker. The Republican factional squabble in Ocean was the means by which a very reputable Democrat named Harrison was returned from that county. Dr. Whitford, who was a Republican member from Middlesex, is succeeded by a railroad and express agent named Gannon, who is looked upon as a hustler in politics as well as in business. Mr. Swackhamer, a Democrat, comes from Somerset, and a Democratic farmer named Harris will represent Salem.

THEATRICAL.

The Whitney Opera Company is in its fifth week in the new comic military opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" at the New York Theatre, New York. This is one of the big musical hits of the year and is playing to packed houses. The company is a most admirable one and the best, in many respects, seen in comic opera in New York in years. While the story possesses a most interesting military dash, its main interests are humorous with a very attractive sentimental vein in three splendidly developed love stories. These parts are sung by Homer Lind, Lucille Saunders, William G. Stewart, Maurice Darcey, Maude Lambert and Zetti Kennedy, most talented artists. Julian Edwards' score is admirable and presents several numbers which have made notably great popular hits. All lovers of genuine comic opera find a most enjoyable evening's entertainment in witnessing its presentation and in listening to its remarkably attractive and musicianly melodies.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

THE SPORTING WORLD.

National Baseball Magnates Will Not Accept Peace Terms.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Peace has been declared by the National and American leagues at the expense of dividing the older organization against itself. Harmony is planned to be the ruling power of the two baseball organizations, but the old National is on the verge of a bitter war. Three of the magnates claim their representatives in the peace conference in Cincinnati made a mess of their duties. The dissatisfied club owners hold the best baseball franchises that can be had in the United States. First, there is John T. Brush with his valuable New York property, then Ned Hanlon with his good Brooklyn holding and Colonel Rogers with the Philadelphia club. All three will dispute the action of their committee in the peace session. They claim that they gave the committee no right to act for them, and the so called agreement entered into by it will be ignored.

English Wrestler Declared Winner.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Rough tactics characterized the wrestling bout between Jim Parr, the English champion, and Tom McInerney, the Irish champion, at the Olympic Athletic club last night. Parr won the first fall in twenty minutes and thirty seconds and McInerney the second in the same time. The men had been on the mat twelve minutes in the third bout, using particularly rough methods, when the referee gave final warning that he would disqualify the man who next offended. McInerney struck Parr, and he was at once disqualified, the referee declaring Parr the winner.

Jenkins to Wrestle Piening.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A date has at last been selected for the wrestling match between John Piening, the "Butcher Boy," of New York and Tom Jenkins, the ex-champion catch as catch can wrestler. Bids have been opened for the contest, and Jim Kennedy, the well known promoter of sporting events, secured the attraction with an offer of 60 per cent of the gross receipts to hold the match in the big amphitheater at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 31. This match is the biggest event of its kind that has been held in Gotham in years and will draw out a big crowd.

Big Regatta at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—The national regatta, one of the most important aquatic events of the year, will in all probability be held on the Schuylkill river. The majority of the rowing clubs in this city are anxious to have the regatta held here again, and all will cast their votes for that plan at the naval board's annual meeting on Jan. 19. If the regatta comes to this city, it will be decided on Friday and Saturday, July 10 and 11.

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake is Made by Many Plainfield Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache.

To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

A Plainfield resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. Jos. VanArsdale, carpenter and contractor, living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return.

Some Big Dumb Bells.

Some pretty big dumb bells are required to exhibit the strength of the modern strong man. A visit to a works where this line of business is specially catered to discovered some remarkable weights. A pair of single-grip dumb bells with hollow balls weighed 37 pounds when filled with shot, which is the usual method of increasing the weight. A half bar bell or double-grip dumb bell, weighed 240 pounds, while a full-sized 15-inch bar bell for a modern Hercules weighed 600 pounds when fully loaded. The record bell made by this firm was on an order for an 18-inch bar which weighed 316 pounds when empty. Besides these giant playthings the standard sizes, from two pounds and upward, look like those designed for some kindergarten or pigmy race.—Philadelphia Record.

Religious Freedom in Mexico.

Missionaries in this country are on an equal footing before the law with the clergy of the Catholic church. The federal nor the state governments make any distinction between them. Around the members of all communions is thrown the protection of the federal constitution. Because some of the more fanatical and uninfluential people in Catorce warned the missionaries to leave the town the impression has gone abroad that the whole community was hostile to Protestant missionaries. It is time that this utterly false impression was done away with. The municipal government of Catorce is composed of enlightened and unprejudiced men; they will uphold law and order in that community. —Mexican Herald.

Liability to Deafness.

A French surgeon says that men are more subject to aural diseases than women, and that out of every seven middle-aged persons there are two who do not hear so well with one ear as with the other. In every 1,000 children under 15 years of age, four show symptoms of some ear diseases, and six a marked deficiency in hearing power. The liability to disease increases from birth to the age of 40, and then begins gradually to decrease as old age advances. Out of the total number of cases subjected to surgical treatment, it is estimated that about 53 per cent. are cured, and 30 per cent. permanently relieved.—Golden Penny.

Expedient of Reduced Nobility.

An American who was spending the winter in Naples had taken a flat in a palazzo, the first floor of which was occupied by a noble family in somewhat reduced circumstances. He noticed, to his surprise, that every day he met a servant going up or down the stairs carrying a pair of carriage doors. At last the mystery was explained. The noble family shared a carriage with some other families, but each had its own doors, with the family coat-of-arms, to make their friends believe that they all had carriages.—Chicago Chronicle.

OPERATORS' STORY

Officials of Delaware and Hudson Company Testify.

NOW SELLING COAL AT $5 A TON.

Records Show Heavy Loss of Time by Miners—Amount of Coal Mined Limited by Union Rules—Heavy Punishment For Violations.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—The proceedings before the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday consisted principally of the calling of witnesses by the Delaware and Hudson company to tell of the conditions existing in and about its collieries and to refute certain testimony presented against the company when the miners' side was being heard. In the absence of Chairman Gray Brigadier General Wilson again assumed the duties of chairman. The Delaware and Hudson company expects to continue its case today, when the Erie company, which controls the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company, will present its side of the controversy.

The first witness was Abel I. Culver of New York, comptroller of the Delaware and Hudson company. His direct examination brought out nothing new beyond what he had stated on Saturday. On cross examination by C. S. Darrow, counsel for the miners, Mr. Culver said that the Delaware and Hudson company was selling coal to middlemen at tidewater at $5 a ton for prepared sizes. He did not know what prices the middlemen were receiving from the public beyond what he read in the daily newspapers. His examination closed with the suggestion that the general sales agent of the company, Thomas F. Torrey of New York, should inform the commission of what he knew of this feature of the coal trade, and Mr. Torrey was telegraphed to come to Philadelphia as soon as convenient.

C. C. Rose of Scranton, superintendent of the coal department of the Delaware and Hudson company, who testified on Saturday, was recalled. He stated that several of the company's collieries were flooded as a result of the strike of the steam men on June 2. On cross examination he said he would rather let the mines fill with water than submit to unreasonable demands made by a union. He considered that the strikers were dictating to the company and rather than surrender a principle he would let the property become damaged.

George Anderson of Scranton, a clerk in the coal department of the company, presented numerous statistics bearing upon the issues before the commission. One of the statements showed that 2,388 of the company's 13,258 employees have been working in or about the mines from ten to sixty years. He produced data showing the workings of the company's relief fund, with which more than 5,000 of the company's employees are connected. The workers pay to the fund one day's pay each year, the company contributing an equal amount. Men who are injured receive $6 a week for three months, and in case of death their heirs receive $50 for funeral expenses. The widows receive $3 a week for one year and a dollar a week for one year for each child under twelve years of age. The company fixed $2.18 as the amount a contract miner should contribute as a day's pay.

Mr. Anderson also presented a statement showing that the twenty-eight collieries of the company lost 368 ten hour days in 1901, for which the employees were responsible. Of these 115 were lost on account of picnics and other holidays (not including legal holidays); fifty-nine days on account of "Mitchell day" and other union days, and 194 days on account of strikes and suspensions. Another statement offered by the witness showed that since the strike ended in the latter part of October the twenty-eight collieries lost 110 days, reducing the coal production of the company 92,581 tons. The men had been requested to work on Thanksgiving day and New Year's day, but they ignored the request, he said. None of the miners worked on "Mitchell day," he added, and twelve collieries were idle the day after Christmas.

Thomas R. Thomas, outside foreman at the Jermyn colliery of the company, told of the difficulty he had in inducing the men to mine more coal. He produced a paper alleged to have been drawn up by local union 1025, which stated that any man loading more cars in the headings than are loaded in the chambers would be expelled from the union. Two men, he said, violated this alleged rule of the union, and their tools were destroyed and one of their houses was dynamited as a result of not restricting their daily output.

The two miners referred to, Michael McHale and Harry Gilbert, were put on the witness stand and corroborated the testimony of Mr. Thomas, who on cross examination said he was always willing to meet grievance committees of his own employees, but he would refuse to meet officials of the union who are not employed in the mine over which he has charge.

On redirect examination he said the contract miners averaged about four hours a day and that he had talked with union men who said they were not favorably inclined toward the organization, but that they were compelled to belong to it.

Henry Birkbeck, inside foreman of the Venstorch colliery, told of the injury of a boy in the mines and of his discharging the man who was responsible for the accident. The union men in the colliery, he said, struck for the reinstatement of the dismissed man, but he refused to take him back. The injured boy corroborated the testimony of Mr. Birkbeck.

FREE COAL ASSURED

Congress Expected to Take Action Speedily.

INVESTIGATION OF COAL SITUATION

Committee Named by House to Make a Searching Inquiry Regarding Present Scarcity and Distress and Report at an Early Date.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—It is expected that congress will pass a bill removing the duty of 67 cents a ton on coal imported into this country. This bill may take the form of a rebate or drawback for ninety days and will also provide for reciprocity, admitting free of duty coal imported into this country from countries granting the same privilege to the United States. This means Canada and will permit Nova Scotia coal to come into this country free, while coal from the Alleghanies and westward will go into Canada free of duty. The ways and means committee will meet today and, according to the present programme, report a bill on the above lines. It is expected that it will pass the house without delay.

It will be taken up in the senate very soon, and the intention is to have it pass at an early date. Its consideration in the senate has not been arranged for, but efforts are being made to expediate its passage without amendment and with little discussion. A number of Republicans who heretofore have been opposed to changing the duty on coal said they would not oppose the bill provided it did not open up the whole tariff question. There has been some general talk about an agreement to pass such a bill without opening up the tariff question, and the Republican leaders expect the house bill will be passed promptly by the senate.

The house yesterday after adopting a resolution to authorize the merchant marine and fisheries committee to investigate the coal situation at once adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Representative Tongue of Oregon after the appointment of a committee to attend the funeral. The resolution to investigate the coal situation recites the fact that a resolution has been introduced to extend the privilege of carrying coal to coastwise ports to foreign steamers for ninety days because the present scarcity of coal involves great suffering and distress and authorizes the committee to investigate "facts, charges and necessities, to inquire into the elements and conditions involved in the coal trade, the cost of coal, the methods, facilities and cost of transportation and distribution of the same and the reasons or causes of such scarcity and distress."

The committee is directed to report the testimony, with its conclusions thereon, to the house as soon as possible. It is given power to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, etc., and incur such expense as may be deemed necessary. The meetings are to be held in Washington and in such other places as the committee may determine.

A lively discussion took place in the senate between Messrs. Aldrich, Vest and Carmack when the first named endeavored to secure a postponement of the Vest resolution requiring the committee on finance to report a bill removing the duty on coal. Mr. Aldrich announced there were strong hopes of action being taken elsewhere with the view to removing the duty on coal. The proposition was not acceptable to Mr. Vest, who expressed the opinion that to allow the resolution "to go into the uncertain and nebulous future" would mean its defeat.

Mr. Nelson continued his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill, and a large number of private pension bills were passed by unanimous consent.

At 5:10 p. m. the senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Representative Tongue of Oregon.

Solomon's Temple at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—It is stated that the reproduction of King Solomon's temple on a large scale will be one of the attractions at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, the acceptance of the concession now being practically assured. Working models, paintings and designs, which the promoter says represent an outlay of $130,000, have been inspected by members of the exposition management. From these models the temple will be reproduced as a counterpart of the famous original. The estimated cost is nearly $500,000.

Coal Shortage In Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 13.—For the first time during the winter the fuel situation has become serious in this city. Coal dealers generally, while not so well stocked as in former years, were fairly well supplied with anthracite coal up to a week ago. The ruling price has been $15 a ton, but even at these figures the supply has become nearly exhausted. Several business concerns have been forced to close for want of coal.

Colored Man Gets Boston Office.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—William H. Lewis, a colored man, has been appointed an assistant attorney general for Boston. The appointment was made by Henry P. Moulton, the United States district attorney for the Boston district, but it is understood that the selection was made on the suggestion of President Roosevelt. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of Harvard University Law school.

Two Hundred Chinese Drowned.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai says a landslide occurred at Nankin yesterday and resulted in the drowning of 200 Chinese.

EXPRESS TRAIN ICEBOUND.

Continental Limited Held For Fifteen Hours on the Detroit River.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 13.—The passengers on the Wabash railway's eastbound Continental Limited had the unique experience yesterday of being icebound for fifteen hours in the Detroit river on board the transfer steamer Great Western. The train was backed on to the boat here about midnight, four hours late, most of the passengers being asleep at the time. When they awoke in the morning, they were out in the river in the midst of a great field of ice.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the Great Western finally forced a passage into a landing slip on the Canadian side of the river and the Continental Limited was pulled off the boat. About 1 o'clock, however, the boat had been near enough to the dock so that some of the male passengers crawled across a ladder from the boat to the dock. There was no dining car or buffet on the train, and the passengers were a very hungry lot. Lunch was sent aboard for the women and children, and the men passengers who had crawled ashore scurried for something to eat. The train left for the east at 3:40 o'clock.

Westbound train No. 9 on the same road was held up twelve hours in Windsor waiting for a steamer to carry it across the river. The passengers were kept warm and comfortable in the cars. Train No. 1, the westbound Continental Limited, which was due here at 7:30 in the morning, arrived at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

PORTO RICO LEGISLATURE.

Island to Surrender Lands Set Apart For National Purposes.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 13.—The insular legislature was convened yesterday and organized to hear Governor Hunt's message.

At the joint session of both houses held today the legislature recommended that the island surrender all claim to those public lands which may be set aside by President Roosevelt for national purposes, and the legislature will grant sites for American naval stations here and at Culebra.

It is understood that this plan is in pursuance of an agreement with regard to the location of naval stations in these waters which has been effected with Washington. The failure to provide for naval stations last year was due in part to the refusal of Porto Rico to surrender the desired territory without compensation.

A Woman's Deadly Vengeance.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Effie L. Carson, wife of a railroad machinist and formerly the wife of Ernest Thompson, a printer, shot and instantly killed Robert A. Rigsby, a student in a business college here. The tragedy took place in the law office of Marmaduke G. Bayne, an attorney to whom she had gone for advice. She shot the man twice in the head and once through the heart. She emptied her revolver, the other shots going wild. She then at once delivered herself to the sheriff, going across the street with the smoking weapon in her hand. Mrs. Carson was a teacher of telegraphy in another business college. She charged that Rigsby had circulated stories damaging to her character. She had gone to the lawyer with a paper for Rigsby to sign exonerating her.

Fatal Grade Crossing Accident.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Jan. 13.—A freight train on the Canandaigua branch of the New York Central crashed into a sleigh at a grade crossing a short distance east of Stafford. Of the five occupants of the sleigh one received injuries that caused death a few hours later, two others were so seriously injured that their death is momentarily expected, and two were seriously injured. They are all members of the family of L. J. Mott. A second sleigh, which was following close behind Mott's, was overturned by being brought to a sudden stop to escape running into the train. Four persons in the second vehicle were injured. The two sleighs were part of a funeral procession.

Cheap Coal For Cleveland's Poor.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13.—A committee representing fifteen of the leading coal dealers here called upon the superintendent of the city infirmary and stated that in view of the high price of fuel and the suffering among the poor as a result of the prevailing extremely cold weather they would furnish soft coal to all needy people at cost, or $2.50 per ton. The railroads at the same time agreed to do all switching of the coal without charge. The offer was at once accepted. Coal will be supplied to hundreds of poor families under this arrangement. Only one ton will be sold to each applicant.

What the Trolleys Lost.

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 13.—According to figures given out yesterday, the Lehigh Traction company, operating trolley lines connecting Hazleton and surrounding towns, lost about $38,000 by the miners' strike. The company carried 667,460 less passengers during the year just closed than in 1901. The falling off occurred during the months the collieries were idle.

Cold Weather In Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 13.—The coldest weather of the winter prevails here, the mercury registering a minimum temperature of 21 degrees. A further fall of 4 to 6 degrees is predicted. There has been no snow.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

WANTS BLOCKADE RAISED.

Castro Said to Have Made This Condition—Italy Favorable.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Advices received here indicate that while Minister Bowen comes as Venezuela's commissioner in negotiations looking to a settlement of the claims of the allies, President Castro has made it a condition that the blockade shall be raised before Mr. Bowen proceeds with the preparation of the protocol for the peaceful adjustment of the claims. Moreover, it now develops that in this request Venezuela is likely to have the support of Italy. The United States, though not a party to the negotiations, of course will throw the weight of its moral influence on the same side.

The Italian government is influenced in its course by purely economic considerations. It does not desire to crush Venezuela, but simply to procure the settlement of claims. The continuance of the blockade by sapping the very life of the country threatens to make it impossible for Venezuela to pay the claims within any reasonable period of time, so that any judgment rendered against her by private arrangement or by The Hague tribunal would be hollow and almost without results.

Furthermore, it is held by Italy that there is really no sufficient reason for a continuance of the blockade, which is working great harm to trade, as it already has had its full moral influence upon Castro, and longer punishment would serve no useful purpose in the Italian view. The Italian government, it is stated, remains thoroughly loyal to the alliance into which it has entered with Germany and Great Britain, but that fact, it is held, will not necessarily operate to prevent Italy from using her moral influence to have the alliance do what it regards as right, while still keeping within its lines.

Drowned In Lake Champlain.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Henry Mott of Alburgh, Vt., well known in Vermont and northern New York as a hay buyer, has been missing since last Friday, and it is now known that he was drowned while crossing the lake from Rouse Point, N. Y., to Alburgh on that day. He was often away from home two or three days, so nothing was done about looking for him until yesterday, when a searching party found the ends of the runners of his cutter sticking up through the ice on Lake Champlain between Rouse Point and Alburgh. About fifteen years ago Mr. Mott's first wife was drowned within a few rods of the spot where he lost his life, the cutter in which she and her husband were driving breaking through the ice. On that occasion Mr. Mott came very near drowning.

Inhuman Treatment Charged.

WASHINGTON, N. J., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Susan Beers, wife of John Beers of Good Springs, Franklyn Township, her son, Elijah Beers, and a hired man, Frank Gordon, have been arraigned here, charged with inhuman treatment of the woman's husband. It is charged that among other cruelties practiced on the old man, who is sixty years old, the prisoners used to chain him up in a dilapidated barn and leave him for days in such a position that he was compelled to get on his hands and knees in order to eat the scanty food that was thrown to him on the barn floor. The prisoners pleaded not guilty and were remanded for trial on Jan. 21.

MOODY IN RUNAWAY

Secretary of the Navy Hurt at Annapolis.

INJURIES NOT THOUGHT DANGEROUS

Horses Attached to Carriage Containing Mr. Moody and Senator Hale Took Fright When Salute In Their Honor Was Fired.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—Secretary of the Navy William H. Moody was seriously but not dangerously injured in the Naval academy grounds yesterday by a runaway accident.

Accompanied by Senator Hale, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, the secretary arrived here at 2 o'clock to inspect the new buildings being erected in the Naval academy grounds, being driven from the railroad station in Superintendent Brownson's private carriage.

The battalion of cadets was drawn up in line to salute just inside the academy grounds, and as the carriage bearing the secretary, Senator Hale and their escort, Lieutenant Poyer, passed in review a salute of seventeen guns belched forth from the gun on the Santee wharf. The restive horses attached to the carriage swerved suddenly and got beyond control of the driver. They dashed down Upshur row, past the line of cadets, the driver meantime making every effort to quiet them. The breaking of the pole of the carriage as the spirited animals dashed down the roadway served to render them more excited.

As the maddened animals dashed down the hill toward College creek the driver, seeking to stop them, suddenly turned their heads into a vacant lot between two houses. Secretary Moody, who had opened the door of the carriage as the horses dashed over the frozen ground, suddenly leaped to the pavement as the carriage made the turn into the inclosure. He landed on his face on the pavement and was rendered unconscious by the shock.

The battalion of midshipmen had broken ranks without orders as the carriage dashed by, and very soon the secretary was lifted by tender hands and carried to the nearby residence of Superintendent Brownson, where he shortly recovered consciousness. Slight cuts and bruises on his forehead, nose and face are thought to be the extent of the secretary's injuries. Neither Senator Hale nor Lieutenant Poyer was injured, as the horses were brought up against a wall shortly after making the turn into the open lot.

Secretary Moody and Senator Hale spent the night here as the guests of Superintendent Brownson.

Suit Against Stratton Executors.

DENVER, Jan. 13.—The Stratton Independence company, limited, has filed in the United States court a suit for $6,000,000 against the executors and trustees of the Stratton estate and also against I. Harry Stratton, heir-at-law. The complaint alleges that at the time the mine was sampled preparatory to concluding the sale which had been negotiated through the Venture corporation of London, the samples were "salted" so that the amount of ore according to those samples was valued at $7,000,000, when in reality the ore in sight was worth only $2,000,000 or less. It is alleged that the sacks of samples were opened and thoroughly sprinkled with ground up silvanite.

Honduran Congress Favors Bonilla.

PANAMA, Jan. 13.—Information has been received here that the election last October to the presidency of Honduras of Manuel Bonilla has been approved by the Honduran congress. Senor Bonilla was elected by a big majority. President Sierra, however, refused to turn over the presidential power to him and made efforts to persuade congress to declare his election null. Senor Bonilla retired to Amapala island, where he gathered his followers and a quantity of munitions of war and threatened to start a revolution if he did not obtain his rights.

Coal Famine In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 13.—The fuel situation grows alarming in Topeka. Two of the largest coal companies in the city report that they have not a pound of coal on hand with which to supply their orders and do not know when they will be able to get any. Packing houses and other institutions will have to close in two days unless the situation is relieved. The local gas company may have to close this week, as the works cannot secure coal to make gas. The street railway company has only a small supply of coal on hand. Other Kansas towns report practically the same situation.

Steamer Four Days Without Coal.

QUEENSTOWN, Jan. 13.—Having burned all of her coal supply and every available piece of wood on the ship for fuel with which to make steam, the Leyland line steamer Mexican, in command of Captain Parker and twenty-four days out from New Orleans, bound to London, has reached this port to obtain a sufficient supply of coal to enable her to reach her destination. Captain Parker reports that extremely severe weather was encountered in mid-Atlantic, and his vessel's coal bunkers became exhausted four days ago.

MORE TROLLEYS.

Another trolley company has come into existance and has entered the field in this end of New Jersey. Its proposed route is between Elizabeth and Long Branch and it is recognized as being a competitor for the right to cross the bridge over the Raritan river at Perth Amboy. Its representative was present at the meeting of the Perth Amboy Council when the franchise was given to the Raritan Traction Company and he bitterly fought every step, earnestly urging permission to become a bidder for the franchise in the open. Although the Raritan Company gained what it desired, it looks as if this new corporation was still in the fight and had some plan to bring about the desired end.

A trolley line connecting Elizabeth and the sea shore would undoubtedly be a paying investment, especially if the fares were put at a figure that would compare favorably with the cost of railway transportation. Of course, the trolley would be much slower but in the summer time there would be many who would be only too glad to take advantage of a cheap route to the shore, even if it did require a longer time to make the trip. Such a line would be likely to pass through Rahway and thence across to the Amboys. That ground is already reached by trolleys but a through line to the shore would pick up much travel that the shorter lines could not touch.

All these projected trolley lines serve to bring to mind the remarkable growth of the trolley systems in New Jersey. Plainfield is now connected to the east and west by trolley but an extension of the present lines to the north and south seems only a question of time. There is, without doubt, a decided need of trolley communication with South Plainfield, one of the important stations on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. A line to Metuchen would open up a section hitherto untouched by trolleys and would serve to bring Plainfield in much closer touch with the famous Pennsylvania Railroad. Then a line through the mountains would connect Plainfield with neighbors who, in the past, it has been possible to reach only after a long and circuitous journey. The sooner these lines are built, the better it will be for Plainfield.

When the enthusiasm of prosperity gets to Somerville and that community begins to talk about being the "Queen City of New Jersey," it is really time that Dunellen woke up, too, and put a little fire into its existence. But no, on the contrary, we hear that Dunellen has been reducing salaries. Of course, it's always well to economize but we never had the idea that the salaries paid in Dunellen were munificent enough to be able to lop off portions occasionally when the fever of economy happened to strike that borough. If instead of reducing salaries Dunellen could wake up and spend a little energy booming the town the results might be more advantageous.

Although a majority of the local delegates to the Republican county convention at Elizabeth last fall opposed the nomination of Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, it did not at all signify that he was not a popular man. It was one of those happenings found so frequently in politics in which friends are found arrayed one against another. Since he has been in office at Elizabeth, Mr. Coriell has added if possible to his popularity. The duties of the sheriff often make the task an unpleasant one but so far Mr. Coriell has filled the office in a way that can do nothing but reflect credit upon him.

Decidedly this is an eventful year for the railroads. Although 1903 isn't half a month old yet, a great railway system has changed hands and another railroad is preparing to improve its service by a six track line between two important cities. Then there have been no end of minor happenings.

Although the Assemblies, which used to be such a feature of local society life, have been lacking this year, the season has been an unusually successful one. With the bal masque of the Cotillion Club as the piece de resistance, there has been a succession of delightful affairs of lesser importance.

It may be that the individual bowling tournament that starts at the Park Club at the close of this week will materially assist in arousing enough interest in the league team of the club so that a representative team will be on hand to represent the Parks when desired.

The Newark Sunday Call is an enterprising newspaper. It is preparing to take another step to the fore by installing a new press which will improve its appearance and permit its speedier publication.

For the next month or so it will be our privilege to hear what the Legislature is going to do. At the end of that time it may have possibly accomplished something.

MISSION TEA.

The Women of First M. E. Church Heard About Missions and Enjoyed a Social Hour.

A delightful tea was held yesterday afternoon at Vincent chapel when there was a large attendance and a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed. The tea was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church for the purpose of starting a large interest in the missionary work of the church. Tea was served between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock by Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, assisted by Mrs. N. A. Miller, Mrs. Erastus Clark, Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. D. E Davis, and Mrs. N. W. Pike.

A pleasing programme was rendered during the afternoon. Miss Petrie, of the Presbyterian Mission Board, made a short but interesting address and Miss Etta Raybert sang several very pleasing selections. Letters from the mission field were read by Mrs. J. H. McNaughton after which the rest of the afternoon was spent in a social time.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The recently elected officers of Court Dunellen, I. O. F., were installed at the meeting last evening by State Organizer Bingham, of Elizabeth, who also made a speech. After the installation John Dineen was initiated into the mysteries of the order and five applications were received. Then some regular business was disposed of. The evening closed with a smoker and the serving of refreshments and the enjoyment of a social time.

The sidewalks through town are in horrible condition because of the ice and there is great need for ashes to be spread everywhere.

There was a meeting of the stewards of the Methodist church in the parsonage last evening. Routine work was transacted.

Special prayer meetings will be held in the Methodist church Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights of this week.

Antone Soukoup is recovering from the effects of an accident in which he lost a finger from his left hand.

No communion was administered in the Methodist church Sunday evening. Rev. N. J. Sproul preached.

William Milliken, of New York, is spending some time at the home of his parents on Front street.

The work of beautifying the interior of the Presbyterian church will be begun very shortly.

The teachers board of the Methodist church Sunday school will hold a meeting this evening.

The Afternoon Card Club is holding a meeting this afternoon at the home of Miss Emma Craig.

Postmaster Adam Dealaman still remains in a very serious condition.

The local blacksmiths are doing a rushing business these days.

A. S. Walsh, of Somerville, visited relatives in town yesterday.

The Juniors will hold a regular meeting this evening.

NEW MARKET.

Sunday's hard storm only spoiled the skating for a little while and yesterday it was as good as ever. Despite the cold many enjoyed the sport.

The ice in the streets has made the hill a dangerous sport for horses to go up and down.

William Withers, of Plainfield, is now employed as coachman by William Smith.

Friendship Social Circle will meet this week at the home of Mrs. Nelson Giles.

The children of Charles VanNuis, who have been ill, are recovering.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The newly installed officers of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., are: Councillor, Wm. Jimerson; vice councillor, Wm. Spicer; conductor, Ernest Clark; warden, John Frazee; inside sentinel, George A. Clark; outside sentinel, Horace Hand; financial secretary, Geo. H. Johnston; corresponding secretary, Chas. Wade; treasurer, John Mooney.

Those who were obliged to wander out and brave the weather Monday morning found walking rather dangerous exercise, the sidewalks and roadways being one solid glare of ice. The local blacksmiths were the only ones who seemed pleased or who benefitted by the change in the weather.

Miss Louise Robison, of Brooklyn, who has been spending Saturday and Sundeay with her parents, Freeholder and Mrs. John Robison, returned to Brooklyn Monday.

The newly-elected officers of Fanwood Council, R. A., will be installed tonight by S. D. G. R. Gibbey. A full attendance of the members is desired.

Mrs. Nettie Atwood, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is improving nicely, being able to go out occasionally.

"The Servant and His Sword," will be the subject of the week of prayer service at the Baptist church tonight.

Rev. G. M. Shott was in New York Monday attending the ministers' weekly conference meeting.

Miss Elsie Shott, who has been visiting relatives and friends in New York, has returned home.

Miss Gertrude Maccowen will give a lecture tonight at the Methodist church on "Whittier."

Wm. Alexandra, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The missionary address, given at the Baptist church Sunday morning by Rev. E. J. Brewer, a missionary from China, was much enjoyed. At the close of the address the speaker, who now is representing the New Jersey Children's Home Society in this and certain other counties, presented that cause. He spoke of the need of helping this work, and of the purpose of the society to locate its children in Christian homes by adoption or otherwise. An offering was given by the congregation for the work of the society. Other churches would do well to hear Mr. Brewer and respond to his appeal in behalf of the society which he temporarily represents.

Perhaps the most popular places yesterday in the village were the local blacksmith shops. While all are glad to see the horseshoer reap his harvest from the icy road, many also sympathize with him in the great rush of hard labor so spasmodically brought in.

At the prayer meeting tonight, the subject will be that given for the Christian Endeavor meeting which did not convene Sunday evening, viz.: "Bringing Others to Christ."

Ephraim D. Boice, formerly of this locality but now residing with his son-in-law, Benjamin Hand, of Plainfield, is suffering with symptoms of pneumonia.

Notwithstanding the severe weather the last two days, the children from here who attend the Plainfield schools succeeded in getting there.

Mr. Wakefield, the local miller, came over from Plainfield with his wheel, yesterday morning, but not on it.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Randolph, who spent Monday here, have returned to their home in Dunellen.

BITTEN BY DOG.

Little Girl at Dunellen Attacked and Bitten by Strange Canine Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Jan 13—While playing in front of her home here yesterday, the young daughter of Theodore Voorhees, of Front street, was attacked and severely bitten by a strange dog. The animal appeared suddenly around a corner of the house and sprang at the child, biting her on the left leg, six times, making deep and ugly wounds.

The dog was evidently frightened away and the child was unable to give any description of the animal. Dr. Brakeley was called and he cauterized the child's wounds.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

When it comes to a question of meat—VanSickle—that's all. His market is on North avenue and he will furnish anything in that line at strictly low cash prices. He makes a specialty of fine poultry.

Jerry Foss, the Park avenue seafood dealer, is offering something nice in the way of Long Island frost fish. If you have never tried them you are missing a treat. All other varieties of seafood strictly fresh.

At the apothecary store of T. S. Armstrong at the corner of Park avenue and North avenue a specialty is being made these cold days of cough syrup and grip pills. These are the best remedies for severe colds and attacks of grip.

William Lindsay & Sons, of Mountain avenue, maintain one of the best dairies in New Jersey as hundreds of people can testify. The milk and cream sold by this firm is produced under the most approved sanitary rules and a certificate from the Board of Health attests to this fact.

Physicians will make no mistake if they suggest Nagle's pharmacy as a place to have prescriptions filled. That's where the best of care is taken to use nothing but the purest of compounds in all the work while the prices are reasonable. Nagle's array of toilet articles is magnificent.

If you are planning to have any papering or painting done consult the New York Painting and Decorating Company on Park avenue. They will give you a first-class job and the prices will be right. They have a choice assortment of the latest wallpapers to select from and this firm knows how to hang paper to your satisfaction.

Mr. and Mrs. Selter and their son, Harvard Selter, who are spending the winter at the Park Avenue Hotel, have gone to Atlantic City for a short time.

Locomotive on Trial.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad has on trial on the main line, over the New York division, a locomotive equipped with a patent firebox, designed to consume its own smoke from the soft coal fuel. The engine was built in the company's own shops at Reading, Pa., and if it proves successful, it is the intention of the road to equip every locomotive with the invention.

LARGE PRESS CARTED TO CITY IN TRUCKS

A Rush Order for a Big New York Printing House Taken From Local Press Works.

FREIGHT IS TOO SLOW

SO THE PARTS OF THE PRESS WERE CARTED OVER DURING THE NIGHT.

Wm. Hand & Son's Big Trucks Left Here Last Night and Deposited Their Loads at Printing House of Chas. Francis, New York.

A veritable caravan left this city last evening bound for New York which reminded many people, who saw them start, of the time before the freight system was known and before the railroads were used for carrying heavy freight between this city and New York. There were four wagons in the caravan and they were laden with a great thirteen-ton printing press consigned to a New York printing house.

The teams were the heavy trucks of William Hand & Son, of East Second street. The entire afternoon was taken up at the works of the Campbell Press Works in loading the trucks which were the largest in this city.

The start was made at 8 o'clock, four horses to a wagon and by midnight they were in Newark where they rested until 3 o'clock this morning and then pushed on to New York. The presses were delivered this morning at 6:30 at the printing house of Charles Francis, 30 and 31 West Thirteenth street.

The idea of taking the presses down in wagons instead of on the freight cars was explained by Mr. Hand, Sr. He said that heavy freight sent down to the city by train was liable to be switched off on a siding for several days and perhaps a week, and as the company was anxious to have the new presses put up in a few days, the Campbell Press Company decided that the old style way of handling freight, by team, was the best and safest for quick delivery.

The presses are used in printing music. They are the same kind as those sent down last Tuesday in the same manner. The Francis Company is one of the largest music publishing houses in New York and it has been installing a number of new presses all of which have been made in this city.

Made by Plainfielders.

The Chiron Lubricating Pile Cone and the Chiron Ointment, advertised in The Daily Press, are manufactured by the Chiron Manufacturing Company, of 440 West Fifth street. These remedies are made by a company composed of honorable Plainfield men who have succeeded in placing on the market something for the genuine relief of suffering humanity. The remedies are sold by druggists and are endorsed by physicians and they are guaranteed to do what is claimed for them.

To Give a Dance.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association met last evening, at which time the following persons were appointed as a committee to arrange for a dance in the near future, Louis Bruker, chairman; James McLean, Augustus C. Hoagland, William Daly, C. Schlick, Miss Apgar, Miss Daisy Snyder, Miss Justina Smith, Miss Margaret Kennedy and Miss Brady. No date has been fixed for the dance, this matter being left to the committee.

IMORTANT MEETING!

HANDSOME SILKS.

Chine and Pompadour Silks Used as Trimmings.

Chine and pompadour silks are intermixed with lace on the more sumptuous evening gowns. A deep flounce of ivory silk with lovely groups of rosebuds and foliage in natural tints was arranged on a gown of moss green velvet of rather a light shade. At the edge of the flounce was a border or tuck of velvet overlaid at intervals with motifs of lace. The velvet fell over the chine flounce in deep slender points which were tasseled in green silk. The bodice was almost indescribable, so intermixed were the three materials—lace, velvet and chine silk. The very abbreviated bolero of velvet had a deep flounce of lace, and the low neck had a quaintly shaped bertha of the silk opening in vandykes over the velvet.

Pompadour taffeta in a delicate iris design was used as a trimming to a lace gown. These fancy silks make admirable trimmings used in strips or medallions.

The smart black and white waist in the illustration is of black chiffon shirred into bands and livened by a collar and front of all over lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY TOUCHES.

Handsome Creations Which Show the Latest Trimmings.

Evening dress of the moment is distinguished by an exceeding daintiness. The tiniest of ribbons, the smallest of fringes, traceries of sequins and tassels innumerable may be found decking frocks of chiffon and net, while ruffings of chiffon are essential to the hem of any well made evening dress.

A handsome evening dress recently made was of white mousseline trimmed with stripes of black chantilly lace joined with bands of black velvet ribbon. Frillings of white mousseline decorated the decolletage and formed the twisted bows which did duty as sleeves.

IMPORTED GOWN.

Another more elaborate creation was entirely made of white lace striped with folds of gray and white chiffon, with medallions of white panne and applications of gray velvet edged with chenille. On the bodice was a decoration of yellow roses. Chenille fringes were pendent from the panne ornaments.

An odd and at the same time handsome gown is shown in the picture. It is of heavy ficelle lace over pale green crepe de chine. The full sleeves are of pale green chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Then He Went.

"I used to like winter weather when I was a boy," said Mr. Staylait, "but, I tell you, the older I get the more I hate to go out into the cold."

"Yes," said she, repressing a yawn, "and, gracious, you're getting older every minute, aren't you?"—Philadelphia Press.

Shoulder Cape Effects on Tailor Mades.

Strappings on skirts and on cloth and zibeline suits are much wider and covered with stitched lines. They are disposed in lengths pointed or tabbed. Some run in lines over seams, others are arranged in graduated groups, the wide strappings on light colored gowns are rendered more prominent by a cording of black silk or satin running around the strap, and the pointed ends are finished with three to five of the tiniest black silk buttons.

In Paris and Vienna many of the new models have shoulder capes elaborately trimmed with lace and fur. These are arranged as deep collars on the blouse or sack coat and correspond with the toilet. Shaped strappings are very elegant on these cape collars, and tassels are largely used. An exquisite costume of green velvet was made with a sack coat barely touching the top of the hips and simply trimmed with stitched bands of velvet. The sleeves, cut in bell form, were drawn into a rather large cuff of ermine, and the deep cape collar which covered the top of the arm had two narrow rows of ermine, of which the lower one ran up to meet an ermine collar about four inches deep.

One of the latest Paris models in evening gowns is here shown.

CHAPTER XVIII.

MR. PENCE DISCOVERS GOLD.

With much difficulty Mr. Simon Pence scaled the heights overlooking the bay, and, aided by Vincent, finally reached the top. He cast one lingering look behind, and followed his young and sturdy companion into the half-jungle which lay before them. They found it possible, by following the cliffs along the ocean, to make fairly rapid progress. Their march was hindered by frequent gorges, but they proceeded laboriously but steadily in a southern direction.

Shortly after noon they ate their luncheon. They rested on a ledge fronting the sea. Two miles to the south a huge crag reached out into the blue water, and beyond no land was visible. They decided to make an attempt to climb the promontory, believing that it would afford a view of the south shore, and perhaps a general survey of the island.

The brush thickened. They slowly forced their way through a thicket; Mr. Pence in advance. Suddenly he gave a cry of terror, and fell over Vincent in his wild retreat.

Before them stood a monster—the grotesque figure of a human being, with outstretched arms, hideous face and protruding teeth. At a glance Vincent recognized it as a stone image, and shouted reassuringly to the fleeing explorer.

In the open space before them were the massive ruins of temples and palaces; the tomb of a city which had flourished and decayed long before the dawn of recorded history. On mound and terrace were crumbling relics of a former grandeur.

The ruins covered many acres, and lay back from the cliffs a distance not exceeding 100 yards. There were traces of ancient fountains, with figures half-buried in the mud and slime of what once were pleasing pools.

In the center of the ruined city was a pyramidal mound, surmounted by the wreck of what once must have been an imposing structure. Vincent climbed up this mound and gazed with awe on the grewsome figures which were scattered in odd postures around the stone floor of the temple. In one corner the floor had caved in and revealed a subterranean vault or chamber of unknown extent. Vincent lowered himself to the floor below. At first it was so dark he could not survey his surroundings, but his eyes became accustomed to the gloom. He stumbled over the uneven surface and entered a passageway leading to the left. Mr. Pence called to him from overhead, and Vincent answered; his voice sounding sepulchral as it echoed through the corridors. A fallen stone block half closed the opening into a smaller room. Vincent lit a match and entered. The walls were covered with a growth of fungus, but his eyes were riveted to a collection of carved figures of various size which lined three sides of the wall.

They evidently were images or idols, and were ugly enough to have scared the worshippers into any confession or belief. They rested on a stone shelf formed by the top of a mosaic wainscoting which projected from the walls. Vincent picked up one of the smaller images and started back to examine it more carefully in the daylight. It seemed remarkably heavy, but he imagined it to be bronze or copper, tarnished by the rust of ages. Vincent found Mr. Pence looking down into the hole, but making no move to quit terra firma.

"See what I have found," said Vincent, handing the idol to Mr. Pence.

"What a singularly ugly thing," remarked the capitalist as he handled it gingerly. "It's awful heavy. What's it made of?"

Vincent pulled himself out of the hole and brushed the mold from his clothes. Mr. Pence looked intently at the image. He "hefted" it judiciously. It was of a rusty brown color, but smooth and well preserved.

"Remarkably heavy!" said Mr. Pence. His eyes glittered and he was much excited.

"Let me take your knife," he said. Vincent produced a knife and opened the big blade. Mr. Pence dug into the flat nose of the idol. He gave the knife a circular motion, and on the end of the blade lay a shining

"Gold!" he shouted. "Gold! Sona gold! Solid gold, and it weighs more than ten pounds!"

The face of the millionaire was a study. For a moment it shone with the splendor of the gold shaving which rested in the palm of his hand. At that instant he was oblivious to his surroundings. He clenched the image tightly and regarded it with a rapt expression such as a mother lavishes on her babe. Suddenly his attitude changed. He recovered himself with a start. His face darkened. He glared at Vincent and drew back from him as in aversion.

"Where did you find this?" he almost shrieked in a voice harsh and trembling with excitement.

"Back in there," said Vincent, waving his hand away from the mouth of the cavern. "There's lots of them back there."

"Take me there! Take me there!" He dropped his voice almost to a whisper. He glanced around as if expecting some one might see or hear him.

"They belong to us," he said, laying his hand affectionately on Vincent's shoulder. "To us; do you understand, to us. We found them—you and I. They are ours, Vincent, all ours. We will divide them between us two—just you and I. Help me down there. Let me see them. Are you sure there is a lot of them? Perhaps they are not like this one. Bigger, did you say? Which way is it? How awful dark it is! Take hold of my hand!"

Before the magic of the touch of gold the natural cowardice of the elderly millionaire disappeared. Twice he fell and bruised his hands, but he did not care. They came to the vault. Vincent went in first and lit a match. Mr. Pence gave an exclamation of delight. He rushed to one of the images, lifted it, ran his fingers lovingly over the surface and laughed with joy. The match burned out and the room was dark as midnight.

"Light another, quick!" shouted Simon Pence. "I'll tell you what you do," he exclaimed, as the match lightened up the gloom. "I will stand outside and you hand them to me, and I will carry them where we can see them."

Vincent did as he was told. He started at one end of the shelf and felt his way around, and handed the images to the outstretched hands of Mr. Pence, who carried them along the corridor and placed them in a corner of the outer room. It took an hour or more to do this, at the end of which time Vincent declared that all figures were removed. Mr. Pence began testing the images. As he dug into each idol and found it gold his joy knew no bounds. Vincent also was delighted. He owned a half interest in more property than he ever had hoped to obtain, unless by chance some of his cherished plans should find a financier. Both forgot the flight of time. They counted the idols and images and found there were 63. They then attempted to estimate the weight of their treasures. They calculated the smallest one at ten pounds and the others ranged all the way up to one estimated at not less than 70 pounds. As nearly as they could judge, after carefully estimating the weight of each image, the total was about 1,575 pounds.

"How much is gold worth a pound?" asked Vincent, as he held an idol out at arm's length. He remembered that he could "hold out" a weight of 30 pounds, and this one required all of his muscular effort.

"Gold is worth about $224 a pound," said Mr. Pence. "That is based on the amount of gold in coins. This looks like pure gold to me. It is awful soft. Don't rub that image like that; you will wear it out. What time is it?"

Vincent had no watch; neither had Mr. Pence, but they thought it was about three o'clock in the afternoon.

"We must be going back at once," said Vincent. "What are we going to do with those things? We can't carry them with us. Let's each take two of the smaller ones and start along. We can get help to-morrow and carry the rest of them to the bungalow. In the meanwhile we will put them back in that vault."

"What are you talking about, man?" exclaimed Simon Pence. "Go and leave this gold here? Never! Never, sir, never! Go away and leave $350,000 in gold unguarded? I cannot think of it. You go back to camp and get help. I will remain."

"Who is going to find it or steal it?" demanded Vincent. "The chances are that no one has been here before in a thousand years. If they had been, the gold would not be here. It is as safe as in a vault in New York. Come along, Mr. Pence. How dark it is getting! What is that moaning sound? We must go back. It is going to storm."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?
In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.
The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.
This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.
With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.
Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

Sad Climax of Sweet Love-Making by Phonograph.

Experiment That Promised Pleasant Possibilities Terminates in Dire Disaster to Its Enterprising Promoter.

Making love by phonograph is the latest fad.

No one believes that it will ever be popular and the experience of a well-known Philadelphian may put a damper upon other swains ambitious to do something unconventional in the winning of womanly hearts, as related by the Philadelphia Press.

This is the well-known's experience:

"Went to see a friend," said he, "and he showed me something that made me open my eyes. He has just patented a new phonograph. It was the best thing of the kind I've ever seen—or heard. There is no irritating metallic sound about its tones, and the 'records' are so made that the machine will run for eight or ten minutes.

"Well, I thought I'd borrow that phonograph and pay a visit to my sweetheart.

"It was not a vest pocket affair, however. The thing weighed 100 pounds or more, and for that reason I did not think of using it as a watch charm.

"But it played some music tunes, and I wanted my girl to hear them, so I lugged the whole thing to her house. It was as heavy as lead, and I had a hard trip of it. But at the girl's house it was a great hit, and the result was that for some months I lugged 'the pet' around to the homes of the best girls of quite a few of my friends.

"It was great—sort of love-making-made-easy affair, you know, and a winner every shot. We had more girls than we knew what to do with.

"It was a strange looking contrivance, you understand, and in order to reassure the girls it was necessary for us to hold their hands whenever the music box was doing the stunt.

"Well, one night I put the arrangement on the stretcher and carried it two miles through the snow to the home of one of the girls.

"She was the best girl of one of the most bashful fellows you ever saw. He wanted to propose to her, but he lacked the nerve, and so he had concluded to let the phonograph speak his little piece for him.

"I left him alone with the whole business—stretcher, phonograph, record and girl—and agreed to call for him in two hours. When I went back the first thing I saw was the phonograph like a mess of hash in the gutter, and under a nearby tree was the bashful fellow lying at full length and apparently dead on the stretcher. I roused him and demanded an explanation.

"'You gave me the wrong record,' he said, in a sobbing tone, 'and I couldn't stop the blankety-blank thing. Her father and brothers are giants!'

"I called for help and took him home on the stretcher and then returned for the phonograph. It was soon patched up, and then I put into it the record that the bashful fellow had sprung on his girl. Some one started the machine and we heard:

"'Oh, fairest star, thou angel bright, I'd like your ma to be out of sight. Then with a sigh in your one good eye, I'd fondly gaze awhile, and your false hair I'd madly tear unless on me you'd smile.

"'Chorus—Oh, there's only one girl in the world for me; she has a face like a yaller dog and a voice like a gale at sea. But she has money, you can bet, and that coin I will surely get, when she becomes my own Birdie.'

"There were 17 other verses along the same line, but I afterward learned that at the thirteenth verse the girl's screams brought in her father and three brothers. They found her beau working frantically to stop the machine. They were tall, strong, athletic men. It was very painful.

"It appears that one of the fellows composed the doggerel and sang it into the phonograph so as to torment the bashful chap at some time, and that the record got mixed—quite by accident, of course—with the one on which the poor chap's carefully prepared proposal was recorded.

"Yes, he lost the girl."

Now They Want More Pay.

The directors of a bank in Chicago think that no man should marry on a salary less than $1,000 a year. They have, therefore, informed their single clerks who get less than this sum that they must not marry. The clerks have requested higher pay.

BASKET BALL.

In spite of the weather quite a large number of people assembled last evening at the Y. M. C. A. to witness the basket ball game between the local Y. M. C. A. and the association team from New Brunswick, but owing to some misunderstanding the basket ball team did not put in an appearance and the game had to be abandoned, although a practice game was played among the local team. Those who paid their admission had their fee returned.

Not Going to Purchase.

Mr. Schloss, of West Front street, whose father was reported yesterday in another paper as about to purchase a valuable piece of property on West Front street, said this morning that there is absolutely no truth in the report. He says that his father now owns considerable Plainfield property and does not intend to purchase any more at present.

TUNNEL UNDER HUDSON FOR OTHER RAILROADS

Third Company to Tunnel Under Hudson River in the Near Future.

THE ROADS INTERESTED?

RUMOR THAT JERSEY CENTRAL WILL TAKE ADVANTAGE OF IT.

While Railroad Capital is Not Back of Scheme, It is Reported That the Union Terminal Co. Will Co-Operate With Railroads.

Following upon the decision of the New York and New Jersey Railroad Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to build tunnels under the Hudson river, comes the announcement that a third company has so far progressed in its preparations for tunneling the Hudson river that it is now enabled to make public the full details of its new project. The Union Terminal Company, composed of two corporations, one in New York and the other in New Jersey, has perfected plans whereby it will build a tunnel about nine and half miles long, running under the North river from the shore at the southerly part of Hoboken to Fourteenth street, New York City, and work will be started during the coming year.

But most important regarding this new tunnel, or series of tunnels, is the rumor that it will serve to furnish the Jersey Central Railroad, the Erie and Lackawanna Railroads with means to reach New York City without depending on ferryboats. While no absolute confirmation of the story regarding the interest of these railroads in the new tunnel scheme has yet been made, the general attitude of all concerned seems to imply that the rumor has a firm foundation and that, while the railroad companies themselves are not building these tunnels and may not own them, it is the object of this new company to supply some of them at least with means of reaching New York and thus be able to compete on equal terms with the Pennsylvania which is soon to have its own tunnels.

The tunnel will enter the ground near the westerly shore of the Hackensack river, between the main lines of the Erie and Lackawanna Railroads, and continue easterly to suitable connections with the various railroads entering Jersey City and Hoboken. There will be a station on the New Jersey shore, with elevators and moving stairways connecting the station with the street and the trolley lines in the vicinity.

Continuing the tunnel will go under the bottom of the river to a point on the west end of the centre line of Fourteenth street, New York, and easterly under this street to the East river, crossing under this and continuing easterly to a point beneath the intersection of Varick and Montrose avenues, Brooklyn. A large union station will be established at Union Square.

The tunnel under the Hudson river will comprise probably eight steel tubes, each carrying a single track, while under the streets it will be the usual tunnel construction and will be at a distance of from 74 to 97 feet below the surface. It will strike the Hudson river at its narrowest point, and where there is offered the best bottom for a tunnel. It is intended to operate the tunnel railway by electric motors, and it will be lighted by electricity.

The advantage of this tunnel to Jerseyites will be that it will land them in Union Square, where they may continue on the company's branch to Forty-second street or transfer to any of the New York trolleys. While local travel will be considered, the primary object of the tunnel will be to furnish an outlet in New York to the enormous western and suburban passenger traffic that is not covered by the Pennsylvania system. It is estimated that nearly 80,000,000 persons pass annually over the Hudson river by ferry and nearly 130,000,000 tons of freight are brought to the Jersey shore of the river annually. The new tunnel will relieve this congested condition.

The charter of the two companies is for 999 years, and the combined capital is $40,000,000. The New Jersey Company has a nominal capital of $100,000 and its incorporators are Francis H. Leggett, of New York; Edward G. Palmer, of Morristown; Appleton D. Palmer, of East Orange; Kenneth K. McLaren, of Jersey City; Roy Stone, Marice L. Muhleman, of New York, and Joseph A. Duffy, of Long Branch. At the company's office, 860 Broadway, New York, the proposed plans are exhibited.

It is said that President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and President Baldwin, of the Long Island Railroad, have promised that they will not object to the third tunnel and it is even intimated that these two officials will lend their support to the scheme.

RECOVERED ONE DOLLAR FROM TROLLEY COMPANY

Enoch L. VanDoren Won His Suit in Somerset County Court But Must Pay Costs.

RESULT OF A COLLISION

HE CLAIMED NEGLIGENCE OF TROLLEY COMPANY CAUSED THE ACCIDENT.

It Happened Near Dunellen—The Case Occupied All of Yesterday—The Jury Came in at 7 o'Clock —The Other Cases.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 13—Justice Garretson was here again yesterday and virtually wound up the December term of county court, as far as he is concerned.

W. K. McClure, of Plainfield, counsel for the defense in the case of Elijah Stevens against John P. D. Kirch, was unable to be present and that case will go over for the term, unless the court decides to let it be tried before Judge Schenck.

The dispute between Enoch L. VanDoren and the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company took all of yesterday to be settled. The plaintiff is employed by a liveryman at Bound Brook. June 6, 1901, while driving to Plainfield, with a wagon tied back of the one in which he was riding, near Dunellen he met a trolley car, which he claimed was running at a great rate of speed and that a muslin sign fluttered in the breeze from the car. His horse, he said, was so frightened that it dodged from one side of the road to the other, finally getting directly in front of the car and was struck by it. The horse was injured, the wagon damaged, he alleged, and he received injuries in the back from which he has never entirely recovered. Damages were asked for these inconveniences on the grounds of negligence on the part of the trolley people. The defense claimed that the horse frightened at something else alongside of the road and shied directly in front of the car, hence the injuries. Isaac P. Runyon, of Plainfield, and F. A. Pope, of Somerville, were counsel for VanDoren and A. A. Clark appeared for the trolley company.

The jury came in last night at 7 o'clock with a verdict of $1 for the plaintiff after being out four hours. This verdict throws all the cost of the case on the plaintiff.

There will be no criminal trials this term, as two of those indicted have pleaded guilty and the third has not been apprehended.

Monday Judge Schenck will take up the jury appeals and Thursday, Jan. 29, the court appeals.

"Cornering Grain."

Corners in grain are made possible by a scarcity of cash grain, due to drought, large sipments abroad, inability to move grain held by farmers, simultaneous big purchases on the part of a number of large buyers, and numerous other agencies. The most successful corner is usually the one that is most natural; that is, the least forced. For this reason, the big wheat corner of 1881 (run by the same syndicate that failed so signally in 1887) is regarded as the most successful corner in the history of the board in the amount of grain handled and the actual profits resulting from its termination. With 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in hand this syndicate closed with the price at $1.40 a bushel; and the soundness of their calculations was proved when, subsequently, the price of wheat actually advanced ten cents beyond this figure.—Pilgrim.

Woman Beats Climbing Record.

An American woman, Mrs. Fannie Workman, has made the ascent of the Loongma glacier, beating all climbing records in the Himalayas. She had already made a name for herself as a mountain climber, having succeeded, in company with her husband, Dr. William Hunter Workman, in ascending Kosher Gunge, one of the great peaks of the Himalayas. At that time she attained an altitude of 21,000 feet, which is greater than any other woman ever reached. Three or four Englishmen have gone higher in the Himalayas than Dr. and Mrs. Workman, but no other woman has ever been so high.—Philadelphia Press.

The Cowboy.

The cowman's idea of a good time is measured by the amount of money it costs him. When he goes to Kansas City with a train load of stock he generally has a good time. A good time means champagne. Champagne comes high; it is unquestionably genteel; therefore the cowman buys it at all hours. A cowman's breakfast order in a leading Kansas City hotel cafe was fried catfish and champagne.—World's Work.

"No, indade, ma'am, she is not—she's gone out in a 'beauty!'" said the maid.—Woman's Home Companion.

MILLION FOR HIS INVENTION

J. W. Taggart Tells of Offer of Pennsylvania Railroad for His Rotary Engine.

HIS OTHER INVENTION

Secured Patents for a Gas Engine That Can be Reversed—A Press Reporter Visits the Netherwood Home of the Inventor and Sees His Models.

What Thomas A. Edison says he has just succeeded in accomplishing for the electrically propelled automobile, a local inventor has, he claims, accomplished for the steam and gasoline driven auto. What hundreds of inventors have been working on for almost as many years a Plainfielder has at last arrived at and at present he has a machine which will revolutionize steam and gasoline propulsion for automobiles, steam engines, steam boats, railroads, and, in fact, anything that can be driven by steam, gasoline, water power or compressed air. At his home in Netherwood, James W. Taggart, millwright, machinist, engineer, inventor and genius, has an engine, an insignificant looking piece of mechanism, for which, only a few weeks ago, the inventor claims, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company offered him $1,000,000.

A Daily Press reporter visited the home of this remarkable man a few afternoons ago and the working principles of these wonderful machines were demonstrated by the inventor. The house is a handsome residence when viewed from the outside but as the visitor approaches the house up the winding driveway from the street he at once realizes that he is approaching the abode of an inventor. On the lawn is a merry-go-round for the children, mounted on ball bearing gearing and driven by a belt attached to a small engine. This is for the children to play on in the summer time. On the front porch of the house, in pronounced contrast to the finished appearance of the outside architecture of the dwelling, is a huge gas engine, a machine invented by the inmate.

A pull at the door bell brings to the door a smiling person who greets one warmly by the hand and invites him inside. The visitor is led into a well kept hall and from thence into what would properly be the dining room but in reality is Mr. Taggart's machine shop. There on the floor is a queer little pile of steel and iron on which the inventor has spent $75,000 to perfect. That pile of iron, ("a pile of iron" because it is like anything but a steam engine) is the wonderful machine, or one of them as he really has two wonderful inventions in the room.

The inventor, first carefully explaining that he has his invention covered by patents, then informs the visitor that he has perfected a rotary engine that will develop power at only five pounds of steam pressure to the square inch and at twenty-five pounds of pressure a speed of 7,000 revolutions per minute can be attained and thirty horse power can be secured. What is more the entire machine when running can be rested on a man's shoulder with the greatest ease and even when running at that great speed will not suffer the least jolting. This is the machine for which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just made its offer.

The secret of the machine is even now jealously guarded by the inventor and H. A. Wise Woods, president of the Campbell Press Company, with whom the inventor is associated. The fundamental principle is the revolving cylinders and the absence of any sliding pistons or eccentrics. It is worked on the general plan of the turbine excepting that this engine, when running at a speed of 7,000 revolutions a minute, can instantly be reversed without a single jolt or jar. This engine is capable of being made small enough to operate a baby carriage or can be made large enough to propell the largest ship afloat. At the smallest steam pressure, power is obtained as well as at the highest. This is not the case with the ordinary turbine.

The inventor claims to have also solved another problem which will revolutionize machinery. This is a reversible gas engine, which he also has covered by patents. Common as gas

NO RISE.

Ice Dealers Declare That Price of Ice Remains Where It Was and Will Probably Stay There.

Recently there was a report in circulation that the local ice dealers had increased the price of ice to fifty cents a hundred. Inquiry concerning the story revealed the fact that the dealers disclaim the truth of the statement. They say that there has been no increase and that there is not likely to be. Unless there should be a short crop the price for ice is destined to stay where it is.

The cold snap of the past few days has made the heart of the ice dealer glad for the prospects of getting a good supply are now very bright. On some of the ponds cutting will commence today and unless the weather should very suddenly grow warmer, there will be no trouble in getting the supply in the various houses.

KNOCKED DOWN; RUN OVER

EDSON, YOUNG SON OF F. T. WOODHULL, INJURED BY PASSING WAGON.

Ran in Front of Wagon While in Play and Knocked Down—No Bones Were Broken.

Edson Woodhull, the eight-year-old son of F. T. Woodhull, of the firm of Woodhull & Martin, met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon in front of the Whittier school.

The boy was playing about when he suddenly darted into the street directly in the path of an approaching wagon. The step of the wagon struck the boy in the face, knocking him down. As the driver started to turn out the rear wheels passed over the lad's back near the shoulder blades.

At the home of the boy at 926 West Front street, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges made an examination and found that no bones were broken although the muscles are severely strained and it will be several days before he will be able to be out again. The worst injuries are on the face. One eye is closed and is badly swollen where the step struck him.

Mr. Woodhull does not hold the driver responsible for the accident as he says it was not in any way his fault.

WRECKED BUILDING.

Gas Explosion at Bound Brook Injured Mrs. Alward, Besides Demolishing Building Nearby.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 14—A terrific explosion shook this place this morning when a large cistern used for acetylene refuse from an experiment station exploded from accumulated gases and wrecked the tank and building, besides injuring a woman who was a block away from the explosion.

The explosion occurred without an warning whatever just after a fresh charge of the gaseous refuse had been emptied into the pool. A deep hole was made in the ground. Mrs. Alward, mother of Mrs. J. P. Taylor, whose husband is the president of the Taylor Iron and Steel Works, was thrown down and was rendered hysterical. She is in a critical condition.

TO IMPROVE IT.

Property Near Hospital to be Built Up at Once.

A West End real estate deal has just been consummated whereby a well known land owner has come into possession of an important piece of property in the vicinty of Muhlenberg Hospital. It is his intention to immediately improve the purchase by erecting a large number of houses upon it. Final arrangements for the buildings will be completed within a short time.

Rescue Mission for Dunellen.

William Richards, of East Third street, who has heretofore been engaged in evangelistic work, has under consideration the plan of establishing a rescue mission at Dunellen. He has been promised the use of the W. C. U. U. rooms at that place, and within a short time he will probably inaugurate a series of meetings.

Turned Ankle.

Mrs. Sharkey, of 203 East Front street, turned her ankle yesterday morning in front of Powers' drug store and was unable to resume her way home until the member was dressed in the pharmacy. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan bandaged the injury.

Still Working.

Despite the cold weather of the past few days, the men employed in the rebuilding of the Babcock building have continued their work. The building now begins to show evidence of the amount of work accomplished.

MEN'S CLUB PLAYED THE PART OF HOST

'Ladies' Night" Held by the Men's Club of Congregational Church Last Evening.

MANY WERE PRESENT

"THE STUDY OF BIRDS WITH THE CAMERA," SUBJECT OF TALK.

Very Interesting Talk by Frank M. Chapman, Assistant Curator at New York Museum of Natural History—It Was Illustrated.

The members of the Men's Club, of the Congregational church, gave an entertainment and reception last evening in honor of the women of the congregation, in the church when there were no less than 200 people present. The affair was the second one of its kind given by the club and was a great success.

The entertainment was held in the church proper, and was opened by a short address of welcome by Alexander Millar, chairman of the committee on arrangements, on behalf of the members of the club. Mrs. F. M. Ward rendered a pleasing contralto solo.

Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator of the ornithological department of the Museum of Natural History, of New York, was present and entertained for an hour with an interesting talk on "The Study of Birds With the Camera." His talk was illustrated by stereopticon views which showed the birds in their nests and in flight in the woods.

Mrs. Ward again rendered several selections after which the committee served refreshments of cake and ice cream and the rest of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

Those who were in charge of the programme and who provided the entertainment were: Alexander Millar, Stacy Raynolds, M. C. VanArsdale and Charles E. Steiner, assisted by the women of the congregation who furnished the cake.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church is an organization which has as its chief object interesting men, who are not in the habit of attending church regularly, in the church of which the club is an adjunct. The club is over two years old. The entertainment last night was the second one of its kind held since the club was organized and was a gratifying success to those who had the arrangements under their supervision.

ANOTHER CALL.

Rev. J. W. Richardson Called to Former Charge at Stamford—To Announce Decision Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, who has been pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church ten years and two months, last evening received by letter a formal call to return to the pastorate of the Stamford, (Conn.,) Baptist church, where he was pastor for nearly five years. This call comes with the prospects of an advance in the near future.

Mr. Richardson has not yet decided whether he will accept the call or not, but his decision in the matter will be made Sunday morning at the regular church service. This is not the first attempt made by the Baptist church of Stamford to secure the return of Mr. Richardson, and now that the call has been made so unanimous, it would not be unlikely if it should be accepted.

WANT STATE TO PAY HALF

Somerset County Freeholders Have An Idea Regarding Aid in Road Building.

PLEA FOR GOOD ROADS

Freeholders Agree to Macadamize a Road Near Mountain, If Bound Brook Will Do Its Share—Petitions for Other Roads Were Received—Other Business.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 14—Great work was done by the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at its regular monthly meeting in the Court House, yesterday, and the shades of night were falling fast ere adjournment was taken.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the session to lovers of good roads and those who wish to help the county in its good work at macadamizing will be the resolution, introduced by Member E. V. Cruser, of Skillman, and unanimously adopted. It was as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the members of this board that the members of the Senate and Legislature from this county be instructed to use their influence and vote to so amend the State Aid Road act that the State pay 50 per cent., the township wherein located 10 per cent., the property owners fronting 5 per cent. and the county the balance of the cost of all roads hereafter constructed.

"Resolved, That the clerk of the board be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the Senate and member of Assembly of this county."

Former Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, offered in behalf of the citizens who had petitioned for macadamizing Mountain avenue in Bound Brook, from the corporation line to the foot of Watchung mountain, and urge that this road be built during the present road year. He was eloquent in his plea respecting the benefit this would be to the people of that section and the citizens of the county in general.

Charles J. Gummersbach and other prominent citizens made brief remarks, respecting the improvement of this thoroughfare. The Freeholders by this time were quite worked up. Director Logan left the chair and Mr. Codington took his place.

Then the "watch-dog of the county's treasury" moved that the engineer be instructed to survey the road applied for and advertised for bids for same, providing the Borough Council of Bound Brook will build to the end of the borough line. This motion was carried, unanimously, and it was decided to call for bids to be opened at the Court House on February 17, at 11 o'clock.

A petition for a stone road from Somerville to the Hunterdon county line was ordered placed on file, as the board had had quite enough to do with ordering roads built for one day.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that the county will hereafter refuse to pay any bills to justices, constables or the sheriff for the arrest, commitment or board of tramps.

Other business of a minor nature was transacted, after which the board adjourned to meet at the Leupp bridge in Franklin township, Saturday at 11 o'clock.

Rescuer Now Ill.

C. O. Smith, the milkman who saved the little girl, Esther Wolff, of Somerset street, from a ferocious dog, as told exclusively in The Daily Press of Monday, is confined to his home by rheumatism of the heart, partly caused by his fierce encounter with the animal, when he tried to beat it off as it attacked him.

BARTENDER THREW HIM OUT

THE QUESTION WAS WHETHER UNDUE FORCE WAS USED.

Recorder Doud Decided There Was and Fined Bartender Casey $15.

Recorder Doud heard, last evening, the cases of John Casey, bartender, and Albert Rochette, a Dunellen brick manufacturer, charged with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct Monday evening at Burns' Crescent Hotel, on Somerset street.

Rochette, when called upon to state his case, said that he was guilty and was fined $5 which he paid and departed. Casey pleaded not guilty and was defended by Lawyer Robert M. Clark.

The defence claimed that Rochette was drunk and disorderly and that when ordered to leave the saloon he refused to go and force had to be used to eject him. George Stewart, who was called as a witness, testified that undue force was used to put the man out and that he saw Rochette sail out of the front door of the saloon like a bombshell with Casey's foot as the projector.

The judge held that undue force was used and imposed a fine of $15 on Casey. Lawyer Clark protested and claimed that a bartender had a right to eject a man from his place of business and if necessary, to use force. He said that the fine would be paid under protest and that the case would be appealed on certorori.

During the course of the trial Casey received a severe reprimand from the Judge.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION

Both Houses of State Legislature Convened Yesterday For the Winter Term.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Was Sent to Both Houses—Union County Well Cared for in Appointment of Committees—Governor Sent Several Appointments to Senate for Confirmation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 14—With the usual semi-holiday accompaniments of visitors and a profusion of floral tributes, the 127th session of the State Legislature began at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Almost immediately after the organization adjournment was taken until Monday night.

Seven new Senators, and one re-elected, the latter Joseph Cross, of Union, were sworn in. The Republican caucus slate was adopted without change in both houses in the election of officers, John G. Horner, of Burlington, being made speaker of the House and Elijah C. Hutchinson, of Mercer, president of the Senate. Both made brief speeches of acceptance.

In his address, Senator Hutchinson warned his colleagues against the tendency to establish new State institutions or projects involving large expenditures, explaining that in future years the present income may not be so large and it would mean a State tax. A continuance of the past conservative policy, he said, would mean doubling the treasury balance.

After the reading of the Governor's message in the Senate, a communication was received from him which contained the nomination of Francis J. Swayze, the present Circuit Court Judge, of Essex, to succeed Justice Gilbert Collins on the Supreme Court bench. The resignation of Justice Collins is to take effect on February 1. The other nomination sent by the Governor was that of Frederick Adams, of Essex county, to succeed Judge Swayze. Robert Waterbury, of Union, was appointed Senate journal clerk.

Senator Joseph Cross, of Union, was appointed to preside over the deliberations of the joint appropriations committee and to act as chairman of the municipal corporations and public grounds and buildings committees. He is also a member of the committees on public health, and the sinking fund. Senator Childs, of Somerset, who was elected last fall, was made a member of the committees on public health and appropriations.

The opening of the House was lengthy and more spectacular. Edmund G. Stalter, of Passaic, as master in chancery, administered the oath to the members. In the election of officers, George J. Coe, of Plainfield, was made journal clerk.

In the House committees, Assemblyman Newcorn, of Union, was made a member of those on bill revision and chairman of revision of laws and industrial school for girls, boroughs and borough commissions. The other Union county members were placed as follows: Coyne, education, elections, Federal relations and soldiers' home; Hall, public health, unfinished business and public grounds. Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Somerset, will be on the committees of boroughs and borough commissions and printing.

engines are there have never been any made that could be reversed and therefore their market value has been limited. By a simple though ingenious method the inventor reverses all the general laws governing the building of gas engines and has cast aside all precedent and has simply reversed the engine and makes the cylinder work the same as the piston usually does. In other words he takes the piston and makes it stationary and works the cylinder back and forth over the piston. Reinforced by an ingenious method of controlling the gas, compression, explosion and exhaust, he secures power at every revolution of the machine.

L. A. Riker, of the Locomobile Company of America, has arranged with the inventor to look at this machine this week with a view to testing its adaptability for automobile purposes. He will visit the residence of the inventor where he will see the engine in operation.

In speaking of his rotary engine, Mr. Taggart said that he had received a letter from Prof. Thurston, of Cornell University, the recognized steam expert in the world, in which he said that the tests which he saw of the machine, while it was in operation for a week at the Campbell Printing Press Works where it operated the entire factory, and again at Philadelphia, where it was on exhibition, that in his opinion the machine is the only solution yet arrived at for the successful operation of a reversible rotary engine and that its possibilities are unlimited. Mr. Taggart shows the signature of Prof. Thurston and the letter to show that it is genuine.

Thirteen million dollars were given by the English Government for the turbine patents now used in the Great Britain navy. The turbines, or rotary engines are not even reversible and with the machine that Mr. Taggart has invented greater possibilities are open to its usage both on water and on land and the financial remuneration which Mr. Taggart expects to reap from his six years of study on the subject and from the resulting machine is even greater than that.

Local members of the Union County Bar Association are making a strong effort to have the proposed annual dinner take place in this city. At 7:15 o'clock this evening, Everitt Lyon, of Belmar, will read a paper on "Pleasure and Profit in Honey Production," with stereopticon views; at 8 o'clock, J. H. Hale, champion peach grower of Connecticut, will give "Culture, Pruning and Marketing the Peach," with stereopticon views.

At 11:30 o'clock, Friday morning, Professor John B. Smith, the State entomologist, will make his report. He will probably have something to say about the crusade against the mosquito pest he prosecuted last summer.

Y. M. C. A. Election.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening, when six new directors will be elected. A social time has been arranged when Harry Bryant, a ventriloquist, will be present and will entertain. A report of the year's work will be read at the meeting.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

Daniel Frohman is presenting that talented actress, Bertha Galland, at the Grand Opera House, New York, for this week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The Wednesday matinee will be at popular prices. This will be Miss Galland's first engagement at the westside playhouse. Her play will be Paul M. Potter's stage version of Victor Hugo's celebrated romance, "Notre Dame," in five acts and seven tableaux. This adaptation was originally written for Miss Galland and was presented first by Mr. Frohman's stock company at Daly's Theatre only because the actress at that time had a play and the stock organization was in need of material. Miss Galland will have the advantage of the spectacular production of the romance as given at Daly's, and many of those who appeared in the original cast will be in her support at the Grand.

The headline act at Keith's Theatre, New York, for the coming week is Woodward's seals, undoubtedly the most interesting animal act now before the public. May Duryea and John Kearney, in their original comedy sketch entitled "The Impostor," gets second place on the bill. Haines and Vidocq, the well known exponents of black face comedy; Billy S. Gould, vocalist and comedian, noted for his rendering of Coster songs; and John W. Bowker, the celebrated globe trotter in a new travelogue entitled "Contrasts," said to be the most interesting of the many offerings of the kind which he has put before the public, are all noteworthy. A distinct novelty is furnished in the Clan Johnstone Troupe, who give a varied and unique exhibition of national dances in costume. Francelli and Lewis, high-class vocalists; Bellmont and O'Brien, eccentric comedians; Tanner and Gilbert, the grotesques; Ada Arnoldson, the beautiful Swedish contralto singer; Carlotta Delmar, the trick bicyclist, and a dozen other good acts are all on this bill, one of the best balanced and most interesting that Mr. Keith has offered for some time.

Forty Hours Devotion.

The forty hours of devotion in St. Joseph's church came to a close yesterday morning at 10:30, when a special solemn high mass was celebrated. Rev. Father Miller was the celebrant; Rev. Father Brennan, of Trenton, was the deacon, and Rev. Father Tyrell, of the diocese of Trenton, was the sub-deacon. Special music was a feature of all the services and large numbers of people attended the masses.

TAFT WILL REMAIN

President and Cabinet Consider Change Unwise.

FILIPINOS' PROTESTS ARE HEEDED.

Present Governor of the Philippines Has the Confidence and Good Will of the Islanders and Cannot Be Spared.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—After mature consideration it has been decided by the president that Judge Taft shall remain in the Philippines as civil governor. The decision was reached only after the president had discussed the Philippine question thoroughly with Secretary Root and the other members of his cabinet and with Vice Governor Luke E. Wright, who has been in this country for two months.

For several weeks it has been regarded as settled that Governor Taft would return to this country, perhaps in a few months, to become a justice of the United States supreme court. President Roosevelt indicated to Governor Taft in a letter dispatched to the Philippines more than a month ago that he could have the appointment to the supreme bench if he desired it. It was the president's purpose to name General Wright as civil governor of the Philippines.

As soon as it was learned in the Philippines that Governor Taft was likely to leave the islands cabled protests began to pour in on the president from prominent Filipinos. On Monday the president was in receipt of a cablegram from some of the most important interests in the Philippines urging the retention of Governor Taft as civil governor.

The protests received in no manner reflected on Vice Governor Wright, for whom the people of Manila and of the islands generally have the highest regard, but it was pointed out to the president that Governor Taft was ideally equipped for the position of governor and that any change at this time would be disastrous to the best interests of the archipelago. It was maintained that Governor Taft's relinquishment of his post would retard the development of the islands fully five years.

Yesterday, in response to the president's letter offering to him the supreme justiceship, a cablegram was received from him suggesting, with a sincere appreciation of the tender made to him by the president, that it might be better for him in view of all the circumstances to remain where he is. After this it was announced unofficially, but entirely authoritatively, that Governor Taft would remain indefinitely as civil governor of the Philippines.

Fatal Benzine Explosion.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14.—Sidney Knight, son of Thomas Knight, proprietor of a japanning factory in this city, was instantly killed by an explosion of benzine fumes which wrecked the building. John Mundrick, a workman in the factory, was fatally injured. The explosion was caused by the premature heating of an oven in which some articles coated with a japanning mixture of which benzine is a part had been hung up to dry.

Planning Another Pole Search.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 14.—It is believed here that Lieutenant Robert E. Peary has decided to make another attempt to reach the north pole. Captain Samuel Bartlett of Brigus, N. F., Lieutenant Peary's ice navigator, is in St. John's arranging to charter one of the largest sealing steamers for a voyage north next summer. Lieutenant Peary's steamer Windward is said to be inadequate for the large outfit to be taken on the proposed trip.

Thirty Years an Express Agent.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Henry F Olmstead, for over thirty years agent here for the American Express company, is dead in his eighty-ninth year. He was born at Ridgefield, Conn., and became a resident of Catskill in 1840. He served forty consecutive years as a member of the Catskill board of education. He was the first express agent in Catskill, and in the early fifties used a wheelbarrow in delivering express packages.

Worthless Soldiers Sent Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—The transport Logan has arrived here from the Philippines, bringing 1,164 discharged soldiers. One-half of the soldiers on board were dishonorably discharged, and most of the others were weeded out of the service as undesirable. In spite of the records of the men perfect discipline was maintained during the entire trip.

Heavy Russian Exports.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 14.—The value of Russian exports in 1902 exceeded the value of the imports by $150,000,000 and was greater than in any year during the past decade. The preponderance of exports has favorably affected the gold reserve in the Imperial bank and the treasury.

TALK, BUT NO ACTION

Resolution For Suspension of Coal Duty Up In Senate.

LIVELY DEBATE IN THE HOUSE.

House Ways and Means Committee Reports a Bill to Refund Tariff on Coal For a Year—Senate Is Likely to Concur.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The proceedings of the senate yesterday were enlivened by several spirited speeches affecting the reciprocity provision of the Dingley act. While the Vest resolution requiring the committee on finance to report a bill removing the duty on coal was under discussion Mr. Dolliver (Ia.) vigorously attacked those senators responsible for the holding up of reciprocity treaties in the senate. He defended Secretary Shaw for issuing the order instructing collectors of customs to resolve differences regarding the grade of coal in favor of the importer. It was true, he declared, that Mr. Dingley had put the tariff rates high so that they could be reduced by reciprocity agreements. This statement caused Mr. Aldrich vehemently to denounce Mr. Dolliver and others for making it. The only intention, he said, of the reciprocity provision of the Dingley law was to secure agreements on noncompetitive products, and he contended that it was not to be expected that a Republican administration would negotiate treaties which would strike at the heart of protection.

The resolution went over after Mr. Tillman had given notice that he would "string a live wire" and lay the blame for the present coal situation at the door of the president and the attorney general. Mr. Nelson concluded his remarks in opposition to the statehood bill, and at 4:10 o'clock the senate went into executive session, adjourning soon afterward.

After the adjournment of the senate the Republican members of the senate committee on finance held a conference of more than an hour's duration on the various resolutions before the senate for the removal of the tariff on anthracite coal. They had before them the text of the house bill granting a rebate of the anthracite duty for twelve months and practically agreed to accept it without alteration if the Democratic committeemen could be induced to allow it to be so reported without delay. The opinion was quite unanimous that the situation calls for prompt action.

For the first time since the opening of this session of congress the house was regaled with a lively political debate. General Grosvenor (O.) and Mr. Clark (Mo.) crossed swords during the general debate on the army appropriation bill, and for two hours both sides of the house cheered on their respective spokesmen. The contest was entirely good natured. It grew out of a controversy which Mr. Grosvenor and Mr. Clark have been carrying on in the newspapers over the former's statement in the house last December that the Democratic party had been wiped out at the last general election. General Grosvenor undertook with figures to sustain his contention, and Mr. Clark, also with figures, to prove that the Democrats had an "even chance" to win the presidency in 1904. There were several brilliant clashes, and the house and the galleries were greatly entertained.

The ways and means committee of the house unanimously reported a bill to refund the duty on coal for a year.

Canada May Make Coal Free.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 14.—There is some talk in government circles of reducing if not doing away altogether with the duty imposed by Canada on United States coal. The duty is 60 cents per long ton. To remove this duty parliamentary sanction is necessary. It could be reduced to 40 cents by an order in council, but not abolished.

China's Insurrection.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 14.—Mail advices from Hongkong state that the rapid spread of the insurrection in south China is due to the excesses of the imperial troops of Marshal Su in Kwangsi. Marshal Su sent a force to avenge the death of General Ma, who was ambuscaded and executed by the rebels, and this force massacred 1,200 innocent villagers while the rebels were engaged. This enraged the people of Kwangsi, and thousands joined the rebels. An insurrection has been started in Kuangtung.

Transvaal War Contribution.

JOHANNESBURG, Transvaal, Jan. 14.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and the leaders of the mining community here have arrived at an agreement in the matter of a financial settlement. Under this agreement the Transvaal war contribution will amount to $150,000,000. A guarantee also will be given for an imperial loan of $150,000,000 which is to be expended in reproductive public works in the Transvaal and in the Orange River colony.

Aged Woman Burned to Death.

FOUR CLUBS HOLD OFF

May Refuse to Ratify Baseball Peace Pact.

POSSIBLE SPLIT IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Results of the Cincinnati Conference Which Seemed So Favorable at First Have Assumed an Unpleasant Aspect.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 14.—When the conferrees of the National and American Baseball leagues adjourned here last Saturday night nothing was heard but declarations of peace. The National conferrees were as confident as the American, although the former did not have plenipotentiary power. President Robison of St. Louis said that the call for a meeting of the National league here next Monday was simply to say, "Amen," and then all rejoiced over the proclamation of peace. The spell was unbroken until midnight, when John T. Brush at Indianapolis was heard from regarding the dissatisfaction of the New York club. On Sunday there were rumors from the Brooklyn club, on Monday from the Boston club, and later from the Philadelphia club, the two latter not being regarded as serious.

August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National club, says if the National league at its meeting next Monday does not ratify the peace pact with the American league he will get out of the National league.

If New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston should refuse to enter into agreement there may be a split in the National league, which will result in the owners desiring peace with the American league on the basis agreed upon, joining hands with the American league and completely severing all connection with the branch of the National league represented by the objecting faction. The plan suggested by President Johnson of a ten club circuit might be carried out.

Notwithstanding the adverse reports that are current, Herrmann and Robison say they are still confident that the National league next Monday will ratify the agreement.

BALL PLAYER A SUICIDE.

Pitcher Mercer of the Detroits Dead In San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Winnie D. Mercer, a pitcher of the Detroit American league baseball team, registered at the Occidental hotel here and was later found asphyxiated in his room. Mercer registered under the name of George Murray and gave his residence as Philadelphia.

Mercer's identity was established by papers found among his effects, one of which read, "Tell Mr. Van Horn of the Langham hotel that Winnie Mercer has taken his life."

The deceased left letters, one addressed to his mother and another to a young lady of Washington, expressing regret over his deed and bidding them fond farewells. He left a statement of his financial accounts addressed to Tip O'Neill and advised his friends to avoid games of chance and women.

Honors Divided at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Favorites and outsiders divided the honors at Oakland. The surprise of the afternoon occurred in the last race when El Oriente, a 15 to 1 shot, with Donnelly up, led all the way and won from Sir Hampton, the first choice. The fifth race resulted in a close finish, the Major, who was the favorite, getting up in time to win by a short nose from the well played Jockey Club.

Results at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—Shrine and L'Etrenne were the only winning favorites. In the handicap Erne crossed the track in front of Major Tenny, shutting him off, and was disqualified, third place being given Major Tenny. Weather clear; track slow and lumpy.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 14.—United States Senator Mason has formally announced his withdrawal from the contest to be his own successor, admitting the impossibility of his re-election. Representative Church of Chicago, the father of the movement to elect a Chicago man to succeed Senator Mason, has also lost all hope of succeeding in the undertaking and in a public statement abandoned further efforts. Congressman A. J. Hopkins of Aurora probably will be chosen without opposition.

BEEF TRUST MUST GO

Head of Live Stock Association Defies It.

A MOST UNHOLY COMBINATION.

President Springer Tells Cattlemen They Should Kill and Market Their Own Product and Refuse to Sell to the Trust.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 14.—President John W. Springer's attack upon the beef trust, so called, and the passage of memorials to congress urging that laws for the betterment of live stock conditions be enacted were the features of the first day's session of the sixth annual convention of the National Live Stock association. President Springer, after declaring that "the American stockman proposes to take care of himself," served notice that those interests "must receive protection from the congress of the United States just as long as the finished products made from our raw material are heavily protected." The sentiments were received with applause. Mr. Springer said:

"Never before was such an unholy combination attempted. Not content with amassing colossal fortunes in the past two decades from the stock raisers of the west, these same packers now blossom out as would be dictators. The stockmen of the United States have over $4,000,000,000 working capital. If forced to do so, you can build packing plants of your own, kill your own stock, market the product and undersell any packing house trust.

"We have men outside this 'charmed circle' who have money, brains and energy, and with these three they also have hearts left in their physical anatomy. Let us pronounce sentence that if this merger is consummated it can operate its $500,000,000 merger without cattle, without sheep and without hogs, for we own the raw material, and we will refuse to sell to any packing house combine."

Mr. Springer strongly advocated the proposed bill to give the interstate commerce commission power to enforce its decrees, so that overcharges at stockyards or terminal charges on excessive railway shipping rate or unjust discrimination for or against a live stock market may be prevented.

Wrecked by Spreading Rails.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—The St. Paul passenger train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road due in St. Louis at 5:55 p. m. and running fifty miles an hour to make up lost time was wrecked by spreading rails five miles northeast of Alton, Ill., killing the engineer, Frank Horn of Beardstown, Ill., and injuring four trainmen. The locomotive was overturned, the baggage, mail and express cars and one coach were thrown on their sides, and the Pullman sleeper and remaining coach left the rails, but remained upright. No passengers were injured beyond minor bruises.

Cheap Coal For New York Poor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—As a result of the conference between Mayor Low and the heads of coal carrying roads an agreement was reached which will do away with the charging of extortionate prices for coal in small quantities to the poor. At the mayor's suggestion the operators agreed to supply coal at $5 a ton at tidewater to all retailers who would guarantee to sell to the poor at the rate of 10 cents a pail.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

At the opening session of the Legislature yesterday, the most important happening was the presentation of Governor Murphy's annual message. It contains a summary of the present conditions, the greatest needs of the State with legislative action recommended and the Governor's opinion on certain subjects of National interest.

There are several subjects for which Governor Murphy asks immediate attention by the Legislature. This Passaic sewerage disposal question is brought up and the Governor thinks favorably of a trunk sewer to Newark bay. He commends the bill prepared by the commission appointed to revise the primary laws and thinks it should be passed. He favors the use of voting machines and is inclined to believe that the State should bear the first cost of them, the counties keeping them in condition thereafter. The money to be received from the general government for interest on money loaned during the Civil War will, he says, more than pay for them.

Among his other recommendations is the abolishment of the free system in all county offices, more stringent legislation regarding child labor and an appropriation for a hospital for the consumptive poor.

The need of State regulation of automobiles is brought forward and the Governor expresses himself as in favor of requiring a license, to be given only after passing a proper examination, for all who operate automobiles. If possible, he would like to permit only machines geared to run not over fifteen miles an hour to be used in the State but, if that was not possible, he advises strict speed regulations.

Among other subjects dealt with are the extension of the State House grounds and the establishment of an Executive Mansion for the use of the Governor. He advises both steps and thinks that the reasons for so doing are excellent ones.

In conclusion, Mr. Murphy writes at length on the trust question and their relation to the State. He believes that time will solve that troublesome question to the satisfaction of all concerned.

There is a dog loose somewhere in this neighborhood that really ought to be killed. A little girl was attacked in the borough and quite badly hurt. Then the canine took possession of the hallway of a Front street building and bit a small boy that tried to chase it away. A Dunellen child is attacked by a dog and is bitten. One looks for such happenings in the "dog days" but not on the coldest days of the year.

Everyone will be interested to see the results of Superintendent Wightman's attempt to ascertain public opinion on the question of writing. There are advocates of the old Spencerian style and of the more modern vertical hand. It will be interesting to know how the borough stands on the question.

If anyone thinks that there is going to be harmony at the borough election next March, he need only take a walk into the confines of that municipality and talk with the people a little. The annexation election will be mild compared to it.

Everybody had to be vaccinated in Vineland and the result is reported to have been a wholesale epidemic of profanity for which a number of arrests were made. It must have been a new kind of bacteria.

The Legislature is now in session. How long will it take that worthy body to get down to work?

Sneak thieves are again at work through Washington Valley. Chas. Kruger's home was entered several days ago while the family was away. Two guns and several pieces of house hold furniture were taken. Since the effort to obtain right of way for a trolley road to this place by Plainfield avenue has not materialized, there is now somewhat of agitation as to extending the road via Clinton avenue from the terminus of the Plainfield electric road in the southwestern part of the city. There is little doubt that all residents in this locality would be glad to have a trolley road to reach Plainfield, and that it would soon become a very profitable investment to the company.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

COAL STRIKE HEARING.

The Delaware and Hudson Company Concludes Testimony.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Having occupied nearly three days in calling witnesses to testify in opposition to the demands made by the anthracite miners, the Delaware and Hudson company closed its case before the coal strike commission yesterday afternoon, and the commission's attention was then called to the conditions existing in and about the collieries operated by the Erie company. This corporation manages the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company, and its counsel before the commission is Wayne MacVeagh of Philadelphia and Major Everett Warren of Scranton.

One of the principal witnesses called before the commission was Thomas F. Torrey, general coal sales agent of the Delaware and Hudson company at New York, who testified that the company he represents is deriving no benefit from the present abnormal price which the public is paying for its fuel. Among other witnesses called by the Delaware and Hudson were two physicians, who gave testimony tending to show that the occupation of a mine worker is not so unhealthful as physicians for the miners have stated; a real estate agent, who testified to the amount of property owned by miners of the company, and an employee of the Delaware and Hudson, who made an investigation of wages paid to bituminous miners, which showed their pay was under that received by the anthracite miners.

General Wilson, owing to the illness of Judge Gray, again acted as chairman of the commission, and was several times called upon to intervene in the personal tilts between opposing counsel over the admission of certain evidence.

No Punishment For Coal Stealers.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 14.—The workhouse board has issued an order setting at liberty all prisoners held for stealing coal from the railroad yards and tracks. The order includes directions to the superintendent to receive no more prisoners from any court sending them in for petty coal thefts. It is explained that no prosecutions for coal thefts will be recognized by the board during the coal famine.

PORTO RICAN AFFAIRS.

Governor Hunt's Annual Message to Insular Legislature.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 14.—Governor Hunt personally delivered his message at the joint session of the legislature at noon yesterday. He recommended but little legislation and no radical changes, so as to better and more fully test the laws now in operation.

The governor reported that the insular telegraphs, which formerly resulted in deficits, are now yielding a small revenue, due largely to extensions. Education is progressing. There are now 1,126 teachers and 55,000 pupils, and the government has already expended $192,896 on new schoolhouses, and more money will be invested in this manner.

The treasury is in excellent condition, as follows: On hand from the insular revenues, $378,670; trust funds, $885,635; due from the United States, $431,128.

The governor advises no increase in direct taxation and recommends the granting to the United States of titles to the San Juan and Culebra naval sites.

Treaty Ratification Recommended.

HAVANA, Jan. 14.—Domingo Mendez Capote, president of the senate and member of the foreign relations committee, has completed his report on the reciprocity treaty. He says that his report recommends the ratification of the treaty in toto and without amendment. The report will be submitted immediately to the full committee, which is expected to report to the senate this week. Senor Capote believes there will not be much discussion of the matter, either by the committee or by the senate.

Webb-Meyer Syndicate Settlement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Arthur L. Meyer, who was associated with Dr. W. Seward Webb in the so called Webb-Meyer syndicate which collapsed last spring, has announced that he has settled with his creditors on a basis ranging from 40 to 70 cents on the dollar and that only two obligations remain to be adjusted. Mr. Meyer states that Dr. Webb will not be associated with him upon the resumption of business.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Instead of ordering the north Atlantic squadron directly north on the completion of its evolutions in the Caribbean, it has been decided that their itinerary shall include an extensive cruise in the gulf of Mexico, including stops at Galveston and possibly several other southern ports.

Our Propositions Rejected.

SANTO DOMINGO, Jan. 14.—The Dominican government has informed United States Minister Powell that it cannot accept any of the propositions submitted by him looking to a settlement of the several matters now pending between the two governments.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 14.—Frank E. Burnham, superintendent of the forming department of the D. E. Loewe & Co.'s hat factory, was thrown from a sleigh in a runaway accident on Lake avenue and instantly killed. He was sixty-six years old.

Benefit For Sick Actress.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The receipts of the benefit given at the Broadway theater for Georgia Cayvan realized $9,000.

FASHION FANCIES.

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

Squirrel will not last in the popular favor long, although the trying gray color is becoming to a few, and it certainly is much cheaper than chinchilla.

The rage for embroideries and incrustations of lace is greater than ever, and we shall do well, therefore, to use any we may have by us.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de soie, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ODD FURS.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market. Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

"I will never leave this gold alive," said Mr. Pence. "It is not safe. You go back and I will remain. I am not afraid. I will stay all night if necessary. Come back in the morning and bring help and food."

"That is foolish, Mr. Pence," said Vincent. He had climbed out of the cavern and stood facing the sea. "Come on," he said. "There is going to be an awful storm. It looks like a hurricane. Come on; you must not remain here."

"Go back and let me alone," said Mr. Pence. "I will never, never leave here alive with this gold unguarded. I have a gun. I am not afraid. Go on back to the camp. Tell them the gold is ours—all ours. If I stay here and take care of it, I ought to have more than half of it. Go ahead, before the storm breaks!"

It was useless to argue with him. Vincent bade him good-bye and started on a run for Morton's Bay. He had not gone a quarter of a mile before the storm struck the island. The first blast swept him from his feet. A falling tree half buried him in its branches, and his face was scratched and bleeding. A few rods away was a gully. Struggling to his feet he ran and crawled in that direction. He remembered reaching the edge of the gully. There was a crash and a roar; Vincent saw a flash of light and lost consciousness. How long this lasted he did not know. He awoke with the rain beating on his face. There was a dull pain in his head. The rage of the storm was demoniacal. Crawling along the ground, guided by the incessant flashes of lightning, he reached the shelter of a rock, which he shared with an iguana and a huge rock python, whose shiny scales glistened in the flame from the heavens.

The two reptiles cuddled up to the explorer. The big snake ran his flat head between Vincent's coat and his back, and lay motionless. The lizard was more nervous, and ran back and forth along the narrow ledge, but lay most of the time with his crested back resting against Vincent's right arm.

"I was not afraid of them," Vincent explained later. "The storm was so much more frightful than they that I did not mind them. I knew that both of them were harmless, though that snake was big enough to swallow a deer or a man. But he was as scared at the storm as I was, and I tell you any company was welcome that night. I went asleep finally, and when I woke up the storm was over and the snake and lizard were gone."

Simon Pence was venturing out of his dungeon when the storm swept in from the sea. He heard the roar and dropped back in time to miss a palm tree, torn up by the roots and hurled over his head. An instant later one of the huge monoliths fell from its pedestal and crashed through the floor to the south of where he stood. He ran back and forth shouting and waving his hands in terror. From a hundred crevices the rain poured in streams upon the floor. At first it ran down the black corridor, but as the storm increased it began to rise. Inch by inch it rose. The millionaire splashed through the muddy flood and took refuge on a slab of stone which had fallen from the floor above. Here he remained all night, the waters steadily creeping toward him until at last it seemed to find an outlet to the west and remained stationary. The idols and images in the far corner were half buried in debris and water. The larger one lifted its head above the flood, and his wicked eyes gleamed in their sockets in the flashes of lightning. Blue flames of electricity ran along the walls of the cavern; balls of fire and tongues of phosphorescent flame glowed in its depths. Above the roar and turmoil of the storm, Mr. Pence could hear wailing cries as of some soul in torment. It was probably his imagination, but there were sounds as if giants were struggling on the shattered floors above his head.

Through the long night Mr. Pence remained in this cavern and heard the storm lashing above his head. No sleep came to his eyelids. When day came and the last rumble of the thunder died away in the north, he was so cramped he could hardly move. He succeeded in wading through the water, and after much effort crawled out into the open air bringing one of the idols with him. In the warmth of the sun his clothes soon dried. He sat down beneath a tree where he could watch the opening of the cave. He closed his eyes for a moment and fell asleep.

When Vincent awoke and found himself alive and not much injured, except for a contusion on the back of his head, he hunted for the idols and soon found them. He was just starting to return to the ruined city when he heard a shout to the north, and the next instant the report of a gun. Vincent shouted in return, and in a few minutes saw Sidney Hammond and Palmer J. Morton coming towards him. Briefly he explained what had happened, and the three set forth for the temple where Mr. Pence was guarding the treasure. The indignation of Sidney and Mr. Morton was tempered by a fear that the millionaire had not survived the fate which his avarice had tempted.

They soon reached the temple. At first they did not observe Mr. Pence. Vincent had crawled down into the cavern and announced that no one was there before Sidney discovered the slumbering guardian under a calabash tree.

It was a pathetic figure which these three men approached. His hat had fallen to the ground, and the matted gray hair half covered the eyes of the sleeping financier. One hand was firmly clutched to the idol. In the relaxed fingers of the other hand was a stout club. The linen clothes were bedraggled in mud and slime. The right foot was in a pool of water. Were it not for the slight but regular heaving of the soiled shirt bosom they would have thought him dead.

Mr. Morton pushed the idol with his foot. The hand of the sleeper instinctively tightened its grip. He awoke with a start, and with surprising agility sprang to his feet!

"Back! back!" he shouted. "You shall not have it! I will die first!"

He brandished the club defiantly and swung a blow at Mr. Morton, who stepped back, and narrowly evaded it.

"Wake up, Mr. Pence," said Sidney Hammond. "You are all right! Come out of your trance; it is time to go home."

Simon Pence blinked his eyes, ran his hand over his forehead and came to his senses. He threw himself into Sidney's arms and gave way to his emotions. When he recovered there was no difficulty in persuading him to go back to the bungalow. In fact, he was eager to go. The experiences of the night had overmastered his rapacity. Each of the four carried one of the images, and an hour later were on the raft and soon after all the members of the Social Island Colony once more were beneath the roof of the bungalow.

After a meal they repaired to their rooms and enjoyed several hours of refreshing sleep. It was late in the afternoon before the castaways recovered from the effects of the hurricane.

CHAPTER XIX.

PLANS FOR ESCAPE.

Mr. Kent was the first to awake. It was noon when he shook off the drowsy god and plunged into a bath. He emerged feeling better, and soon dressed and entered the club room. He found that none of his fellow castaways were awake. After a search in the storeroom he provided himself with a rod, reel and a complete fishing equipment. Armed with a dip net he went to the brook, and as Sidney had predicted found no difficulty in catching a pail full of minnows. A few minutes later he was drifting over the bay on the raft.

It was not long before he located a school of pike and bass, the latter much resembling the northern weakfish. Before the minnow had been lowered ten feet, one of the bass made a rush for it. He struck hard, and for three minutes Mr. Kent was a busy and a happy man. The reel sang a cheery song, for the bass was game and did not tamely surrender. At last he was in the landing net and from thence he went into the willow basket.

In less than an hour Mr. Kent had caught a dozen bass and pike, which averaged four pounds. It was a fine creel of fish, and Mr. Kent paddled back to the stone pier in high satisfaction with his piscatorial prowess. He justly regarded himself as the Nimrod and the Isaac Walton of the colony.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

Governor's Message Read, but No Business Transacted.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—The first session of the one hundred and twenty-seventh legislature of New Jersey was called to order at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The two houses organized by selecting the officers that had previously been agreed upon at the Republican caucus. Speaker Horner and President Hutchinson upon taking their respective chairs made brief addresses and announced committees for the session.

The governor's message was read at full length in both houses, something that has never been done before in years. The reading of the message in full is understood to have been done in compliance with the governor's expressed wish.

The house transacted no business except the perfecting of the organization and the reading of the governor's message. Governor Murphy sent to the senate the nominations of Justice Jonathan Dixon to succeed himself as a member of the supreme court, the name of Circuit Judge Francis J. Swayze to succeed Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins, who resigned, and the name of Judge Frederick Adams of the court of errors to succeed Judge Swayze as circuit judge.

The two houses adjourned until next Monday night.

The Sultan of Morocco Defeated and Fleeing.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Tangier correspondent of the Morning Leader reports serious fighting outside of Fez. He says the sultan has been defeated and that he escaped to the westward. War Minister Menebbi, one of the sultan's strongest pillars, was killed. All the consuls excepting the British representative have left Fez.

Fighting among the tribes is also proceeding near enough to Tangier for the sound of shooting to be heard in the city. The population of Tangier is alarmed and is asking for the protection of warships. A local pasha took out a force to restore order, but he found it impossible to proceed and has returned to Tangier.

In a dispatch from Tangier, dated Jan. 13, the correspondent of the Times says: "A serious fight occurred today close to my residence, two miles outside of Tangier. Several hundred tribesmen attacked a village defended by only sixty men. The attackers were repulsed, and four of them were killed."

Venezuelan Government Troops Win a Hard Battle.

CARACAS, Jan. 14.—About 1,100 revolutionists under General Manuel Morales attacked Cumana, in the state of Bermudez, on the 4th, 5th and 6th of this month. Cumana was defended by 500 government troops. On Jan. 6, after a hard fight which lasted for seven hours and which was witnessed by the British cruiser Tribune, the revolutionists abandoned the field, leaving 300 Mauser rifles and 29,000 cartridges behind them and 200 of their number prisoners in the hands of the government forces.

The statement has been obtained from the rebel prisoners that if Cumana had been taken the revolutionary leader would have allowed his soldiers to sack the town for eight hours.

The revolutionists have been very active for the past week, knowing as they do that if the blockade is raised their cause will become much more difficult.

He said he only intended that his subordinates should help bear his campaign expenses. Rasch has been prominent in politics for many years.

The mother had tried to reason with her son, who was playing with a gun and who paid no attention to her. She then started to take the weapon away from him. As she approached the boy he drew the gun to his shoulder and killed his mother instantly. He then deliberately shot himself.

REPEAT CANTATA.

Christmas Entertainment at First Presbyterian Church Given Again Last Evening.

The Christmas cantata, "The Flower Queen," composed by Martin A. Korff, was repeated at the First Presbyterian church, last evening, with even greater success than at first. There was an evidence of more care in drilling the participants, there being more time for this work, and the entire cantata was presented without a break. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Korff, was enlarged, and its work was praiseworthy throughout. Douglass Murphy, the original Santa Claus, took this part and he made a typical Santa.

The church was filled with an appreciative audience and the collection received at the close of the entertainment was gratifying. The collection will enable the Christmas committee to liquidate all indebtedness in connection with the affair and have a small balance.

—Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A M., will meet this evening when the quoit contest will be continued.

NEXT MAYOR OF THE BOROUGH

How the Campaign Preceeding the March Election in North Plainfield Is Shaping Itself.

Although the borough election in North Plainfield is almost two months away, the trend of events is so plain that it cannot be mistaken. Whether he wants to or not, Mayor Newton B. Smalley will have to stand again for mayor. As avowed captain of the Republican forces in the borough and advocate of the Greater Plainfield movement he has generaled his command thus far and he must stand by it to the end, be it victory or defeat. And just as certain as it is that Mayor Smalley will be a candidate for re-election as chief executive of the borough, so is it certain that the chief issue of the coming election will be a continuation of his policy of municipal government. While the question itself may not actually appear, perhaps, the defenders and opponents of the movement will be facing each other on almost the same lines and the battle waged just as fiercely as ever.

It is decidedly early to start campaign talk and yet that subject is uppermost in the minds of a great many boroughites and forms the leading topic of conversation save when some important event of the present temporarily forces it to the background. The interest is there and both sides are slowly beginning to formulate plans for the election. Even at this date mayoralty possibilities are being mentioned and seriously discussed. Without a question, it is going to prove a very exciting election, one that will stir that municipality to its foundations and may have a powerful influence on its future.

At the March election there is to be elected a mayor, to succeed Newton B. Smalley and two Councilmen, to succeed Harrison Coddington and Charles S. Lee. While Former Mayor W. L. Saunders is without doubt the leading spirit in the Greater Plainfield movement, the active command of the consolidation and annexation forces has rested with Mayor Smalley. Of a temperment that naturally assumes leadership in any undertaking he enters, Mayor Smalley has become a power in the borough of North Plainfield that few realize who have not had an opportunity of seeing it for themselves. Mr. Smalley is either for or against any question, you never find him on the "fence." From the start, he has been in favor of the greater city plan and he has never been backward in saying so. With his natural ability as a leader and his wonderful influence in the borough, it is not surprising to find him at the active head of one side or the other. He can be counted in the greater city forces. The other two city officials whose terms of office expire at the same time are, although Republicans, both lined up on the other side. Councilman Coddington has not had much to say but Councilman Lee has been quite strong in his opposition to both consolidation and annexation.

One thing can be counted upon, Mayor Smalley will be nominated but it is not a certainty that the renomination will come from the Republican party. This must not be construed to mean that he will not be the candidate of his party for there is a fair chance that he will be. If, however, by any possibility the opponents of consolidation gain control of the Republican primary and N. B. Smalley is not the man chosen as the mayoralty candidate of the G. O. P., be assured of one thing, Mayor Smalley will a candidate all the same, if not on the Republican ticket then as the standard bearer of an independent movement.

All this prominence is not of Mayor Smalley's own seeking. He is by no means anxious to be renominated. On the contrary he would be only too glad to see his party settle on some strong candidate of the consolidation stripe and there isn't the slightest doubt that the Mayor would do his utmost to bring about the election of such a candidate. To the writer, Mayor Smalley declared that he did not want the nomination and would not seek for it. When the question was put to him point-blank as to whether he would accept the nomination if it was demanded, he replied that he would probably have to, but didn't think that such a state of affairs would come to pass. He is anxious to find another candidate but anyone who has studied the situation at all can tell you that the course of events simply makes it imperative for N. B. Smalley to stand for the place again.

Just how the Republican party in the borough will stand on this question of a mayoralty nomination is the subject for much interesting conjecture. Mayor Smalley is a very popular man and there are many who, while they are opposed to annexation and consolidation, believe that the present Mayor is one of the most efficient that the borough has ever had and one who ought to be continued in office. This remarkable popularity of the man is another of the reasons why his friends declare that he must stand again.

That there will be a contest at the Republican primaries now seems a foregone conclusion. If one faction or the other discovers at the last moment that there is no show of winning there, it is possible that the primary fight will be dispensed with and the departing faction will devote all its efforts to a contest at the polls with the assistance of an independent ticket. Just at present, however, it looks as if the names of Mayor Smalley and Dr. J. H. Buchanan would be presented at that primary for the mayoralty nomination.

While Dr. Buchanan is not seeking the nomination, he seems to be the most available of the Republicans who are opposed to the greater city scheme and, from present prospects, he is likely to be selected by that wing of the borough G. O. P. While both E. S. Hooley and Chas. W. McCutchen were prominent in their opposition to annexation, neither would accept the nomination knowing that they have not the time which men of their calibre would want to give to such an office. A. V. D. Honeyman, who was probably the most public figure on the "anti" side, is a very busy man and is absent from the borough for several months each year so that he would not consider it. Dr. Buchanan is in North Plainfield or Plainfield practically all the time, is popular in fraternal orders, a member of the fire department, and is generally liked by all who know him.

"Who will be the next mayor of North Plainfield?" remarked a well-known borough business man when the question of probabilities was put to him, "Newt Smalley, of course. Says he won't run? Don't you believe it. He's got to, that's all there is to it. Of course he'll be nominated by the Republicans. You couldn't beat him in a Republican primary if you tried. He's been a good mayor and there are a lot of people who know it and they want him back again and he's going back, too."

"It is a question in my mind who the Republicans will nominate for mayor," said a conservative citizen of the borough. I think without doubt it will be either Mayor Smalley or Dr. Buchanan. Of course I may be wrong but I believe that whichever one is defeated for that nomination will run on an independent ticket."

"What are the Democrats going to do in the borough this March?" was asked of a boroughite of that political persuasion.

"Nominate a ticket," was the prompt reply. "No, I haven't heard any names mentioned except that of David J. Carney for mayor and I do not think he will run. Most of the Saybrook, L. I., Man Wants to Buy Coal Here at Any Price.

An instance of how pressing the coal famine is in some sections of the eastern sea board, was brought to the attention of Boice, Runyon & Company, yesterday, through the receipt of a letter from Saybrook, L. I. In it the writer mentions the fact that he learned through newspaper reports that anthracite was plentiful in Plainfield and then begs for the immediate shipment to his home of twenty tons, no matter what the cost. As it is impossible to comply with the request, the firm could not accede and the petitioner was so informed.

Mrs. David P. Hall, of this city, president of the local branch of the league, was present at the meeting. The meeting was held between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock.

During the latter part of the session refreshments and a social time were enjoyed.

BROWN LOST CONTROL OF SOMERVILLE MILLS

Somerville's Veteran Woollen Man Decides to Retire After His Defeat by McMurtry.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

HE IS THE MAN WHO STARTED SOMERVILLE'S BIGGEST INDUSTRY.

Has Been Fighting John E. McMurtry, of New Brunswick, for Two Years—Brown Has Refused to Continue as Manager.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 15—James Brown, Jr., the heaviest individual stockholder of the Somerville Woolen Mills, who started the industry, and has been its manager since its establishment, has been defeated by the McMurtry interests. This means the retirement of Mr. Brown from all active interest in the company after Friday of this week.

The contest, which took place at the annual meeting of the concern, Tuesday, was a spirited one and, it is claimed, was prompted by a personal feeling between John E. McMurtry, of New Brunswick, and Mr. Brown. Each had a ticket in the field.

Mr. McMurtry's ticket was as follows: John E. McMurtry, Lafferd Totten, George B. Rule, of New Brunswick; Matthew Suydam, of Franklin Park; Edwin R. Lane, J. B. Duke, D. J. Allen, of Somerville; Henry McMurtry, of Kingston; Thomas Allen, of Peapack.

Mr. Brown's ticket was: James Brown, Jr., John A. Powelson, James L. Griggs, John S. Miller, Edwin R. Lane, Josiah A. Doughty, Calvin D. McMurtry, of Somerville; Edwin Hiler, of New York; Matthew Suydam, of Franklin Park. All of the last were old directors, excepting Mr. Doughty, Somerset's county engineer, and Sheriff C. D. McMurtry, who were on the ticket in place of the McMurtrys.

The McMurtry ticket won, securing the votes of $22,000 of stock against $18,500 for the Brown ticket.

After the meeting the new directors met, but did not organize. Mr. Brown, who has been the treasurer of the company, announced that he would at once, retire from all activity in the company. He was asked to continue as the manager, but declined to do so. He will hold office only till tomorrow, when the directors will meet again.

The mills are employing about 200 hands at present and always have from 200 to 300 at work. There are two mills, one here and one at Pluckamin. The company made money last year and has enough orders ahead now to keep it going till September.

Mr. Brown, in an interview said that Mr. McMurtry has been fighting him for two years and that now that he has won, he, Mr. Brown, will step out and let Mr. McMurtry have full charge.

Rolled Three Games on the Club Alleys Last Night—F. O. Ball and Dr. Thiers Did Some Great Work—The Individual Scores.

More for the purpose of giving the regular team of the Park Club practice for the bowling game tomorrow evening with the Roselle Casino team, on the Park alleye, a game was arranged last evening between the regulars and the juniors of the club.

The regulars took the name of "Seniors," while their opponents rolled under the name of "Sparklets." The latter team sparkled brilliantly in the first game, winning the contest by eleven pins. After that the team failed to shine, losing the second game by 259 pins and the third game by 137 pins. However, the youngsters deserve much credit for they rolled exceedingly well throughout. Frank Rogers was high man, he making 184 in the first game. Not one of the young fellows rolled below one hundred.

On the other hand very high scores were rolled by the Seniors. F. O. Ball made an unusual score of 210 in the second game and 230 in the third, while Dr. Thiers made 190 in the third game. ACCEPTED OFFER.

So the the Powers Case Was Settled Before a Verdict Was Reached.

The suit of Lawrence B Powers against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, which was called in the Supreme Court Monday, was settled Tuesday afternooon after the case was argued on both sides. Frank Bergen, counsel for the defendants, offered terms of settlement to Assemblyman William Newcorn, counsel for the plaintiff, and it was accepted.

The suit was brought by Mr. Powers to recover damages for injuries sustained by his wife, Catherine Powers, on the evening of May 10, last. On the day in question Mrs. Powers, a resident of Westfield, had been shopping in Plainfield, accompanied by her daughter, May, aged ten years. After the two entered the car, the rear truck jumped the track, throwing Mrs. Powers to the floor with sufficient force to break several ribs. Since then she has suffered severely.

MR. BESLER EXPLAINS ABOUT COAL BLOCKADE

Coal in Cars is Frozen Solid and Has to be Thawed Out With Steam.

ALL THIS TAKES TIME

SAID TO BE NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED LOADED CARS AT ELIZABETHPORT.

Mr. Besler Says Central Will Use All Its Energies to Hasten the Unloading of Cars and Clear Away the Blockade.

While the scarcity of coal in New York and other cities still continues, the New York newspapers are all calling to the fact that many of the freight yards in the vicinity of New York are crowded with coal cars filled with coal. Interviews are published with railroad men and dealers explaining way such a combination of affairs should exist.

At the yards of the Jersey Central Railroad at Elizabethport, it is reported that nearly four hundred cars are stored. In regard to this W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager of the Jersey Central, said, according to the New York Tribune, that one cause of the accumulation of loaded cars at the shipping ports was the storm of Sunday, which soaked the coal thoroughly. Then the freezing cold converted every carload of coal into a hard mass.

"It is impossible to unload the coal from the cars without thawing it out," Mr. Besler said. "We have had to resort to an unusual method to get the coal out of the cars. Locomotives are run up to the cars, and are used to inject steam into the coal to thaw it out. Perforated iron pipes are driven down into the frozen mass of coal in a car, and then connected with the locomotive boiler, so that steam can be injected. It has been found to be impossible to break up the coal in the cars except by the thawing method. Most of the cars are dumped from the bottom, but when the coal is in a frozen mass it stays in the car after the dumper is opened. The impossibility of unloading coal quickly at the shipping ports has caused an accoumulation of loaded cars at the ports, and several trains of cars have been stalled on switches because there is no room for them in the yards. We are going to use all our energies to hasten the unloading of the cars and clear the blockade. We shall bring coal to the city as rapidly as possible."

OFFERS TWO SITES.

Silas D. Drake Will Give Land in Either Plainfield or Lincoln for New Normal School.

Following closely upon the article appearing in last evening's Newark News regarding the erection of a new Normal School for northern New Jersey, liberal offers are today made by S. D. Drake, of Lincoln. He offers to give the State free and clear five acres of land within one thousand feet of Lincoln, on high ground, with electric light, water and ample railroad facilities. In case this does not appeal to the school authorities, Mr. Drake offers three acres of land on Woodland avenue, this city, with plenty of frontage and shade trees, considered an ideal spot for such an institution.

Mr. Drake offers either one of these two sites absolutely free and clear and in view of the fact that the State proposes to expend $5,000 for a site, this would mear considerable saving.

The luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Miss Charlotte Lowe, of Park avenue, was for the debutantes of the season, and was the second luncheon given by Miss Lowe this winter. Besides those mentioned others present were Miss Charlotte Lowe, Mrs. William S. Tyler, Miss Edith VanBoskerck, Miss Mabel Pierson, Miss Anna Miller, Miss Marion Brown, Miss Hattie Goddard, Miss Margaret Goddard, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart and Miss Josephine Lapsley.

—There will be a meeting of the Red Men's fair committee this evening.

NEXT MAYOR OF THE BOROUGH

Democrats in the borough are against annexation and I believe that a candidate of that belief would have an excellent show of election as I understand the Republicans are having troubles of their own. If there is an independent ticket, our chances would be just as good if not better for it would serve to split the Republican vote and give us a show. I think you will be safe in counting on a complete Democratic ticket in the field in March."

A prominent Republican, who is known to stand well with Mayor Smalley and his friends, took another view of the Democratic possibilities.

"The next mayor of North Plainfield will be a Republican," he exclaimed. "Don't forget that. Lots of Democrats want Mayor Smalley to run again and have promised to stand by him. There isn't the ghost of a show for a Democratic candidate this year unless they should nominate an "anti" Republican and then I believe we can beat them."

Another prominent resident of the borough took a somewhat different view of the general situation.

"Yes, I understand they want Mayor Smalley to run again," he began. "It he's a candidate, I believe he will be elected. If he is not, then I think the friends of the Greater Plainfield agitation ought to unite in an independent movement and nominate Former Mayor William L. Saunders. He is the man who has kept at it until he has carried the movement to its present position. The citizens of the borough owe him a great deal and no better way could be chosen of showing it. With Mr. Saunders as a candidate, there would be no question as to the platform on which he stands. A victory for him would mean an endorsement of his plan for the betterment of this community. While it would not pledge the people of the borough to any particular method of bringing the desired end about, it would show that, as a lot of us believe, there are a majority of the citizens of North Plainfield who believe that we should be a part of the city of Plainfield. It would also serve as a lesson to Somerville for its past interference in the affairs of the borough.

"No, I haven't said a word to Mr. Saunders about it and I do not know whether he would accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. Possibly he would not as he is a very busy man and hasn't the time to devote to it, but if he were elected, aside from the question of consolidation, he would be a mayor of whom any municipality in the United States would have reason to feel proud. As a gentleman, as a scholar and a business man of executive ability, he is unsurpassed in North Plainfield."

And there you are. Nobody knows what will happen but the ideas of those who care to predict a little are rather interesting. It all goes to show that the coming campaign is going to be a hot one and that it already promises no end of exciting developments. Meanwhile the only thing to be done is to wait.

SETTLED FOR ALL.

Trolley Company Agreed to Terms Just as Allen Case Came to Trial.

Just before the case was called for trial, the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, Tuesday, settled with Attorney John P.
